Dedication

This work is dedicated to all the people noted on it's pages.

For the last two years I have sometimes lived and died along with the people listed here. I have seen sickness, accidents and personal disasters, shed a tear for a dead baby left at someone's door step and mourned the murder of an 8 year old black boy. I've sat with them through epidemics, grieved their losses and their felt their pain. I saw through their eyes how precarious life could be in 1900 century Accomack County VA.

Acknowledgments

There are many people to whom I owe my appreciation and thanks to, for without them this book would have never been finished. First, to Moody K. Miles, Woodbridge, VA who suggested that I do it and who sometimes gently prodded me when it seemed to be never ending or when I had gone off on a different project. I learned a great deal from our friendly debates. To Dr. Brooks Miles Barnes, Eastern Shore Public Library, who lent me the microfilm and helped me with the unreadable pages. To Barry Miles, Williamsburg, VA, who was always there with suggestions and ideas and to Mary Frances Carey, New Church, VA, who lent me insight on the history or the area. There are also some people whose ear, or ears I've almost chewed off, Rebecca F. Miller, Princess Anne, MD, Barbara Cox, San Clemente CA, and my children to list a few.

Last, but always first on any of my lists, is my husband Frank, who is my partner in life and has made my addiction his hobby. Thank You Frank.

Introduction

The Death Register had recorded the deaths of 9,349 people between the years of 1853 to 1896 with 1861 to 1864 (the Civil War years) missing. The deaths for these years might have been recorded by the Provost Marshal for the occupied County, but yet to have been found. From the start there were many mysteries, problems and other stumbling blocks with the original document. This was due in part to the fact that it is 43 years of records and recorded by many people over the 43 years. The same law that was passed in 1853 to record marriages also required the recording of both births and deaths and like marriage records was the register had been done on one page that covered both the left and right side. Sometime before or while filming the register for 1853, right side of page 2 had been attached to the left page 4 and the same for pages 3 and 5. The microfilm itself was worn and dusty making it hard to read.

It was done on a form and until 1859 the top of it was handwritten and the lines were drawn. [See Document 1 and 2, pages xviii, xvix.] Columns for Name, White, Colored (free, slave,) Name of the owner of Slave, Sex, Date of Death, Place, of Death, Name of Disease or Cause of Death, Place of Death, Age (years, months, days,)Where born, Occupation, Consort of, and Sources of Information (Name of Person giving Information of Death and Designation of Informant who was Physician, Surgeon, Coroner, Head of Family, Friend to-) were first used, and at the end of the record for each year the Clerk of the Court signed that he had recorded it. A transcript for 1857 reads:

“The forgoing is a correct transcript form the Register of Deaths in my County of Accomack for the year ending the 31st day of December 1857 A.D.,—Those found on the first three pages and the two found on the fourth page of this copy are taken for the return made on the 31st day of May 1858 of Edward B. Phillips Commissioner of the Revenue of the District of Saint George Parish,—and all those embraced in this copy are taken form the return made on the 28th day of June 1858 of Spencer Drummond Senr, such Commissioner for the district of Accomack Parish—

Test: W Gillet, Clerk of the Court of the County of Accomack”

In 1860 a standard printed form was used by the Clerk with a variation of the titles of the columns. Below is a transcript of the Clerk’s notation for 1866:

“The forgoing is true copy of the Register of Deaths in the County of Accomack during the year ending the 31st day of December, A. D., 1866. Those entered upon Pages 1 and 2 were returned on the 27th day of November 1867 by the Commissioner of the Revenue for District No1 of said County and those on Pages 3 and 4 were returned by the Commissioner of the Revenue for District No2 on the 24th day of February 1868.

W. Gillet, Clerk of the Court of the County of Accomack”

[See Documents 3 and 4 pages xx, xxi.]

For the most part each year was divided into two parts each with it’s own Commissioner of Revenue, who recorded the information slightly different from the other. And at one point, in the years prior to 1859 there was a third District, but the location of this District could not be ascertained.

In 1896 there were still two Districts. No1 was the old Atlantic district and the Commissioner of Revenue divided it into Magistrates; Island District (Chincoteague etc.) Atlantic District and Metopkin District. The old Saint George Parish was District No2. Each was recapitulated, counting deaths for white males, colored males, white females and colored females. The Commissioner of Revenue signed it and the Clerk of the Court notarized it as below:

"I solemnly Swear that in making out the foregoing List of Deaths, I have the directions in Chapt C. Code of Virginia to the best of my skill. Given under my hand this the 25th day of July 1895,

William D. Tunnell Com. Rev.

District No2 Accomack County

Sworn to before me this the 25th day of July A. D. 1895

John D. Grant C.C. "

[See documents 5 and 6 pages xxii, xxiii.]

The Commissioner of Revenue collected taxes. In 1938 the Commissioner would go to a particular spot and there the inhabitants would bring there tax monies. It is not known whether it was the same in the years that the deaths were recorded but it is probable that they were collected at the same time, put in semi-alphabetical order to be returned to the Clerk. In looking at the Death Register as a whole I came to the conclusion that they were probably collected door to door. By reviewing the Informants it can be noted that mothers with husband still living gave the information on a dead child. Married women did not go to the Tax Collector

This means that the Informant gave the information to the Commissioner of Revenue, who returned it to the Clerk and he recorded it as it is now. The information had passed through three people not two. This accounts for the semi-alphabetical order the records are in. There were also unaccountable duplications in the records. I found one in my own family. In the year 1877 it was recorded that Triphenia Evans died of cholera morbus on 8 December 1877 She was 76 years old, the daughter of John and Elizabeth Crockett and the wife of Peter Evans. John W. Marsh, her son-in-law was the informant. In 1878 it stated that Triphenia Evans died 8 December 1878 of cramp colic. She was 68 year old, the daughter of John and Betsy Crockett and the wife of Peter Evans. Peter Evans himself gave the information. On her tombstone it states that she was born 24 September 1801 and died 8 December 1877, making her 76 at her death. Peter Evans was born in 1799 and 79 years old at the time he stated his wife's death. He was declared incompetent in 1878 with John W. Marsh as his guardian. I don't think he traveled anywhere to record this death but that at the time the Commissioner of Revenue was collecting Taxes and Deaths from door to door and took this information from him. There were other duplications. Sons gave information on parents and other siblings gave conflicting data, parents and grandparents reported the death of the same child but different years. In most instances the first date of record is probably the correct one.

Because of the alpha-sort of these records, infants without names given are listed under either Infant in the 1st District, None or No Name in the 2nd. Sometimes there was nothing in the name box for them, just listing the parents etc. Here twins were listed one after another but not noted as twins. These children with the same parents dying on the same date were not duplicated but because they were not listed as twins they can not be noted as such. The age at the time of death is the only indicator of that fact.

Some Noted Causes of Death

Apoplexy

A condition resulting from a stroke (Apoplectic Fit,) marked by paralysis or a limitation of the ability to control body movements, with or without consciousness, and often leaving the affected individual in a chronic state of debilitation, a bursting of a vessel in another organ, such as the lungs or liver.

Asian Cholera

See Cholera.

Bilious Fever

A remittent fever marked by the vomiting of bile and, at times, accompanied by the yellowing of the skin.

Bright's Disease

Also albuminuria, essential nephritis, kidney disease. A degenerative disease of the kidney marked by dropsy of the upper and lower parts of the body.

Catarrh

Inflammation of a mucous membrane with discharge, the inflammation of the tubules of the kidney and the air sacs of the lungs. Also used to denote illness in general.

Child Bed Fever

Also puerperal fever, an acute, febrile disease due to a septic infection occurring in women after childbirth.

Cholera

Also Asiatic cholera, scourge of nations, white flux. An acute infectious disease marked by severe diarrhea, vomiting, and inflammation of the colon.

Cholera Infantium

Also cholera morbus, infantile diarrhea, summer complaint. A disease of infants and young children marked by vomiting, severe diarrhea, and fever. It was of short duration and death frequently occurred within three to five days.

Consumption

Tuberculosis of the lungs. See Tuberculosis.

Croup

Also bold hives, hive, trachitis. A disease of the larynx and trachea in the upper airways of children marked by a harsh ringing cough and difficulty in breathing.

Diphtheria/Dyphtheria

Also membranous angina. An acutely infectious disease marked by inflammation and the formation of a thick covering on the mucous membranes of the throat and nose. Symptoms include fever, weakness of the heart, and rapidly developing anemia.

Dropsy

Also edema, hydrops, hydropsy. A condition marked by swelling due to watery accumulation in any of the tissues or cavities of the body.

Dysentery

Also bloody flux. An inflammatory disease of the large intestine thought to be infectious and marked by pain and the frequent passage of small amounts of stool mixed with blood and mucous.

Dyspepsia

Also the plague of civilization. Disturbed digestion.

Fit/Fitt

An attack of an acute disease or the sudden appearance of some sign as a convulsion or epileptic seizure.

Head Fall

A fall.

Hydrophobia

Also rabies

La grippe/grip

Also epidemic catarrh, lightening catarrh. An acutely infectious disease that attacks one of three systems: respiratory, gastrointestinal or nervous. It is marked by fever, inflammation of the mucous membranes with discharge, pain in the muscles and rapid exhaustion. Common complications were pneumonia and occasionally insanity.

Palsy

Also paralysis. A loss of motion or sensation in a part of the body.

Pleury/Pleurisy

An inflammation of the membranes covering the lungs with two states "dry" and "wet." The "dry" state is marked by fever, pain, and rubbing vibrations on the affected side. This state can become chronic or be followed by the "wet" state which is marked by lessened pain and difficult breathing caused by fluid in the lungs. This too can become chronic. The major cause of pleurisy was tuberculosis, and sometimes followed by pneumonia.

Quinsy

A disease of the tonsils and mucous membranes of the throat marked by inflammation and pus production around the tonsils.

Scrofula

Also king's evil. A form of tuberculosis generally found in the young and marked by enlarged glands and the breakdown of bony tissue. Some believed it could be cured by the touch of a king.

Summer Complaint

See cholera infantum.

Tuberculosis

Also the great white scourge, white plague. An infectious disease marked by small growths, called tubercles, that firmly embed themselves in tissues. The Tubercles grow rapidly and die, thus destroying the surrounding tissues and resulting in cavities in the area where they were located. Any part of the body could be affected and the symptoms vary. Signs common to all forms were loss of strength, anemia, fever, sweats and emaciation. It was transmitted from person to person and through drinking contaminated cow's milk.

Whooping cough

Also hoopen cough, hooping cough, pertussis. An infectious, very contagious disease of children marked by catarrhal inflammation of air passages and peculiar spasms of cough with loud and deep inspiration.
