Emigrantion, convict ships and maritime history in general

Charles Bateson
The Convict Ships

Probably the definitive guide on the subject in general with a complete list of ships, voyages and numbers carried.

Basil Lubbock The Colonial Clippers

Full atmosphere and anecdotes, like all of Lubbock's books.

Basil Lubbock The Blackwell Frigates

The London-built passenger ships that came after the East Indiamen and before the clippers.

Hardy's Register of Ships 1760-1833

A scarce volume giving the voyages of the East Indiamen in the Honorable East India Company's service. A number of East Indiamen made convict voyages (not mentioned) and some of the 'extra ships' were well known as convict ships and emigrant carriers in the 30s and 40s.

E. Keeble Chatterton
The Old Fast Indiamen

Rowan Hackman
Ships of the East India Company

Sir Henry Brett
White wings (two volumes)

Emigrant ships to New Zealand - an excellent source of anecdotes and detail.

C. Vernon Gibbs British Passenger Liners of the Five Oceans Brief but accurate details of the steamers and motorships that sailed under the Red Ensign. P. Plowman
Passenger Ships of Australia and New Zealand

Includes local and ocean-going vessels.

Records at the National Archives (UK)

Official Records of emigrants and convicts are held at:

The National Archives (TNA) Ruskin Avenue Kew Surrey TW9 4DU UK

Tel: +44 (0)20 8876 3444

Email: enquiry@nationalarchives.gov.uk www.nationalarchives.gov.uk

Reader's tickets will be issued on first visit, so long as suitable identification (i.e. passport) is shown. The staff do not have the facilities to carry out research except under special circumstances, but can provide a list of professional researchers, whom enquirers may wish to employ.

Researchers in Australia can access copies of many of The National Archives (TNA) records in the Mitchell Library and the National Library in Canberra. Much work has also been done by the Australian Society of Genealogists.

Researchers should check availability, accessibility and opening times with the repositories listed before making a personal visit.
