

Infosheet No. 9 Collections of maritime photographs and plans

Lloyd's Register does not have a photographic archive and while we can offer historical information on merchant ships over 100 gross tons and yachts, it is rare, therefore, that we can help with illustrations. To help researchers looking for this kind of material, we have compiled the following list of institutions and individuals that can provide photographs. At the end of the list are contacts for ship and yacht plans. We do appear in this section because of our collection of plans for classed yachts.
