PREFACE.

The absolute want of any book of reference, appertaining to those elevated ranks, the Peerage and Baronetage of the United Kingdom, in which the slightest confidence, as an authority, could be reposed, suggested the compilation of the Work now submitted to the public.

Deeming books of this description only valuable so far as they can be easily understood and implicitly relied upon, the compiler, when he commenced his undertaking, had two objects principally in view,—perspicuity of arrangement, and accuracy of detail. To accomplish the first, he adopted the alphabetical form, as the simplest, and that by which the object sought after, could, with the greatest despatch and the least difficulty, be attained; and to succeed in the second, he left no authority, which could in the slightest degree assist him, unconsulted, and he lost no opportunity of communicating with those who had the means of affording him correct and available information.

As it is intended, however, to publish the work at the commencement of every year, he appeals respectfully to the noble and distinguished personages themselves, for such communications as shall stamp all future Editions with the broad seal of unquestionable authenticity, even in matters of the most minute detail; and he pledges himself that no effort upon his part shall be wanting, to render the Book correct and useful.

Lineage.

This distinguished family is directly descended from Ralph Milbanke, cupbearer to Queen Mary, of Scotland, who sought an asylum in England, in consequence of a duel in which he was engaged in his native country. The great-grandson of this gentleman,

MARK MILBANKE, esq., was created a baronet on the 7th of August, 1661. He m. first, Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of John Acclome, esq., of Moorby, in the county of York, by whom he had four sons and a daughter; and, secondly, Faith, daughter of Thomas Acclome, esq., of Bonwicke, in the same county, by whom he had no issue. Sir Mark d. in 1680, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR MARK, who d. in 1698, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR MARK. This gentleman dying unmarried, in 1705, the title devolved upon his brother,

SIR RALPH, who m. first, Elizabeth D'Arcy, eldest sister of Robert, Earl of Holderness, by whom he had one daughter; and, secondly, Anne, daughter of Edward Delaval, esq., of South Dissington, in the county of Northumberland, by whom he had six sons, namely, Ralph, his successor; Edward; Mark, an admiral in the royal navy; John; Francis, a clergyman of the established church; and Acclome, a field-officer in the army. SIR RALPH. This gentleman m. in 1777, the Honorable Judith Noel, daughter of Sir Edward Noel, bart., who succeeded to the ancient barony of Wentworth, and was created Viscount Wentworth on the 4th of May, 1762, by whom he had an only daughter, Anna-Isabella, b. 17th May, 1792; m. 2nd January, 1815, George, late and celebrated Lord Byron, by whom she has one daughter.

Upon the demise of Lady Milbanke's brother, Thomas, last Viscount Wentworth, in 1815, Sir Ralph and her ladyship obtained the royal license to use the surname, and bear the arms, of "Noel" only, pursuant to the testamentary injunction of the deceased lord. The viscounty of Wentworth expired with his lordship, but the ancient barony of Wentworth fell into abeyance between his sister, Lady Milbanke, is it still continues between Lady Byron,) and his nephew, (the son of his second sister, Sophia,) the Hon. Nathaniel Curzon, son and heir apparent of Nathaniel, present Lord Scarsdale. Lady Noel d. in 1822, and Sir Ralph in 1825, when the baronetcy devolved upon his nephew, John-Peniston Milbanke, esq., the present baronet.

Country Seat—Halnaby, near Darlington, Yorkshire.

 This lineage was omitted in its proper place, under an impression that the baronetcy had expired with Sir Ralph Noel.

PEERAGE AND BARONETAGE.

ABDY, SIR WILLIAM, baronet, of Felix Hall, Essex, succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, 21st July, 1803, and m. 3rd June, 1806, Miss Wellesley, eldest daughter of the most noble the Marquess Wellesley. Sir William was divorced from his lady, by whom he has no issue, by Act of Parliament, on the 25th of June, 1816.

Lineage.

SIR THOMAS, the first baronet, created 7th July, 1641, was the eldest son of Alderman Abdy, of London: he died 14th January, 1685, and was succeeded by the eldest son of his second marriage,

SIR ANTHONY, who dying 2nd of April, 1704, the title was inherited by his second son, (his eldest having died in infancy),

SIR ANTHONY THOMAS. This gentleman married thrice, but having no issue by his first and second wives, and daughters only by his third, the title devolved upon his brother,

SIR WILLIAM, who died in 1750, and was succeeded by his son,

SIR ANTHONY THOMAS, who dying without issue 7th of April, 1775, the family honors were inherited by his brother,

SIR WILLIAM, a naval officer.—This gentleman married in 1777, Mary, daughter of James Gordon, esq. of Hertfordshire, by whom he had issue the present baronet, Sir William, and three daughters.

ABERCORN, MARQUESS OF, (James Hamilton), Viscount Hamilton, of Hamilton, in Leicestershire; Earl of Abercorn, Baron of Paisley, Abercorn, Hamilton, Mountcastle, and Kilpatrick of Scotland; Viscount and Baron Strabane; Baron Mountcastle, and a Baronet of Ireland; b. in January, 1811; succeeded to the honors of his family upon the demise of his grandfather, 27th January, 1818.

Lineage.

The Marquess of Abercorn is descended from Lord Claude Hamilton, the third son of James Hamilton, Earl of Arran, who was chosen protector in 1542 to Mary Queen of Scots during her minority, and successor to the Scottish throne, in case of failure of issue upon the part of her Majesty. Lord Claude Hamilton was created Baron of Paisley, in 1635.

JAMES HAMILTON, grand uncle of the late Marquess, succeeded to a baronetcy upon the death of his grandfather, but declined assuming the title; he was in the military service and confidence of James the Second, but espousing the cause of William, he arrayed himself against his royal master, and took a distinguished part at the siege of Londonderry. Succeeding, in 1700, to the Earldom of Abercorn, his lordship, in virtue thereof, took his seat, in 1706, as a member of the Scottish Parliament. Ireland was, however, the usual place of his residence, of which realm, on the 2nd of December 1701, he was created Viscount Strabane and Baron Mountcastle. This nobleman m. in 1686, Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Sir Robert Reading, bart. of Dublin, by whom he had issue nine sons and five daughters. His lordship d. 28th Nov. 1734, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JAMES, who m. in 1711, Anne, eldest daughter of John Plumer, esq. of Blakeware, Herts, by whom he had six sons and one daughter. His lordship died on the 13th of January, 1744, leaving his titles to his eldest son,

JAMES. This nobleman was created a Peer of England, by the title of Viscount Hamilton, of Hamilton, in Leicestershire, on the 24th of August, 1786, with remainder, in case of failure of male issue, to his nephew: his lordship dying unmarried 9th of October, 1789, all the family honors devolved upon that relative,

JOHN JAMES, K.G. who m. on the 20th of June, 1779, his first wife, Catharine, daughter of Sir Joseph Copley, of Sprotborough, Yorkshire, by whom he had issue, James, Viscount Hamilton, (this young nobleman m. Harriet, daughter of Sir John Douglas, by whom he had several children, and died in the life-time of his father,) Claude, and three daughters. The Marchioness of Abercorn dying the 13th Sept. 1791, his lordship espoused, on the 4th March, 1792, his cousin, Cecil Hamilton, 8th daughter of the Hon. Geo. Hamilton, from whom he was divorced by Act of Parliament, in 1799. The Marquess m. on the 3rd of April, 1810, his third wife, Anne Jane, eldest daughter of the second Earl of Arran, and relict of Henry Hatton, esq. of the county of Wexford, Ireland; by this lady he had no children. His lordship d. 27th January, 1818, and was succeeded by his grandson, James, son of the deceased Viscount Hamilton, the present possessor of the family honors, being the 10th Earl and 2nd Marquess of Abercorn.

Motto, in English,
Virtue is the only real nobility.

ABERCROMBIE, BARON, (George Abercrombie), of Aboukir and Tullibody, county of Clackmannan; b. 17th October, 1770; m. Montague, third daughter of the first Viscount Melville, by whom he has George, b. May, 1800, and two other children. His lordship succeeded to the title upon the decease of his mother, Mary-Anne, Baroness Abercrombie, 11th Feb. 1821.

Lineage.

The family of Abercrombie holds a distinguished rank amongst the most ancient houses of Scotland. This branch of it was elevated to the peerage on the 28th of May, 1801, in the person of Mary-Anne, daughter of John Menzies, esq. of Fornton, Perthshire, relict of the gallant Sir Ralph Abercrombie, who commanded in chief the expedition to Egypt in 1801, and fell, in the moment of victory, at the celebrated battle of Alexandria.

ARGYLL, DUKE, MARQUESS, AND EARL OF, (George-William Campbell); Marquess of Lorn and Kintyre, Earl of Campbell and Corvall, Viscount Lochow and Glenila, Lord of Inverary, Mull, Morven, and Tyrie, in Scotland; and Baron Sundridge and Hamilton, in England; hereditary master of the king's household, admiral of the Western Isles, keeper of Dunoon Castle, and of Dunstafnage and Carrick; one of his majesty's state counsellors for Scotland. His grace was b. on the 24th September, 1768; succeeded to his family honors, upon the demise of his father, 24th May, 1806; m. Caroline-Elizabeth Villiers, daughter of the fourth Earl of Jersey, 29th November, 1819, after the dissolution of her ladyship's marriage with the Marquess of Anglesea by the laws of Scotland.

Lineage.

The family of Campbell is one of the most distinguished in Scotland, and its head, Argyll, in feudal times, was perhaps the most powerful subject in the kingdom. Eight centuries ago, Gillespie Campbell, by marriage with an heiress, obtained the lordship of Lochow; from him descended Neil Campbell, whose great-great-grandson,

DUNCAN CAMPBELL, assumed the title of Argyll, and became a lord of parliament by creation, in 1445. His lordship died in 1453, and was succeeded by his grandson, (the son of his eldest son,)

COLIN; created, in 1457, Earl of Argyll, and appointed lord chancellor of Scotland in 1483; d. in 1492, and was succeeded by his son,

ARCHIBALD; killed 9th of September, 1503, at Flodden Field, and succeeded by his son,

COLIN, whose son,

ARCHIBALD, inherited at his decease. This nobleman was succeeded by his son,

ARCHIBALD, who dying without issue, the title devolved upon his brother,

COLIN, who dying in 1588, was succeeded by his son,

ARCHIBALD. This nobleman married twice, and had several children; the eldest of whom,

ARCHIBALD, succeeded to the title in 1638, and was created Marquess of Argyll in 1641: beheaded at the Market Cross of Edinburgh, for acquiescing in the death of Charles the First, 27th May, 1661. This unfortunate nobleman was succeeded by his son,

ARCHIBALD, who, in 1663, was restored to the estate and honors of his family, as Earl of Argyll. This nobleman was found guilty of high treason, in 1618, and sentenced to death, but effected his escape from the kingdom; he was, however, subsequently taken in an abortive attempt to invade Scotland, and executed at the same place, and in the same manner, as his father, 30th June, 1685. His eldest son,

ARCHIBALD being acknowledged Earl of Argyll, by parliament, before the reversal of the attainder against his father, was created Duke of Argyll, 23rd June, 1701; his grace died in 1703, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN, b. in 16 0; created, in consideration of his distinguished gallantry as a military commander, by Queen Anne, in 1705, Baron of Chatham, and Duke and Earl of Greenwich. His grace m. twice, and by his last duchess, Jane Warburton, one of Queen Anne's maids of honor, had five daughters; dying, however, (November, 1743,) without male issue, his English titles became extinct, and the Scottish honors devolved upon his brother,

ARCHIBALD, who had been, in 1706, created a Scottish peer, by the titles of Lord Oransay, Dunoon, and Arase, and Viscount and Earl of Isla. His grace dying without issue, 15th April, 1761, his own immediate honors became extinct, while those of his family descended to his cousin,

JOHN, K. T. grandson to the earl executed in 1685: his grace m. in 1720, Mary, daughter of the second Lord Ballenden, by whom he had five children, and at his decease, 17th November, 1770, was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN, ninth earl and fifth duke, b. in 1720; created an English peer, during the lifetime of his father, by the title of Baron Sunbridge, of Coomb Bank, Kent, 22d December, 1766; m. 3rd March, 1759, Elizabeth, relict of the sixth Duke of Hamilton, and second daughter of John Gunning, esq. of the county of Roscommon, in Ireland, (her grace was created a peeress of Great Britian, as Baroness Hamilton, of Hambledon, Leicestershire, 20th May, 1776,) by whom he had issue George, who died an infant; George-William, the present duke; and three other children. His grace died 24th May, 1806.

ASTLEY, SIR JACOB, D. C. L. baronet, of Hill Morton, Warwickshire, b. 13th November, 1797; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, 28th April, 1817; m. Georgiana-Elizabeth-Caroline, daughter of Sir Henry-Watkin Dashwood, baronet, by whom he has issue one son, b. 21st May, 1822.

Lineage.

Isaac Astley, nephew to Jacob, first Lord Astley, was created a baronet, 21st January, 1641; but dying without issue, the title became extinct: his brother,

Edward, marrying his cousin, the honorable Elizabeth, daughter of the above mentioned Lord Astley, became the father of

Jacob, who was created a baronet in 1672, and succeeded to the estates of his uncle, Sir Isaac, and the entailed lands of Lord Astley. He died in 1721, and was succeeded by his second, and eldest surviving son,

Sir Philip. This gentleman d. 7th July, 1738, and was succeeded by his son,

Sir Edward, b. 25th December, 1728, who married twice, and had issue by his first marriage, four children, and by the second, seven. His eldest son and child,

Sir Jacob Henry, b. 12th September, 1756, succeeded to the title in April, 1802; m. in 1789, Hester, youngest daughter and co-heiress of Samuel Brown, esq. of King's Lynn, Norfolk, by whom he had issue Jacob, the present baronet, and nine other children.

Town Residence—13, Hereford-street, Oxford-street.

ASTON, LORD, (Walter-Hutchinson Aston,) Baron of Forfar, county of Forfar; a clergyman of the church of England, rector of Hartfield, in Sussex; b. in 1769; m. 14th June, 1802, Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Doctor Nathan Haines, by whom he has no issue. His lordship succeeded to the honors of his family upon the demise of his father, 29th July, 1805.

Lord Aston being a Scottish peer only, and not one of the representative peers of Scotland, enjoys no seat in parliament.

Lineage.

The first of the family ennobled was

Sir Walter Aston, who, at the coronation of James the First, was honored with the Order of the Bath, and subsequently, in 1611, created a baronet. In 1622, he was employed to negotiate a marriage between the Prince of Wales and the Infanta of Spain, and, in requital for his services upon that occasion, was elevated to the peerage by Charles the First, as Lord Aston, Baron of Forfar. His lordship d. in 1639, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Walter, who, taking an active part in favor of the royal cause, was, upon the total discomfiture of his unfortunate master, Charles the First, obliged to live in retirement until the Restoration. His lordship married a daughter of Richard, Earl of Portlands, by whom he had

ATHLONE, EARL OF, (George de Reede Ginkell,) Baron of Aughrim, in the county of Galway, Baron de Reede and Ginkell, Baron of Amerongen Middachier, Livendale, Elst Stervelt, and Ronenberg, in the Netherlands; b. 21st November, 1820; succeeded to the honors of his family upon the demise of his father, 31st October, 1823.

The Earls of Athlone being peers of Ireland only, enjoy no hereditary seat in the house of lords.

Lineage.

Godart de Ginkell, a brave and successful general in the army of William the Third, was elevated to the peerage by that monarch, in consequence of the victory which he achieved upon the plains of Aughrim, near Athlone, in Ireland, on the 12th of July, 1691; being, in 1692, created Earl of Athlone, and Baron of Aughrim, besides obtaining a grant of above 26,000 acres of land, the forfeited possessions of William Dongan, Earl of Limerick. This grant was, however, subsequently reversed by parliament, and the earl returned to his native country. His lordship was succeeded by his son,

GODART, who continued to reside in Holland, and was succeeded by his son,

GODERT-ADRIAN, who dying without male issue, 8th October, 1736, the family titles devolved upon his brother,

GODERT. This nobleman died unmarried in November, 1747, when the titles descended to his cousin,

FREDERIC-WILLIAM, who died in 1748, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

FREDERIC. This nobleman left nine children, the eldest of whom,

FREDERIC, inherited, on the demise of his father, 13th December, 1808. His lordship married twice: first, Miss Munster; and, secondly, Maria, second daughter of Sir John Eden, of Windleston, baronet; but having no issue, the family honors devolved upon his brother, RENAUD-DEIDERICK-JACOB-DE-REEDE, who m. in March, 1818, Miss Hope, daughter of John-William Hope, esquire, of Amsterdam, by whom he had issue George, the present earl, another son, and a daughter.

ATHOLL, DUKE, MARQUESS, AND EARL OF, (John Murray,) Marquess and Earl of Tullibardin, Earl of Strathlay and Strathardale, Viscount Glenalmond, Balquhidir, and Glenlyon, Baron Murray of Tullibardin, Lord Balvennie and Gask, in Scotland; Earl Strange, Baron Strange, and Baron Murray, of Stanley, in Gloucestershire, K.T. and F.R.S., lord-lieutenant and hereditary sheriff of Perthshire, captain-general and governor of the Isle of Man. His grace was b. 30th June, 1755, and succeeded to his family honors upon the demise of his father, 4th November, 1774; m. 26th December, 1774, Jane, daughter of the ninth Lord Cathcart, by whom he had issue John, Marquess of Tullibardin, b. 26th June, 1778, and eight other children. The Duchess of Atholl dying on the 4th September, 1810, his grace married a second time, 11th March, 1794, Margery, eldest daughter of the sixteenth Lord Forbes, and widow of Lord Macleod, by whom he has one daughter and a son.

Lineage.

This is one of the noblest families in Scotland; and, at one period, it enjoyed the absolute sovereignty of the Isle of Man. In 1604,

SIR JOHN MURRAY, of Tullibardin, was created Lord Murray of that place, and, in 1606, Earl of Tullibardin; which earldom was surrendered by his son William in favour of his other son Patrick, upon the former's marrying Dorothea, daughter and heiress of John Stewart, Earl of Atholl. The earldom came back, however, to the Atholl line upon the demise of Patrick's son, James, childless. William Murray's son, by the above-mentioned Dorothea,

JOHN, succeeded to the earldom of Atholl, and m. Jane, daughter of Sir Duncan Campbell. His lordship d. in 1642, and was succeeded by his son,

JOHN, to whom reverted the earldom of Tullibardin, in 1670, upon the demise of his cousin, James, mentioned above. His lordship was created Marquess of Atholl, 17th February, 1676; m. Amelia-Sophia, only daughter of the seventh Earl of Derby, by whom he had, with several other children, his successor,

JOHN, created 30th July, 1703, Duke of Atholl and Marquess of Tullibardin. His grace m. first, Catharine, daughter of the Duke of Hamilton, by whom he had issue six sons and a daughter. The Duke of Atholl m. secondly, Mary, daughter of William, Lord Ross, by whom he had three sons and a daughter. His grace died 14th November, 1724, and was succeeded by his third son,

JAMES, upon whom (his elder brother, William, Marquess of Tullibardin, being attainted for high treason in 1716) the family honors were settled by parliament. His grace being maternal great-grandson to the seventh Earl of Derby, upon the demise of the tenth Earl of that line without issue, claimed, and was allowed, the barony of Strange, which had been conferred upon Lord Derby by writ of summons, in 1628. The duke married twice, but no male issue surviving him, the barony of Strange, and the sovereignty of the Isle of Man, descended to his only surviving daughter, Charlotte, who married her cousin,

JOHN, grandson to John, the first duke, and inheritor of the family honors. In 1765, their graces disposed of their sovereignty in the Isle of Man, (which they derived from Sir John de Stanley, knight, to whom it had been granted, in 1406, by Henry the Fourth) to the British government, for 70,000*l.* reserving, however, their landed interest, together with the patronage of the bishopric, and other ecclesiastical benefices, on payment of the annual sum of 101*l.* 15*s.* 11*d.* and rendering two falcons to the kings and queens of England upon the days of their coronation. Their graces had issue John, the present duke, and ten other children.

moned to parliament, as barons, so far back as the thirteenth century; Nicholas De Audley being summoned 26th January, 1297.

GEORGE TUCHET, Baron Audley, was, in 1616, created Earl of Castlehaven, in Ireland, which earldom descended to

JAMES TUCHET, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Henry, Lord Arundel, of Wardour, by whom he had issue

JAMES, seventh earl, who dying unmarried, 8th May, 1769, the family honors devolved upon his brother,

JOHN TALBOT. This nobleman dying without issue, the earldom of Castlehaven became extinct, but the barony of Audley descended to the eldest son of his sister Elizabeth by Philip Thicknesse, esq., to whom she had been married in November, 1749;

GEORGE THICKNESSE, who, upon the death of his uncle, became twenty-first baron of Audley. In 1783, his lordship, by royal permission, assumed the surname of Tuchet, and the arms of Tuchet and Audley. Lord Audley married twice; first, upon the 21st May, 1781, Elizabeth, daughter of the second Lord Delcval, by whom he had issue, George-John, the present peer, another son, and a daughter. Lady Audley dying 11th July, 1785, his lordship married a second time, Augusta, widow of Colonel Moorhouse, by whom he had no issue.

Sir Edmund succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, 5th September, 1820.

Lineage.

The first baronet created in England was

SIR NICHOLAS BACON, knight, eldest son of Sir Nicholas Bacon, lord keeper in the reign of Elizabeth, and half-brother to the celebrated Lord Chancellor Bacon, Baron Verulam, and Viscount St. Albans: the creation took place upon the 22nd May, 1611. Sir Nicholas had by his only wife, to whom he was married fifty-two years, twelve children, and was succeeded upon his death, in 1624, by his eldest son,

SIR EDMUND, who dying without issue, on the 10th of April, 1649, the title devolved upon his brother,

SIR ROBERT. This gentleman had nine sons and three daughters, and dying in 1655, was succeeded by the son of his seventh son,

SIR EDMUND, who, although he had six sons and ten daughters, died without male issue; whereupon the title devolved upon his deceased uncle's, Butts Bacon's, son,

SIR ROBERT, who died 31st January, 1704, and was succeeded by his son,

SIR EDMUND. This gentleman had a seat in parliament for many years. He m. in 1712, Mary, daughter of Sir Robert Kempt, bart. by whom he had four daughters, but no son; in consequence of which, the title, upon his demise in June, 1755, descended to his remote relation,

SIR EDMUND, the great-great-great-great grandson of the first baronet, Sir Nicholas, being the direct descendant of his fourth son, Butts Bacon, upon whom a baronetcy was also conferred on the 29th of July, 1627; thus, in this gentleman the honors of both branches of the family became united. Sir Edmund dying unmarried, was succeeded by his uncle,

SIR HENRY, who, also dying a bachelor, was succeeded by his brother,

SIR RICHARD. This gentleman married twice, but dying childless, the family honors devolved upon his nephew, BALCARRAS, EARL OF, (James Lindsay,) Fifeshire, and Lord Lindsay, of Cummerland; b. 24th August, 1784; m. in December, 1811, Maria-Frances, only daughter of John, Lord Muncaster, by whom he has issue Lord Lindsay, b. in October, 1812, and another son, b. 27th September, 1815. His lordship succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, the 27th March, 1825; he had previously a seat in the house of commons as representative of Wigan.

The honors of the house of Balcarras being solely of Scotland, it possesses no hereditary seat in parliament.

Lineage.

The family of Lindsay is of remote antiquity in Scotland, and has produced more than one noble scion, the present branch can trace its origin to the Earls of Crawford.

Sir David Lindsay, who was created Lord Lindsay, of Balcarras, 27th June, 1633, being grandson of the Honorable John Lindsay, the second son of the eighth Earl of Crawford. His lordship d. in March, 1641, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Alexander, who, on the 9th of January, 1650-1, was advanced to the earldom of Balcarras. His lordship m. the daughter and co-heiress of the first Earl of Seaforth, by whom he had issue Charles and Colin, and three daughters. The earl died 30th August, 1659, and was succeeded by his son,

Charles. This nobleman dying unmarried, the family honors devolved upon his brother,

Colin, who married thrice, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Alexander, who died without issue; when his brother,

James, inherited. This nobleman m. on the 24th October, 1749, Anne, daughter of Sir Robert Dalrymple, of Castletown, knt. by whom he had issue (with ten other children, one of whom was Charles Dalrymple, Lord Bishop of Kildare) his successor,

Alexander, who sat in parliament as one of the representative peers of Scotland; was a general officer in the army, and colonel of the 63rd regiment of foot. His lordship succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, 20th February, 1768, and m. 1st June, 1780, his first cousin, Elizabeth, only child of Charles Dalrymple, esq., (this lady inherited the Heigh property, upon failure of issue in her maternal family, the Bradshaigs,) by whom he had issue James, the present peer, and five other children.

His grace succeeded to the honors of his illustrious family upon the demise of his patriotic and deeply-lamented brother, Francis, unmarried, 2nd May, 1802.

Lineage.

Amongst the British Noblesse there is not a more illustrious house than that of Russell; the name is interwoven with the brightest achievements in the records of England, and has been borne, at different periods, by statesmen, warriors, and patriots, as sage as gallant, and as disinterested as ever guided her council, unfurled her banner, or bled for her freedom.

JOHN RUSSEL, said to be one of the most accomplished persons of the period in which he lived, was appointed gentleman of the privy chamber to Henry the Seventh, upon being nominated to other official employments; created by patent, 29th March, 1539, Baron Russell, of Cheneys, Bedfordshire. When the great monasteries were dissolved in 1540, his lordship obtained a grant to himself, and his wife, and their heirs, of the scite of the Abbey of Tavistock, and of extensive possessions belonging thereto. In the next reign, (Edward the Sixth,) on the 29th of January, 1549, his lordship was advanced to the dignity of an earldom, as Earl of Bedford; and after the accession of Mary, he was appointed ambassador to Spain, to conduct her majesty's royal consort, Philip, to England. His lordship d. 14th March, 1558, and was succeeded by his son,

FRANCIS, b. in 1528, whose son,

FRANCIS, was summoned to parliament, as Baron Russell, in the lifetime of his father; but being slain on the Scottish border, the day before the earl's decease, the family honors, when that event took place, devolved upon Earl Francis's grandson,

EDWARD, who, dying without issue, was succeeded by his cousin,

FRANCIS, (son to William,) fourth son of Earl Francis, who filled the office of lord-deputy of Ireland, during the reign of Elizabeth, and was created 21st July, 1603, Baron Russell, of Thornhaugh, Northamptonshire. This nobleman m. Catharine, daughter and co-heiress of the third Lord Chandos, by whom he had issue four daughters and four sons. The second of his sons, Edward, became a distinguished naval commander, and obtained, by his heroic achievements, (7th May, 1697,) the titles of Baron Shingey, Viscount Barfleur, and Earl of Oxford. His lordship (Francis, Earl of Bedford,) d. 9th May, 1641, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, who was created, 11th May, 1649, Marquess of Tavistock and Duke of Bedford. His grace, m. Anne, daughter and sole heiress of Robert Carr, Earl of Somerset, by whom he had issue seven sons and three daughters, the second of whom was the celebrated patriot, Lord William Russell, so unjustly beheaded, 21st July, 1683. Lord William had m. Rachael, daughter and co-heiress to Thomas Wriothesley, Earl of Southampton, by whom he had issue. His grace dying on the 7th September, 1700, was succeeded by his grandson,

WRIOTHESLEY, the eldest son of the martyred Lord William. This nobleman m. in 1695, Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of John Howland, esq. of Streatham, by whom he acquired a very considerable fortune; and in consequence of his marriage, was created, on the 13th June, 1693, Baron Howland, of Streatham, Surrey; his grace had issue three sons and two daughters. He d. in May, 1711, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WRIOTHESLEY; b. 1708; m. 1725; but dying without issue, 23d October, 1732, the honors of the family reverted to his brother,

JOHN. This nobleman, a knight of the garter, filled the office of lord-lieutenant of Ireland; and, in 1762, was appointed minister plenipotentiary to the Court of France, in which character he signed, at Fontainbleau, the preliminaries of peace with France and Spain. His grace m. 11th October, 1731, Diana, youngest daughter to Charles, Earl of Sunderland, by whom he had one son, who died in infancy. Her grace dying 27th September, 1735, the duke m. a second time, in April, 1737, Gertrude, eldest daughter to the first Earl of Gower, by whom he had issue one son, Francis, Marquess of Tavistock, who, being killed by a fall from his horse, 29th March, 1767, left issue by Elizabeth, daughter of the second Earl of Albemarle, Francis, the late duke. John, the present, and several other children. His grace d. 14th January, 1771, and was succeeded by his grandson,

FRANCIS, b. 22nd July, 1765, who, dying unmarried, the title reverted to his brother, the present duke.

Lineage.

The first of the family ennobled was

SIR JOHN HAMILTON, of Broomhill, created Lord Belhaven and Stanton, in 1647. His lordship having, however, no male heirs, surrendered his barony to the crown, and obtained a new patent 10th February, 1675, by which the title descended to Sir John Hamilton, bart. of Beil, to whom his eldest grand-daughter, Margaret, had been married, and his heirs male, whatsoever. His lordship d. in 1679, and was succeeded by,

SIR JOHN HAMILTON, aforesaid, who, being nominated governor of Barbadoes in 1721, was drowned in his passage to that island.

He was succeeded, alternately, by his four sons,

JOHN,
ANDREW,
ROBERT,

all of whom dying unmarried, the peerage, of right, devolved upon their relative,

ROBERT HAMILTON, esq., of Whishaw; but that gentleman declining to assume the title, it remained in abeyance until claimed after his decease by his son,

WILLIAM, whose pretensions were acknowledged by a resolution of the house of lords, 25th April, 1799. His lordship m. Penelope, youngest daughter of Ronald Macdonald, of Clanronald, by whom he had issue Robert Montgomery, the present peer, and six other children.

BERKELEY, EARL OF, ( ) Viscount Dursley, and Baron Berkeley.

The titles of this noble house have lain in abeyance since the demise of the fifth earl, Frederick-Augustus, the house of lords having decided, 1st July, 1811, that his lordship's eldest son, who had previously a seat in the house of commons, and was received there as Lord Dursley, had not made good his claim to the honors of the family, not being able to establish his father's marriage with his mother prior to his birth, although the late lord solemnly declared, in his last will, that the event took place; and the Countess of Berkeley bore testimony to the same effect before the house of lords. In consequence of the decision of the lords, the title devolved upon the fifth son, Thomas-Moreton-Fitzhardinge Berkeley, who, from a conscientious belief in the legitimacy of his brother's birth, has declined assuming it.

Lineage.

The Berkeleys were summoned to parliament as barons, from the reign of Henry the Third to that of Edward the Sixth.

GEORGE, the fourteenth of these barons, was advanced, 11th September, 1679, in consequence of the loyalty he displayed towards Charles the Second, to the titles of Viscount Dursley and Earl of Berkeley. His lordship d. 10th October, 1628, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

CHARLES, K.B., who had been summoned to the house of peers, during his father's life-time, as Baron Berkeley, of Berkeley. His lordship filled the high and confidential station of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the states of Holland, in 1689. He d. 24th September, 1710, and was succeeded by his son,

JAMES, K.G., vice-admiral of the blue, and first lord of the admiralty. His lordship m. Louisa, daughter of the first Duke of Richmond, by whom he had two daughters, and his successor, (upon his demise in 1736,)

AUGUSTUS, K.T. This nobleman m. in 1744, Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Drax, esq. of Dorsetshire, by whom he had several children. The eldest of whom,

FREDERICK-AUGUSTUS, succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, in 1755. His lordship was b. 24th May, 1745, and espoused, 16th May, 1796, Mary, daughter of William Cole, of Wootton, Gloucestershire; prior to this marriage, four of the earl's children, by the same lady, were born; but his lordship declared that he had been privately married to the countess, in Berkeley Church, March 30, 1785, assigning, as a reason for the second nuptials, that the witnesses to the first were all dead, and the vouchers to establish it all destroyed, in consequence of the great secrecy observed; and, as we have already mentioned, he confirmed that assertion in his last will and testament. Besides these four children, his lordship had issue Thomas-Moreton-Fitzhardinge, b. 19th October, 1796, the gentleman supposed to be entitled to the peerage; with two sons, and three daughters.

caused an extraordinary sensation at the period it occurred. He was confined to his bed, by severe indisposition, at the family mansion of Lawford Hall, wherein his mother, and Captain and Mrs. Donellon, (his sister and brother-in-law) were at the time residing. Having taken a draught from the hands of Lady Boughton, the unfortunate gentleman almost immediately expired, on the 21st August, 1780. Suspicion of poison subsequently arising, the body, after being deposited in the family vault, was disinterred, when a coroner's inquest returned a verdict of murder against Captain Donellon, who was tried, condemned, and executed for the crime, at the Spring Assizes for the county of Warwick, in 1781. It must be remarked, however, in justice to Mr. Donellon, that the evidence against him was solely circumstantial, and not of the strongest nature, and that he died solemnly protesting his innocence. Upon the death of Sir Theodosius, the title devolved upon his cousin,

Sir Edward, grandson to the fourth baronet, Sir William, being the son of his son, (by his second marriage,) Shuckburgh Boughton. This gentleman dying unmarried in 1794, the title devolved upon his only brother,

Sir Charles-William, F.R.S., who had taken the name and arms of Rouse, upon inheriting an estate in 1768, and had been created a baronet, by the title of Sir Charles-William-Boughton-Rouse, of Rouse Lench, Worcestershire, in 1791. On succeeding to his own family honors, however, he resumed his former surname. He m. in 1782, Catharine, only daughter and heiress of William Pearce Hall, esq. of Downton Hall, by whom he had issue William-Edward, the present baronet, and three daughters.

BUCCLEUCH AND QUEENSBURY, DUKE OF, (Walter-Francis-Scott Douglas,) Marquess of Dumfrieshire, Earl of Drumlanrig, Buccleuch, Sanquhar, and Dalkeith, Viscount Nith, Thortholwold, and Ross ; Baron Douglas, of Kinmount, Meddebie, Dornock, Scott of Whitechurch and Eskdale, in Scotland ; Earl of Doncaster, Yorkshire, and Baron Tyndale, Northumberland, in England ; b. 25th of November, 1806 ; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, 20th April, 1819.

Lineage.

SIR WALTER SCOTT, a descendant of Richard le Scot, of Lanarkshire, was created Lord Scott, of Buccleuch, on the 16th March, 1605, and his son,

WALTER, on the 16th March, 1608, was elevated to the dignity of Earl of Buccleuch. This nobleman died in 1633, and leaving no male issue, his eldest daughter,

MARY, became Countess of Buccleuch. Her ladyship m. Walter Scott, of Harden, but dying childless, the family honors devolved upon her sister,

ANNE, who married the unfortunate Duke of Monmouth, illegitimate son of Charles the Second. In 1673, their graces were created Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, Earl and Countess of Dalkeith, and Baron and Baroness Whitechurch and Eskdale, with remainder to their heirs male. The English honors of the Duke of Monmouth, (Earl of Doncaster, and Baron Tyndale,) as well as his Scottish dukedom of Buccleuch, were forfeited upon the execution of that unhappy nobleman for high treason. The peerages enjoyed by the Duchess, however, in her own right, (Duchess of Buccleuch by creation, and Countess of Buccleuch by inheritance,) were not affected by the attainder. The offspring of this union were James, Earl of Dalkeith, and Henry, created Earl of Deloraine, Viscount Hermitage, and Baron Scott, in 1706, which titles became extinct, with the fourth earl, in 1807. The duchess m. secondly, Charles, third Lord Cornwallis, and at her demise, 6th February, 1732, was succeeded by her grandson,

FRANCIS, son of Lord Dalkeith. His lordship obtained a restoration of the earldom of Doncaster, and barony of Scott, of Tyndale, by act of parliament, in 1743 ; he m. 5th April, 1720, Jane, eldest daughter of James, second Duke of Queensbury, by whom he had issue a son, and three daughters who died unmarried, with Francis, Earl of Dalkeith, who died in the life-time of his father, but left a son, Henry, and a posthumous daughter by his countess, Caroline, eldest daughter and co-heiress of John Duke of Argyll. The Duke of Buccleuch m. a second time, Miss Powell ; by whom, however, he had no issue. His grace d. 22nd April, 1751, and was succeeded by his grandson,

HENRY, b. 2nd September, 1746, who was installed Knight of the illustrious order of the Garter.

His grace m. 20th March, 1767, Elizabeth, daughter of George, Duke of Montague, by whom he had issue Charles-William-Henry, and six other children. The fifth son, Henry-James-Montague, succeeded to the barony of Montague, upon the demise of his grandfather, the Duke of Montague. His Grace, the Duke of Buccleuch, at the decease of William, fourth Duke of Queensbury, without issue, on the 23rd December, 1810, succeeded to that dukedom, to the marquesate of Dumfrieshire, the earldom of Drumlanrig and Sanquhar, the viscounty of Nith, Thortholwold and Ross, the lordship of Douglas, of Kelmont, Middlebel and Dornock, with the barony of Drumlanrig, and considerable estates in the county of Dumfries, agreeable to the limitation of the patent creating those honors in 1706, and in virtue of an entail, executed by the second Duke of Queensbury; his grace, in consequence, assumed the titles. He d. the 11th January, 1812, and was succeeded by his son,

CHARLES-WILLIAM-HENRY, a Knight of the Thistle, who had been summoned to parliament, in 1807, during the lifetime of his father, as Baron Tyndale. His grace was b. 24th May, 1774; and m. 24th of March, 1795, Harriet-Catherine, youngest daughter of Thomas, Viscount Sidney, by whom he had issue George-Henry, who d. in 1808; six daughters; Walter-Francis, the present duke, and a younger son.

BUCHAN, EARL OF, (David-Stewart Erskine,) Lord Auchterhouse, and Lord Cardross, Stirlingshire; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 1st December, 1767; m. 15th October, 1771, Margaret, daughter of William Fraser, esq. of Fraserfield, by whom he has no issue.

The honors of the house of Buchan being solely Scottish, it possesses no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

This very ancient earldom came into the family of Erskine, with Mary Douglas, Countess of Buchan, who married

JAMES ERSKINE, third son of John, Earl of Marr; upon which occasion, that gentleman obtained a charter, dated 25th November, 1625, granting the earldom of Buchan to himself, and his heirs male whatever; in this charter he is denominated the sixth earl. His lordship was succeeded by his son,

JAMES, who, dying in 1664, was succeeded by his only son,

WILLIAM. This nobleman dying unmarried, the title devolved upon

DAVID, Lord Cardross, the great-grand-nephew of the above-mentioned James Erskine, being the direct descendant of his brother Henry, fourth son of Lord Marr. His lordship m. in 1697, Frances, only daughter and heiress of Henry Fairfax, esq. of Hust, Berkshire, by whom he had a numerous progeny; he m. secondly, Isabella, daughter of Sir William Bracket, bart. but had no issue. He died 11th October, 1745, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

HENRY-DAVID, b. 16th April, 1810; m. 31st January, 1739, Agnes, second daughter of Sir James Stewart, of Collness, bart., by whom he had issue the present earl, and two other sons, the youngest of whom, Thomas, was the celebrated and eloquent advocate, who became lord chancellor of England, and was then created Lord Erskine. The Earl of Buchan had, likewise, two daughters.

Lineage.

This noble family is directly descended from Robert the Second, of Scotland, from whom it originally obtained a grant of estates in the Isle of Bute. The baronetcy was conferred in 1627, and, in 1703,

Sir James Stuart, being of the privy-council of Queen Anne, was created Earl of Bute, of the kingdom of Scotland. His lordship d. in 1710, and was succeeded by his son,

James, who m. Anne, daughter of Archibald, first Duke of Argyll, by whom he had several children. His lordship d. 28th January, 1723, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

John, b. in 1713; m. Mary Montague, great-grand-daughter of Edward, first Earl of Sandwich, by whom he had five sons and five daughters. Her ladyship was created, on the 3rd of April, 1761, Baroness Mountstuart, of Wortley, Yorkshire, with remainder to her male issue by the Earl of Bute. His lordship was a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. He d. 10th March, 1792, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

John, who had, upon the demise of his mother, 13th November, 1794, succeeded to the barony of Mountstuart, having been previously (20th May, 1776) created Baron Cardiff, of Cardiff Castle: on the 21st March, 1796, he obtained the viscounty of Mountjoy, in the Isle of Wight; and was created, at the same time, Earl of Windsor, and Marquess of Bute. His lordship was b. 30th June, 1744; and was m. twice: first to Charlotte-Jane, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Herbert, Viscount Windsor, by whom he had issue John, Lord Mountstuart, who m. on the 12th October, 1792, Elizabeth Crichton, only daughter and heiress of Patrick, Earl of Dumfries, and died in two years afterwards, leaving issue the present marquess, and a posthumous son. Besides Lord Mountstuart, the marquess had nine other children by his first consort. Her ladyship dying 28th January, 1800, his lordship m. secondly, on the 7th of September, in the same year, Frances, second daughter of the late Thomas Coutts, esq. the opulent London banker, by whom he had a daughter, who m. Lord Sandon, son of the Earl of Harrowby, and a son. His lordship died at Geneva, and the family honors descended to his grandson, the present peer.

BYRON, BARON, (George-Anson Byron,) of Rochdale, county of Lancaster, a captain in the navy; m. 18th March, 1816, Mary-Elizabeth, daughter of Sacheverel-Chandos Pole, esq. of Redbourne, Derbyshire, by whom he has issue George Anson, b. in 1818, another son, and two daughters. His lordship succeeded to the title upon the demise of his cousin, 19th April, 1824.

Lineage.

The family of Byron can be traced back to the period of the Conquest, when it possessed considerable estates in Yorkshire. It was ennobled in the person of

Sir John Byron, a distinguished and faithful adherent of the unfortunate Charles the First, who created him, on the 19th October, 1643, Baron Byron, of Rochdale, with remainder to the male issue of his five brothers, Richard, William, Robert, Gilbert, and Philip. Dying childless, in 1652, his lordship was succeeded by his brother,

Richard, who died in 1679, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

William. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter of John, Viscount Chaworth. He died 13th November, 1695, and was succeeded by his son,

William. This nobleman m. thrice: first, Mary, daughter of John, Duke of Bridgewater, by whom he had no issue; secondly, Frances-Wilhelmina, third daughter of William, first Earl of Portland, by whom he had three sons and one daughter, all of whom d. unmarried; and, thirdly, Frances, second daughter of William, Lord Berkeley, of Stratton, by whom he had several children. His lordship d. 8th August, 1736, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

William, b. 5th November, 1722. His lordship having killed William Chaworth, esq. in a duel, 26th January, 1765, was arraigned before his peers, in Westminster Hall, 13th February following, and found guilty of manslaughter; but claiming the benefit of the statute of Edward the Sixth, he was discharged upon simply paying his fees. His lordship m Elizabeth, daughter of Charles Shaw, esq. of Besthorpe Hall, Norfolk, by whom he had two sons and two daughters, but dying without male issue, the family honors devolved upon his great-nephew,

George-Gordon, grandson of John, second son of William, the fourth lord. His lordship's mother was Catharine Gordon, a lineal descendant of the Earl of Huntley, by Princess Jane (Stuart), daughter of James the Second, of Scotland. But royal and illustrious as the ancestry of this distinguished nobleman were, his own transcendant genius threw his hereditary honors into immeasurable shade. The first poet of his age and nation, a disinterested patriot, and an enthusiastic advocate of freedom, he fell a victim to anxiety of mind, experienced in his glorious endeavour to promote the cause of Grecian renovation, in which he had personally embarked, and died at Missolonghi, in Greece, 19th April, 1824, in the thirty-seventh year of his age, having been born 22nd January, 1788. His lordship m. 2nd January, 1815, Anne-Isabella, only child of Sir Ralph-Milbank Noel, bart. by whom he had one daughter, Ada-Augusta, b. 10th December, 1815. A separation from his lady took place soon after the birth of this child, and his lordship almost immediately afterwards departed from his native country, to which he never subsequently returned.

CADOGAN, EARL OF, (Charles-Henry-Sloane Cadogan,) Viscount Chelsea, and Baron Cadogan; b. in June, 1749; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, 3rd April, 1807.

Lineage.

This distinguished family was ennobled in the person of

WILLIAM CADOGAN, a distinguished general officer, who succeeded the Duke of Marlborough, in 1722, as commander-in-chief of the army, and was elevated to the peerage, by the title of Baron Cadogan, of Reading, Berks, 21st June, 1716. On the 8th May, 1718, his lordship was created Baron Cadogan, of Oakley, Bucks, Viscount Caversham, Oxon, and Earl of Cadogan; the barony, in case of failure of male issue, to revert to his brother, Charles Cadogan. His lordship dying in 1726, and leaving only two daughters, the earldom and viscounty became extinct, and the barony descended to his brother,

CHARLES, who m. Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Hans Sloane, bart. by whom he had an only son, his successor,

CHARLES-SLOANE. His lordship died at the advanced age of eighty-five, 24th September, 1776, and was succeeded by his only son,

CHARLES-SLOANE. His lordship was advanced to an earldom and viscounty, on the 27th December, 1800, by the titles of Earl Cadogan and Viscount Chelsea. He married twice: first, on the 28th of May, 1747, Frances, daughter of Lord Montfort, by whom he had issue Charles-Henry-Sloane, the present peer, and five other sons. His lordship m. secondly, 10th August, 1777, Mary, eldest daughter of Charles Churchill, esq., by whom he had issue three sons and three daughters; from this lady, he was divorced, by act of parliament, in 1797.

CAITHNESS, EARL OF, (Alexander Sinclair,) Lord Berriedale, and a baronet of Nova Scotia; b. 24th June, 1790; m. 22nd November, 1813, Miss Leigh, youngest daughter and co-heiress of the Reverend William Leigh, of Rushall, Herefordshire, by whom he has no issue; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, in 1823.

The honors of the house of Caithness being solely Scotch, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

The Sinclairs were Earls of Orkney until

WILLIAM, the third earl, who was lord high chancellor of Scotland, obtained a grant from James the Second, of that kingdom, dated 28th August, 1455, of the earldom of Caithness, which title he assumed in addition to that of Orkney, and was styled Earl of Orkney and Caithness, until the year 1471, when his lordship surrendered the earldom of Orkney to James the Third, and resigned that of Caithness to his son by his second marriage, (passing over a son by the first,)

WILLIAM, who was slain at Flodden-Field, 9th September, 1513. He was succeeded by his son,

JOHN, who was killed in attempting to take possession of the Orkneys, in 1529. He was succeeded by his son,

GEORGE. This gentleman m. Elizabeth, daughter of the Earl of Montrose. He was succeeded by his grandson,

GEORGE, who d. in 1643, and was succeeded by his great-grandson,

GEORGE, who, dying childless, in 1676, alienated his estates to Sir John Campbell, who was, in consequence, created Earl of Caithness; but, in 1681, he was obliged to relinquish both to the rightful heir,

GEORGE, grandson of the fifth earl, being the son of his second son, Francis. This nobleman dying unmarried, the family honors devolved, in 1698, upon his cousin,

JOHN, who, surviving three sons, died in 1765, when the title reverted to

WILLIAM, descended from John, of Greenland, third son of the fourth earl. His lordship died in 1779, and was succeeded by his son,

JOHN, who dying without issue, 8th April, 1789, the title devolved upon

JAMES, who was directly, although remotely, descended from George, youngest son of the fourth earl. His lordship m. 2nd January, 1784, Jane, second daughter of Alexander Campbell, esq. of Barcaldine, by whom he had issue the present earl, and several other children.

His lordship succeeded to the titles upon the demise of his father, 26th August, 1809.

The honors of the Earl of Castle Stewart being solely Irish, his lordship enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the royal house of Stuart, sprung from Robert, Duke of Albany, third son of Robert the Second, of Scotland.

ANDREW STEWART, third Lord Ochiltrie, the direct descendant in the fourth degree of Andrew, the great-great-grandson of the above-mentioned Duke of Albany, having sold the barony of Ochiltrie to his cousin, James Stewart, of Killeith, was created, in November, 1619, Baron of Castle Stewart, in Ireland. His lordship d. in 1632, and was succeeded by his son,

ANDREW, who d. in 1639, and was succeeded by his son,

ANDREW, who was succeeded by his only son,

JOSIAS. This nobleman dying without issue, the title reverted to his uncle,

JOHN. After the decease of this nobleman, without issue, the title remained in abeyance until the year 1774, when it was claimed by, and allowed to,

ANDREW-THOMAS, the heir male of Robert, third son of the first lord. His lordship was created Viscount Castle Stewart, 20th December, 1793, and advanced to an earldom, as Earl of Castle Stewart, on the 29th December, 1800. WILLIAM PITT, esq. second son of Robert Pitt, of Boconnock, having distinguished himself as one of the most eloquent senators, and one of the ablest statesmen of the two last reigns, (George the Second, and George the Third,) obtained a peerage for his lady, Hester Grenville, sister to the Earl of Temple, on the 4th of December, 1761, by the style of Baroness Chatham; and was himself, on the 4th of August, 1766, created Viscount Pitt, and Earl of Chatham. His lordship had several children, the eldest of whom was John, the present Earl, and the youngest but one, the celebrated William Pitt, who held, for so many eventful years, the reins of government, as prime minister of England. Lord Chatham's death was singular and impressive. In an effort to speak in the house of lords, when labouring under infirmities, he suddenly dropt down, and although he died not immediately, his lordship survived but two or three weeks afterwards. His remains were honored with public obsequies, and a pension of £4000 a year was settled upon the earldom of Chatham.

DE CLIFFORD, BARON, (Edward-Southwell Clifford,) of Clifford Castle, Herefordshire; D.C.L.; b. 23rd June, 1767; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, in 1777; m. in 1789, Mary-Elizabeth, daughter of his grace Joseph, Archbishop of Tuam, and Earl of Mayo, by whom he has no issue.

Lineage.

This is a very ancient barony, being held by tenure so far back as the middle of the twelfth century. In 1299,

ROBERT CLIFFORD, grandson and heir of Roger Clifford, the last baron by tenure, who d. in 1285, was summoned to parliament by writ, as were his direct descendants to

JOHN, the ninth baron, who m. Margaret, daughter and heiress of Henry, Lord Vescy, (subsequently to which union, the Cliffords were generally styled Barons Vescy, in addition to Clifford,) by whom he had three sons. His lordship, being a partisan of the house of Lancaster, was slain, on the 29th March, 1461, at the battle of Towton, and was attainted in parliament the following November. The eldest son of this nobleman,

HENRY, to screen him from the Yorkists, being but seven years of age when his father fell, was disguised as a shepherd's boy, and thus brought up without the slightest education. He was, at length, restored, however, to his honors, in the thirty-second year of his age, by the first parliament of Henry the Seventh. His lordship d. in 1523, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

HENRY, who was created, on the 18th June, 1523, Earl of Cumberland, which earldom was transmitted to the sixth earl, upon whose demise, in 1605, without male issue, it became extinct, and the barony of De Clifford remained in abeyance until 1628, when

ANNE, Countess of Dorset, only daughter and heiress of George Clifford, third Earl of Cumberland, claimed it; but nothing effectual in the matter ensued, and upon her ladyship's demise, in 1675, the barony remained in the same state, and so continued, until her second daughter, Isabella, Countess of Northampton, and her children, died, when it became vested in

THOMAS TUFTON, Earl of Thanet, (the eldest son of the Countess of Dorset's eldest daughter, Margaret, Countess of Thanet,) who claimed the barony, and had his claim acknowledged by the house of lords, in 1691. Dying in 1729, however, without male issue, the barony again fell into abeyance, between his five daughters, until the king was pleased to determine the matter in favor of

MARGARET, (the third daughter,) Countess of Leicester, who d. without issue, in 1775, when the crown again interfered, and transferred the barony to

EDWARD SOUTHWELL, esq. son and heir of Edward Southwell, esq. of Gloucestershire, by Catherine, daughter of Lady Catherine Tufton, the eldest daughter of Lord Thanet. His lordship m. Sophia, daughter of Samuel Campbell, esq. of Mount Campbell, county of Leitrim, Ireland, by whom he had issue the present peer, and three other sons, who d. in infancy, besides five daughters.

Should the present baron die without male issue, the barony will again fall into abeyance, between the issue of his three deceased sisters.

DE GREY, COUNTESS, (Amabel-Hume Campbell,) of Wrest, Bedfordshire, and Baroness Lucas, of Crudwell, Wilts; b. 22nd January, 1751; m. 16th July, 1772, Alexander, Lord Polwarth, only son of Hugh, Earl of Marchmont, (created a peer of England, as Baron Hume, of Berwick, 20th May, 1776,) by whom her ladyship had no issue; his lordship d. in 1781. Lady Hume succeeded her mother, Jemima, Marchioness de Grey, 10th January, 1797, in the barony of Lucas, and was created, 5th October, 1816, Countess de Grey, with remainder, in case of failure of male issue, to her sister, Jemima, Dowager Baroness of Grantham, and her male descendants.

Lineage.

The earldom of Kent devolved, at the demise of Henry, the ninth earl, without issue, 21st November, 1639, upon

THE REVEREND ANTHONY GREY, whose grandson,

ANTHONY, the twelfth Earl of Kent, m. Mary, only daughter and heiress of John, Lord Lucas, Baron of Shenfield, county of Essex, who was created, on the 7th May, 1663, Baroness Lucas, of Crudwell, in the county of Wilts, with remainder to her issue, male and female, by the Earl of Kent. The only son of this marriage was

HENRY, who succeeded upon the demise of his parents to the honors of both; and on the 14th of December, 1700, was created Viscount Goodrich, of Goodrich Castle, in Herefordshire; Earl of Harold, in the county of Bedford; and Marquess of Kent. On the 22th April, 1710, his lordship obtained a dukedom, as Duke of Kent; and in 1713, was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. His grace m. twice: first, Jemima, eldest daughter of Thomas, Lord Crew, of Steane, by whom he had four sons and seven daughters: the former all died before himself, without issue. His grace m. secondly, Sophia, daughter of William, Duke of Portland, by whom he had a son, who died in infancy, and a daughter, who m. the Right Reverend John Egerton, Lord Bishop of Durham. His grace having no surviving male issue, was created, 9th May, 1740, Marquess Grey, in remainder to his grand-daughter, Jemima Campbell, daughter of Lady Amabel Grey, by her husband, John, Viscount Glenorchy, and her heirs male. His grace d. 5th June, 1740, when all the titles but the marquesate of Grey, and the barony of Lucas, became extinct, but those devolved upon his grand-daughter, already mentioned.

JEMIMA, who had m. a few days before the death of her grand-father, Philip, Earl of Hardwicke, by whom she had two daughters only, Amabel, the present countess, and Mary-Jemima, who m. Thomas, Lord Grantham. Upon the decease of the marchioness, without male issue, the marquesate was extinguished, but the barony of Lucas descended to her eldest daughter.

SIR WILLIAM FIELDING, created 30th December, 1620, Baron and Viscount Fielding, of Newnham-Paddox; and on the 14th September, 1622, Earl of Denbigh. His lordship m. Susan, daughter of Sir George Villars, by whom he had three sons and four daughters. George, the second son, was created, 22nd November, 1622, Baron Fielding, Viscount Callan, and Earl of Desmond, in the peerage of Ireland; those honors to be enjoyed after the demise of Sir Richard Presten, then Earl of Desmond. This nobleman had five sons, one of whom, John, Canon of Salisbury, was grandfather of Henry Fielding, the celebrated novelist. The eldest son of the Earl of Denbigh,

BASIL, upon his lordship's decease, 8th April, 1643, succeeded to the honors of the family; he was created, 2nd February, 1663, Baron St. Liz, as a descendant from Agnes, daughter and heiress of John de St. Liz. Dying without issue, the peerage devolved upon his nephew,

WILLIAM, second Earl of Desmond, who d. 28th August, 1685, and was succeeded by his son,

BASIL. This nobleman left a numerous family, and was succeeded, in 1716, by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, who d. in 1755, and was succeeded by his only son,

BASIL, b. 3rd January, 1712; m. first, on the 12th April, 1757, Mary, third daughter and co-heiress of Sir John-Bruce Cotton, baronet, by whom he had issue William, Viscount Fielding, and another son. Lord Fielding d. in the lifetime of his father, leaving a son, the present peer, and two daughters, who obtained, by royal permission, in 1813, the same rank and precedence as if their father lived to enjoy the earldom. Lord Denbigh m. secondly, Sarah, relict of Sir Charles Halford, baronet, by whom he had no issue.

Motto, in English,

Virtue prospers under oppression.

Country Seat—Newham-Paddox, near Rugby, Warwickshire.

DENYS, SIR GEORGE-WILLIAM, baronet, of Easton-Neston; b. 20th May, 1788; m. 5th December, 1809, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of George Lind, esq., of Stafford-place, London, by whom he has issue George-William, b. 11th December, 1811, two other sons, and four daughters. Mr. Denys, who is the eldest son of the late Peter Denys, esq., of Hans-place, Middlesex, by Charlotte, only daughter of the Earl of Pomfret, was created a baronet, 23rd November, 1813.

Motto, in English,

Now, and always.

Country Seat—Easton Neston, county of Northampton.

DERBY, EARL OF, (Edward-Smith Stanley,) Lord Stanley, and Baron Stanley, of Latham, and a baronet; lord-lieutenant and custos rotulorum of the county of Lancashire; b. 18th September, 1752; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his grandfather, 24th February, 1776; m. first, in 1774, Elizabeth, only daughter of James, sixth Duke of Hamilton and Brandon, by whom he had issue Edward Smith, Lord Stanley, b. 21st April, 1775, and two daughters. Lord Stanley m. 30th June, 1798, Charlotte-Margaret, second daughter of the Rev. Geoffrey Hornby, by whom he has three sons and four daughters. The Earl of Derby m. secondly, 1st May, 1797, Miss Farren, a very celebrated and much admired actress, daughter of Mr. Farren, of Cork, by whom he has one daughter living, who m. 29th November, 1821, Thomas, Earl of Wilmot.

Lineage.

SIR THOMAS STANLEY, K.G, (great-grandson of Sir John Stanley, who obtained, in 1406, a grant in fee of the Isle of Man,) having m. Margaret, Countess of Richmond, mother of Henry the Seventh, and having contributed to the decisive victory of Bosworth-field, was created by the successful monarch, 27th October, 1485, Earl of Derby. His lordship m. Eleanor Neville, daughter of Richard Neville, the celebrated Earl of Warwick, by whom he had issue, with other children, George, who m. Joan, daughter and heiress of Lord Strange, and, in consequence, was summoned to parliament as Baron Strange; he d. in the lifetime of his father, leaving two sons. The earl d. in 1504, and was succeeded by his grandson,

THOMAS, who was succeeded by his son,

EDWARD, who was also succeeded by his son,

HENRY. His lordship d. in 1534, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

FERDINANDO. Upon the death of this nobleman, in 1595, without male issue, the baronies of Stanley and Strange fell into abeyance, between his three daughters and co-heiresses, while the earldom devolved upon his brother,

WILLIAM, who purchased the claims of his nieces upon the Isle of Man. His lordship d. in 1642, and was succeeded by his son,

JAMES, who had been summoned to parliament, in 1621, as Baron Strange; which barony has since been inherited by the ducal house of Athol. His lordship was distinguished for his devoted attachment to Charles the First, and to Charles the Second, and being made prisoner after the battle of Worcester, was beheaded at Bolton, 15th October, 1651. He had m. Charlotte, daughter of Claude de la Tremouille, Duke de Thouars, and left issue Amelia-Sophia, who m. John, Marquess of Athol; and his successor,

CHARLES, who d. in 1672, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM-GEORGE-RICHARD, who d. without male issue, in 1742, when the title devolved upon his brother,

JAMES, who d. also without issue, (1735,) when the barony of Strange reverted to his aunt, the Marchioness of Athol, and the earldom of Derby devolved upon

DE ROOS, BARONESS, (Charlotte Fitzgerald de Roos,) lady of Lord Henry Fitzgerald, third son of James, late Duke of Leinster, by whom she has issue Henry-William, b. 12th June, 1793, and five other sons, and two daughters. The barony of de Roos was in abeyance, until terminated by the late king, on the 9th of May, 1806, in favor of her ladyship, upon which occasion, she assumed the name of de Roos.

Lineage.

ROBERT DE ROOS, grandson of Robert de Roos, one of the twenty-five barons who extorted Magna Charta from John, was summoned to parliament, as Baron de Roos, in the year 1264, (the forty-ninth of Henry the Third,) and the barony descended from father to son, until it devolved upon

THOMAS, the fifth baron, who was brother to his predecessor, as was

WILLIAM, the seventh baron. The grandson of this nobleman,

THOMAS, the tenth, being attainted 4th Nov. 1461, his honors became forfeited, but his son,

EDMUND, obtained a reversal of the attainder, in 1485; he was not summoned, however, to parliament. Upon the demise of this nobleman without issue, in 1508, the barony fell into abeyance between his three sisters and co-heiresses, which terminated in favor of

GEORGE MANNERS, the son and heir of Eleanor, the eldest sister, by Sir Robert Manners, knt., the two younger sisters having d. without issue; this nobleman was never summoned to parliament. His lordship m. Ann, only daughter and heiress of Sir Thomas St. Leger, knt., by Ann Plantagenet, sister of Edward the Fourth. He d. in 1513, and was succeeded by his son,

THOMAS, who was summoned to parliament 12th November, 1515, and created Earl of Rutland, 18th June, 1525, being also installed a knight of the most illustrious order of the Garter. His lordship d. in 1543, when the barony, with the earldom, descended to his son,

HENRY, by whom, in 1563, they were transmitted to his son,

EDWARD, who d. without male issue, in 1587, when the earldom of Rutland reverted to his brother, and the barony of de Roos descended to his only daughter and heiress,

ELIZABETH, who m. William Cecil, second Earl of Exeter. Her ladyship d. in 1591, and the barony of De Roos was confirmed to her son and heir,

WILLIAM CECIL, on the 22nd July, 1616. His lordship d. however, in two years afterwards, without male issue, (his father, the Earl of Exeter, being still living,) when the barony reverted to his cousin,

FRANCIS MANNERS, the sixth Earl of Rutland. This nobleman had previously contested it, as heir-general, and obtained, on the same day that it was confirmed to his cousin, a patent, creating himself, and his heirs male, Baron Roos, of Hamlake; he died in 1632, without male descendants, when the new barony was extinguished, but the old one devolved upon his only daughter and heiress,

KATHERINE, who m. George Villiers, first Duke of Buckingham. Her ladyship d. in 1666, and was succeeded in the barony by her eldest son,

GEORGE, second Duke of Buckingham, who d. in 1687, without male issue, when the barony fell into abeyance, between the heirs of Bridget, wife of Sir Robert Tyrwhitt, bart. and Frances, wife of William, Lord Willoughby, of Parham, sisters of Francis, sixth Earl of Rutland, and so continued, until terminated in favor of the present baroness, who is only daughter and heiress of the Honorable Robert-Boyle Walsingham, youngest son of Henry, Earl of Shannon, by Charlotte, daughter of Sir Charles-Hanbury Williams, bart. the descendant of the before-mentioned Frances, Lady Willoughby, of Parham.

DORSET, DUKE OF, (Charles-Sackville Germain,) Earl of Dorset and Middlesex, Viscount Sackville, Baron Buckhurst, Baron Cranfield, and Baron Bolebroke; b. 27th August, 1767; succeeded to the viscounty of Sackville and barony of Bolebroke, at the demise of his father, (the once celebrated Lord George Germaine,) 26th August, 1785, and to the dukedom and other hereditary honors of his family upon the death of his cousin, 14th February, 1815.

Lineage.

The Sackvilles, or Saukevilles, as the name was originally written, have been persons of considerable power, wealth, and influence, since the Conquest; and the house of Dorset can trace its foundation to

Sir Robert de Saukville, knight, third son of Herbrand de Salchevilla, one of the chieftains in the army of the Conqueror. From this Robert descended

Thomas Sackville, who was knighted, in the presence of Queen Elizabeth, by the Duke of Norfolk, 8th June, 1567, and, subsequently, on the same day, created a peer of the realm, as Baron Buckhurst. In 1594, his lordship was appointed lord high treasurer of England; and, on the 13th March, 1603, he was elevated to an earldom, as Earl of Dorset. He d. suddenly, at the council-table, at Whitehall, on the 19th April, 1608, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Robert, who enjoyed the family honors but a few months, and dying 25th February, 1608-9, was succeeded by his eldest son, by Mary, daughter of Thomas, Duke of Norfolk,

Richard, who d. in 1624, leaving two daughters only, when the family honors devolved upon his brother,

Edward, installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter; m. Mary, daughter and heiress of Sir George Curson, of Croxhall, by whom he had issue two sons. His lordship d. in 1652, and was succeeded by his eldest, and only surviving son,

Richard. This nobleman m. Frances Cranfield, eldest daughter of (and, ultimately, sole heiress of her brother) Lionel, Earl of Middlesex, by whom he had several children. His lordship d. in 1697, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Charles, K.G., who, succeeding also, in right of his mother, to the estates of the Earl of Middlesex, was created, 4th April, 1675, Earl of Middlesex, and Baron Cranfield. His lordship's second wife was Mary, daughter of James, Earl of Northampton, by whom, besides a daughter, he had his successor,

Lionel-Cranfield, K.G., b. 18th January, 1688; created Duke of Dorset, 7th June, 1720; fourteen years after, he inherited the family honors. His grace m. Elizabeth, daughter of Lieutenant-general Colyear, by whom he had issue Charles-John-Philip, and George, who, in 1770, assumed the name of Germain, and became celebrated, when Lord George Germain, both as a soldier and a politician. In the former character, however, he was less fortunate than in the latter, having incurred the displeasure of his commander-in-chief, Ferdinand, Prince of Brunswick, at the battle of Minden, and being subsequently censured by a court-martial, held at his own desire, upon returning to England. His lordship was endowed with extraordinary talents, and filled, subsequently to this unhappy affair, some of the highest offices in administration. He was elevated to the peerage, 11th February, 1782, as Baron Bolebroke, and Viscount Sackville. He m. Diana, second daughter and co-heiress of John Sambrooke, esq., by whom he had issue; and d. 26th August, 1785. Besides these sons, the Duke of the late Rev. Julius Hutchinson, of Woodhall Park, Herts, by whom he has issue Henry-Edward-Leigh, b. 17th August, 1818; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his brother, in 1818.

Lineage.

The family of Dryden, of which the celebrated John Dryden, the poet, was a member, obtained a baronetcy, on the 15th November, 1619, which continued for more than a century, when it ceased with Sir John Dryden, who died without issue. Elizabeth, sole heiress of this gentleman, and daughter of his brother Bevill Dryden, of Ore, Berkshire, having m. on the 14th June, 1781,

JOHN TURNER, esq. (brother of Sir Gregory-Page Turner, bart.) that gentleman, by royal permission, assumed the name and arms of Dryden only, 16th December, 1791; and was created a baronet, on the 2nd of May, 1795. Dying in two years afterwards, he was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN-EDWARD, who d. unmarried 29th Sept. 1818, when the title devolved upon his brother, the present baronet.

Country Seat—Canons-Ashby, Northamptonshire.

DUCIE, BARON, (Thomas-Reynolds Moreton,) of Fortworth, county of Gloucester, F.S.A.; b. 31st August, 1776; m. 5th December, 1797, Frances, only daughter of Henry, Earl of Carnarvon, by whom he has issue Henry-George-Francis, b. 8th May, 1802; another son, and four daughters. His lordship succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, 20th August, 1808.

Lineage.

ROBERT DUCIE, descended from a Norman family of distinction, having served the office of sheriff of London, in 1620, and being subsequently chosen alderman, was advanced to the dignity of a baronet, 28th November, 1629. In two years afterwards, (1631,) Sir Robert was elected to the civic chair, and served the high magisterial office of Lord Mayor of London. This gentleman accumulated immense wealth, for, although he lost above £80,000, by King Charles the First, whose banker he was, he is said, nevertheless, to have died worth £400,000. His second and eldest surviving son,

SIR WILLIAM, was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, as Viscount Downe, but dying without issue, the title ceased, and the estates descended to the only daughter of his younger brother, Robert,

ELIZABETH DUCIE, who m. Edward Moreton, esq., of Moreton and Engleton, in Staffordshire, by whom she had issue

MATTHEW-DUCIE MORETON, created 9th June, 1720, Lord Ducie, Baron of Moreton. His lordship d. 2nd May, 1735, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

MATTHEW, who was created Baron Ducie, of Fortworth, with remainder to his nephews, Thomas and Francis Reynolds. His lordship d. 25th December, 1770, when the barony of Ducie, of Moreton, became extinct; and that of Fortworth devolved upon his nephew,

THOMAS REYNOLDS, son of Eliza Moreton, by Thomas Reynolds, esq., who assumed, by act of parliament, in 1771, the name and arms of Moreton. Dying without issue, however, the barony devolved, in 1785, upon his brother,

FRANCIS REYNOLDS, who also assumed the name of Moreton. This nobleman, by his first wife, Mary, daughter of Thomas Purvis, esq. of Shepton Mallet, had issue the present peer, and another son: by his second marriage, he had no child.

Lineage.

WILLIAM WARD, (sixth son of Edward Ward, esq., of Bexley, in Norfolk,) an opulent goldsmith, in London, and jeweller to the queen of Charles the First, resided at Heal, in Staffordshire, and was succeeded in his extensive estates by his son,

HUMBLE WARD, who, m. in the lifetime of his father, Frances, daughter and heiress of Sir Fernando Sutton, and grand-daughter of Edward Sutton, Lord Dudley, who, upon the demise of her father, and grandfather, succeeded to the barony of Dudley, as

FRANCES, BARONESS DUDLEY, when her husband, Humble Ward, above mentioned, was first knighted, and, subsequently, 23rd March, 1644, elevated to the peerage, as

HUMBLE, BARON WARD, of Birmingham. His lordship d. 4th October, 1673, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

EDWARD, who, at the demise of his mother, in 1701, succeeded, also, to the barony of Dudley, and became Lord Dudley and Ward. His lordship d. in a few months afterwards, and was succeeded by his grandson,

EDWARD. This nobleman m. Diana, daughter of Thomas Howard, esq., of Ashsted, Surrey. His lordship d. during his minority, in 1704, and was succeeded by his posthumous son,

EDWARD, who d. unmarried, in 1731, when the family honors reverted to his uncle,

WILLIAM, who also dying unmarried, (in 1740) the baronies separated.

That of Dudley devolving upon his nephew,

FERNANDO-DUDLEY LEA, son of William Lea, esq., of Hales Owen Grange, in Shropshire, by Frances, only sister of the deceased lord. It fell, however, into abeyance, (as it so continues,) upon the demise of this nobleman, unmarried, 21st October, 1757.

And that of Ward descending to

JOHN WARD, of Sedgley Park, Staffordshire, great-grandson of the first Lord Ward, through his third son, William Ward, esq., of Willingworth. This nobleman was advanced to a viscounty, by letters patent, dated 23rd April, 1763, as Viscount Dudley and Ward. His lordship m. twice: first, Anna-Maria, daughter of Charles Bourchier, esq. of the city of Dublin, by whom he had one son; and, secondly, Mary, daughter and heiress of John Carver, esq., by whom he had two sons, the youngest of whom, William, only survived. His lordship d. in 1774, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN, who d. without issue, in 1788, when the family honors devolved upon his half-brother,

WILLIAM, b. 21st January, 1750; m. 1st August, 1780, Julia, second daughter of Godfrey Bosville, esq., of Gunthwaite, Yorkshire, by whom he had an only son, the present peer. His lordship was distinguished by the purest and most liberal benevolence of character. He d. 25th April, 1823.

DUNRAVEN, EARL OF, (Wyndham-Henry-Wyndham Quin,) Viscount Mountearl, Baron Adare, county of Limerick, and a baronet; b. 24th September, 1782; m. 27th December, 1810, Caroline, daughter and sole heiress of Thomas Wyndham, esq. of Dunraven Castle, Glamorganshire, in consequence of which marriage, he assumed, in 1815, by royal permission, the name of Wyndham, in addition to, and before, that of Quin: by this lady, his lordship has issue Edwin-Richard-Wyndham, Viscount Mountearl, b. 19th May, 1812, and a daughter, b. in 1814. The earl succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, in 1824.

Lord Dunraven being an Irish nobleman only, enjoys no hereditary seat in the legislature, and he is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

This is one of the very few families in the Irish peerage which claims a national descent, with what truth, however, it is not easy to determine, nor is it our province to inquire. We find, and we are satisfied with transmitting the information, that the Quins, according to Hibernian genealogical lore, deduce their surname from "Con Cead Caha," or, Con of the hundred battles, monarch of Ireland in the second century, and that this prince's grandson actually bore the cognomen of Quin, that is, the descendant of Con, when he wielded the sceptre in 254.

VALENTINE-RICHARD QUIN, esq., eldest son of Wyndham Quin, esq., of Adare, (whose mother was Mary, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Henry Windenham, esq., of the Court, county of Limerick,) was created a baronet of Great Britain, 24th March, 1781, and elevated to the peerage, 30th July, 1800, as Baron Adare; advanced to a viscounty, created Earl of Dunraven, 22nd January, 1816, as Viscount Mountearl; and 22nd January, 1822. His lordship m. twice: first, in 1777, Frances, daughter of Stephen, Earl of Ilchester, by whom he had issue, Wyndham-Henry, the present peer, another son, and two daughters; and, secondly, the widow of Colonel Blennerhasset, by whom he had no children. He d. 24th August, 1824.

CHRISTOPHER, that of Dunsany, of which he was created baron, in 1490; from this nobleman, the barony descended from father to son, until the accession of the tenth baron,

EDWARD, who inherited from his grandfather. His lordship dying unmarried, the barony devolved upon his brother,

RANDALL. This nobleman adhering to the falling fortunes of his legitimate sovereign, James the Second, was outlawed in 1691; but being included in the treaty of Limerick, his estates were restored; neglecting, however, the forms necessary to re-establish himself in the privileges of the peerage, neither his lordship nor his immediate descendants had a seat in the house of lords. EGREMONT, EARL OF, (George-O'Bryen Wyndham,) and Baron Cockermouth, both in the county of Cumberland, and a baronet; b. 18th December, 1751; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, 21st August, 1763.

Lineage.

This noble house deduces its descent from Dilwardus, an eminent Saxon, in the county of Norfolk, who, being possessed of an estate in Wymondham, (subsequently called Wyndham,) assumed, soon after the Norman Conquest, his surname therefrom.

Upon a descendant of this individual,

WILLIAM WYNDHAM, esq., a baronetcy was conferred, by Charles the Second, on the 9th of September, 1661, which he enjoyed twenty-two years, when, dying in 1683, he was succeeded by his third and eldest surviving son,

SIR EDWARD. This gentleman m. Catharine, daughter of Sir William-Levison Gower, baronet, by whom he had a son and a daughter, and was succeeded by the former,

SIR WILLIAM. This gentleman filled, in the reign of Queen Anne, the high stations of master of the buck hounds, secretary at war, and chancellor of the exchequer, and was sworn of her majesty's privy council. He m. twice; and, by his first lady, Catharine, second daughter of his grace, Charles, Duke of Somerset, had two sons and two daughters. His second son, inheriting the estate of his uncle, Henry, Earl of Thomond, bore the name and arms of O'Brien, and was created Earl of Thomond, in Ireland. Of Sir William's second marriage, with the Marchioness Dowager of Blandford, there was no issue. Sir William Wyndham was esteemed one of the most polished gentlemen and eloquent statesmen of his day. He d. on the 17th June, 1740, after a few days' illness, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR CHARLES, who also succeeded, upon the demise of his uncle, Algernon, Duke of Somerset, without male issue, on the 7th February, 1750, to the earldom of Egremont and barony of Cockermouth; his grace having obtained those titles by patent, dated the 3rd of October, 1749, with remainder to the sons of his sister, Lady Catharine Wyndham. Lord Eldon has, besides, another son, and two daughters.

Mr. Scott, son of Mr. William Scott, a gentleman engaged extensively in the coal trade, at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, having been bred to the legal profession, and having established a high legal reputation, was nominated solicitor-general in 1788, when he received the accustomary honor of knighthood. In 1793, he was appointed attorney general, and, in 1799, elevated to the bench and peerage, as lord chief-justice of the court of common pleas, and Baron Eldon, (the 18th July.) From this station, his lordship was advanced, in 1801, to the exalted dignity of lord high chancellor of Great Britain, and has since held the seals, with the interruption of only fourteen months, (from the 7th February, 1806, to the 1st April, 1807.) On the 6th of July, 1821, his lordship was advanced to a viscounty and earldom, as Viscount Encombe and Earl of Eldon.

sons and a daughter. Lord Elgin is a lieutenant-general in the army, and is celebrated for a splendid collection of Grecian antiques, which he procured during his residence as ambassador extraordinary in Turkey, and which are now deposited in the national museum, under the denomination of the "Elgin marbles."

This being a Scottish peerage only, it confers no hereditary seat in the legislature, but the present lord sits as one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

This noble family claims descent from the royal house of Bruce, and that claim is generally admitted. The first of its members ennobled, however, was

EDWARD BRUCE, esq. second son of Edward Bruce, of Blairhall, who, in consideration of the services rendered to James the First, (being that monarch's ambassador at the court of Elizabeth,) was elevated to the peerage, on the 8th July, 1604, as Baron Bruce, of Kinloss. His lordship m. Magdalen, daughter of Sir Alexander Clerk, by whom he had two sons, who both succeeded in turn to the peerage, and one daughter. He d. in 1610, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

EDWARD, who was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Bath. His lordship did not, however, long enjoy his honors, for he was killed in a duel, in 1613, by Sir Edward Sackville. Dying unmarried, the barony devolved upon his brother,

THOMAS, who was advanced to an earldom, 21st June, 1633, as Earl of Elgin, and created an English peer, on the 1st of August, 1641, as Baron Bruce, of Whorlton, county of York. His lordship d. in 1663, and was succeeded by his only son,

ROBERT, who, for his loyalty to the Charles's, was created, 18th March, 1663-4, Baron Bruce, of Skelton, county of York, Viscount Bruce, of Ampthill, county of Bedford, and Earl of Aylesbury. His lordship m. Diana, daughter of Henry, Earl of Stamford, by whom he had eight sons, and nine daughters. He d. in 1685, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

THOMAS. This nobleman m. twice, and had issue, by his first countess, Elizabeth, daughter of Henry, Lord Beauchamp, and heiress of her brother, William, Duke of Somerset, a son and a daughter; and by his second, Charlotte, Countess of Sannu, in Brabant, an only daughter. He d. in 1741, and was succeeded by his only son,

CHARLES, who had been called to the upper house in the lifetime of his father, by writ, in 1711, as Lord Bruce, of Whorlton. In April, 1746, his lordship obtained a new patent, creating him Baron Bruce, of Tottenham, county of Wilts, with remainder to his nephew, Thomas-Bruce Brudenell, the youngest son of his sister, Elizabeth, by George, Earl of Cardigan. The earl m. thrice, but leaving no surviving male issue, the earldom of Aylesbury, the viscounty of Bruce, of Ampthill, and the barony of Bruce, of Skelton, as well as that of Bruce, of Whorlton, became extinct at his decease, the 10th of February, 1747. The barony of Bruce, of Tottenham, devolved upon his nephew, and the Scottish honors reverted to his heir general,

CHARLES BRUCE, ninth Earl of Kincardine, the descendant of Sir George Bruce, of Carnock, younger brother of the first Lord Bruce, of Kinloss, (Edward, the grandson of this Sir George, was created, 26th December, 1647, Lord Bruce, of Torry, and Earl of Kincardine,) who then assumed the joint title of Earl of Elgin and Kincardine. His lordship m. in 1759, Martha, only child of Thomas White, esq. a banker in London, by whom he had issue William-Robert and Thomas, who both succeeded in turn to the title, besides five other children. The Countess of Elgin filled, with great credit to herself, the important station of governess to her Royal Highness the deeply-deplored Princess Charlotte of Wales; her ladyship d. in 1810. The earl d. thirty-nine years before, in 1771, and was succeeded by his eldest son, WILLIAM-ROBERT, who d. in a few months after his father, when the family honors devolved upon his brother, the present peer.

ELIBANK, BARON, (Alexander Murray,) of Elibank, in the county of Selkirk, and a baronet; m. in 1803, Jane, daughter of James Hamilton, esq. of Bachilton, by whom he has issue Alexander, b. 25th May, 1804, another son, and three daughters. His lordship succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, 24th September, 1820.

Lord Elibank, being a nobleman of Scotland only, enjoys no hereditary seat in the legislature, and his lordship is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

PATRICK MURRAY, esq. son of Sir Gideon Murray, (who was third son of Andrew Murray, of Blackbarony, and one of the lords of session, in 1613,) was created a baronet, 16th May, 1628, and elevated to the peerage, 18th March, 1643, as Baron Elibank, with remainder to his heirs male whatsoever. His lordship d. in 1650, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

PATRICK, who d. in 1661, and was succeeded by his son,

ALEXANDER. This nobleman d. in 1687, and was succeeded by his son, ALEXANDER, who m. Miss Stirling, of Edinburgh, by whom he had issue Patrick and George, successive barons; Gideon, a clergyman of the church of England, whose son, by Elizabeth, daughter of General Montolieu, became seventh baron; and eight other children. ELY, MARQUESS AND EARL OF, (John Loftus,) county of Wicklow; Viscount Loftus, of Ely; and Baron Loftus, of Loftus Hall, county of Wexford, in the peerage of Ireland; Baron Loftus, of Long Loftus, county of York, in that of England, and a baronet; K.P. and D.C.L.; b. 15th of February, 1770; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, in 1806; m. 22nd May, 1810, Anna-Maria, eldest daughter of Sir Henry-Watkin Dashwood, baronet, by whom he has issue John-Henry, Viscount Loftus, b. 19th January, 1814, and four other sons and three daughters. The Marquess is a privy councillor, in Ireland; governor of the county of Fermanagh, and colonel of the Wexford militia.

Lineage.

This is a very ancient Yorkshire family, said to have been of consideration in that county since the reign of Alfred. The name was, however, formerly spelt "Lofthouse," and the immediate ancestor of the present peer was

NICHOLAS LOFTUS, esq., (great-grandson of his grace Adam, (Lofthouse) Lord Archbishop of Dublin, (consecrated in 1567,) and lord-chancellor of Ireland from 1578 to 1605,) who was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, 5th October, 1751, as Baron Loftus, of Loftus Hall; and created, 19th July, 1756, Viscount Loftus, of Ely. His lordship m. twice, but had issue only by his first marriage, with Anne, daughter of William, Viscount Duncannon, namely, Nicholas and Henry, who became, successively, peers; Mary, m. to William Alcock, esq.; Anne, m. to Charles Tottenham, esq.; and Elizabeth, m. to Sir John Tottenham, bart. The viscount d. 31st December, 1763, and was succeeded by his eldest son, NICHOLAS, who was created Earl of Ely on the 25th October, 1766. His lordship d. upon the 31st of the same month, and was succeeded by his only son,

NICHOLAS, who d. unmarried, in 1769, when the earldom became extinct, and the viscounty and barony reverted to his uncle,

HENRY, b. 11th November, 1709, advanced to an earldom, as Earl of Ely, in 1771, and installed a knight of the most illustrious order of St. Patrick in 1783. His lordship m. twice, but having no issue, the titles all ceased at his demise, 8th May, 1783, but his estates devolved upon his nephew,

SIR CHARLES TOTTENHAM, baronet, who, upon inheriting, assumed the name and arms of Loftus, and was created in two years afterwards, 28th June, 1785, Baron Loftus, of Loftus Hall. On the 22nd December, 1789, his lordship was advanced to a viscounty, as Viscount Loftus, of Ely; on the 15th February, 1794, he was created Earl of Ely; on the 29th December, 1800, Marquess of Ely; and a peer of the empire at large, as Baron Loftus, of Long Loftus, on the 19th January, 1801. His lordship m. 23rd June, 1766, Jane, eldest daughter and coheiress of Robert Myhill, esq., by whom he had two sons, John, the present peer, and the Right Reverend Robert-Ponsonby, lord bishop of Clogher. He d. the 22nd March, 1806. The Marquess of Ely was a privy-councillor in Ireland, a knight of St. Patrick, and governor of the county of Wexford.

ERROL, EARL OF, (William-George-Hay Carr,) and Baron Hay; hereditary lord high-constable of Scotland; b. 21st February, 1801; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, 26th January, 1819; m. 4th December, 1820, Elizabeth Fitzclarence, third daughter of His Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence, by whom he has a son, Lord Hay, b. 3rd May, 1823. His lordship is one of the lords of the bed-chamber.

The Earl of Errol, being a Scottish nobleman only, has no hereditary seat in parliament, but he sits as one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

The noble houses of Earl and Tweedale are descended from a common ancestor, William de Haya, whose eldest son,

WILLIAM, obtained, about the close of the twelfth century, the lordship of Errol; from this personage directly descended

WILLIAM HAY, created, 17th March, 1452, Earl of Errol. His lordship d. in five years afterwards, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

NICHOLAS, who d. without issue, in 1470, when the family honors devolved upon his brother,

WILLIAM. This nobleman d. in 1506, and was succeeded by his son,

WILLIAM, killed at Flodden-Field, in 1513, and succeeded by his only son,

WILLIAM, who d. without male issue, when the family honors reverted to his cousin,

GEORGE, grandson of William, the third earl, through his second son, Thomas Hay, of Logyalmond. His lordship was succeeded by his eldest son,

ANDREW, who married his cousin, Jean, only daughter and sole heiress of William, the fifth earl, by whom he had an only son. He m. secondly, Agnes, daughter of George, Earl of Caithness, by whom, also, he had one son, George Hay, of Killour. His lordship was succeeded by his eldest son,

ERSKINE, SIR JAMES, baronet, of Torrie, county of Fife, succeeded to the title upon the demise of his brother, in 1813; m. Louisa, third daughter of the late Earl of Uxbridge, by whom he has no issue.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the noble house of Erskine, Earls of Mar. The first baronet, (created the 21st June, 1791,)

SIR WILLIAM ERSKINE, being directly descended from John, Earl of Mar, high-treasurer of Scotland, through his second son, Henry Erskine, Lord Cardross. Sir William was a military officer, and obtained his title as a recompense for the eminent services which he rendered in that capacity. He m. twice, and by his second wife, Frances, daughter of James Moray, esq., of Abercairney, and grand-daughter of Alexander, Earl of Eglinton, he had three sons and five daughters. He d. in 1795, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM, who adopted the profession of his father, and rose to the rank of lieutenant-general. He was actively engaged in the Peninsular War, and fell a victim to the fatigues of the campaign, a violent fever terminating his gallant career, at Brozes, on the 13th February, 1813. ESSEX, EARL OF, (George - Capell Coningsby,) Viscount Malden, of the county of Essex, and Baron Capell, of Hadham, in the county of Hertford; recorder and high-steward of Leominster; b. 13th November, 1758; m. in 1786, Mrs. Stephenson, relict of Edward Stephenson, esq., by whom he has no issue. His lordship succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 5th March, 1799, and assumed the name of Coningsby upon inheriting the estates of his grandmother, the Countess of Coningsby.

Lineage.

The founder of this noble family was

SIR WILLIAM CAPEL, knight, alderman of London, and lord-mayor in 1503. This gentleman accumulated considerable wealth, and, in consequence attracting the attention of Empson and Dudley, the well-known extortioners of Henry the Seventh, was fined 1600*l.*, to which he submitted; but to a second imposition of 2000*l.*, in some years afterwards, under the pretence that during his mayoralty he did not duly punish a party brought before him for coining, he demurred, for which he was committed to the Tower, and there remained until the death of the king. The great-great-great-great-grandson of this eminent citizen,

ARTHUR CAPEL, having represented the county of Hertford in parliament, was created, on the 6th August, 1641, Baron Capel, of Hadham. Attaching himself actively, upon the breaking out of the Civil War, to the cause of the king, he fell a victim, ultimately, to his loyalty, and was beheaded, in Old Palace Yard, on the 9th March, 1649. His lordship left four sons and six daughters, and was succeeded by the eldest,

ARTHUR, who, upon the Restoration, 20th April, 1661, was advanced to a viscounty and earldom, as

MATTHEW FETHERSTONHAUGH, esq., (the descendant of a very ancient family, which assumed that surname, in the reign of King Stephen, A.D., 1373, and obtained a baronetcy, in 1660,) having inherited the estates of his kinsman, Sir Henry Fetherstonhaugh, baronet, with an injunction to obtain a continuation of the title, was created a baronet, on the 3rd of January, 1747. He had m. on the 24th of the previous December, Sarah, only daughter of Christopher Lethieullier, esq., of Belmont, Hampshire, by whom he had an only son, the present baronet.

Country Seats—Harringbrook, Essex; Up-Park, Sussex; and Fetherstonhaugh Castle, Northumberland.

FETTES, SIR WILLIAM, baronet, of Comely Bank, county of Edinburgh; b. 25th June, 1750; m. Maria, daughter of Doctor John Malcolm, of Air, by whom he has an only son, William, b. 31st December, 1787. Mr. Fettes was created a baronet, on the 13th June, 1804.

Motto—Industry.

Country Seats—Comely-bank, Edinburgh; and Whampfrey, Dumfries.

FFRENCH, BARON, (Charles Ffrench,) of Castle Ffrench, county of Galway, and a baronet; b. 9th April, 1786; m. in 1809, Maria, eldest daughter of John Browne, esq. of Moyne, in the county of Galway, by whom he has an only daughter, b. in July, 1816. His lordship succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, 9th December, 1814.

This being an Irish barony, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament. The present peer being of the Roman Catholic persuasion, would, however, be excluded by the oaths of qualification, indispensible upon taking a seat in the legislature.

Lineage.

CHARLES FFRENCH, esq., of Castle Ffrench, was created a baronet, in 1779; he m. Rose Dillon, of the noble family of Dillon, Earls of Roscommon, by whom he had issue a son and two daughters. He d. in 1784, and his widow,

DAME ROSE FFRENCH, was advanced to the peerage of Ireland, on the 14th February, 1798, as Baroness Ffrench, of Castle Ffrench, with remainder to her children, by her late husband, Sir Charles Her ladyship d. on the 8th of December, 1805, and was succeeded by her only son,

SIR THOMAS FFRENCH, who had inherited the baronetcy upon the decease of his father. His lordship m. in 1785, Margaret, eldest daughter of Thomas Reddington, esq. of Kilconnan, by whom he had issue Charles, the present peer, and seven other children.

Motto, in English,
Death rather than dishonor.

FIFE, EARL OF, (James Duff,) Viscount Macduff, Baron Braco, of Kilbryde, county of Cavan, and lord-lieutenant of the county of Bamff; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, 16th April, 1811; m. Mary-Caroline, second daughter of Louisa, Countess of Dysart, by whom he had no issue; her ladyship d. in 1805. His lordship distinguished himself by his valour during the Peninsular War, having volunteered his services, and obtained the rank of major-general, in the Spanish patriotic army.

This being a peerage of Ireland only, it confers no hereditary seat in the legislature. The earl sits, however, in the house of commons, as representative of the county of Bamff.

By an article of the Union between Great Britain and Ireland, peers of the latter country, who relinquish their right to be elected representative peers, may sit as commoners in the lower house of parliament, for any part of the empire, but Ireland.

Lineage.

WILLIAM DUFF, esq., a descendant of Fyfe Macduff, who enjoyed considerable affluence and power, so far back as the 9th century, in the reign of Kenneth the Second, of Scotland, was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, by the Queen Regent Caroline, as Baron Braco, of Kilbrydé, on the 28th July, 1735; and advanced to a viscounty, and earldom, on the 26th April, 1759, by the titles of Viscount Mac Duff, and Earl of Fife. His lordship m. twice, and had issue by his second wife (only), Jane, daughter of Sir James Grant, baronet, seven sons, and as many daughters. He d. 30th September, 1763, and was succeeded by his second and eldest surviving son,

JAMES, who was created a peer of England, on the 19th February, 1790, as Baron Fife, but dying without male issue, in 1809, that barony became extinct, and the other titles devolved upon his brother,

ALEXANDER. His lordship m. Mary, daughter of George Skene, esq., of Skene, by whom he had issue James, the present peer, another son, Lieutenant General Duff, and four daughters.

Motto, in English,
By virtue and deeds.

FINGALL, EARL OF, (Arthur-James Plunkett,) Baron Killeen, of Killeen Castle, county of Meath, and a knight of the most illustrious order of St. Patrick; b. 9th September, 1759; m. in 1785, Frances, only daughter of John Donellan, esq., of Bally-Donnellan, county of Galway, by whom he has issue Arthur-James, Lord Killeen, b. 29th March, 1791, and a daughter, Harriet, m. to John Jones, jun., esq., of Llamarth Court, county of Monmouth. Lord Killeen m. in 1817, Louisa, only daughter of Elias Corbally, esq.

Lord Fingal, being a peer of Ireland only, enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament. His lordship, as a Roman Catholic, would, however, be excluded by the oaths still in force against those who profess the ancient faith of Christendom.

Lineage.

This noble family is descended from a common ancestor with the baronial houses of Louth and Dunsany. John Plunkett, of Bewley, county of Louth, whose eldest son, John's, descendant, Sir Oliver Plunkett, was created Baron Louth, and whose second son, Richard's, grandson,

SIR CHRISTOPHER PLUNKETT, knight, living in the reigns of Henry the Sixth and Edward the Fourth, m. Joan, only daughter and heiress of Sir Lucas Cusac, Lord of Killeen and Dunsany, by whom he had two sons, the younger of whom, Christopher, was the ancestor of the Lords Dunsany, and the elder,

JOHN, became lord of Killeen, a barony created in 1181. The seventh descendant from this nobleman, and inheritor of the barony,

LUCAS, was created, on the 26th September, 1628, Earl of Fingall. His lordship d. in 1637, and was succeeded by his son,

CHRISTOPHER, who was succeeded, in 1649, by his son,

FORTESCUE, EARL, (Hugh Fortescue,) Viscount Ebrington, of the county of Gloucester, and Baron Fortescue, of Castle Hill, in the county of Devon; lord-lieutenant and custos-rotulorum of Devonshire; F.S.A. and D.C.L.; b. 12th March, 1753; m. in 1782, Hester, sister of the late marquess of Buckingham, by whom he has issue Hugh, Viscount Ebrington, b. 13th February, 1783; Hester, m. to Lord King; and five other children. Lord Ebrington m. in 1817, Susan, eldest daughter of Dudly, Earl of Harrowby, and has issue. The earl succeeded to the barony of Fortescue at the demise of his father, on the 10th July, 1785, and was created Viscount Ebrington and Earl Fortescue on the 1st September, 1789.

Lineage.

This noble family deduces its origin from Sir Richard le Forte, a distinguished soldier in the invading army of William the Conqueror, who protected his royal master, at the celebrated battle of Hastings, by bearing a strong shield before him; from which event, the French word "escu" (a shield) has been added to the original name of "Forte." The son of this gallant warrior,

Sir Adam Fortescu, knight, being also a commanding officer in the same conflict, obtained, from the successful monarch, a grant of Winnonderton, or, as it is now written, Winston, in the county of Devon, of which he became lord. His grandson,

Sir John Fortescue, knight, being bred to the Bar, was lord chief-justice of England, 1442, and lord-chancellor in 1461. His lordship's son and heir,

Martin Fortescue, of Filleagh, in Devonshire, had two sons: from the younger, William, descended the Fortescues, who became Viscounts Clermont, in Ireland, and from the elder,

John, descended

Sir Hugh Fortescue, knight of the Bath, who was summoned to parliament, in 1721, as Lord Clinton, in right of his maternal great-grandmother, Margaret, daughter and co-heiress of Theophilus, Earl of Lincoln, and Baron Clinton. On the 5th of July, 1746, his lordship was created Earl Clinton, and Baron Fortescue, of Castle Hill, Devon; the barony of Fortescue to revert, in default of male issue, to his half-brother, Matthew Fortescue. The earl dying without male descendants, on the 3rd of May, 1751, the earldom was extinguished, and the barony devolved, according to the limitation of the patent, to

Matthew Fortescue. His lordship m. in the July following, Anne, second daughter of John Campbell, esq. of Calder, in Scotland, and of Stackpole-Court, Pembrokeshire, by whom he had issue Hugh, the present peer, and two other sons, and a daughter.

GORING, SIR CHARLES-FOSTER, baronet, of Highden, in the county of Sussex; m. Miss Dent, by whom he has issue Henry-Dent, and eight other children; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, Sir Harry.

Lineage.

This is a very ancient Sussex family, the members of which, in remote reigns, have filled important stations about the court, and, in more recent ones, have held high commissions in the army. It obtained the baronetcy, however, through Sir James Bowyer, of Lighthorn, in the county of Sussex, who procured a patent, in 1678, to entail his title (conferred upon his grandfather, in 1627,) upon

Henry Goring, esq. of Highden, with precedence, according to the date of the first creation. This gentleman, of course, succeeded Sir James; he m. Diana, daughter of Sir Edward Bishopp, baronet, and grand-daughter of Nicholas, first Earl of Thanet, by whom he had two sons, and was succeeded by his grandson, the son of Captain Goring,

Sir Charles. This gentleman dying without issue, the title devolved upon his half-brother,

SIR NIGEL. This gentleman m. Elizabeth, daughter of the Reverend Mr. Wynn, of Cheshire, by whom he had one son, and six daughters. He d. in 1787, and was succeeded by his only son,

SIR NIGEL-BOWYER, who m. twice: first, his cousin, Wilmot, only daughter of his uncle, Sir Thomas Gresley, and thus obtained the estates which had been separated from the title, upon the demise of that gentleman. By this union he had three daughters. Her ladyship dying in 1790, he m. secondly, in 1796, Maria-Eliza, daughter and heiress of Caleb Gat way, esq. of Worcester, by whom he had issue Roger, the present baronet, another son, and two daughters. Sir Nigel d. on the 26th March, 1808.

Motto, in English,

Faith superior to fortune.

Country Seats—Drakelow, Derbyshire; and Knipersley, in the county of Stafford.

GREY, EARL, (Charles Grey,) Viscount Howick, and Baron Grey, of Howick, in the county of Northumberland, and a baronet; b. 13th March, 1764; m. 18th November, 1794, Mary-Elizabeth, daughter of William-Brabazon, Lord Ponsonby, by whom he has issue Henry, Viscount Howick, b. 28th December, 1802, six other sons and five daughters. His lordship's eldest daughter, Louisa-Elizabeth, is m. to John-George Lambton, esq. of Lambton, M.P. for the county of Durham. The earl succeeded to the peerage upon the demise of his father, on the 14th November, 1807; and to the baronetcy, upon the decease of his uncle, Sir Henry Grey, of Howick, in 1808.

Lineage.

GENERAL SIR CHARLES GREY, K.B., brother of Sir Henry Grey, baronet, of Howick, in the county of Northumberland, (descended from a common ancestor with the (extinct) Barons Grey, of Werke, the last of whom, d. in 1706,) having distinguished

GREY DE RUTHYN, BARONESS, (Barbara Yelverton,) b. in 1810; succeeded to the title in the same year, (7th Nov. 1810,) upon the demise of her father.

Lineage.

This barony was created, by summons, on the 30th of December, 1324, when

ROGER DE GREY, of Ruthyn, younger son of John, Lord Grey, was called to parliament, by writ, as Baron de Grey, of Ruthyn. His lordship d. in 1353, when the barony was inherited by his son and heir,

REGINALD, who d. in 1388, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

REGINALD; to whom succeeded, in 1400, his grandson,

EDMUND, created Earl of Kent, on the 3rd of May, 1465, in which title, the barony merged for 174 years, until the earldom became extinct at the demise of

HENRY, eighth earl, and eleventh baron, without male issue, in 1639. His lordship's great-grandfather, Henry-Grey, fourth earl and seventh baron, never used any title, in consequence of his poverty. Upon the demise of the last Earl of Kent, his nephew, (the son of his lordship's sister, Susan, who m. Sir Michael Longueville,)

CHARLES LONGUEVILLE, claimed the barony, and had his claim admitted, in 1640. His lordship d. in three years afterwards, and was succeeded by his only daughter and heiress,

SUSAN, who thus became Baroness Grey de Ruthyn. Her ladyship m. Sir Henry Yelverton, baronet, of Easton Mauduit, in the county of Northampton, and dying, in 1676, was succeeded by her son,

SIR CHARLES YELVERTON, bart., who d. unmarried, in 1679, when the family honors devolved upon his brother,

SIR HENRY, created on the 21st of April, 1690, Viscount Longueville. His lordship d. 1704, and was succeeded by his son,

TALBOT, who was advanced to an earldom, as Earl of Sussex, on the 26th September, 1717. His lordship d. in 1731, and was succeeded by his son,

GEORGE-AUGUSTUS. This nobleman d. unmarried, in 1758, when the family honors devolved upon his brother,

HENRY, b. in 1729. His lordship m. twice: first, Hesther, daughter of John Hall, esq. of Mansfield Woodhouse, by whom he had a son, who d. in infancy, and a daughter, Barbara, who m. in 1775, Edward-Thornton Gould, esq., and d. in the lifetime of her father, leaving issue a son and three daughters; and secondly, Mary, daughter of John Vaughan, esq. of Bristol, by whom he had no child. His lordship dying, thus, without male descendants, in 1799, the earldom of Sussex and the viscounty of Longueville were extinguished, but the barony of Grey de Ruthyn devolved upon the son of his daughter, his lordship's grandson,

HENRY-EDWARD GOULD, who assumed, in 1800, the name and arms of Yelverton, in place of those of his paternal family. His lordship m. in 1809, Anna-Maria, daughter of William Kellam, esq. of Ryton-upon-Dunsmore, in the county of Warwick, by whom he had an only child and heiress, Barbara, the present baroness.

Country Seat—Brandon House, Warwickshire.

GREY, THE HONORABLE SIR GEO., baronet, and a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath; b. 10th of October, 1767; m. in 1795, Mary, daughter of Samuel Whitbread, senr., esq., and sister of the late member for Bedford, by whom he has issue George, b. 11th May, 1799, another son and three daughters. This gentleman, who is the fourth son of the late Earl Grey, and brother of the present, and a captain in the royal navy, was created a baronet, on the 29th July, 1814.

Motto, in English,

To serve the king with a free will.

GRIMSTON, VISCOUNT, (James-Walter Grimston,) and Baron Dunboyne, in the peerage of Ireland.

See, Earl of Verulam.

GRINSTEAD, BARON, (John-Willoughby Cole,) of Grinstead, in the county of Wilts; created 18th July, 1815.

See, Earl of Enniskillen.

GROSVENOR, EARL, (Robert Grosvenor,) Viscount Belgrave, Baron Grosvenor, of Eaton, in the county Palatine of Chester, and a baronet; b. 22nd March, 1767; m. in 1794, Eleanor, daughter and sole heiress of Thomas,

Digitized by Google

Earl of Wilton, by whom he has issue Richard, Viscount Belgrave, b. 27th January, 1795, (m. in 1819, Elizabeth-Maria, youngest daughter of the present Marquess of Stafford,) and another son and daughter. The earl succeeded to his family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 5th of August, 1802. His lordship is lord-lieutenant of the county of Flint.

Lineage.

This noble family traces its descent in the male line, to an illustrious house, which flourished in Normandy, for a century and a half before the conquest of England, and obtained its surname, from having held the high and powerful office in that principality of Le Grovenour. The founder of the family, Gilbert Le Grosvenor, came to England, in the train of the Conqueror, and was nephew of Hugh Lupus, Count of Avranches, and, subsequently, Earl of Chester, uncle of the victorious monarch. The immediate ancestor of the present earl, however, was

RICHARD GROSVENOR, second and eldest surviving son of Richard Grosvenor, esq. of Eaton, who was created a baronet, on the 23rd February, 1721-2, and from whom directly descended

SIR RICHARD GROSVENOR, the seventh baronet. This gentleman was elevated to the peerage, by patent, dated 8th April, 1761, as Baron Grosvenor, of Eaton, in the county palatine of Chester, and obtained a viscounty and earldom upon the 5th of July, 1784, by the titles of Viscount Belgrave, of the county of Chester, and Earl Grosvenor. His lordship m. in 1764, Henrietta, daughter of Henry Vernon, esq., by whom he had an only son, Robert, the present earl.

Motto,

Town Residence—83, Upper Grosvenor-street.

Country Seats—Eaton Hall, Cheshire; Halkin, Flintshire.

GUILFORD, EARL OF, (Frederick North,) and Baron Guilford, of Guilford, in the county of Surrey; b. in February, 1766; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his brother, in 1817.

Lineage.

SIR EDWARD NORTH, knight, a lawyer of eminence during the reign of Henry the Eighth, and one of the executors of that monarch's will, was summoned to parliament, by writ, dated the 17th of February, 1553, as Baron North, of Kirtling, in the county of Cambridge. His lordship d. in 1600, and was succeeded by his grandson,

DUDLEY, who was succeeded in 1666, by his son,

DUDLEY. This nobleman m. Anne, daughter and coheiress of Sir Charles Montague, by whom he had twelve children, the eldest of whom,

CHARLES, succeeded at his demise; and to him succeeded his only son,

WILLIAM, who d. without issue, in 1734, when the barony devolved upon his cousin,

FRANCIS, third Baron Guilford. This nobleman was grandson of Francis North, (second son of Dudley, Baron North, by Anne Montague,) who having adopted the legal profession, filled, successively, the offices of solicitor and attorney-general, lord chief-justice of the court of common pleas, and lord-keeper of the great seal, between the years 1671 and 1682. In 1671, he received the honor of knighthood; and by letters patent, dated 27th September, 1683, was elevated to the peerage, as Baron Guilford, of Guilford, in the county of Surrey. His lordship d. in 1685, and was succeeded by his son, Francis, who was succeeded by his son, Francis, who inherited, as above, the ancient barony of his family. His lordship was b. in 1704, and he m. in 1728, Lucy, daughter of George, Earl of Halifax, by whom he had one son, Frederick, his successor. He m. secondly, in 1736, Elizabeth, Viscountess-dowager of Lewisham, daughter of Sir Arthur Kaye, by whom he had five children; and thirdly, Catharine, Countess-dowager of Rockingham, by whom he had no issue. His lordship was created Earl of Guilford, by letters patent, dated 8th of April, 1752; and dying, in 1790, was succeeded by his son,

FREDERICK. This nobleman was installed a knight of the most illustrious order of the Garter, and filled the highest official stations, between the years 1759 and 1770, being prime minister of Great Britain within that period. His lordship m. in 1756, Anne, daughter and sole heiress of George Speke, esq., by whom he had issue George-Augustus, his successor; Francis, late earl; Frederick, the present, and three other children. The earl d. on the 5th August, 1792, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GEORGE-AUGUSTUS. This nobleman m. twice: first, in 1785, Maria-Frances-Mary, daughter of George, Earl of Buckinghamshire, by whom he had a daughter; and secondly, Susan, daughter of Thomas Coutts, esq., the late opulent banker, by whom he had two more daughters, between whom the ancient barons of North and Kirtling fell into abeyance upon his lordship's demise, in 1802, and the other titles devolved upon his brother, FREDERICK, who d. without issue, in 1817, when they descended to his brother, the present peer.

Motto, in English,

By courage and faith;—and,
Virtue is the only true nobility.

Country Seat—Horton, Northamptonshire.

GWYDIR, BARON, (Peter-Robert-Drummond Burrell,) of Gwydir, in the county of Carnarvon, and a baronet; b. in March, 1782; m. on the 20th October, 1807, Clementine-Sarah, daughter and sole heiress of James Drummond, Lord Perth, by whom he has issue three daughters. In consequence of this union, his lordship assumed, by royal permission, on the 5th of November succeeding his marriage, the name and arms of Drummond, in addition to those of his own family, Burrell. He succeeded to the barony upon the demise of his father, on the 29th June, 1820, and, also, to the deputy-great chamberlainship of England.

Lineage.

MERRICK BURRELL, esq., second son of Peter Burrell, esq. of Beckingham, in the county of Kent, was created a baronet, on the 15th of July, 1765, with remainder, in default of male issue, to his elder brother and his heirs male. Sir Merrick dying childless, in 1787, the title devolved upon his grand-nephew,

SIR PETER BURRELL, (grandson of Peter Burrell, an eminent merchant and sub-governor of the South Sea Company,) who received the honor of knighthood, in 1781, upon officiating as deputy grand chamberlain, at the trial of Warren Hastings, esq.; and was elevated to the peerage, by the title of Baron Gwydir, of Gwydir, in the county of Carnarvon, on the 16th June, 1796. His lordship m. in 1779, Priscilla-Barbara-Elizabeth Lindsey, Baroness Willoughby D'Eresby, in her own right, eldest daughter of Peregrine, third Duke of Ancaster, and sister and co-heiress of Robert, fourth Duke, hereditary grand chamberlain of England, by whom he had issue Peter-Robert, the present peer, two other sons, and a daughter. HADDINGTON, EARL OF, (Charles Hamilton,) Baron of Binning, and hereditary keeper of Holyrood Park; b. in 1753; m. in 1779, Sophia, daughter of John, second Earl of Hopetoun, by whom he has an only son, Thomas, Lord Binning, b. in 1780, and m. in 1802, to Maria, only daughter of George, present Earl of Macclesfield. The earl succeeded to the family honors at the demise of his father, on the 19th of May, 1794, and was nominated lord-lieutenant of the county of Haddington.

This being a peerage of Scotland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient ducal house of Hamilton, and was ennobled in the person of

THOMAS HAMILTON, esq., son of Sir Thomas Hamilton, knt. of Priestfield; one of the lords of session, who, being bred to the bar, and advanced to the most important legal offices in Scotland, was created Baron Binning, on the 30th of November, 1613, and Earl of Haddington, on the 28th of March, 1619. His lordship m. first, Miss Bothwick, by whom he had an only daughter; secondly, Miss Foulis, daughter of Sir James Foulis, baronet, by whom he had three sons and three daughters; and thirdly, Miss Ker, by whom he had no issue. He was succeeded by his eldest son,

THOMAS, who m. first, Catharine, fourth daughter of John Earl of Mar, by whom he had four sons and a daughter; and secondly, Jane, third daughter of George, Marquess of Huntley, by whom he left one (posthumous) daughter. His lordship having actively espoused the cause of the Covenanters, was unfortunately blown up in the Castle of Dunglas, of which he was governor, on the 30th of August, 1640, (by treachery, it is supposed,) with several of his kindred and adherents. He was succeeded by his eldest son,

THOMAS, who d. during his minority, in 1645, having previously m. the celebrated and beautiful Henrietta de Coligny, eldest daughter of Gaspard, Compte de Coligny, by whom he had no issue, and, in consequence, the family honors devolved upon his brother,

JOHN. This nobleman d. in 1669, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

CHARLES, who m. in 1674, Margaret, eldest daughter of John, Duke of Rothes, lord chancellor of Scotland, who, upon the demise of her father, without male issue, in 1681, (when the dukedom ceased) became Countess of Rothes. To prevent the junction of the two earldoms, it was contracted, at the period of her ladyship's nuptials with the Earl of Haddington, that the earldom of Rothes should be inherited by the eldest son of the marriage, and the earldom of Haddington, by the second; in consequence of which contract, Lord Haddington was succeeded at his demise, in 1685, by his second son,

THOMAS, who obtained a charter of the earldom of Haddington, on the 25th of February, 1687, and was, also, appointed by charter, on the 23rd of Jan. 1691, hereditary keeper of Holyrood Park. His lordship d. in 1735, and was succeeded by his grandson,

THOMAS. His lordship m. twice: first, in 1750, Mary, daughter of Rowland Holt, esq. of Redgrave, in the county of Suffolk, by whom he had Thomas, the present earl, and another son; and, secondly, in 1786, Anne, eldest daughter of Sir Charles Gascoigne, knight, by whom he had an only daughter. He d. on the 19th of May, 1794.

Motto, in English,

Undertake and persevere.

Country Seat—Tyningham Castle, Haddingtonshire.

HAGGERSTON, SIR CARNABY, baronet, of Haggerston Castle, in the county of Northumberland; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, in 1777; m. Frances, daughter of Waller Smythe, esq., and granddaughter of Sir John Smythe, bart. of Espe, in the county of Durham, by whom he has an only child, Mary, the wife of Sir Thomas Stanley, bart. of Horton, in the county of Chester.

Lineage.

THOMAS HAGGERSTON, esq. commanding officer of a regiment in the service of King Charles the First, was created a baronet on the 15th of August, 1643. He m. Alice, daughter and heiress of Henry Banaster, esq. of Bank, in the county of Lancaster, by whom he had two sons and four daughters, and was succeeded by the second, and eldest surviving, son,

SIR THOMAS. This gentleman m. twice; first, Margaret, daughter of Sir Francis Howard, knight, of Corby Castle, by whom he had nine sons and a daughter; and, secondly, Jane, daughter and heiress of Sir William Carnaby, by whom he had no child. Sir Thomas's eldest son, Thomas, fell in the service of James the Second, in Ireland; the third, fourth, and fifth sons, became clergymen of the church of Rome, (the family still adhering to that faith,) while the second son, William, m. Anne, daughter of Sir Philip Constable, bart., and dying before his father, left, besides three daughters, a son,

SIR CARNABY, who succeeded to the title upon the demise of his grandfather, Sir Thomas. This gentleman m. Miss Elizabeth Middleton, of Stockhill, in the county of York, by whom he had three sons and three daughters. He d. in 1756, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR THOMAS, who had married, two years previously, Mary, daughter of George Silvertop, esq. of the county of Northumberland, by whom he had three sons, the eldest of whom, Carnaby, is the present baronet; and two daughters. He d. on the 1st November, 1777.

Country Seat—Haggerston Castle, Northumberland.

HALES, SIR EDWARD, baronet, of Woodchurch, in the county of Kent; m. in 1789, Lucy, second daughter of Henry Darell, esquire, of Colehill, by whom he has no issue; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, in 1802.

Lineage.

This is one of the oldest baronetcies, being conferred in the second creation after the institution of the order, on the 29th June, 1611, upon

EDWARD HALES, esq. (a descendant of Sir James Hales, knight, one of the judges of the court of common-pleas, in the reign of Henry the Eighth.) This gentleman d. in 1654, and was succeeded by his grandson,

SIR EDWARD, an active adherent of Charles the First. He d. in France, a few years after the Restoration, and was succeeded by his son,

SIR EDWARD. This gentleman espousing the cause of James the Second, (under whom he had risen to the command of a regiment, was sworn of the privy-council, and nominated lieutenant-governor of the Tower,) was thrown into prison for a year and a half after the Revolution. Obtaining, at length, his liberty, he joined his royal master in France, and was created by him Earl of Tenterden, in the county of Kent. He d. in 1695, and was succeeded in the baronetcy by his second and eldest surviving son, (the eldest, Edward, fell at the battle of the Boyne,)

SIR JOHN, who m. first, Helen, daughter of Sir Richard Bealing, by whom he had two sons; and, secondly, Helen, daughter of Dudley Bagnal, esq. of Newry, by whom he had three sons. He d. in 1744, and was succeeded by the son of his second son, his grandson,

SIR EDWARD. This gentleman m. twice: first, Winifred, fourth daughter of Sir John Webb, bart., by whom he had Edward, the present baronet, and other children; and, secondly, Mrs. Palmer, by whom he had no children. He d. in August, 1802.

county of Nottingham, by whom he had an only daughter. Sir Philip d. on the 12th of April, 1824, when it is presumed that the baronetcy, which was created on the 12th of June, 1660, became extinct.

HALFORD, SIR HENRY, baronet, of Penton, in the county of Lincoln; m. in 1795, Elizabeth - Barbara, third daughter of John, Lord St. John, of Bletshoe, by whom he has issue Henry, b. the 22nd August, 1797, who m. in July, 1824, Barbara, daughter of Mr. Serjeant Vaughan; and a daughter, b. in 1796, the wife of Frederick Coventry, esq. the nephew of the Earl of Coventry. This gentleman is the second son of Doctor John Vaughan, of Leicester, by Hester, daughter of Alderman Smalley, of the same place, grand-daughter of Sir Richard Halford, bart., and first-cousin of Sir Charles Halford, with whom that title ceased.

Mr. Vaughan being bred to the profession of medicine, was appointed physician-extraordinary to his late majesty King George the Third, (in which situation he continues with the present king,) and created a baronet on the 27th of September, 1809. Succeeding, subsequently, to the estates of Sir Charles Halford, Sir Henry Vaughan, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of that gentleman, assumed, by permission of parliament, in 1815, the name and arms of Halford only.

Country Seat—Weston Hall, Market Harborough, Leicestershire.

HALTON, SIR WILLIAM, baronet, of Samford, in the county of Essex; b. the 15th November, 1746; m. Mary, daughter of Michael Garner, esq. of King's Ripton, in the county of Huntingdon, by whom he has issue William, b. 18th October, 1769. He had a daughter, Mary, who became the wife of John Houghton James, esq. of Jamaica, and d. in 1808, leaving four sons and as many daughters, of whom the second daughter m. Sir Simon-Houghton Clarke, bart. Sir William Halton succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, in 1776.

Lineage.

WILLIAM HALTON, esq. was created a baronet on the 10th September, 1642, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM, who was succeeded, in 1662, by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM. This gentleman dying unmarried in 1675, the title devolved upon his half-brother,

SIR THOMAS, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of John Cresener, esq., and had several children, the eldest of whom,

SIR WILLIAM, succeeded, in 1726, at his father's demise, but dying without issue in 1754, the title devolved upon his kinsman,

SIR THOMAS, great-grandson of the first baronet, through his third son, Richard. This gentleman m. Miss Burton, of London, by whom, with other children, he had his successor, the present baronet.

Country Seat—Reach, Huntingdonshire.

HAMILTON, DUKE OF, (Alexander Hamilton,) Marquess of Hamilton, in the county of Lanark, Marquess of Douglas and Clydesdale, Earl of Angus, Arran, and Lanark, Lord of Macanshire, Polmont, Abernethy, and Aberbrothock, in the peerage of Scotland; Duke of Brandon, in the county of Suffolk, and Baron Dulton, in the county of Chester, in the peerage of England; and a nobleman of France, as Duke of Chatelherault; lord-lieutenant of Lanarkshire, and hereditary keeper of Holyrood-House; F.R. and S.A.; b. the 3rd of October, 1767; m. in 1810, Susan-Euphemia, daughter of William Beckford, esq. late of Fonthill Abbey, in the county of Wilts, by whom he has a son, William-Anthony-Archibald, Earl of Angus and Arran, b. 15th February, 1811, and a daughter, b. June, 1814. His grace succeeded to the honors of his father, on the 16th of February, 1819.

Lineage.

This illustrious family is said to be descended from William de Hameldon, one of the younger sons of Robert de Bellomont, Earl of Leicester; but it can be traced to

DAVID, son of Walter de Hameldun, one of the persons who took the oath of allegiance to Edward the First, in 1292. From this gentleman descended

SIR JAMES HAMELTON, of Cadyow, created a lord of parliament on the 28th of June, 1445, and succeeded, in 1479, by his only son,

JAMES, who was advanced to an earldom, on the 11th August, 1503, as Earl of Arran, and was succeeded, in 1530, by his only son,

JAMES. This nobleman having been declared by the parliament of Scotland, in 1543, heir-presumptive to the crown of that kingdom, was, in consequence thereof, appointed tutor to Queen Mary, and governor of the realm during her majesty's minority. In five years afterwards, his lordship was invested with the French order of St. Michael, and created, by Henry the Second, of France, Duke of Chatelherault, in Poitou. His grace m. Margaret, eldest daughter of James, third Earl of Morton, and d. on the 22nd of January, 1575, when he was succeeded in his honors by his eldest son,

JAMES; but, in consequence of the insanity of that nobleman, his grace's estates descended to his second son,

THE HONORABLE JOHN HAMILTON, who, with his younger brother, Claude, was banished from Scotland in 1579; but, returning in 1585, the act of forfeiture was annulled, and he was elevated to the peerage, on the 17th of April, 1599, as Marquess of Hamilton. His lordship died on the 12th of April, 1604, and was succeeded by his only son,

JAMES, K.G., who, upon the demise of his uncle, James, Earl of Arran (already mentioned as insane) and Duke of Chatelherault, in 1609, succeeded to the family honors. His lordship obtained an English peerage, on the 16th June, 1619, by the titles of Baron Ennerdale, and Earl of Cambridge. He m. Anne, daughter of James, Earl of Glencairne, by whom he had two sons and three daughters. He d. in 1625, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JAMES, K.G., who was created, on the 17th June, 1633, Marquess of Clydesdale; and, on the 12th of April, 1643, Duke of Hamilton. His grace espousing warmly and actively the cause of his royal master, Charles the First, was defeated and taken prisoner at the battle of Preston, and suffered decapitation, in Old Palace Yard, on the 9th of March, 1648. He had m. Mary, daughter of William, first Earl of Denbigh, by whom he had four sons, who d. in infancy, and two daughters, Anne, and Susanna, who m. John, Earl of Cassilis. His grace was succeeded by his brother,

WILLIAM, who had himself been elevated to the peerage, on the 31st of March, 1639, as Lord Macanshire and Polmont, and Earl of Lanarkshire. His grace m. Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of James, Earl of Dirleton, by whom he had a son, who d. in infancy, and five daughters. The duke received a mortal wound in the service of Charles the Second, at the unfortunate battle of Worcester, and dying without male issue, his English titles were extinguished, but the dukedom of Hamilton, &c. devolved upon (the daughter of the late duke) his niece,

ANN, who m.

WILLIAM DOUGLAS, eldest son of William, first Marquess of Douglas, and obtained, by petition, for him, after her marriage, the title of Duke of Hamilton, for life. He had been previously elevated to the peerage as Earl of Selkirk. The issue of this marriage were seven sons and three daughters. His grace d. in 1694, and was succeeded in the earldom of Selkirk by his eldest son,

JAMES, to whom the duchess, a few years afterwards, surrendered her title, and his grace obtained an English peerage, upon the 11th of September, 1711, as Baron Dulton, in the county of Chester, and Duke of Brandon, in the county of Suffolk; but, upon applying for his seat in the house of lords, it was objected that, by the twenty-third article of Union, "no peer of Scotland could, after the Union, be created a peer of England;" and the house of lords so resolved, after a protracted debate, on the 30th December, 1710. His grace m. first, Anne, daughter of Robert, Earl of Sunderland, by whom he had two daughters; and, secondly, Elizabeth, daughter and sole heiress of Digby, Lord Gerrard, of Bromley, by whom he had seven children. The duke having accepted a challenge from Charles, Lord Mohun, engaged that nobleman in Hyde Park, on Sunday, the 15th of November, 1712; and, having slain his opponent, fell himself, it was suspected, through the treachery of General Macartney, Lord Mohun's second, for whose apprehension a reward of 500*l.* was subsequently offered. His grace was succeeded by his son,

JAMES. This nobleman m. thrice. By his first wife, Anne, daughter of John, Earl of Dundonald, he had an only son, his successor; by the second, Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Strangways, esq. of Melbury Samford, in the county of Dorset, he had no issue; and by the third, Elizabeth, daughter and sole heiress of Edward Spencer, esq. of Rendlesham, he had two sons and a daughter. His grace d. in 1742, and was succeeded by his son,

JAMES, who m. in 1752, Elizabeth second daughter of John Gunning, esq. of the county of Roscommon, in Ireland, by whom he had two sons and a daughter. His grace d. in 1758, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JAMES-GEORGE, who succeeded to the marquesate of Douglas, and earldom of Angus, (the latter created on the 9th of April, 1389,) upon the demise of Archibald, last Duke of Douglas, in 1761. His grace dying unmarried, in 1769, the family honors devolved upon his brother,

DOUGLAS, who, in 1782, again mooted the point decided against his predecessor, in 1710, relative to his seat in the house of lords; and obtaining, after the opinion of the judges was taken, a resolution in his favour, was summoned, as Duke of Brandon. His grace dying without issue, in 1799, the family honors reverted to his uncle,

ARCHIBALD, eldest son, by his second wife, of James, fifth Duke of Hamilton. His grace m. Harriet, daughter of Alexander, Earl of Galloway, by whom he had issue Alexander, the present duke, (summoned to the house of lords, in the lifetime of his father, as Baron Dulton,) another son, and three daughters. The duke d. on the 16th of February, 1819.

HARCOURT, EARL AND VISCOUNT OF, (William Harcourt,) Viscount Nuneham, and Baron Harcourt, of Stanton-Harcourt, in the county of Oxford; b. 20th March, 1743; m. in 1778, Mary, relict of Thomas Lockhart, esq., and eldest daughter of the Reverend Doctor Danby, by whom he has no issue. His lordship succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his brother, in April, 1809. The Earl of Harcourt is a general officer in the army, colonel of the 16th regiment of dragoons, and a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath. His lordship is also deputy-lieutenant of Windsor Forest, and deputy-ranger of Windsor Great Park.

Lineage.

This ancient and distinguished family traces its pedigree to Bernard, a nobleman of the royal blood of Saxony, who obtained in 876, when Rollo, the Dane, made himself master of Normandy, the lordships of Harcourt, Cailleville, and Beanfeel, in that province. From this nobleman descended

ERRAND DE HARCOURT, commander of the archers of Val de Ruel, in the army which successfully invaded England, in 1066, under William the Conqueror. The second son of this warrior, Robert de Harcourt, is said to be the ancestor of the present Earl of Harcourt, but the immediate founder of the honors of the family was

SIMON HARCOURT, esq., a lawyer of eminence, who filled the offices of solicitor and attorney-general, with little interruption, from 1702, (when he was knighted,) until 1710, when he was nominated lord-keeper of the great seal, and sworn a member of the privy council. In the following year, 3rd September, 1711, he was elevated to the peerage, by the title of Baron Harcourt, of Stanton Harcourt; and on the 7th of April, 1712, declared lord high chancellor of Great Britain, which exalted station he continued to fill, until the accession of George the First, in 1714. On the 24th of July, 1721, he was created Viscount Harcourt, and, in the following month, again called to the council board. His lordship m. thrice, but had issue only by his first wife, Rebecca, daughter of Thomas Clark, esq., viz. three sons and two daughters. He d. on the 29th of July, 1727, and was succeeded by his grandson, (the son of his eldest son)

SIMON, who was created, on the 1st of December, 1749, Viscount Nuneham, of Nuneham-Courtney; and Earl of Harcourt, of Stanton Harcourt. His lordship m. in 1735, Rebecca, only daughter and heiress of Charles Le Bass, esq. of Pipwell Abbey, in the county of Northampton, by whom he had issue George-Simon, his successor, William, the present earl, and two daughters. The earl filled some high diplomatic stations during the reigns of George the Second, and his successor; and was viceroy of Ireland, in the year 1772. He lost his life, on the 16th September, 1777, by unfortunately falling into a well, in his own Park, at Nuneham, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GEORGE SIMON, who d. without issue, in April, 1809, when the family honors devolved upon his brother, the present peer.

Lineage.

This branch of the distinguished house of Stanhope, Earls of Chesterfield, was ennobled in the person of

WILLIAM STANHOPE, esq., great-great-grandson of Sir John Stanhope, knt., through Sir John Stanhope, knt., of Elvaston, in the county of Derby, one of the sons of his second marriage, (the eldest son of his first marriage, Philip, was created Earl of Chesterfield,) a distinguished soldier and statesman during the reigns of the two first sovereigns of the house of Brunswick, from the year 1715 to 1729. He was engaged in diplomatic missions of the utmost importance, and having concluded, in the latter year, the pacific treaty of Seville, (commenced at the Congress of Soissons,) he was elevated to the peerage, on the 20th of November, 1729, by the title of Baron Harrington, of Harrington, in the county of Northampton, (which barony had been formerly enjoyed by a branch of the family, but was extinguished at the demise of the second baron, without male issue, in 1647.) In 1730, his lordship was nominated principal secretary of state, and continued to hold the seals, until a change of ministry took place, in 1741, when he was appointed lord-president of the council, and on the 9th of February, in that year, raised to the dignities of Viscount Petersham, of Petersham, in the county of Surrey, and Earl of Harrington, in the county of Northampton. The earl, subsequently, resumed the office of secretary of state; and, in 1746, was appointed lord-lieutenant-general, and general governor of Ireland, in which important station, he continued until the year 1751, when he was succeeded by the Duke of Dorset. His lordship m. Anne, daughter and heiress of Colonel Edward Griffith, by whom he had two sons (twins). He d. in February, 1742-3, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, a general officer in the army, and colonel of the 2nd Troop of Horse Grenadier Guards. His lordship m. on the 11th of March, 1746, Caroline, eldest daughter of His Grace, Charles, Duke of Grafton, by whom he had Charles, the present peer, and six other children.

HEREFORD, VISCOUNT, (Henry Devereux,) and a baronet; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 31st of December, 1804; m. in 1805, Frances-Elizabeth, third daughter of the late Sir George Cornewall, bart., of Moccas Court, by whom he has issue Henry-Cornewall, b. 21st November, 1807; four other sons, and a daughter,

His lordship is Premier Viscount of England.

Lineage.

This noble family derives its surname from Evereux, a considerable town of Normandy; and it traces its descent to

ROBERT DE EBROIS, one of the leaders in the Norman army, at the battle of Hastings, from whom directly descended

SIR WALTER D'EVEREUX, knt., who m. Anne, only daughter and heiress of William, Baron Ferrars, of Chartley; in consequence of which alliance, he was summoned to parliament, July 26, 1461, by the title of his deceased father-in-law, Baron Ferrars.

He received, subsequently, (in 1470,) a grant for life of the county of Caernarvon, was nominated chief forester of Snowdon Hills, in North Wales, and installed a knight of the most illustrious order of the Garter. Attaching himself to the interests of Richard the Third, his lordship fell at the battle of Bosworth Field, on the 22nd of August, 1485, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir John Devereux, knt., who was summoned to parliament from the third to the twelfth year of Henry the Seventh. His lordship m. Cecilie, sister and sole heiress of Henry, (Bourchier) Earl of Ewe and Essex, and Baroness Bourchier, in her own right, (maternally descended from Thomas Plantagenet, Duke of Gloucester, youngest son of Edward the Third,) by whom he had a daughter, Anne, who married Henry, Lord Clifford; and a son, his successor,

Walter, who inherited the barony of Bourchier from his mother. This nobleman, in consideration of the active and distinguished part which he had taken in the French wars of Henry the Eighth, was created by that monarch, on the 2nd of February, 1549-50, Viscount Hereford, with an annual rent of twenty marks out of the revenues of the county of Hereford, to himself, and his heirs male, for ever. His lordship was also installed a knight of the most illustrious order of the Garter. He m. twice: first, Mary, daughter of Thomas Grey, Marquess of Dorset, by whom he had three sons; and secondly, Margaret, daughter of Robert Garnish, esq. of Kenton, in Suffolk, by whom he had an only son, Sir Edward Devereux, knt., of Castle Bromwich. He d. on the 27th of September, 1558, and was succeeded by the son of his eldest son, (Sir Richard Devereux, knt., deceased,) his grandson,

Walter, then in his nineteenth year, who was advanced to an earldom, on the 4th of May, 1572, as Earl of Essex; being styled, at the same time, Earl of Ewe, Viscount Hereford, Baron Ferrars, of Chartley, Bourchier, and Lovain, and installed a knight of the most illustrious order of the Garter. His lordship d. at Dublin, on the 22nd of September, 1576, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Robert, who became the distinguished and unfortunate favorite of Queen Elizabeth; to which unhappy predilection of royalty he fell a victim, and lost his head upon Tower hill, in the thirty-fourth year of his age, on the 25th of February, 1601. He was esteemed one of the most accomplished noblemen of his day; an able statesman, and a gallant soldier. He was a knight of the Garter, a privy counsellor, master of the horse, earl-marshal of England, lord-deputy of Ireland, and chancellor of the University of Cambridge. His lordship m. Frances, daughter and heiress of Sir Francis Walsingham, and relict of the celebrated Sir Philip Sidney, by whom he left three children, who were restored in blood, in 1603, viz. two daughters, and his successor,

Robert. This nobleman, early in life, attached himself to Charles the First, when that monarch was Prince of Wales, and continued in his majesty's service until 1642, when he accepted a command in the parliamentary army, and turned his sword against his unhappy master. He d. on the 14th of September, 1646, and was interred with national obsequies, in Westminster Abbey, on the 22nd of October, the two houses of parliament attending at his funeral. His lordship m. twice: first, Frances, daughter of Thomas, Earl of Suffolk, from whom he was divorced; and secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Powlet, by whom he had an only son, who d. in infancy. The earl thus leaving no issue, the earldoms of Ewe and Essex became extinct; the barony of Ferrers fell into abeyance, and so continued, until revived by Charles the Second, in the person of Sir Robert Shirley, afterwards Earl Ferrers; and the viscounty of Hereford devolved upon his kinsman,

Sir Walter Devereux, bart. (second and eldest surviving son of Sir Edward Devereux, knight, of Castle Bromwich, who was created a baronet, on the 25th of November, 1612, and was youngest son of Walter, first Viscount Hereford.) His lordship m. twice, and was succeeded by the second, but eldest surviving, son of his second marriage,

Leicester, who was succeeded, in 1676, by his eldest son,

Leicester, who d. in his ninth year, in March, 1682-3, when the family honors devolved upon his only brother,

Edward. This nobleman d. without issue, on the 9th of August, 1700, when the titles reverted to

Price Devereux, esq. a descendant of Sir George Devereux, of Castle Bromwich, through his fourth son, Sir George Devereux, of Sheldon Hall, in the county of Worcester. This nobleman m. Mary, second daughter of Samuel Sandys, esq. of Ombersley Court, by whom he had a daughter, and his successor, (in 1740,)

Price, who d. without issue, (although married twice,) on the 27th of July, 1748, when the family honors reverted to

Edward Devereux, a descendant of Sir George Devereux, of Sheldon Hall, through the second son of his eldest son, George. His lordship d. on the 21st of August, 1760, and was succeeded by his eldest surviving son,

Edward, who d. on the 1st of August, 1783, when the titles devolved upon his brother,

George, b. 25th April, 1744; m. in 1768, Mariana, only daughter and heiress of George Devereux, esq., of Tregoyd, in the county of Brecon, by whom he had issue Henry, the present viscount, and twelve other children; six of whom, including his successor, survived his lordship. He d. on the 31st of Dec. 1804.

Motto, in English,

Steadiness is the foundation of all virtues.

Country Seat—Nantaribba Hall, Montgomeryshire.

ham; b. in 1765; m. on the 9th of January, 1792, Amelia, daughter of Sir Horace Mann, baronet, by whom he has no issue. Sir Robert succeeded to the title upon the demise of his uncle, in January, 1805.

Lineage.

This family traces its settlement in England to the era of the Norman Conquest, and the name (as then spelled "Herioun,") is found amongst the persons of distinction in the train of the victorious duke.

RICHARD HERON, esq., youngest son of Robert Heron, esq., recorder of Newark, having been nominated chief secretary to the lord-lieutenant of Ireland, (the Earl of Buckinghamshire,) in 1777, was sworn of the privy council of that kingdom, and created a baronet of England, on the 25th of July, 1778, with remainder to the issue male of his brother, Thomas Heron, esq. of Chilham Castle, in the county of Kent. The Right Honorable Sir Richard Heron d. in January, 1805, and leaving no children, the title devolved, according to the limitation of the patent, upon his nephew, the present baronet, who is eldest son of the above-mentioned Thomas, by Anne, daughter of Sir Edward Wilmot, baronet, the celebrated royal physician in the reigns of George the Second and his late majesty.

Motto, in English,
The Heron seeks high places.

HERTFORD, MARQUESS AND EARL OF, (Francis-Charles-Ingram-Seymour Conway,) Earl of Yarmouth, Viscount Beauchamp, of Hache, and Baron Conway, of Ragley, in the peerage of Great Britain; Baron Conway, of Killultagh, in the county of Antrim, in that of Ireland; a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, warden of the Stannaries, and chief-steward and vice-admiral of the Duchy of Cornwall; b. 11th March, 1777; m. in 1798, Miss Fagniani, by whom he has issue Richard, Earl of Yarmouth, b. 23rd February, 1800, and Frances-Maria, b. 2nd February, 1799. His lordship succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 17th of June, 1822.

Lineage.

This noble family is a branch of the illustrious house of Seymour, Dukes of Somerset, springing from

FRANCIS SEYMOUR, esq. (youngest son of Sir Edward Seymour, baronet, speaker of the British house of commons, in 1673, the fifth in descent from the first Duke of Somerset, and grandfather of the seventh duke,) who, being adopted by Edward Conway, Earl of Conway, assumed the name and arms of Conway, and was, after the demise of that nobleman, created, by letters patent, dated the 17th of March, 1702-3, Lord Conway, Baron Conway, of Ragley, in the county of Warwick, and being devised considerable estates in the North of Ireland, was enrolled amongst the peers of that kingdom, on the 16th of October, 1703, by the title of Baron Conway, of Killultagh, in the county of Antrim. He did not, however, take his seat in the Irish house of lords until October, 1721. In October, 1727, he was sworn of the privy council of Ireland, and, in the following year, constituted governor of Carrickfergus. His lordship m. thrice: first, in 1703, Mary, third daughter of Laurence Hyde, Earl of Rochester, by whom he had four daughters; secondly, Jane, daughter of —— Bowden, esq. of Drogheda, by whom he had a son, who d. in infancy, and a daughter, who d. unmarried; and, thirdly, in 1718, Charlotte, daughter of Alderman Sir John Shorter, knt. lord mayor of London, in 1688, and sister-in-law of the celebrated minister, Sir Robert Walpole, afterwards Earl of Orford, by whom he had four sons and three daughters. His lordship d. at Lisburn, in Ireland, on the 3rd of February, 1731-2, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

FRANCIS, who was advanced to a viscounty and earldom, on the 3rd of August, 1750, by the titles of Viscount Beauchamp and Earl of Hertford, (those titles were conferred upon his lordship's ancestor, Edward, Duke of Somerset, and expired with Algernon, the seventh duke,) with remainder, in default of male issue, to the male descendants of his brother, the Honorable and Right Honorable General Henry-Seymour Conway. His lordship was nominated, in 1757, lord-lieutenant and custos rotulorum of the county of Warwick, and installed, on the 30th of August, in the same year, a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. He m. on the 29th of May, 1741, Isabella, youngest daughter of Charles, second Duke of Grafton, by whom he had seven sons and six daughters. His lordship was advanced, on the 5th of July, 1793, to the dignities of Earl of Yarmouth, in the county of Norfolk, and Marquess of Hertford. He d. on the 14th of June following, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

FRANCIS, b. in 1743; a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, lord chamberlain of the household, lord-lieutenant and custos rotulorum of the county of Warwick, and governor of the county of Antrim, in Ireland. His lordship m. twice: first, Alice-Elizabeth, youngest daughter and coheiress of Herbert, Viscount Windsor, of Ireland, by whom he had an only daughter; and, secondly, in 1776, Isabella-Anne, daughter and heiress of Charles Ingram, Viscount Irwin, of Scotland, (at the decease of which nobleman, the Marquess of Hertford assumed, by royal permission, the name and arms of Ingram,) by whom he had an only son, Francis-Charles, Viscount Yarmouth, present Marquess of Hertford.

By faith and love.

demise of his father, on the 26th Dec. 1774; m. in 1797, Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Vassal, esq., who had been previously married to, but divorced, by act of parliament, from the late Sir Godfrey Webster, baronet; by whom he has issue Charles-Stephen, b. 7th of March, 1802, another son, and a daughter. His lordship, in consequence of his marriage, assumed the surname of Vassal.

Lord Holland is recorder of Nottingham.

Lineage.

This noble family is sprung from a common ancestor with that of Fox, Earls of Ilchester, namely,

Sir Stephen Fox, a distinguished senator, during the reigns of Charles the Second, James II. William the Third, and Queen Anne. By his marriage, in 1703, with Christian, daughter of the Rev. Charles Hope, of Naseby, in the county of Lincoln, this gentleman had two sons: Stephen, created Earl of Ilchester, (see that title,) and

Henry, who filled several high official situations, in the reign of George the Second, (among others, those of secretary at war, and secretary of state, from 1735, when he was first returned to parliament, for Hendon,) until the accession of his late majesty, at which period he was a member of the privy council, and enjoyed the office of paymaster-general of the forces, but which he resigned soon afterwards. He m. in 1744, Georgiana-Carolina, eldest daughter of Charles, second Duke of Richmond, by whom he had issue Stephen, his successor; Charles-James, a distinguished patriot, statesman, and orator, who d. in 1806, when nominally secretary of state for foreign affairs, but virtually the prime minister of England; and another son, Henry-Edward, a general officer in the army, and colonel of the 10th foot. Lady Georgiana Fox was elevated to the peerage, as Baroness Holland, of Holland, in the county of Lincoln, on the 6th of May, 1762; and Mr. Fox himself was created Baron Holland, of Foxley, in the county of Wilts, on the 16th of April, 1763. Lineage.

This illustrious house, so renowned in the cabinet and the field, derives its surname from the sea-port of Hastings, in Sussex, (the lastage of which its senior members farmed for many years from the crown,) and deduces its pedigree from Robert de Hastings, lord of Fillongley, in Warwickshire, and steward to William the Conqueror. The successor of this Robert was

WILLIAM DE HASTINGS, who became steward to Henry the First, as owner of the manor of Ashill, in the county of Norfolk, a grant from the crown, upon the condition of taking care of the naperie (table linen) at the coronation. From this person descended

HENRY, LORD HASTINGS, who m. Ada, fourth daughter of David, Earl of Huntingdon. The grandson of which marriage, in the male line,

JOHN DE HASTINGS, was Lord Hastings and Bergavenny, and, in 1290, one of the aspirants to the Scottish crown, in right of his grandmother, who was niece of Malcolm the Fourth, and William the Lion, kings of Scotland. The grandson of this nobleman,

LAURENCE, was created Earl of Pembroke in 1339, which title ceased with the fourth earl, who was accidentally slain in a tournament by Sir John St. John, in December, 1389, at Woodstock, when but seventeen years of age. His lordship's minor titles, however, Lord Hastings Bergavenny, and Weishford, devolved upon Reginal, Lord Grey of Ruthen. Thus terminated the elder branch of the noble house of Hastings; but a younger, deriving from

THOMAS DE HASTINGS, laid the foundation of the present earldom of Huntingdon. From this Thomas, lineally descended

SIR WILLIAM DE HASTINGS, knight, who was nominated, by Edward the Fourth, master of the mints at London and Calais, steward of the honor of Leicester, and of the manors and castles of Donnington, Hegham Ferrers, and Daventry; created, by the same monarch, on the 26th July, 1461, Baron Hastings, of Ashby-de-la-Zouch, and installed, at the same time, a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. Lord Hastings fell a victim afterwards to the Protector Gloucester, and was beheaded in the Tower, on the 13th of June, 1483, when his estates were confiscated, but restored by Henry the Seventh to his son,

EDWARD, who, having m. Mary, daughter and sole heiress of Thomas, Baron Hungerford, Botreux, Moulins, and Moëls, had been summoned by parliament, on the 15th of November, 1482, as Lord Hungerford; by this union, his lordship had a daughter, Anne, who became the wife of Thomas Stanley, Earl of Derby, and, subsequently, of John Radcliffe, Lord Fitz-Walter; and a son, his successor at his demise, on the 8th of November, 1507,

GEORGE, who attended Henry the Eighth, in 1513, at the taking of Terouenne and Tournay, and was created by that monarch, on the 8th of December, 1529, Earl of Huntingdon. His lordship d. on the 21st of July, 1544, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

FRANCIS, to whom succeeded his eldest son,

HENRY, installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter on the 19th of June, 1579. His lordship d. without issue, on the 14th of December, 1595, when the family honors devolved upon his brother,

GEORGE. This nobleman m. Dorothy, second daughter and co-heiress of Sir John Port, knight, of Etwal, in the county of Derby, by whom he had Frances, Edward, and Henry, and two daughters. His lordship's eldest son, Francis, d. before himself, in 1595, leaving issue three sons and two daughters. The eldest of whom,

HENRY, became fifth earl, and was succeeded, at his demise, by his eldest son,

FERDINANDO, who d. on the 13th of Feb. 1655, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

THEOPHILUS. This nobleman was one of the peers who protested against the Act of Settlement, in 1701. He m. twice: first, in 1671, Elizabeth, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Sir John Lewis, of Ledstone, knight and baronet, by whom he had a son and two daughters; and, secondly, in 1690, Frances, daughter and sole heiress of Francis-Leveson Fowler, esq., by whom he had two sons, and five daughters. His lordship d. on the 30th of May, 1701, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GEORGE. This nobleman carried the sceptre at the coronation of Queen Anne, on the 23rd of April, 1702; and dying unmarried, on the 22nd February, 1704-5, the family honors devolved upon his half brother,

THEOPHILUS, who carried the sword of state at the coronation of George the Second, on the 11th of October, 1727. His lordship m. Selina, second daughter and co-heiress of Washington, Earl Ferrers, by whom he left two sons, Francis his successor, and Henry; and two daughters. The earl d. on the 13th of October, 1746, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

FRANCIS. This nobleman carried the sword of state at the coronation of George the Third, on the 22nd of September, 1761. His lordship dying without issue, on the 2nd of Oct., 1782, the ancient baronies of Hastings, &c. devolved upon his eldest sister, Elizabeth, who had m. John (Rawdon) first Earl of Moira, by whom she became mother of Francis, present Marquess of Hastings; and the earldom of Huntingdon was supposed to be extinguished; in which state of dormantcy it continued, until claimed by the present earl, who succeeded in establishing his lineal descent from George, the fourth earl, through one of his younger sons. His lordship is the youngest, but only surviving son of the late Lieutenant-Colonel George Hastings, of the 3rd foot guards, by Miss Sarah Hodges.

HUNTINGFIELD, BARON, (Joshua Vanneck,) of Heveningham Hall, in the county of Suffolk, and a baronet of Great Britain; b. 12th of August, 1778; m. first, in 1810, Frances-Catharine, eldest daughter of Challoner Arcedeckne, esq., of Glovering Hall, by whom he has issue Joshua, b. 29th of Sept., 1811; and, secondly, in 1817, Lucy-Anne, third daughter of Sir Charles Blois, baronet, of Cockfield Hall, by whom he has a son, b. Jan. 16th, 1819. His lordship succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, in 1816.

This being a barony of Ireland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present baron is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

The family of Vanneck claims a very ancient and honourable Dutch descent.

JOSHUA VANNECK, esq. (second son of Cornelius Vanneck, esq., paymaster of the land forces of the United Provinces,) an eminent and opulent merchant of London, was created a baronet on the 14th of December, 1751. He d. on the 6th of March, 1777, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR GERRARD, who d. unmarried, in 1791, when the title devolved upon his brother,

SIR JOSHUA. This gentleman m. in 1777, Maria, second daughter of Andrew Thomson, esq., of Roehampton, in the county of Surrey, by whom he had issue Joshua, the present peer, two other sons, and two daughters. Sir Joshua was created a peer of Ireland on the 16th of July, 1796, by the title of Baron Huntingfield, of Heveningham Hall, in the county of Suffolk, and d. on the 15th of August, 1816.

INGILBY-AMCOTTS, SIR WILLIAM, baronet, of Kettlethorpe Park, in the county of Lincoln, and of Ripley, in the county of York; b. in 1783; succeeded to the baronetcy of Kettlethorpe Park, at the demise of his maternal grandfather, Sir Wharton Amcotts, on the 11th of May, 1796, and to that of Ripley, upon the death of his father, on the 8th of May, 1815; assumed, by royal permission, in 1812, the name of Amcotts before that of Ingilby. Sir William m. in the same year, Louisa, daughter of J. Atkinson, esq. of Maple-House, in the county of Stafford, but has no issue.

Lineage.

The family of Ingilby has long been of consideration in the county of York, and had a baronetcy conferred upon it (in 1642) in the person of

Sir William Ingilby, knight, but which honor ceased at the demise of his great-grandson,

Sir John, the fourth baronet, on the 14th of July, 1772, without legitimate male issue. The title was, however, revived, and a baronetcy conferred upon his illegitimate son,

John Ingilby, esq. of Ripley, on the 24th of March, 1781. This gentleman m. in 1780, Elizabeth, daughter and sole heiress of Wharton Amcotts, esq., of Kettlethorpe, in the county of Lincoln, by whom he had issue William, the present baronet, and ten other children. His father-in-law, the above-mentioned

Wharton Amcotts, esq., was created a baronet on the 30th of April, 1796, with remainder to the eldest son of his daughter, Lady Ingilby; and dying in the same year, the title, with his estates, devolved upon Sir William, the present baronet, who subsequently inherited the title of his father.

JERNINGHAM, SIR GEORGE-WILLIAM, baronet, of Cossey, in the county of Norfolk.

See, Baron Stafford.

JERSEY, EARL OF, (George-Child Villiers,) Viscount Villiers, of Dartford, and Baron of Hoo, in the county of Kent, in the peerage of Great Britain, and Viscount Grandison, in that of Ireland; b. 19th of August, 1773; m. in 1804, Sarah-Sophia, eldest daughter of John, Earl of Westmoreland, by Anne, sole heiress of Robert Child, esq., of Osterley Park, in the county of Middlesex, by whom he has issue George-Augustus-Frederick, Viscount Villiers, b. 4th of April, 1808, three other sons, and two daughters. His lordship succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 22nd of August, 1805, and obtained the royal permission, in 1819, for himself and his countess (who eventually inherited the large possessions of her grandfather) to assume the name and arms of Child.

Lineage.

This noble family deduces its descent from the ancient and honorable house of Villiers, Seigniours of Lile-Adam, in Normandy, and fixes its arrival in England at the period of the Conquest. For six centuries subsequently, it ranked amongst the most considerable gentry, serving the office of sheriff, receiving the honor of knighthood, &c. &c., and was amongst the earliest distinguished by a baronetcy, that honor being conferred upon

WILLIAM VILLIERS, esq. of Brookesby, eldest son of Sir George Villiers, knight, on the 19th of July, 1619; the title, however, ceased, in 1711, at the demise of the grandson of the first possessor, without issue. The eldest son, by his second marriage, of Sir George Villiers, and the half-brother, of course, of Sir William, was

GEORGE, DUKE OF BUCKINGHAM, the celebrated favorite of James the First and Charles the First, who fell by the hands of the assassin, Felton, on the 23rd of August, 1628.

The second son of Sir George Villiers, knight, by his first wife, and, consequently, brother of Sir William Villiers, bart., was

EDWARD VILLIERS, who received the honor of knighthood, on the 7th of September, 1616, and from whom the present Earl of Jersey is directly descended. This gentleman having been employed, in 1620, as ambassador to Bohemia, was, through the interest of his half-brother, the Duke of Buckingham, nominated, in 1622, president of the province of Munster, in Ireland, upon the decease of the Earl of Thomond. He m. Barbara, eldest daughter of Sir John St. John, of Lidiard Tregose, in the county of Wilts, and niece of Sir Oliver St. John, who was created, on the 3rd of January, 1620, Viscount Grandison, in the peerage of Ireland, with remainder to the issue male of his sister, Lady Villiers. By this marriage, Sir Edward had four sons and three daughters. He d. on the 7th of September, 1626, lamented more deeply than any governor who had previously ruled the province, and was interred in the Earl of Cork's chapel, at Youghall, where the following lines were engraven upon his tomb:

"Munster may curse the time that Villiers came,
To make us worse, by leaving such a name
Of noble parts, as none can imitate,
But those whose hearts are married to the state:
But, if they press to imitate his fame,
Munster may bless the time that Villiers came."

WILLIAM VILLIERS, esq., the eldest son of Sir Edward, succeeded to the estates of his father, and, upon the demise of his uncle, in 1630, became Viscount Grandison. Actively espousing the cause of Charles the First, his lordship received a wound at the siege of Bristol, on the 26th of July, 1643, of which he died in the following month, at Oxford, leaving an only daughter, Barbara, afterwards Duchess of Cleveland, and mistress of Charles the Second, and transmitting his title to his brother,

JOHN, who died without male issue, when the family honors descended to his brother,

GEORGE, who was succeeded by his grandson,

JOHN, created Earl Grandison, of Limerick, in Ireland, on the 11th of September, 1721, which earldom became extinct at his demise, in 1766; but the viscounty of Grandison devolved, as will appear, upon the Earl of Jersey. Return we now to

EDWARD VILLIERS, esq., the youngest son of the governor of Munster, who, for his gallantry as a military officer of rank, during the civil war, was knighted by King Charles the Second, on the 7th of April, 1680, nominated knight-marshal of the household, and governor of Tinmouth Castle. Sir Edward m. Frances, daughter of Theophilus, Earl of Suffolk, by whom he had two sons and six daughters. He d. on the 2nd of July, 1689, and was succeeded in his estates, as well as in the post of marshal of the household, by his eldest son,

EDWARD, who had been nominated master of the horse, in 1688-9, to Queen Mary, and knighted. Sir Edward, advancing further in royal favor, was elevated to the peerage of Great Britain, on the 30th of March, 1690-1, by the titles of Baron Villiers, of Hoo, and Viscount Villiers, of Dartford, both in the county of Kent; and being appointed ambassador extraordinary to the States General, in 1697, was created Earl of the island of Jersey, on the 13th of October, in that year. His lordship, subsequently, filled the highest diplomatic stations, and, upon the accession of Queen Anne, was constituted lord chamberlain of the household. He m. Barbara, daughter of William Chiffinch, esq., by whom he had two sons and a daughter. The earl d. on the 26th of August, 1711, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, who m. Judith, only daughter of Frederick Hern, esq., of the city of London, by whom he had two sons, and one daughter. His lordship's second son, Thomas, was created Earl of Clarendon (see that title), and the eldest,

WILLIAM, succeeded upon his father's demise, in 1721, to the family honors; and, at the death of his cousin, John Villiers, Earl of Grandison, in 1776, became Viscount Grandison, in Ireland. His lordship m. in 1733, Anne, daughter of Scroop (Egerton), Duke of Bridgewater, and relict of Wriothesley, Duke of Bedford, by whom he had two sons, Lord Villiers, who d. in his eighth year, and George-Bussy. His lordship d. on the 28th of August, 1769, and was succeeded by his only son,

GEORGE-BUSSY. His lordship m. in 1770, Frances, only daughter and heiress of the Right Reverend Philip Twysden, D.D., Lord Bishop of Raphoe, in Ireland, by whom he had issue George, the present earl, and another son, William-Augustus-Henry, who assumed the name of Mansel, in pursuance of the testamentary injunction of Louisa-Barbara, Baroness Vernon, and d. unmarried, in 1813; besides seven daughters. The earl d. on the 22nd of August, 1803.

This is a very ancient family of the counties of Derby and Salop, being of importance, in the former, so far back as the reign of Edward the Third; and being of rank, in the latter, in the beginning of the seventeenth century; when

ROBERT NEEDHAM, esq., of Shenton, in that county, was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, (18th of April, 1625,) as Viscount Kilmorey. His lordship d. in 1627, and was succeeded by his son,

ROBERT. This nobleman m. twice, and left successors to the title by both marriages. His lordship d. in 1653, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

ROBERT, who d. without issue, in 1657, when the title devolved upon his half-brother,

CHARLES, to whom succeeded his son,

ROBERT, who d. in 1668, and was succeeded by his son,

THOMAS. This nobleman m. Frances, daughter and heiress of Francis-Leveson Fowler, esq., of Harnage Grange, in the county of Salop, by whom he had an only son,

ROBERT, who m. Mary, daughter of John Offley, esq., of Crew, in the county of Chester, by whom he had four sons, (three of whom, Robert, Thomas, and John, became successive viscounts,) and four daughters. His lordship d. on the 2nd of October, 1710, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

ROBERT, who d. in boyhood, in 1717, when the title devolved upon his brother,

THOMAS. This nobleman m. in 1730, Mary, third daughter and co-heiress of Washington, second Earl of Ferrers, by whom he had no issue. His lordship d. in 1768, and was succeeded by his brother,

JOHN, who m. in 1738, Anne, daughter and co-heiress of John Hurleston, esq., of Newton, in the county of Chester, and relict of Peter Shakerley, esq., by whom he left issue, at his demise in 1791, Francis, the present earl, and his immediate successor,

ROBERT. This nobleman m. in 1792, Frances, eldest daughter of Sir Robert-Salusbury Cotton, baronet; but having no issue, the viscounty, at his lordship's decease in 1818, devolved upon his brother, the present Earl of Kilmorey.

KILWARDEN, VISCOUNT, (John Wolfe,) Baron Kilwarden, of Newlands, in the county of Dublin; and Baron Kilwarden, of Kilteel, in the county of Kildare; b. 11th of November, 1769; succeeded to all the honors, but the last barony, upon the lamented demise of his father, on the 23rd of July, 1803, and to that, at the demise of his mother, on the 23rd of August, 1804. His lordship is registrar of deeds, in the court of admiralty, in Ireland.

The honors of the house of Kilwarden being solely of Ireland, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

ARTHUR WOLFE, esq., eldest son of John Wolfe, esq., of the county of Kildare, being bred to the Irish bar, was nominated solicitor-general of Ireland, in 1787; promoted to the attorney-generalship, in 1789; and appointed lord chief justice of the king's bench, in 1798, when he was elevated to the peerage, (3rd of July, 1798,) as Baron Kilwarden, of Newlands; and advanced to the viscounty of Kilwarden, on the 29th of December, 1800. His lordship m. in 1769, Anne, daughter of William Buxton, esq., of Ardee, in the county of Louth, (created Baroness Kilwarden, of Kilteel, on the 20th of September, 1795,) by whom he had issue John, the present peer; another son, and two daughters. Lord Kilwarden, who was one of the brightest ornaments of the Irish bench, and of whom, with the strictest veracity, it may be recorded, that the balance never vibrated in his hand, except when it inclined to humanity and mercy, became a victim of one of those murderous struggles which oppression and slavery, wheresoever they are suffered to sojourn, are sure periodically to engender. In his way to the castle of Dublin, for the purpose of assisting in council, upon the 23rd July, 1803, during the rebellion, or, more correctly speaking, the riot, incited by the enthusiast, Emmet, his lordship, falling accidentally into the hands of a body of insurgents, was barbarously assassinated, along with his nephew and companion, the Rev. Mr. Wolfe. His lordship was an able lawyer and a most upright judge; at a period when the judgment seat in his unhappy country too notoriously acknowledged the baneful influence of party, and when the insignia of the judicial magistrate were but too often the sanguinary ensigns of the infuriate partisan.

KINGSALE, LORD, (the Reverend Thomas de Courcy,) Baron Courcy, of Courcy, and Baron of Ringrove; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 24th of May, 1822. His lordship is Premier Baron of Ireland, and possesses the hereditary right, granted by King John to De Courcy, Earl of Ulster, of wearing his hat in the royal presence.

This barony being of Ireland, confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present lord is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

This ancient and illustrious house is descended from

ROBERT DE COURCY, who, in the eleventh century, was Lord of Courcy, in Normandy. The successor of this nobleman was his son,

RICHARD, who accompanied the Conqueror to England; and distinguishing himself at the decisive battle of Hastings, subsequently obtained a large portion of the spoil, in numerous English lordships. His lordship d. in 1098, and was succeeded by his son,

ROBERT, as Lord Courcy, in Normandy, and Baron of Stoke Courcy, in England. From the grandson of this nobleman,

WILLIAM, descended

MILES, upon whom Henry the Third conferred, in 1181, the barony of Kingsale, in Ireland, as a compensation for the earldom of Ulster, of which he was deprived by Hugo de Lacie. For five centuries, subsequently, the honors descended regularly. The twenty-third lord,

ALMERICUS, was outlawed in 1691, but that was very soon removed, and his lordship took his seat in the parliament of Ireland, in 1692. This nobleman, in observance of the ancient privilege of his house, appeared in the presence of King William, covered, and explained to that monarch, when his majesty expressed surprise at the circumstance, the reason thus:—"Sire, my name is COURCY; I am lord of Kingsale, in your majesty's kingdom of Ireland; and the reason of my appearing covered in your majesty's presence is, to assert the ancient privilege of my family, granted to Sir John de Courcy, Earl of Ulster, and his heirs, by John, King of England." The king acknowledged the privilege, and giving the baron his hand to kiss, his lordship paid his obeisance, and continued covered. He d. in 1719, without issue, when the peerage reverted to his cousin,

GERALD, grandson of Patrick, the twentieth baron. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter, and eventually sole heiress, of Anthony Sadlier, esq., of Arley-Hall, in the county of Warwick, by whom he had two sons and a daughter. He was succeeded by his eldest son,

GERALD, who d. in 1759, without issue, when the peerage reverted to his distant kinsman,

JOHN, descended from the eighteenth baron, through his fourth son. His lordship m. Martha, daughter of William Hevon, esq., of Dorchester, by whom he had issue five sons and three daughters. He d. on the 3rd of March, 1776, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN, who m. in 1763, Susan, daughter of Conway Blennerhasset, esq., of Castle Conway, in the county of Kerry, by whom he had issue John, an officer of high rank in the army, who d. in 1813, from excessive fatigue, during the campaign in Spain; Thomas, a clergyman of the established church, the present peer; three other sons, and four daughters. His lordship d. on the 24th of May, 1822.

nobleman, (who is only surviving son of Matthew Barnewall, esq., of Dromzera Wood, by his second wife, Anne, daughter of Thomas M'Cann, esq., and thus great-great-grandson of Nicholas Barnewall, of Turvey, the first peer, through his second son, the Honorable Francis Barnewall, of Beggstown,) claimed the family honors upon the demise of his kinsman, George, the fifth viscount, in 1800, and had his claim acknowledged by the house of lords.

The honors of the house of Kingsland being of Ireland only, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present viscount is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

The Barnewalls, who were originally of Lower Brittany, in France, arrived in England in the train of the Conqueror, from whence they were amongst the earliest emigrants to Ireland, where they obtained considerable grants from Henry the Second, and were eventually ennobled in two distinct branches, springing from a common progenitor,

SIR CHRISTOPHER BARNEWALL, of Crickstown, in the county of Meath, whose eldest son, Christopher's descendant, became Baron Trimleston; and whose youngest son, John's descendant,

NICHOLAS BARNEWALL, esq., of Turvey, in the county of Dublin, was elevated to the Irish peerage, on the 29th of June, 1646, as Viscount Barnewall, of Kingsland, and Baron of Turvey. His lordship m. Bridget, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Henry, Earl of Kildare, and relict of (O'Donnel) Earl of Tyrconnel, by whom he had issue Henry, his successor; Frances, the ancestor of the present viscount, and other children. He d. on the 20th of August, 1663, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

HENRY. This nobleman m. twice: first, Mary, daughter of John, Viscount Netterville, by whom he had an only daughter; and secondly, Mary, daughter of Richard, Earl of Westmeath, by whom he had three sons and three daughters. His lordship d. in 1688, and was succeeded by his eldest son, NICHOLAS, who m. Mary, daughter of George, Count Hamilton, by Frances, Duchess of Tyrconnel, and had issue Henry-Benedict, his successor; George, who m. Barbara, daughter of Thomas, Earl of Fauconberg, and left issue, at his decease in 1771, George, the fifth viscount; and a daughter. His lordship d. in 1725, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

HENRY-BENEDICT, who d. without issue, in 1740, when the family honors devolved upon his nephew,

GEORGE. This nobleman conformed to the established church, and took his seat in the Irish house of lords soon after his accession to the peerage. His lordship d. unmarried, in France, in 1800, when the family honors reverted to his kinsman, the present viscount.

KINGSTON, EARL OF, (George King,) Viscount Kingsborough, and Baron Kingston, in the peerage of Ireland; Baron Kingston, of Michelstown, in that of the United Kingdom; and a baronet; b. 9th of April, 1771; m. in 1794, Helena, only daughter of Stephen, Earl of Mount Cashel, and niece of the present marquess of Hastings, by whom he has issue Edward, Viscount Kingsborough, b. 25th September, 1796, and two other sons. His lordship succeeded to the Irish honors upon the demise of his father, on the 17th of April, 1799, and obtained his British peerage, by creation, on the 17th of July, 1821.

Lineage.

This distinguished family was ennobled in 1660, in the person of

SIR JOHN KING, knt., created Baron Kingston, which title continued until 1761, when it expired with

JAMES, Lord Kingston, who d. in that year, without male issue, thus terminating that branch of the family. But the descendant of the first lord's brother, Robert, created a baronet of Ireland, on the 27th of September, 1682,

SIR ROBERT KING, was elevated to the Irish peerage, in 1748, as Baron Kingsborough; dying, however, unmarried, in 1758, that title also became extinct, while the baronetcy devolved upon his lordship's brother,

SIR EDWARD, who was created Baron Kingston, on the 13th of July, 1764; Viscount Kingsborough, on the 15th November, 1766; and Earl of Kingston, on the 25th of August, 1768. His lordship m. in 1752, Jane, daughter of Thomas Caulfield, esq., by whom he had issue three sons and three daughters. He d. in 1797, and was succeeded by his eldest son, ROBERT. This nobleman m. in 1769, Caroline, only daughter of Richard Fitzgerald, esq., of Mount Ophaly, in the county of Kildare, by whom he had issue George, the present earl; Robert-Edward, (created Viscount Lorton;) five other sons, and five daughters. His lordship d. on the 17th of April, 1799.

This being a barony of Scotland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present baron is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

The barony of Kinnaird, in Perthshire, was conferred (by charter) upon Radulphus Rufus, by William, surnamed the Lion, King of Scotland, whence the family assumed the name of Kinnaird. From this personage directly, although remotely, descended

GEORGE KINNAIRD, esq., of Inchture, who, for his loyalty to the house of Stuart, was knighted, by King Charles the Second, in 1661, and elevated to the peerage of Scotland, on the 28th of December, 1682, as Baron Kinnaird, of Inchture. His lordship m. Margaret, daughter of James Crichton, esq., of Ruthven, by whom he had six sons, the eldest and youngest of which alone left issue. His lordship d. in 1689, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

PATRICK, who m. Anne, daughter of Hugh, Lord Lovat, and left, at his decease, in 1701, Charles, and an elder son, his successor,

PATRICK. This nobleman dying without issue, in 1715, the title devolved upon his brother,

CHARLES, who also d. without issue (in 1728), when the peerage reverted to his uncle,

CHARLES, who d. childless, in 1758, and was succeeded by his grand-nephew,

CHARLES, great-grandson of the first lord, through his youngest son, George. This nobleman m. Barbara, daughter of Sir James Johnstone, bart., by whom he had issue two sons and two daughters. The second son, Patrick, was unfortunately killed by a tiger, on the coast of Coromandel. His lordship d. in 1767, and was succeeded by his son,

GEORGE, who m. Elizabeth, daughter and sole heiress of Griffin Ransom, esq., of New Palace-yard, Westminster, by whom he had issue George, who d. in infancy; Charles, the present peer; Edward-Griffin, who d. in 1803; Douglas; another son; and six daughters. His lordship d. in 1805.

KINNOUL, EARL OF, (Thomas-Robert-Hay Drummond,) Viscount Dupplin, and Baron Hay, of Kinfauns, in the peerage of Scotland; Baron Hay, of Pedwardine, in that of Great Britain; b. 5th April, 1785; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 12th of April, 1804; m. in 1824, Louisa, second daughter of Sir Charles Rowley. His lordship is Lord Lyon, King at Arms in North Britain.

Lineage.

GEORGE HAY, esq., of Kinfauns, second son of Sir Patrick Hay, knt., of Melginch, being a highly-accomplished personage, was introduced to the court of King James the Sixth of Scotland, and immediately obtained the full confidence and favor of that monarch. He was appointed a gentleman of the bedchamber, honored with the dignity of knighthood, and granted (on the 18th of February, 1598,) the dissolved Carthusian Priory of Perth. He was, subsequently, nominated clerk-register of Scotland, and, in 1622, appointed to the high dignity of lord high chancellor of that kingdom. Sir George was advanced to the peerage, by King Charles the First, on the 4th of May, 1627, by the titles of Baron Hay, of Kinfauns, and Viscount Dupplin, with reversion to his heirs general whatsoever; and advanced, on the 25th of May, 1633, to the earldom of Kinnoul, with the same reversionary clause in the patent. His lordship m. Margaret, daughter of Sir James Haleburton, of Piteur, by whom he had issue two sons and a daughter. The earl d. on the 16th of December, 1634, (up to which period he continued chancellor,) and was succeeded by his second and eldest surviving son,

GEORGE, captain of the yeomen of the guard to King Charles the First, and one of his majesty's privy council. His lordship was distinguished, during the civil wars, by unshaken fidelity to his unfortunate sovereign, and gallant and active services as a soldier in his cause. He m. Anne, eldest daughter of William (Douglas), Earl of Morton, lord treasurer of Scotland, by whom he had issue two daughters, and his successor, at his demise, in 1664,

WILLIAM, who became, upon the decease of his cousin, James, Earl of Carlisle, without issue, in 1660, proprietor of the island of Barbadoes, granted by Charles the First to the first Earl of Carlisle, which his lordship disposed of to King Charles the Second, in 1661. The earl m. twice: first, Mary, daughter of Robert, second Earl of Cardigan, by whom he had no issue; and, secondly, Catherine, daughter of Charles, Viscount Cranborne, and granddaughter of William Cecil, Earl of Salisbury, by whom he had two sons, successive earls. His lordship d. in 1677, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GEORGE, who d. without issue, in 1687, when the family honors devolved upon his brother,

WILLIAM, who d. unmarried, in 1709, when the peerage, according to the clause of the patent, in favor of heirs general, devolved upon his kinsman and heir-at-law,

THOMAS, (great-grand-nephew of the first peer, being the direct descendant of his younger brother, Peter,) who had been previously created (on the 31st of December, 1697,) Viscount Dupplin. His lordship was one of the commissioners at the treaty of union between England and Scotland, and sat in the first parliament of Great Britain, as one of the sixteen representative peers. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of William (Drummond), Viscount Strathallan, by whom he had issue three sons and two daughters. His youngest son, Colonel John Hay, took an active part in the rebellion of 1715, and was created, by the Chevalier de St. George, Earl of Inverness. The earl d. in 1719, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

GEORGE-HENRY, who had been previously (on the 31st December, 1711,) enrolled amongst the peers of Great Britain, by the title of Baron Hay, of Pedwardin, in the county of Hereford. His lordship m. in 1709, Abigail, youngest daughter of Robert (Harley,) Earl of Oxford, by whom he had four sons and six daughters. The second son, Robert, entered into holy orders, and became successively a prebendary of Westminster (1743), Bishop of St. Asaph (1748), Bishop of Salisbury (1751), and (in the same year) Archbishop of York. His grace assumed the name and arms of Drummond, according to the deed of entail of his great-grandfather, William, Viscount Strathallan. He m. in 1748, Henrietta, daughter of Peter Auriol, an eminent merchant of London, by whom he was father of Robert-Auriol, the ninth earl, and several other children. The earl d. at an advanced period of life, on the 29th of July, 1758, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

THOMAS, who d. without issue, in 1787, when the family honors devolved upon (the son of his brother, the Archbishop of York,) his nephew,

ROBERT-HAY DRUMMOND, b. 18th March, 1751. His lordship m. twice: first, Miss Eyre, eldest daughter of Anthony Eyre, esq., by whom he had no issue; and, secondly, Sarah, daughter of the Right Honorable Thomas Harley, and grand-daughter of the Earl of Oxford, by whom he had Thomas-Robert, the present peer, and two daughters. He d. in 1804.

KINTORE, EARL OF, (Anthony-Adrian Falconer,) Lord Keith, of Inverurie, and Lord Falconer, of Halkertoun; b. 20th of April, 1794; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 6th of April, 1812; m. in 1817, Juliet, third daughter of the late Robert Renny, esq., of Barrowfield, in Scotland, by whom he had no issue. Her ladyship dying, in 1819, the earl m. secondly, in 1821, Louisa, youngest daughter of Francis Hawkins, esq., by whom he has a son, Lord Inverurie, b. in September, 1822.

The honors of the house of Kintore being solely of Scotland, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

SIR JOHN KEITH, knt., third son of William, sixth Earl Marischal of Scotland, was elevated to the peerage, on the 26th of June, 1677, by the titles of Baron Keith, of Inverurie and Keith Hall, and Earl of Kintore, in consideration of the loyalty and zeal which he evinced, in preserving the regalia of Scotland from falling into the hands of the usurper, Cromwell. Sir John Keith had those ensigns of royalty safely conveyed from Dunmore Castle, and deposited under ground in the church of Kinnest: sailing immediately for France, it was supposed that he had carried them away with him; in consequence of which, all further search, by the Cromwellians, was abandoned. His lordship obtained a new grant of his honors from King William, in 1694, extending the reversion to his own female heirs, and to the male issue of his brother, George. He m. Margaret, daughter of Thomas, Earl of Haddington, by whom he had a son, and two daughters. The earl d. in 1714, and was succeeded by his only son,

WILLIAM, who m. Catharine, eldest daughter of David, Viscount Stormont, by whom he had issue John and William, successive earls; Catharine, who m. David, Lord Falconer, of Halkertoun; and Jane. His lordship was succeeded, in 1718, by his son, LANSDOWNE, MARQUESS OF, (Henry-Fitzmaurice Petty,) Earl of Wycombe, Viscount Calne and Calstone, and Baron Wycombe, of Chipping Wycombe, in the county of Bucks, in the peerage of Great Britain; Earl of Kerry, and Earl Shelburne, Viscount Clanmaurice and Fitzmaurice, Baron of Kerry, Lixnaw, and Dunkerron, in the peerage of Ireland; F.R.S.; b. 2nd of July, 1780; m. in 1808, Louisa-Emma, fifth daughter of Henry-Thomas, second Earl of Ilchester, by whom he has issue the Earl of Wycombe, b. 12th May, 1810; and another son and daughter. His lordship succeeded to the English honors, and the Irish earldom of Shelburne, with the viscounty of Fitzmaurice, and the barony of Dunkerron, upon the demise of his half-brother, on the 14th of November, 1809; and to the earldom of Kerry, &c. at the decease of his cousin, Francis-Thomas, third Earl of Kerry, on the 4th of July, 1818.

Lineage.

The Earls of Kerry trace their origin to a common ancestor with the Dukes of Leinster, and the Barons of Carew; namely, Walter Fitz Otho, Castellan of Windsor, in the eleventh century; from a younger son of whom descended

THOMAS, who assumed the surname of Fitzmaurice, Baron of Kerry and Lixnaw, in 1181. His lordship's successor, in more than five centuries afterwards,

THOMAS, twenty-first baron, was created (17th January, 1722,) Viscount Clanmaurice, and Earl of Kerry. His lordship m. in 1692, Anne, only daughter of Sir William Petty, physician-general to the army in Ireland, in 1652, (so celebrated for his extraordinary talents, and surprising fortune. In December, 1664, Sir William undertook the survey of Ireland; and, in March, 1666, he had completed the measurement of two millions and eight thousand acres of forfeited land, for which, by contract, he was to receive one penny per acre, and did actually acquire an estate of 6000*l.* a year,) by whom he had issue five sons and three daughters. His lordship d. in 1741, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, in the earldom of Kerry, &c., while his youngest son,

THE HONORABLE JOHN FITZMAURICE, having inherited the estates of his maternal uncle, Henry Petty, Earl of Shelburne, (who d. in April, 1741, when that peerage became extinct,) assumed the name of Petty, and was created, on the 7th of October, 1753, Baron Dunkerron, and Viscount Fitzmaurice; and, on the 5th of June, 1753, Earl of Shelburne. His lordship m. in 1743, his cousin, Mary, daughter of the Honorable William Fitzmaurice, by whom he had issue two sons, namely, William, his successor; and Thomas, who m. Mary, Countess of Orkney, a peeress in her own right. The Earl of Shelburne was enrolled amongst the peers of Great Britain, on the 17th of May, 1760, as Baron Wycombe, of Chipping Wycombe. His lordship's brother, the Earl Kerry, d. in 1747, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Francis-Thomas, who became third earl, and twenty-third baron of Kerry. Lord Shelburne d. on the 10th of May, 1761, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, a general officer in the army, and a distinguished statesman, in the last reign, (George III.) In 1782, his lordship was prime minister, and on the 6th of December, 1784, he was advanced to the dignities of Marquess of Lansdowne, in the county of Somerset; Earl of Wycombe, in the county of Bucks; and Viscount Calne and Calstone. LAUDERDALE, EARL OF, (James Maitland,) Viscount Maitland, and Baron of Thirlestane, in the peerage of Scotland; Baron Lauderdale, of Thirlestane, in the county of Berwick, in that of the United Kingdom; a baronet of Nova Scotia; and a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Thistle; b. in 1759; m. in 1782, Eleanor, only daughter of Anthony Todd, esq., by whom he has issue James, Viscount Maitland, b. 12th July, 1784; Anthony, a naval officer of rank; two other sons, and five daughters. His lordship succeeded to the Scottish honors upon the demise of his father, on the 17th of August, 1789; and obtained the English barony by creation, on the 22nd of February, 1806.

Lineage.

This very ancient and distinguished family of North Britain has been settled at Thirlestane, in Berwickshire, for nearly six centuries. It was ennobled in the person of

Sir John Maitland, knight, created Baron of Thirlestane, on the 18th of May, 1590. His lordship d. in five years afterwards, and was succeeded by his only son,

John, who was created on the 2nd of April, 1616, Viscount Lauderdale; and on the 14th of March, 1624, Viscount Maitland and Earl of Lauderdale. His lordship m. Isabella, daughter of Alexander, Earl of Dumfermline, by whom he had issue two sons and a daughter. The Earl d. in 1645, and was succeeded by his son,

John. This nobleman having distinguished himself, by his zealous and active exertions in the royal cause, during the civil wars, was, after the Restoration, installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter; appointed high commissioner of Scotland; and created (on the 2nd of May, 1672,) Marquess of March, and Duke of Lauderdale, in Scotland; and enrolled amongst the peers of England, (on the 25th of June, 1674,) as Baron Petersham, and Earl of Guildford, in the county of Surrey. His grace dying, however, without male issue, in 1682, those honors were extinguished; but his hereditary titles devolved upon his brother,

Charles, third Earl of Lauderdale. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter and sole heiress of Richard Lauder, esq., of Hutton, by whom he had issue Richard, John, and Charles, successive earls, besides three other sons, and two daughters. The Earl d. in 1691, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

LE DESPENCER, BARON, (Thomas Stapleton,) and a baronet; b. 10th of November, 1766; succeeded to the baronetcy upon the demise of his father, in 1781, and to the barony, upon the termination of the abeyance, at the decease of Lady Austen, in 1788, as descendant of John Fane, the sixteenth baron; m. Elizabeth, daughter of Samuel Elliot, esq., of Antigua, by whom he has issue Thomas, b. 24th of April, 1792, (who m. in 1816, Maria-Wynne, second daughter of Henry Bankes, esq., of Kingston-House, in the county of Dorset;) three other sons, and five daughters. His lordship's eldest daughter, Maria-Frances-Catharine, is the present Countess of Roden; and the third, Emily, is the wife of the Honorable Colonel Pakenham, brother of the Earl of Longford.

Lineage.

This is one of the old baronies created by summons, and which, being inheritable through the female, as well as the male line, pass, at different periods, into different families.

HUGH DE SPENCER (son of Thomas de Spencer, who was the sixth in descent from Robert, despencer, or steward, to William the Conqueror,) was summoned to parliament, on the 14th of December, 1264, (this nobleman filled the high office of justiciar of England,) and was succeeded by his son,

HUGH, created Earl of Winchester. This nobleman was beheaded on the 9th of October, 1326, when his honors were forfeited. His lordship's son and heir, however,

HUGH, having m. Eleanor, daughter and coheiress of Gilbert, Earl of Gloucester, and niece of Edward the Second, was summoned to parliament, from 1314 to 1325; but being beheaded and declared a traitor in the following year, his honors became also forfeited. His son and heir,

HUGH, was, however, summoned to parliament, from 1338 to 1349, when he d. without issue, and his nephew and heir,

EDWARD DE SPENCER, being summoned, from 1357 to 1372, was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. His lordship d. in 1375, and was succeeded by his son,

THOMAS, who was summoned, in 1396, and created Earl of Gloucester in 1397; but being beheaded and declared a traitor, in 1400, his honors were forfeited. This nobleman left a son and heir, who died during minority, when his lordship's sister,

ISABEL DE SPENCER, became his heiress, and m. Richard Beauchamp, Earl of Worcester, and Baron Abergavenny, by whom she had an only daughter, who m. Edward Neville, fourth son of Ralph, Earl of Westmoreland, (an earldom forfeited in 1570,) and the attainder of her grandfather, Thomas, seventh Baron De Spencer, being reversed, carried the baronies of Bergavenny, Burghersh, and De Spencer, into the family of her husband, where they remained until 1587, when,

HENRY, the fourth baron Abergavenny, d. without male issue. His lordship's only daughter,

THE HONORABLE MARY NEVILL, m. in 1574, Sir Thomas Fane, knight, by whom she had issue four sons and two daughters. Lady Fane, after the demise of Sir Thomas, on the 25th of May, 1604, was restored, by letters patent, to the dignity of Baroness Le De Spencer, in remainder to the heirs of her body, with the ancient seat, place, and precedency, of her ancestors. Her ladyship d. on the 28th of June, 1626, and was succeeded by her eldest son,

FRANCIS, who was created Earl of Westmoreland, on the 29th of December, 1624, and the barony of De Spencer merged in the earldom, until the demise of

VERE, the seventh Earl, in 1762, (who succeeded his two brothers,) without issue, when it fell into abeyance, between the heirs of his lordship's sisters, Mary, wife of Sir Francis Dashwood, baronet, and Catharine, lady of William Paul, esq.; but the crown terminated the abeyance, in 1763, in favour of

SIR FRANCIS DASHWOOD, baronet, son and heir of the above-named Sir Francis. This nobleman dying, however, in 1781, without issue, the barony again fell into abeyance, between his sister, Rachel, relict of Sir Robert Austen, baronet, and the heir of his aunt, Lady Catharine Paul; namely, the descendant of

CATHARINE PAUL, only daughter of Lady Catharine, who m. William Stapleton, esq., (created a baronet on the 28th of June, 1787,) and left issue, with a daughter, an only son,

SIR THOMAS STAPLETON. This gentleman m. in 1765, Mary, daughter of Henry Fane, esq., of Wormsley, in the county of Oxford, by whom he had issue Thomas, the present baron, (who, upon Lady Austen's demise, in 1788, without issue, obtained a termination of the abeyance of the barony of Le De Spencer in his favor;) with two other sons, and three daughters. Sir Thomas d. in 1781.

He is lord-lieutenant of the North Riding of the county of York, governor of the Scilly Isles, constable of Middleham Castle, and ranger of Richmond Forest, Yorkshire.

Lineage.

This noble family, like many others in the peerage and baronetage, traces its origin to the city of London, where it first became of importance through

Sir Edward Osborne, knt., who filled the office of lord mayor in the year 1558. The grandson of this gentleman,

Sir Edward Osborne, who was settled at Kiveton, in Yorkshire, was created a baronet, on the 13th of July, 1620. He m. twice, but left issue only by his second wife, Anne, daughter and heiress of Thomas Walmesley, esq., and great-grand-daughter of John (Neville), Lord Latimer, an only son, his successor,

Sir Thomas, who became lord high treasurer of England, and was elevated to the peerage, on the 15th of August, 1673, as Baron Osborne, of Kiveton, and Viscount Latimer, of Danby; advanced to an earldom, on the 27th of June, 1674, as Earl of Danby; created Marquess of Carmarthen, on the 20th of April, 1689; and Duke of Leeds, on the 4th of May, 1694. His grace was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, and enrolled amongst the peers of Scotland (1675), by the title of Viscount Dumblain. The duke m. Bridget, daughter of Montague Bertie, Earl of Lindsey, and was succeeded at his demise, in 1712, by his only surviving son,

Peregrine, who had been summoned to the house of peers, in the lifetime of his father, as Baron Osborne, of Kiveton. LEINSTER, DUKE OF, (Augustus-Frederick Fitzgerald,) Marquess of Kildare, and Earl of Kildare, in the county of Kildare, Earl and Baron of Offaley, in the King's County, in the peerage of Ireland; and Viscount Leinster, of Taplow, in the county of Buckingham, in that of Great Britain; b. 21st of August, 1791; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 20th of October, 1805; m. in 1818, Charlotte-Augusta, youngest daughter of Charles, present Earl of Harrington, by whom he has issue Charles-William, Marquess of Kildare, b. 30th March, 1819; Gerald, b. 6th January, 1821; and Jane-Saymour, b. 5th February, 1824. His grace is the only duke, and the premier marquess, earl, and baron of Ireland.

Lineage.

This illustrious family is descended from a common ancestor with that of Fitzmaurice, Earls of Kerry, (an earldom now merged in the marquesate of Lansdown,) namely,

MAURICE FITZGERALD, through whose exertions the possession of Ireland was chiefly accomplished by Henry the Second. This Maurice was son of Gerald Fitz Otho, (son of Walter Fitz Otho, castellan of Windsor, in the reign of William the Conqueror,) by Nesta, daughter of Rhese, Prince of South Wales. He obtained for his services a grant of the town of Wexford, and also of the baronies of Offaley and Wicklow, (then called Wykenlooe,) and was nominated, in 1172, one of the governors of Ireland. This nobleman (by tenure) d. on the 1st of September, 1177, and was succeeded in his landed property by his eldest son,

GERALD, who was created Baron of Offaley, then in the county of Kildare, but now in the King's County, in 1205. From this nobleman lineally descended

JOHN FITZ THOMAS, eighth Lord Offaley, immediate progenitor of his grace the Duke of Leinster. This nobleman being at variance with William Vesey, Lord of Kildare, in 1291, and having various charges to prefer against him, came over to England, and confronted and challenged the said Vesey, Lord of Kildare, before the king. Lord Kildare first took up the glove, but subsequently withdrawing to France, his majesty, Edward the First, pronounced against his lordship, and conferred upon Lord Offaley, Vesey's manors and lordship of Kildare, Rathangan, &c. Lord Offaley returned triumphant to Ireland, and having continued to promote the English interest, was created by Edward the Second, on the 14th of May, 1316, Earl of Kildare. His lordship d. in the same year. From this nobleman the family honors descended, without any thing remarkable occurring, to

THOMAS, the 7th earl, who was appointed, in 1545 and 1546, lord deputy of Ireland; in the latter of which years he held a great council or parliament, in Dublin, and, subsequently, one at Naas, wherein, amongst other proceedings, it was resolved, "That as no means could be found to keep the king's coin within the land of Ireland, that all Frenchmen, Spaniards, Britons, Portingales, and other sundry nations, should pay, for every pound of silver they carried out of the land, forty pence of custom to the king's customer, for the use of the king." His lordship was continued in the government of Ireland until 1549, when Richard, Duke of York, was nominated lord lieutenant; but, the following year, Lord Kildare was appointed deputy to the Duke of York. In 1463, he was constituted lord-chancellor of Ireland, by act of parliament, with the salary of forty pounds per annum, and ten shillings per day. This tide of prosperity continued to flow until 1467, when, being involved with the Earl of Desmond, he was attainted along with that nobleman, (who suffered death,) but subsequently pardoned, set at liberty, and restored in blood, by act of parliament. His lordship d. on the 25th March, 1477. From this nobleman the family honors passed tranquilly down to

ROBERT, the nineteenth earl, (third son of Robert Fitzgerald, esq., who took a distinguished and active part in favour of King William, during the contest in Ireland between that prince and his father-in-law, James the Second:) this nobleman succeeded his uncle, John, eighteenth earl, and was an eminent statesman, in the reigns of Queen Anne, and of King George the First and King George the Second. His lordship m. Mary, eldest daughter of William, (O'Brien,) third Earl of Inchiquin, by whom he had four sons and eight daughters, (two of whom only survived him,) and, dying on the 20th of February, 1743, was succeeded by his only son then living,

JAMES, who was created a peer of Great Britain, by the title of Viscount Leinster, of Taplow, on the 21st of February, 1747; on the 3rd of March, 1761, raised to the marquesate of Kildare, in Ireland, and created, on the 26th of November, 1766, Duke of Leinster. His grace m. in 1747, Amelia-Mary, daughter of Charles, Duke of Richmond and Lennox, by whom he had issue William-Robert, his successor; and sixteen other children, amongst whom was the unfortunate, though gallant, Lord Edward Fitzgerald, who fell a victim to his political opinions, in Ireland, on the 4th of June, 1798. His grace d. in 1773, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM ROBERT, b. in 1749; m. in 1775, Emilia-Olivia, only daughter and heiress of Usher, Lord St. George, by whom he had issue George, Marquess of Kildare, who d. in infancy; Augustus-Frederick, the present duke; three other sons, (two of whom d. in infancy,) and nine daughters. sons; and thirdly, Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of the Irish Earl of Downe, by whom he had a son and daughter. His lordship d. in 1701, and was succeeded by the eldest son of his second marriage,

ROBERT, who was advanced to the marquesate of Lindsey, on the 29th of September, 1706; and created, on the 20th July, 1715, Duke of Ancaster and Kesteven; in which superior titles, the earldom of Lindsey, and the barony of Willoughby, merged until the decease of

ROBERT, the fourth duke, unmarried, in 1779, when the barony fell into abeyance, between his sisters, (see Willoughby de Eresby,) and the other titles devolved upon his uncle,

BROWNLOW, fifth duke, at whose demise, on the 8th of February, 1809, without male issue, the dukedom of Ancaster, and the marquesate of Lindsey, ceased; but the earldom of Lindsey reverted to his kinsman,

ALBEMARLE, a general officer in the army, and colonel of the 89th regiment of foot, son of Peregrine Bertie, esq., (great-grandson of Montague, the second earl, through his fifth son, the Honorable Charles Bertie, of Uffington, in the county of Lincoln,) by Elizabeth, daughter of Edward Payne, esq., of Tottenham Wick. His lordship m. twice; but left issue by his second wife only, Charlotte-Susannah-Elizabeth, daughter of the Reverend Doctor Layard, late Dean of Bristol; namely, Albemarle-George-Augustus, the present peer; Montague, b. in 1815; and Charlotte. The marquess m. first in 1804, Catharine, youngest daughter of John, late Earl of Darnley, by whom he has an only son, Frederick, Viscount Castlereagh, b. 7th July, 1805; and secondly, Lady Frances-Anne, only daughter of Sir Harry-Vane Tempest, by Anne-Catharine, present Countess of Antrim, in her own right, (upon which occasion he assumed the surname and arms of Vane,) by whom he has two daughters; one born on the 16th of April, 1821, and another the 29th of July, 1823.

His lordship is a lieutenant-general in the army, and colonel of the tenth regiment of dragoons, a knight grand-cross of the Bath, and a knight of several foreign orders, governor and custos rotulorum of the counties of Londonderry and Down, and a lord of his majesty's bedchamber.

Lineage.

This noble family claims a common ancestor with the Earls of Galloway; namely, Sir William Stewart of Garlies, from whose second son, Sir Thomas Stewart, it is said to have descended. It was ennobled, however, in the person of

ROBERT STEWART, esq., eldest son of Alexander Stewart, esq., (a member of the Irish parliament,) of Ballylawn Castle, in the county of Donegal, and of Mount Stewart, in the county of Down, who was elevated to the Irish peerage on the 18th of November, 1789, as Baron Stewart; created Viscount Castlereagh, on the 6th of October, 1795; Earl of Londonderry, on the 10th of August, 1796; and Marquess of Londonderry, on the 22nd of January, 1816. His lordship m. first in 1776, Sarah-Frances, second daughter of Francis, Marquess of Hertford, by whom he had Robert, Viscount Castlereagh, his successor; and an elder son, who d. in infancy; and secondly, in 1775, Frances, eldest daughter of Charles, Earl of Camden, and sister of the present Marquess of Camden, by whom he had issue Charles-William, the present marquess; two other sons, who are both deceased; and eight daughters. The marquess d. on the 8th of April, 1821, and was succeeded by the only surviving son of his first marriage,

ROBERT, who had already distinguished himself in the political arena, as Viscount Castlereagh. His lordship m. in 1794, Amelia, youngest daughter and co-heiress of John, (Hobart) second Earl of Buckinghamshire, by whom he had no issue. The marquess d. by his own hand in a paroxysm of mental derangement, at his seat at North Cray, on the 12th of August, 1822, (at which period he was secretary of state for foreign affairs,) and was succeeded by his half-brother, the present Marquess of Londonderry.

LONGFORD, EARL OF, (Thomas Packenham,) and Baron Longford, in the peerage of Ireland; Baron Silchester, of Silchester, in the county of Southampton, in the peerage of the United Kingdom; b. 14th May, 1774; succeeded to the barony upon the demise of his father, on the 3rd of June, 1792; to the earldom at the decease of his grandmother, in January, 1794; and obtained his British peerage, by creation, on the 17th July, 1821. His lordship m. in January, 1817, Georgiana, daughter of the late Earl Beauchamp, by whom he has issue Edward-Michael, Lord Packenham, b. 30th October, 1817, and four other sons.

Lord Longford sits in parliament as one of the representative peers for Ireland, although, since his election, he has been created a peer of the empire at large, and, as such, possesses an hereditary seat.

Lineage.

The first member of the family of Packenham, (one of antiquity in the county of Suffolk,) who settled in Ireland, was

SIR EDWARD PACKENHAM, knt., who accompanied his cousin, Sir Henry Sidney, to that country, in 1576; the grandson of this gentleman,

HENRY PACKENHAM, esq., was seated at Packenham Hall, in the county of Westmeath, in the reign of Charles the Second, and was father of

SIR THOMAS PACKENHAM, knt. a lawyer of eminence, and prime sergeant-at-law in Ireland, in 1695; the grandson of this gentleman,

THOMAS PACKENHAM, esq., having m. in 1739, Elizabeth, daughter and sole heiress of Michael Cuffee, esq., and niece of Ambrose (Aungier), second and last Earl of Longford of that family, (to whom her father was heir,) was created, in 1756, Baron of Longford; and his lady, on the 5th July, 1785, Countess of Longford. By this marriage, his lordship had issue Edward-Michael, his successor; Robert and William, who d. in youth; Thomas, an admiral of the red and a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath, (who m. Louisa, daughter of the Honorable John Staples, and has ten children;) besides three daughters. His lordship d. in 1776, and was succeeded in the barony of Longford by his eldest son,

EDWARD-MICHAEL, b. in 1743; m. in 1768, Catharine, second daughter of the Right Honorable Hercules-Longford Rowley, and Elizabeth, Viscountess Longford, by whom he had issue Thomas, the present peer; Edward-Michael, (late major-general in the army, and Knight Grand Cross of the Bath,) who distinguished himself during the Peninsular war, and received the unanimous thanks of both houses of parliament, and fell in action, on the 8th of January, 1815, near New Orleans; three other sons, and four daughters; the second of whom, Catharine, m. in 1806, Arthur, present Duke of Wellington. His lordship d. in 1792, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Thomas, the present peer, who succeeded to the earldom of Longford at the decease of his grandmother, Countess Longford, in Jan. 1794.

LONSDALE, EARL OF, (William Lowther,) in the county of Westmoreland, Viscount Lowther, and Baron Lowther, of Whitehaven, in the county of Cumberland, and a baronet of England; b. 29th of December, 1757; m. in July, 1781, Augusta, daughter of John, late Earl of Westmoreland, by whom he has issue William, Viscount Lowther, b. 30th of July, 1787; another son, and four daughters. His lordship succeeded to the titles of Viscount and Baron Lowther at the decease of his kinsman, the late Earl of Lonsdale, in 1802; he had previously, in 1788, inherited the baronetcy from his father, and was created Earl of Lonsdale, on the 7th of April, 1807. Lord Lonsdale is a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, a lieutenant-colonel in the army, lord-lieutenant of the counties of Cumberland and Westmoreland, and recorder of Carlisle.

Lineage.

This is a family of great antiquity and influence in the counties of Westmoreland and Cumberland, being settled at Lowther Hall, in the former, for time immemorial. It obtained a baronetcy, and a patent of nobility, first, in the person of

JOHN LOWTHER, esq., who was created a baronet; and, in 1696, elevated to the peerage, as Baron Lowther and Viscount Lonsdale, which titles became extinct, in 1751, at the demise of the third viscount, but the great family estates devolved upon the heir-at-law,

JAMES LOWTHER, esq., created a baronet, on the 22nd of August, 1764, and elevated to the peerage, on the 11th of May, 1784, as Baron Burgh, in the county of Cumberland; Baron Lowther and Kendal, in the county of Westmoreland; Viscount Lonsdale and Lowther, and Earl of Lonsdale. His lordship m. Mary, eldest daughter of John, third Earl of Bute, but having no issue, he obtained a new patent, on the 26th of October, 1797, creating him Viscount and Baron Lowther, with remainder to the heirs male of his cousin, the Reverend Sir William Lowther, bart., of Swillington. His lordship d. on the 24th of May, 1802, when the earldom, and the other titles of the first patent, became extinct; but the last viscounty and barony devolved, according to the limitation, upon Sir William Lowther, bart., the present peer, eldest son of the Reverend Sir William Lowther, by Anne, eldest daughter of the Reverend Charles Zouch, of Sandall, in the county of York.

LOTHIAN, MARQUESS OF, (John-William-Robert Kerr,) Earl of Ancram and Earl of Lothian, Baron Newbottle and Baron Jedburgh, in the peerage of Scotland; and Baron Kerr, of Kersheugh, in the county of Roxburgh, in the peerage of the United Kingdom; b. 1st February, 1794; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 27th of April, 1824.

Lineage.

This noble family claims descent from the house of Ker, of Fernihurst, the founder of which, Ralph Ker, settled in Teviotdale, sometime about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The lineal descendant of this personage,

ROBERT KER, esq., great-grandson of Sir William Ker, of Fernihurst, whose eldest son, John, was grandfather of Robert, Earl of Somerset, (the celebrated favorite of James the First,) and of Andrew, Baron Jedburgh, was elevated to the peerage of Scotland, in 1633, as Earl of Ancram, with remainder to the male descendants of his second wife, and, in default of those, to his issue male whatsoever. His lordship m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Murray, by whom he had an only son, William; and, secondly, Anne, only surviving daughter of William (Stanley), Earl of Derby, by whom he had another son, Charles, and several daughters. He d. in 1654, and was succeeded, according to the limitation of the patent, by the only son of his second marriage,

CHARLES. This nobleman d. without issue, when the title devolved upon his half and elder brother,

WILLIAM, who, in consequence of marrying Anne, Countess of Lothian in her own right, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Robert Ker, second Earl of Lothian, (which earldom was conferred upon her ladyship's grandfather, Mark Ker, created Baron Newbottle, in 1591, in 1606,) had been previously, in 1631, created Earl of Lothian, and thus became Earl of Lothian and Ancram. By this marriage, his lordship left at his decease, in 1675, an only son,

ROBERT, who succeeded to the earldoms of Lothian and Ancram. This nobleman was appointed high commissioner to the general assembly of the church, in Scotland, and advanced, on the 23rd of June, 1701, to the marquesate of Lothian. His lordship m. Jean, daughter of Archibald, Marquess of Argyll, by whom he had issue five sons and five daughters. He d. in 1703, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, who had previously, in 1692, at the demise of his kinsman, Robert, third Baron Jedburgh, (a peerage conferred on the 2nd of February, 1622,) succeeded to that barony, by virtue of special limitation in the patent of creation. His lordship d. in 1722, and was succeeded by his only son,

WILLIAM, who d. in 1767, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM-HENRY. This nobleman m. Louisa-Caroline, only daughter of Robert, Earl of Holderness, and great-grand-daughter of the celebrated Duke of Schomberg, who fell at the battle of the Boyne, in 1690, by whom he had issue a son and two daughters. He d. in 1775, and was succeeded by his son,

WILLIAM-JOHN. This nobleman, who was a general officer in the army, colonel of the 11th regiment of dragoons, and knight of the Thistle, m. in 1760, Elizabeth, only daughter of Chichester Fortescue, esq., of the county of Louth, and grand-daughter of Richard (Wellesley) first Lord Mornington, by whom he had issue four sons and five daughters. His lordship d. in 1815, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Thistle, who was enrolled amongst the peers of the United Kingdom, on the 17th of July, 1821, as Baron Kerr, of Kersheugh, in the county of Roxburgh. His lordship m. twice: first, in 1793, Henrietta, daughter of John, second Earl of Buckinghamshire, by whom he had issue John-William-Robert, the present marquess; two other sons, and a daughter; and secondly, in 1806, Henrietta, daughter of Henry, third Duke of Buccleugh, by whom he had three sons and three daughters. The marquess d. in April, 1824.

LOUDOUN, COUNTESS, (Flora-Muir Rawdon,) Baroness Loudoun, of Conyngham, in the county of Ayr; and Baroness Farrinyeane and Marchline, in the peerage of Scotland; b. in 1780; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of her father, on the 28th of April, 1786; m. in 1804, Francis-Rawdon, present Marquess of Hastings, by whom she has issue George-Frances, Earl of Rawdon, b. 4th February, 1808; and four daughters.

Lineage.

The lordship of Loudoun, in Ayrshire, originally held by tenure, descended, through several generations, to

SIR HUGH CAMPBELL, a privy councillor, in Scotland, who was created a lord of parliament on the 30th of June, 1604, by the title of Lord Campbell, of Loudoun. His lordship's eldest son dying in his lifetime, the title descended, at his decease in 1622, to the eldest of two grand-daughters,

MARGARET, who then became Baroness Loudoun. Her ladyship m. in 1620, Sir John Campbell, of Lawers, who was elevated to the peerage on the 12th of May, 1633, by the titles of Baron Farrinyeane and Marchline, and Earl of Loudoun. This nobleman d. in 1663, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

JAMES, who m. Margaret, daughter of Hugh, Earl of Eglinton, and had issue Hugh, his successor; John, who d. unmarried; James, a distinguished military officer, who fell at the battle of Fontenoy, in 1743, (leaving issue, by Jean, daughter of David, first Earl of Glasgow, James, who eventually succeeded to the family honors; and a daughter;) besides four daughters. His lordship d. in 1684, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

HUGH. This nobleman enjoyed the confidence of King William, and became a privy councillor, and an extraordinary lord of session, in Scotland. He was, also, installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Thistle. His lordship m. in 1700, Margaret, daughter of John, Earl of Stair, by whom he had a son and two daughters. The earl resigned his titles, in 1707, and obtained a new patent, conferring them upon himself, and his direct heirs male; but in default of those, to the heirs general of the first earl. His lordship d. in 1731, and was succeeded by his only son,

JOHN, a general officer in the army, who d. unmarried, in 1782, when the family honors reverted to his cousin,

JAMES, son of General Sir James Campbell, knight of the Bath, who, as already mentioned, fell at Fontenoy. His lordship, who was a major-general in the army, m. in 1777, Flora, eldest daughter of John Macleod, esq., of Ramsay, by whom he had an only child Flora-Muir-Campbell, present countess of Loudoun, and Marchioness of Hastings, who succeeded, in consequence of the reversionary clause in the renewal patent, at the demise of her father, in 1786, to the family honors. His lordship assumed the surname of Muir, upon inheriting the estates of his grandmother, the Countess of Glasgow.

land; and a baronet of England; b. in October, 1762; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, on the 14th of September, 1808. His lordship is high steward of Bewdley.

Lineage.

THOMAS LITTLETON, esq., of Frankley, lineally descended from the celebrated judge of the common pleas, in the reign of Edward the Fourth, Sir Thomas Littleton, was created a baronet on the 18th of July, 1618. From this gentleman the title descended, uninterruptedly, to the 5th baronet,

SIR GEORGE, eldest son of Sir Thomas, his predecessor, by Christian, daughter of Sir Richard Temple, bart., of Stowe, in the county of Buckingham. This gentleman, having filled many high official stations, was elevated to the peerage in 1756, as Lord Lyttleton, Baron of Frankley, which peerage ceased at the demise of his only son,

THOMAS, in 1779, without issue, but the baronetcy reverted to his lordship's uncle, his father's half-brother,

WILLIAM-HENRY, (eldest son of Sir Thomas Lyttleton, by his second wife, Lady Rachel Russell, eldest daughter of Wriothesley, second Duke of Bedford,) who, after being employed as a diplomatist in several foreign missions, was created a peer of Ireland, on the 21st of July, 1776, as Baron Westcote, of Balamore. His lordship m. first, in 1761, Mary, daughter and co-heiress of James Macartney, esq., of the county of Longford, in Ireland, by whom he had issue George Fulke, the present peer; another son, and a daughter; and, secondly, in 1774, Caroline, daughter of John Bristow, esq., by whom he left, at his decease, in 1808, William-Henry, heir presumptive to the peerage, and a daughter. Lord Westcote was enrolled amongst the peers of Great Britain, by the title of Lord Lyttleton, Baron of Frankley, on the 13th of August, 1794.

His lordship is captain-general and governor of the island of Jamaica, and lord lieutenant of the county of Huntingdon.

Lineage.

The surname of this noble family was anciently written, in Latin, de Monte Acuto, and in English, Montacute; but the original was, nevertheless, Montagu, from the town of that name in Normandy. The first of the family who came to England was

DROGO DE MONTEACUTO, a warrior in the immediate train of Robert, Earl of Morton, half-brother of William the Conqueror, at the period of the Norman invasion, in 1066. From this personage descended, in nearly five centuries afterwards,

SIR EDWARD MONTAGU, knight, a distinguished lawyer, who was appointed lord chief justice of the Court of King's Bench, in 1539, which office he resigned in 1545; and was constituted, in the same year, lord chief justice of the Common Pleas. "A descent," says Fuller, "in honor, but an ascent in profit." His lordship m. thrice, and the eldest son of his third marriage, (the sons of his first marriage all died in infancy,)

SIR EDWARD MONTAGU, knight, was father of

SIR HENRY MONTAGU, who represented the city of London, in the first parliament of King James the first, held at Westminster, on the 19th of March, 1604, and was a very eloquent and distinguished senator. In 1616, he was appointed lord chief justice of the Court of King's Bench; in 1620, nominated lord treasurer of England: and on the 19th of December, in the same year, elevated to the peerage as Baron Montagu, of Kimbolton, and Viscount Mandeville. Upon the accession of King Charles the first, on the 5th of February, 1626, his lordship was advanced to an earldom, as Earl of Manchester. He d. on the 7th of November, 1642, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

EDWARD, who was summoned to the upper house of parliament in the life-time of his father, as Baron Kimbolton. This nobleman was an active and successful general of the parliamentary army, during the civil wars. His lordship, however, refused to sanction the murder of the king, and retired from parliament until 1660, when he assisted at the meeting of peers, who voted for the restoration of King Charles the Second, a measure, to the accomplishment of which he was subsequently and mainly instrumental, and was deputed by the lords, as their speaker, to congratulate the king upon his return to his capital; a duty, which the earl eloquently fulfilled at Whitehall, on the 29th of May, 1660. His lordship m. five times, but had issue only by his second wife, (Lady Anne Rich, daughter of Robert, Earl of Warwick;) and his third, (Essex, daughter of Sir Thomas Cheek, knight,) namely, by the former, a son and two daughters; and by the latter, six sons and two daughters. His lordship d. on the 5th of May, 1671, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

ROBERT, who d. in 1682, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

CHARLES. This nobleman, having filled several diplomatic employments of the first rank, was created Duke of Manchester, on the 13th of April, 1719. His grace m. Dodington, daughter and coheiress of Lord Brook, by whom he had issue two sons and four daughters; the second eldest of the latter, Lady Dodington Montagu, was unfortunately burnt to death at the advanced age of 80, at her house in Lower Grosvenor-street, on the 8th of January, 1774. The duke d. on the 20th of January, 1731-2, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, who d. without issue, on the 21st of October, 1739, when the family honors devolved upon his brother,

ROBERT. This nobleman m. Harriet, daughter and co-heiress of Edmund Dunch, esq., of Little Wittenham, in the county of Berks, by whom he had issue two sons and two daughters. His grace d. on the 10th of May, 1762, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GEORGE, who m. in 1762, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Sir James Dashwood, of Northbrook and Kirtlington, baronet, by whom he had issue George, who d. in boyhood; William, the present duke; two other sons, and three daughters. His grace d. on the 2nd of September, 1778.

MANSFIELD, EARL OF, (William Murray,) in the county of Middlesex, in the peerage of England; Viscount Stormont, and Baron Scone and Balvaird, in the peerage of Scotland; b. in 1777; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 1st of September, 1796; m. in 1797, Frederica, daughter of his Grace, William, (Markham,) late archbishop of York, by whom he has issue William-David, Lord Murray, b. 21st February, 1806; two other sons, and five daughters. The earl is hereditary keeper of the palace of Scone, and lord lieutenant of the county of Clackmannan, F.R.S. and A.S.

Lineage.

This noble family derives its origin from a common ancestor with the ducal house of Athol, namely, Sir William Murray, knt., of Tullibarden. From this gentleman's son,

SIR ANDREW MURRAY, descended

SIR DAVID MURRAY, cupbearer to King James the Sixth, of Scotland, who, becoming a great favourite with his majesty, (having been instrumental in preserving his life from the attempt of the Earl of Gourie, and his brother, Mr. Ruthven, in the town of Perth, on the 5th of August, 1600,) was created Lord Scone, on the 7th of April, 1605, and advanced to the viscounty of Stormont on the 16th of August, 1621. His lordship d. on the 27th of August, 1631, and, having no issue, he obtained, previous to his decease, a reversionary clause to his patent, conferring his honors upon his kinsman,

SIR MUNGO MURRAY, from whom those honors descended (having, for some time, merged in the higher title of Earl of Annandale) to

DAVID, fifth Viscount Stormont, and third Lord Balvaird, who succeeded to his father, upon the 7th of October, 1668. This nobleman m. Margery, only daughter of David Scott, esq., of Scotstarvet, by whom he had issue David, his successor; four other sons, and eight daughters. His lordship d. on the 9th of November, 1731, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

DAVID, sixth Viscount Stormont, who m. in 1726, Anne, only daughter and heiress of John Stewart, esq., of Inneryntie, by whom he had David, his successor; another son, and two daughters. His lordship d. in 1748. In the same year that the fifth Lord Stormont d. 1731, his third son,

THE HONORABLE WILLIAM MURRAY, was called to the English bar, and his success was unprecedentedly rapid. Reaching, almost immediately, the head of his profession, he was nominated solicitor-general, in 1742; attorney-general, in 1754; and in two years afterwards, (on the 8th of November, 1756,) lord chief-justice of the court of king's bench, when he was elevated to the peerage, (upon the same day,) by the title of Baron Mansfield, of Mansfield, in the county of Nottingham. His lordship was created Earl of Mansfield, of the county of Nottingham, on the 31st of October, 1776, with remainder of the dignity of Countess of Mansfield to Louisa, Viscountess Stormont, wife of his nephew, David, Viscount Stormont; and, on the 1st of August, 1792, Earl of Mansfield, of Caen Wood, in the county of Middlesex, with remainder to his nephew, the above-mentioned David, Viscount Stormont. His lordship dying without issue, in March, 1793, the original barony of Mansfield was extinguished; the earldom of Mansfield, of the county of Nottingham, devolved in the title of countess upon his niece; and

MARR, EARL OF, (John-Thomas Erskine,) b. in 1771; succeeded to the title, upon the demise of his father, in 1825.

The honors of the house of Marr being of Scotland only, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

This is one of the most ancient families in the Scottish peerage; so old, indeed, that the date of the creation of its honors is lost in its antiquity. The first Earl of Marr, of whom mention is made, is

MARTACUS, contemporary with Malcolm Canmore, King of Scotland, and William the Conqueror. From this nobleman descended

JAMES, Earl of Marr, who was elected Regent of Scotland, on the 6th of September, 1571. His lordship d. in the following year, and was succeeded by his only son,

JOHN, from whom the title descended, uninterruptedly, to

JOHN, denominated the eleventh earl, a knight of the Thistle, and secretary of state for Scotland, in 1706. His lordship attaching himself, however, to the fortunes of the Pretender, and taking an active part in the rebellion of 1715, followed his royal master to Rome; and was attainted, by act of parliament, in 1715. He d. in 1732; and his only son, Thomas, Lord Erskine, in 1788. From the period of passing the bill of attainder, the earldom remained under its influence, until revived, through the gracious and special recommendation of his present majesty, by parliament, on the 17th of June, 1824, in favour of JOHN FRANCIS ERSKINE, esq., son of James Erskine, knight marshal of Scotland, by Frances, only daughter of John the attainted Earl of Marr, and great-grandson of Charles, tenth earl, through his second son, the Honorable James Erskine, of the Grange. His lordship was b. in 1741; m. in 1770, Frances, only daughter of Charles Floyer, esq., governor of Madras, by whom he had issue John-Thomas, the present peer; three other sons, and four daughters.

MASSEREENE, VISCOUNTESS, (Harriet Skeffington,) and Baroness Loughneagh, in the peerage of Ireland; m. in 1810, Thomas-Henry Foster, Viscount Ferrard, of Ireland, who assumed the name of Skeffington, and has issue a son, b. 30th of November, 1812; and a daughter, b. 11th of April, 1816. Her ladyship succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of her father, on the 25th of February, 1816.

Lineage.

SIR JOHN CLOTWORTHY, a very active personage in promoting the restoration of King Charles the Second, was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, upon the accomplishment of that event, on the 21st of November, 1660, as Baron of Loughneagh, and Viscount Massereene, with remainder, in default of male issue, to his son-in-law, Sir John Skeffington, the husband of his only daughter, Mary, and his issue male, by his said wife; in default of which, to the heirs general of his lordship. The viscount d. in 1665, and the titles devolved, according to the reversionary proviso, upon his son-in-law, aforesaid,

SIR JOHN SKEFFINGTON, who d. in 1695, and was succeeded by his son,

CLOTWORTHY. This nobleman d. in 1713, and was succeeded by his son,

CLOTWORTHY, who was succeeded, in 1738, by his son,

CLOTWORTHY, created, on the 3rd of July, 1756, Earl of Massereene. His lordship m. first, in 1738, Anne, eldest daughter of the Rev. Richard Daniel, Dean of Down, by whom he had no issue; and secondly, in 1751, Elizabeth, only daughter of Henry Eyre, esq., of the county of Derby, by whom he had several children. He d. in 1759, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

CLOTWORTHY. This nobleman m. twice, but dying without issue in 1805, the family honors devolved upon his brother,

HENRY, who d. unmarried, on the 12th of June, 1811, when the peerage descended to his brother, CHICHESTER. This nobleman m. Harriet, eldest daughter of Robert, first Earl of Roden, by whom he had issue an only daughter, Harriet, to whom descended, at his lordship's decease, in 1816, the viscounty of Massereene, and the barony of Loughneagh, but the earldom became extinct.

Country Seat—Cullon-House, in the county of Louth.

MASSY, BARON, (Hugh-Hamon Massy,) of Duntrileague, in the county of Limerick; b. 13th of February, 1793; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, on the 20th of June, 1812.

This being a barony of Ireland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present baron is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

The first of this noble family that settled in Ireland, was General

HUGH MASSY, who went over, in a military command, to repress the rebellion of 1641. This gentleman's great-grandson,

HUGH MASSY, esq., eldest son of Colonel Hugh Massy, of Duntrileague, in the county of Limerick, by Elizabeth, daughter of the Right Honorable George Evans, was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, on the 4th of August, 1776, as Baron Massy. Country Seat—Cardiness, Kircudbright.

MAYNARD, VISCOUNT, (Henry Maynard,) of Easton Lodge, and Baron Maynard, of Much Easton, both in the county of Essex, and a baronet; b. 3rd of March, 1786; m. in 1810, Miss Rabbett, only daughter of Benjamin Rabbett, esq. of Bramfield Hall, in the county of Suffolk, by whom he has no children. His lordship succeeded to the honors of his family upon the demise of his uncle, on the 10th of March, 1824, and was nominated, in April, 1825, lord-lieutenant of the county of Essex.

Lineage.

This noble family deduces its descent from Mainard, or Maignard, one of the military officers who accompanied William the Conqueror, in 1066. It was not, however, distinguished by hereditary honors until nearly six centuries afterwards, when

WILLIAM MAYNARD, esq., eldest son of Sir Henry Maynard, knt., secretary to the celebrated statesman, Cecil, Lord Burleigh, received the honor of knighthood, (on the 7th of March, 1768;) was created a baronet, on the 29th of June, 1611; a peer of Ireland, on the 30th May, 1620, by the title of Lord Maynard, of Wicklow; and enrolled amongst the peers of England, as Baron Maynard, of Estaines, in the county of Essex, on the 14th of March, 1628. His lordship d. on the 18th of December, 1639, and was succeeded by his only son,

WILLIAM, who was appointed, after the Restoration, comptroller of the household, and sworn a member of the privy council, which office he also filled in the reign of King James the Second. His lordship d. in 1698, and was succeeded by his third and eldest surviving son,

BANASTRE. This gentleman m. Elizabeth, only daughter of Henry (Grey), Earl of Kent, by whom he had eight sons and three daughters. His lordship d. on the 4th of March, 1717-18, and was succeeded by his third and eldest surviving son,

HENRY, who d. unmarried, in 1742, when the family honors devolved upon his brother,

GREY, who also d. unmarried, (in 1745,) when the honors descended to another brother,

CHARLES. This nobleman was created, on the 18th of October, 1766, Baron Maynard, of Much Easton, and Viscount Maynard, of Easton Lodge, both in the county of Essex, with remainder, in default of male issue, to the descendants male of his kinsman, Sir William Maynard, bart., of Waltons, in the county of Essex, (a baronetcy conferred in 1681.) His lordship d. at the advanced age of eighty-five, on the 30th of June, 1775, and never having been married, the baronetcy and the original Irish and English baronies became extinct, but the viscounty and last barony devolved, according to the reversionary clause in the patent, upon

SIR CHARLES MAYNARD, baronet, son of Sir William Maynard, by Charlotte, daughter of Sir Cecil Bishopp, bart., and great-great-grand-nephew of the first baron, being the direct descendant of his brother, Charles Maynard, esq., auditor of the exchequer in the reign of Charles the Second, who d. in 1665. This nobleman m. in 1776, Mrs. Anne Horton, but dying without issue, on the 10th of March, 1824, the peerage devolved upon his nephew, Henry Maynard, esq., the present viscount, who is the son of the late William Maynard, esq., and grandson of Sir William Maynard, bart.

MAYO, EARL OF, (John Bourke,) Viscount Mayo, and Baron of Naas, in the county of Kildare, D.C.L.; b. 18th of June, 1766; m. in 1792, Arabella, daughter of William-Macworth Pread, esq., of Britton House, in the county of Devon, by whom he has no issue. His lordship succeeded to the honors of his family at the decease of his father, on the 20th of August, 1794.

This being a peerage of Ireland only, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, but the present earl sits as one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

This distinguished house claims a common ancestor with that of Burke or De Burgh, earls and marquesses of Clanricarde, but it is more immediately descended from an elder branch of the family of Bourke, Viscount Mayo, a peerage created in 1627, which ceased with the eighth viscount, in 1767.

JOHN BOURKE, esq. m. in 1725, Mary, third daughter and co-heiress of the Right Honorable Lord Chief Baron Deane, of the Irish exchequer, by whom he left issue three sons and a daughter. Mr. Bourke

MONTFORT, LORD, (Henry Bromley,) Baron of Horseheath, in the county of Cambridge; D.C.L.; b. 14th of May, 1773; m. in 1793, Miss Elizabeth Watts, by whom he has no issue. His lordship succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, on the 24th of October, 1779.

Lineage.

This noble family is descended from Sir Walter Bromleghe, knight, who lived in the reign of King John; but its patent of nobility was not obtained for five centuries after that period. It enjoyed, however, in the interim, considerable rank amongst the gentry of the kingdom, and flourished particularly in the counties of Stafford, Salop, and Chester. In 1579, it gave a lord high chancellor to England, in the person of

Sir Thomas Bromley, knt., one of the most eminent lawyers of his day. The great-great-great-grand-daughter of this distinguished judge,

Mercy Bromley, only surviving daughter and heiress of William Bromley, esq., of Holt Castle, m. in 1704,

John Bromley, esq., eldest son and heir of John Bromley, esq., of Horseheath Hall, in the county of Cambridge. From this marriage descended

Henry Bromley, esq., (grandson) who, having represented the county of Cambridge in parliament from 1727 to 1741, was elevated to the peerage, on the 9th of May, in the latter year, by the title of Lord Montfort, Baron of Horseheath. His lordship m. Frances, daughter of Thomas Wyndham, esq., and sister and sole heiress of Sir Francis Wyndham, bart., of Trent, by whom he had a son and daughter. The baron d. on the 1st of January, 1755, and was succeeded by his only son,

Thomas. This nobleman m. in 1772, Mary-Anne, daughter of Patrick Blake, esq., and sister of Sir Patrick Blake, bart., of Langham, in the county of Suffolk, by whom he had an only son, Henry, the present peer. His lordship d. in 1799.

MONTGOMERY, SIR GEORGE, baronet, of Magbie Hill, in the county of Peebles; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, on the 25th of December, 1788.

Lineage.

William Montgomery, esq., eldest son of William Montgomery, esq., of Magbie Hill, was created a baronet, on the 29th of May, 1774. He m. twice: first, in 1750, Hannah, daughter and co-heiress of Alexander Tomkins, esq., of Prichen, in the county of Londonderry, by whom he had a son, George, an officer in the army, who d. of wounds received in action; and three daughters. The eldest of which, Elizabeth, m. Luke, Viscount Mountjoy; the second, Barbara, m. the Right Honorable John Beresford; and the third, Anne, m. George, first Marquess of Townshend. Sir William m. secondly, in 1761, Anne, third daughter of Henry Evatt, esq. of Mount Lewis, by whom he had George, the present baronet; Robert, killed in a duel with Captain Macnamara; and several other children. He d. in 1788.

Country Seat—Magbie Hill, county of Peebles.

MONTGOMERY, SIR JAMES, baronet, of Stanhope, in the county of Peebles; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, on the 2nd of April, 1803; m. first, in 1804, Elizabeth, daughter of Dunbar, Earl of Selkirk, by whom he had no issue; and, secondly, in 1816, Helen, second daughter of Thomas Graham, esq., of Kinross, by whom he has a son, b. in 1823, and a daughter, b. in 1820.

Lineage.

This is another branch of the family last described.

James Montgomery, esq., second son of William Montgomery, esq. of Magbie Hill, and brother of Sir William Montgomery, (see last article,) was created a baronet, on the 1st of July, 1801. He m. Margaret, only daughter and heiress of Robert Scott, esq., of Kilian, in the county of Stirling, by whom he left issue James, the present baronet; two other sons, and three daughters. Sir James d. in 1803.

ham and Buchanan, Earl of Montrose, Earl of Kincardin, Viscount Dundaff, Lord Aberuthven, Myndock, and Fintray, in the peerage of Scotland; Baron Graham and Earl Graham, of Belford, in the county of Northumberland, in the peerage of England; D.C.L.; b. 8th February, 1755; m. first, in 1785, Jemima-Elizabeth, daughter of John, Earl of Ashburnham, by whom he had an only son, who d. in infancy; and, secondly, in 1790, Caroline-Maria, daughter of George, late Duke of Manchester, by whom he has issue James, Marquess of Graham, b. 16th July, 1799; another son, and four daughters. His grace succeeded to the honors of his family at the demise of his father, on the 23rd of September, 1790. The Duke of Montrose is a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, master of the horse to the king, lord justice-general of Scotland, lord-lieutenant of the county of Stirling, and chancellor of the university of Glasgow.

Lineage.

According to the Scottish historians, this ducal family is as ancient as the restoration of the monarchy of Scotland, by Fergus the Second; and, by the same authority, it derives its origin from the renowned Greme, who governed that kingdom during the minority of his grandson, Eugene the Second, a monarch whose reign commenced in the early part of the fifth century. It is certain, however, that no family of North Britain can boast of greater antiquity.

Sir David Graham, knt., a personage remarkable for patriotism and valour, was one of the Scottish grandees employed to negotiate the ransom of David, King of Scotland, who became a captive at the battle of Durham, in 1346, and Sir David's son,

Sir Patrick Graham, was one of the hostages by which the release of the king was accomplished. This gentleman was styled, in the life-time of his father, Lord of Dundaff and Kincardine. He m. twice, and had children by both marriages. Sir Patrick was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir William. This gentleman also m. twice: first, Mariota, daughter of Sir John Oliphante, of Aberdalgy, by whom he had an only son, Alexander, who did not survive him; and, secondly, the Lady Mariot, widow of the Earl of Angus, and of Sir James Kennedy, and daughter of King Robert the Third, by whom he had three sons: Robert, progenitor of the Grahams, of Claverhouse; Patrick, Bishop of St. Andrews, and papal nuncio; and William, ancestor of the present Lord Lyndoch. The grandson of this Sir William Graham,

Patrick, son of Alexander, mentioned above as dying before his father, being appointed one of the lords of the regency during the minority of James the Second, was made a lord of parliament about the year 1445, by the title of Lord Graham. He d. in 1467, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

William, who was raised to the dignity of Earl of Montrose on the 3rd of March, 1504, in consideration of the gallantry he displayed at the battle of Bannockburn, in 1488, wherein his royal master, James the Third, lost his life. His lordship fell, with James the Fourth, at the battle of Flodden Field, on the 9th of September, 1513, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

William. This nobleman was one of the peers to whom John, Duke of Albany, Regent of Scotland, in the minority of James the Fifth, committed the tuition of the young prince during his grace's absence in France, in 1523. His lordship d. in 1571, and was succeeded by his grandson,

John, posthumous son of Robert, Master of Montrose, who was slain at the battle of Pinkey, on the 13th of September, 1547. This nobleman d. in 1608, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

John, who was nominated president of the privy council to King Charles the First. His lordship d. in 1626, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

James. This nobleman took a distinguished part, first, on the side of the covenanters, and afterwards, during the civil wars, on the part of his ill-fated sovereign, King Charles the First. He was created Marquess of Montrose, on the 16th of May, 1644, but experienced a signal defeat in the following year from Major-general Leslie, at the battle of Philiphaugh, fought 13th September, 1645, upon which occasion, the earl retired to France; but returning to Scotland, in 1650, he collected a new army, and being again defeated, he was forced to fly the field of battle in disguise. He was, however, taken prisoner, a few days afterwards, at the house of M'Leod, of Assint, from whence he was led captive to Edinburgh, and there executed, upon a gallows thirty feet high, on the 20th of May, 1650. His lordship was succeeded by his son,

James, who was restored to his fortune and honors at the return of King Charles the Second. This nobleman d. in 1669, and was succeeded by his son,

James, who m. Christian, daughter of John, Duke of Rothis, and dying, in 1684, was succeeded by his son,

James, installed a knight of the most illustrious order of the Garter, in 1705, and created, on the 24th of April, 1707, Duke of Montrose. His grace m. Christian, daughter of David, third Earl of Northesk, by whom he had issue a son and daughter, who d. in infancy; David, (who was created a peer of England on the 23rd of May, 1722, by the titles of Baron and Earl of Graham, of Belford, in the county of Northumberland, with remainder, in default of male issue, to his brothers:) and two other sons. The duke d. in 1742, and was succeeded by his eldest surviving son,

William, who had previously, at the demise of his brother, in 1731, inherited the English honors. His grace m. in 1742, Lucy, daughter of John, Duke of Rutland, by whom he had issue James, the present duke; and Lucy, who m. Archibald, Lord

MOORE, BARON, (Charles Moore,) of Moore Place, in the county of Kent, in the United Kingdom, created January, 1801.

See, Marquess of Drogheda.

MORAY, EARL OF, (Francis Stuart,) and Baron Doune, in the peerage of Scotland; Baron Stuart, of Castle Stuart, in the county of Inverness, in the peerage of the United Kingdom; b. in 1771; m. first, in 1795, Lucy, daughter and co-heiress, with her sisters, the Duchess of Portland and the lady of the Right Honorable G. Canning, of General John Scott, of Balcombie, in the county of Fife, by whom he has issue Francis, Lord Doune, b. 7th November, 1795, and another son; and, secondly, in 1801, Margaret-Jane, eldest daughter of Sir Philip Ainslie, knt., of Pilton, in the county of Edinburgh, by whom he has a son and five daughters. His lordship succeeded to the honors of his family at the decease of his father, on the 28th of August, 1810. Lord Moray is lord lieutenant of the county of Elgin.

Lineage.

This noble family is maternally descended from

JAMES MURRAY, the illegitimate son of King James the Fifth of Scotland, and the celebrated regent during part of the reign of the unhappy Mary, Queen of Scots. This gentleman was created Earl of Moray on the 30th of January, 1562, with remainder, first, to his heirs male, and subsequently to his heirs general. His lordship d. by the hand of Hamilton, of Bothwellhaugh, on the 21st of January, 1570, leaving two daughters only, the eldest of whom,

ELIZABETH, m.

SIR JAMES STUART, son and heir of Sir James Stuart, of Doune, who assumed thereupon the title of Earl of Moray. His lordship was murdered on the 7th of February, 1592, by his hereditary enemy, the Earl of Huntley, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JAMES, who, through the king's mediation, was reconciled to his father's murderer, and was married, in 1601, to that nobleman's daughter, the Lady Anne Gordon, by whom he had one son and one daughter. His lordship accompanied King James the Sixth of Scotland to England, and got a new creation of the whole earldom of Moray to himself and his heirs male. He d. in 1638, and was succeeded by his only son,

MOUNTMORRES, VISCOUNT, (Francis-Hervey de Montmorency,) and Baron Mountmorres, of Castlemorres, in the county of Kilkenny, and a baronet of Ireland; b. 1st September, 1756; m. in 1794, Anne, daughter of Joseph Reade, esq., of Castle-Noyle, in the county of Kilkenny, by whom he has issue Hervey, b. 20th of August, 1796; and three daughters. His lordship succeeded to the honors of his family at the demise of his half-brother, on the 17th of August, 1797, and assumed, by royal license, the ancient name of the family, "Montmorency."

This being a peerage of Ireland only, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present viscount is not one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

This ancient and illustrious family deduces its descent from the Barons of Montmorency, in France; as it is, however, foreign from our purpose to trace genealogical streams to their remote sources within the hidden recesses of centuries, we must limit our researches, in this instance, as we have hitherto done, to the distinguished personages who were deemed first worthy of the hereditary honors of their country.

JOHN MORRES, esq., eldest son of Reydmond Morres, esq., of Templemore and Knockagh Castles, was created a baronet of Ireland, on the 28th of March, 1631. He d. in 1648, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR REYDMOND, who d. in 1650, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN. This gentleman lived to the advanced age of one hundred, and d. in 1720. From him the title descended, uninterruptedly, to

SIR NICHOLAS, the eighth baronet; from whom it passed, at his demise without issue, in 1794, to

HARVEY-REDMOND, second Viscount and Baron Mountmorres, (eldest son of Harvey Morres, of Castle Morres, who was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, by the above titles, on the 27th of April, 1756, and on the 29th of June, 1763; which Harvey, first viscount, m. twice: first, in 1742, Letitia, daughter of Brabazan, Earl of Besborough, by whom he had Harvey-Redmond, his successor; and other children: and, secondly, Mary, eldest daughter of William Wall, esq., of Coolnamucky Castle, in the county of Waterford, by whom he had Francis-Harvey, the present viscount; and another son, William-Mary, who was drowned, near Dublin, in 1809.) Harvey-Redmond, the second viscount, named above, d. unmarried, in 1797, when the family honors devolved upon his half-brother, Francis-Hervey de Montmorency, the present peer.

MOUNTNORRIS, EARL OF, (George Annesley,) Viscount Valentia, of Valentia, in the county of Kerry; Baron Mountnorris, of Mountnorris Castle, in the county of Armagh; Baron Altham, of Altham, in the county of Cork; and a baronet of Ireland; b. 2nd November, 1769; m. in 1790, Anne, daughter of William, Viscount Courtenay, by whom he has issue George-Arthur, Viscount Valentia, b. 2nd of October, 1793. His lordship succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 4th of July, 1816.

This being a peerage of Ireland only, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

SIR FRANCIS ANNESLEY, knt., principal secretary of state for Ireland, in the beginning of the seventeenth century, was created a baronet of Ireland, in 1620, and obtained a patent, dated 11th of March, 1621, granting to himself and to his heirs male, after the decease of Henry Power, then Viscount Valentia, that viscounty. He was, however, put into immediate possession of a peerage, by the title of Baron Mountnorris, of Mountnorris, in the county of Armagh, in 1628. His lordship m. twice: first, Dorothy, daughter of Sir John Phillips, bart., of Picton Castle, in the county of Pembroke, by whom he had Arthur, his successor; and other children: and, secondly, Jane, daughter of Sir John Stanhope, by whom he had an only son, Francis, whose grandson, William Annesley, esq., became Baron Annesley and Viscount Glerawley. His lordship d. in 1660, and was succeeded by his only son,

ARTHUR, who was enrolled amongst the peers of England, on the 20th of April, 1661, as Baron Annesley and Earl of Anglesey. This nobleman was treasurer of the navy, in 1667, and lord privy seal, in 1673. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Sir James Altham, of Oxey, in the county of Herts, by whom he had three sons and five daughters. The second son, Altham, was created a peer of Ireland on the 14th of February, 1680, as Baron Altham, with remainder to his younger brother; which title, at the decease of himself and his infant son, devolved, according to the limitation, upon his brother, Richard. The earl d. on the 10th of May, 1686, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JAMES, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of John, Earl of Rutland, and d. in 1690, leaving three sons,

JAMES, JOHN, and ARTHUR, successive Earls of Anglesey, &c. At the demise of Arthur, without issue, in 1737, the family honors devolved upon his cousin,

RICHARD, fifth Baron Altham, son of the Right Honorable Richard Annesley, D.D., Dean of Exeter, third Lord Altham, and grandson of the first Earl of Anglesey. His lordship m. twice, but had issue only by his second wife, Juliana Donevan, namely, Arthur, his successor; and three daughters. As this second marriage of the Earl's admitted of subsequent litigation, we shall make no apology for digressing to particularise it. Lord Anglesey, who had been separated for several years from his first countess, received intelligence of her ladyship's decease, by express, as he was journeying to Ireland, on the 17th of August, 1741; and, continuing his route, almost immediately after his arrival at his seat, Camolin Park, in the county of Wexford, was m. by his own chaplain, the Reverend L. Neil, (on the 15th September, 1741,) to Juliana Donevan, a lady then in her 17th year, of great personal charms, and of ancient and respectable family, with whom he lived until his decease, on the 4th of February, 1761. Immediately after that event, the legitimacy of his lordship's son was questioned, and the next heir, John Annesley, esq., of Ballisack, petitioned the Irish parliament accordingly. The matter occasioned great public interest at the period, and, after an investigation which lasted nearly four years, the earl's marriage with Miss Donevan was declared by the Irish house of peers to be valid, and the right confirmed of his son,

ARTHUR, who, upon coming of age, in 1765, and taking his seat in the house of lords of Ireland, applied for a writ as Earl Anglesey to the English parliament; but there the decision was against his lordship, and the writ was, of course, denied. He continued, however, to sit as Viscount Valentia, (his claim being a second time investigated and confirmed in Ireland,) and was created, on the 20th of December, 1793, Earl of Montnorris. His lordship m. first, in 1767, Lucy, only daughter of George,

Lord Lyttleton, and eventually sole heiress of her brother, Thomas, second Lord Lyttleton, by whom he left issue George, the present earl; two other sons, and three daughters: and, secondly, in 1783, Sarah, third daughter of the Right Honorable Sir Henry Cavendish, bart., by whom he left three daughters. The earl d. on the 4th of July, 1816.

MULGRAVE, EARL OF, (Henry Phipps,) Viscount Normanby, of Normanby, and Baron Mulgrave, of Mulgrave, all in the county of York, in the peerage of Great Britain; Baron Mulgrave, of New Ross, in the county of Wexford, in the peerage of Ireland; b. 14th February, 1755; succeeded to the Irish barony upon the demise of his brother, on the 10th of October, 1792; obtained his English honors, by creation, on the 13th of August, 1794, (the barony;) and on the 7th of September, 1812, (the viscounty and earldom;) m. in 1795, Sophia, daughter of Christopher-Thomas Malling, esq., of West Hennington, in the county of Durham, by whom he has issue Henry-Constantine, Viscount Normanby, b. 15th May, 1797; (m. in 1818, Maria, eldest daughter of Thomas-Henry, Viscount Ravensworth;) besides three other sons, and five daughters. Lord Mulgrave is a general officer in the army, colonel of the 31st regiment of foot, and a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath, governor of Scarborough, and lord lieutenant and custos rotulorum, and vice-admiral of the East Riding of the county of York.

Lineage.

CONSTANTINE PHIPPS, esq., only son of William Phipps, esq., by Catharine, only daughter and heiress of James, fourth Earl of Anglesey, and grandson of Sir Constantine Phipps, knt., lord chancellor of Ireland, in 1710, was elevated to the peerage of Ireland on the 3rd of September, 1767, as Baron Mulgrave, of New Ross, in the county of Wexford. His lordship m. in 1743, Lepell, eldest daughter of John, Lord Hervey, of Ickworth, by whom he left issue Constantine-John, his successor; Henry, the present earl; Edmund-Augustus; and Henrietta-Maria, the wife of Charles, eleventh Viscount Dillon. The baron d. on the 13th of September, 1775, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

CONSTANTINE-JOHN, a captain in the royal navy, in which capacity he made an effort to discover a north-east passage. His lordship held several high official stations, and was enrolled amongst the peers of Great Britain, as Baron Mulgrave, on the 16th of June, 1790. He m. in 1787, Anne-Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Nathaniel Cholmondely, esq., by whom he left an only daughter, Anne-Elizabeth-Cholmondely, who m. in 1807, Lieutenant-General Sir John Murray, bart. The baron d. in 1792, and, having no male issue, the English barony of Mulgrave became extinct, but the Irish barony devolved upon his brother, Henry, the present earl.

the county of Stafford, and Earl of Lincoln; b. 31st of January, 1785; succeeded to the honors of his family at the demise of his father, on the 17th of May, 1795; m. in 1807, Georgiana-Elizabeth, daughter of Edward-Miller Munday, esq., of Shipley, in the county of Derby, by whom he has issue Henry-Pelham-Fiennes Pelham, Earl of Lincoln, b. 22nd May, 1811; eight other sons, and three daughters. The duchess d. on the 27th of September, 1822. His grace is a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, lord-lieutenant and custos rotulorum of the county of Nottingham, steward and keeper of Sherwood Forest, &c. &c.

Lineage.

This ducal family derives its surname of Clinton from a lordship in the county of Oxford, at present denominated Glimpton; and it deduces its descent from William de Villa Tancredi, chamberlain of Normandy, and Maud, his wife, daughter of William de Arches, descended from Wevia, sister to Gunora, Duchess of Normandy. To reach, however, the founder of its English honors, we must pass over five centuries, and arrive at the golden days of good Queen Bess, when

EDWARD, Lord Clinton, (descended from Sir John Clinton, who was summoned to parliament, as a baron, in 1298,) a very distinguished personage in the reigns of her majesty's father and brother, as a naval commander, was created, on the 4th of May, 1572, Earl of Lincoln. His lordship d. on the 16th of January, 1584; and was succeeded by his eldest son,

HENRY, from whom the family honors descended, uninterruptedly, to

EDWARD, the fifth earl, and sixteenth baron; at whose demise, without issue, in 1692, the barony fell into abeyance, between his lordship's aunts and co-heirs, and eventually passed into another family, while the earldom of Lincoln reverted to his cousin,

SIR FRANCIS CLINTON, knt., grandson of Henry, the second earl, through his second son, Sir Edward Clinton, knt. His lordship d. in 1693, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

HENRY, one of the gentlemen of the bedchamber to Prince George of Denmark. This nobleman taking, however, a decided part against the measures of government, during the last four years of the reign of Queen Anne, so ingratiated himself with Arthur, Earl of Torrington, that that nobleman, at his decease, bequeathed to the Earl of Lincoln the greater part of his extensive estates. His lordship d. in 1728, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GEORGE, who d. at the age of thirteen, in 1730, and was succeeded by his brother,

HENRY. This nobleman held several of the highest stations about the court; and having m. in 1744, Catharine, eldest surviving daughter of the Right Honorable Henry Pelham, succeeded, in 1768, at the demise of the countess's uncle, Thomas-Pelham Holles, created Duke of Newcastle-under-Lyme, on the 13th of November, 1756, with special remainder to the Earl of Lincoln, to that dukedom. His grace d. in 1794, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

THOMAS-FIENNES PELHAM, third duke and ninth earl; who m. in 1782, Anna-Maria, youngest daughter of William, Earl of Harrington, by whom he left issue at his demise, in 1795, Henry-Pelham, present duke; and one daughter, Anna-Maria, who m. in 1801, Lieutenant-General Sir Stapleton Cotton, bart., and d. in 1807. The Duchess of Newcastle m. after his grace's decease, in 1800, Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Crauford, G.C.B.

NIGHTINGALE, SIR CHARLES-ETHELSTON, baronet, of Kneesworth-Hall, in the county of Cambridge; b. 1st of November, 1784; succeeded to the title upon the demise of his father, on the 16th of December, 1805; m. in the same month and year, Maria, only daughter of Thomas-Lacy Dickenson, esq., of West Retford, in the county of Nottingham, by whom he has issue Charles, b. 30th of April, 1809; three other sons, and a daughter.

Lineage.

THOMAS NIGHTINGALE, esq., descended from William Nightingale, esq., of Burntwood, in the county of Essex, was created a baronet, on the 1st of September, 1628. Sir Thomas d. in 1644, and was succeeded by his grandson,

SIR THOMAS, who m. Jane, daughter of George Shires, esq., and eventually heiress of her nephew, Sir George Shires, baronet, by whom he had an only son, his successor,

SIR ROBERT. This gentleman d. without issue, in 1697, when the title reverted to his cousin,

SIR BRIDGES, who, dying unmarried, was succeeded by his brother,

SIR ROBERT, who d. unmarried, in 1722, when the title reverted to his kinsman,

SIR EDWARD, (the descendant of the first baronet, through the eldest son of his second marriage, Geoffrey Nightingale, esq.) This gentleman preferred his claim to the baronetcy, after it had remained, for the greater part of a century, dormant; and his right was acknowledged in 1797. He m. his cousin, Eleanor, daughter and heiress of Robert Nightingale, esq., of Kneesworth, by whom he left issue Charles-Ethelston, the present baronet; three other sons, and three daughters. Sir Edward d. in 1804.

of his mother in 1823, became Baron Barham, of Barham Court, (see that title;) besides eight other sons, and five daughters. Sir Gerard m. secondly, in 1823, Harriet, daughter of the Reverend J. Gill, of Leicestershire, by whom he has no child. He succeeded to the title at the demise of his father-in-law, Sir Charles Middleton, baronet, (Lord Barham,) on the 17th of June, 1813. This gentleman, who is the only son of Gerard-Ann Edwards, esq., of Wilham-Grove, in the county of Leicester, relinquished his paternal surname, and assumed, by royal permission, in 1798, that of his uncle, Henry Noel, Earl of Gainsborough, with the arms of Noel, upon inheriting the estates of his noble relative.

Lineage.

CHARLES MIDDLETON, esq., second son of Robert Middleton, esq., by Miss Helen Dundas, having attained high rank in the royal navy, was created a baronet, in 1781, with remainder to his son-in-law, Gerard-Noel Edwards, esq., the present Sir Gerard Noel-Noel. Sir Charles was, subsequently, elevated to the peerage, as Baron Barham, with remainder to his daughter, Lady Noel.

NORFOLK, DUKE OF, (Bernard-Edward Howard,) Earl of Arundel, Surrey, and Norfolk; Baron Howard, Fitz Alan, Clun, and Oswaldestre, and Maltravers; earl marshal and hereditary marshal of England; premier duke and earl, immediately after the princes of the blood royal; F.R. and A.S.; b. in 1765; m. in 1789, the Lady Elizabeth Belayse, daughter of Henry, last Earl of Fauconberg, (which marriage was dissolved by act of parliament, in 1794,) by whom he has an only son, Henry-Charles, Earl of Surrey, b. 12th of August, 1791, who m. in 1814, Charlotte-Sophia, eldest daughter of George, Marquess of Stafford. His grace succeeded to the honors of his family, upon the demise of his kinsman, Charles, the late duke, on the 16th of December, 1815.

The present Duke of Norfolk is excluded from his hereditary seat in the legislature, in consequence of adhering to the religious faith of his forefathers; but his grace has been permitted, by special act of parliament, passed on the 24th of June, 1824, to fulfil, in person, the high duties of earl marshal and hereditary marshal of England.

Lineage.

This ducal house stands, next to the blood royal, at the head of the peerage of England, and is the chief of the illustrious family of Howard.

JOHN HOWARD, esq. (son and heir of Sir Robert Howard, knight, by the Lady Margaret Mowbray, daughter of Thomas, Baron Mowbray, Earl of Nottingham, and Duke of Norfolk, and grand-daughter of Margaret Plantagenet, Duchess of Norfolk, at whose demise, in 1399, her grace's title became extinct,) was summoned to parliament, as Baron Howard, on the 15th of October, 1470; created earl marshal, and Duke of Norfolk, 28th of June, 1483; and installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. His grace fell at Bosworth-Field, in 1485, and being attainted, his honors were all forfeited. He left an only son,

THOMAS, who was created Earl of Surrey, upon the same day that his father was advanced to the dukedom; but, being attainted with his father, the earldom became forfeited. His lordship was, however, restored in 1489; and created Duke of Norfolk, and earl marshal, on the 1st of February, 1514; installed a knight of the Garter, and nominated lord treasurer. His grace m. first, Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Sir Frederick Tilney, knight, by whom he had several children: the third son, Sir Edmund Howard, marshal of the army, at the battle of Floddon-Field, was father of the unfortunate Catherine Howard, fifth wife of King Henry the Eighth. His grace m. secondly, Agnes, daughter of Hugh Tilney, esq., by whom he had an only son, William, the ancestor of the present Lord Howard, of Effingham. The duke d. in 1524, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

THOMAS, who was attainted in 1546, when his honors became forfeited, but was restored in 1553, and installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. His grace d. in 1554, and was succeeded by his grandson,

THOMAS, eldest son of the celebrated Earl of Surrey, (beheaded in 1547,) by Frances, daughter of John Vere, Earl of Oxford. His grace m. first, Mary, daughter and, eventually, heiress of Henry, Earl of Arundel, by whom he had an only son, Philip; and secondly, Margaret, daughter and heiress of Thomas, Lord Audley, of Walden, by whom he left two sons; Thomas, who succeeded to the barony of Walden, in right of his mother, and was created Earl of Suffolk; and William, from whom the Earls of Carlisle are descended. This nobleman shared the same fate as his distinguished father; and being attainted, was beheaded in 1572, when all his honors became forfeited. His son,

PHILIP, however, inherited, in right of his mother, the earldom of Arundel, with the baronies of Fitz-Alan, Clun, Oswaldestre, and Maltravers, and was summoned to parliament, as Earl of Arundel; being attainted, however, in 1590, he d. a prisoner in the Tower, in 1595, leaving an only son,

THOMAS, who was restored, in 1603, to the earldoms of Arundel and Surrey; created earl marshal in 1621, and Earl of Norfolk in 1644. The youngest son of this nobleman, by Alathea, daughter of the Earl of Shrewsbury, the honorable William Howard, was the progenitor of the Earls and Barons Stafford; and the eldest son,

HENRY FREDERICK, succeeded his father, in 1646, as Earl of Arundel, Surrey, and Norfolk, having been summoned to parliament, previously, as Baron Mowbray. His lordship d. in 1652, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

THOMAS, who was restored to the dukedom of Norfolk, by act of parliament, on the 29th of December, 1660, with the original precedence of his ancestor, John, the first duke; and his grace obtained, in the following year, another act of parliament, confirming the same, with reversionary clauses, in default of male issue, to the heirs male of his grandfather, and to several other branches of his illustrious family. The duke d. unmarried in 1677, when the honors devolved upon his next brother,

HENRY, who had been created, on the 27th of March, 1669, Baron Howard, of Castle Rising; and on the 19th of October, 1672, Earl of Norwich. His grace was also created earl marshal of England, with remaindership to numerous branches of his family. The duke d. in 1684, and was succeeded by his son,

HENRY, installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. His grace d. in 1701, without issue, when the honors devolved upon his nephew,

THOMAS, who was succeeded, in 1732, by his brother,

EDWARD. This nobleman dying, in 1777, without issue, the baronies of Mowbray, Howard, &c. fell into abeyance, between the daughters and co-heiresses of Lord Philip Howard, his grace's brother; namely, Winifred, lady of Lord Stourton; and Ann, lady of Lord Petre: the earldom of Norwich, and barony of Howard, of Castle Rising, were extinguished, but the dukedom and other honors descended to

CHARLES HOWARD, esq., grand nephew of Henry, the eighth Duke of Norfolk. His grace d. in 1786, and was succeeded by his only son,

CHARLES, who m. first, in August, 1767, Mariana, only daughter and heiress of John Coppinger, esq., of the county of Cork, who d. without issue, in 1768; and secondly, in 1771, Frances, daughter and sole heiress of Charles-Fitzroy Scudamore, of Home-Lacy, in the county of Hereford, by whom he had no child. His grace d. on the 16th of November, 1815, and was succeeded by his cousin,

BERNARD-EDWARD HOWARD, esq., (the present duke,) great-great-grandson of Henry Frederick, Earl of Arundel, Surrey, and Norfolk, through his lordship's first son, the honorable Bernard Howard. His grace is eldest son of Henry Howard, esq., by Juliana, second daughter of Sir William Molyneaux, baronet, of Willow, in the county of Nottingham.

ONSLOW, EARL OF, (Thomas Onslow,) of the county of Salop; Viscount Cranley, of Cranley, in the county of Surrey; Baron Onslow, of Onslow, in the county of Salop, and of West Clandon, in the county of Surrey; and a baronet; b. 15th of March, 1754; m. first, in 1776, Arabella, daughter and co-heiress of Eaton-Mainwairing Ellerker, esq., of Risby Park, in the county of York, by whom he has issue Arthur-Gore, Viscount Cranley, b. 25th of October, 1777; (m. in 1818, Mary, eldest daughter of George Fludyer, esq., of Ayston, in the county of Rutland;) with two other sons, and a daughter; and secondly, in 1783, Charlotte, daughter of William Hale, esq. of King's Walden, in the county of Herts, by whom he has a daughter, Georgiana-Charlotte. His lordship succeeded to the honors of his family at the demise of his father, on the 17th of May, 1814. Lord Onslow is out-ranger of Windsor Great Park.

Lineage.

The family of Onslow was anciently seated in Shropshire, where it enjoyed extensive possessions; and in the reign of Henry the Third, it took its surname from the lordship of Ondeslow, (styled, in Doomsday Book, Andeslow, but now written Onslow,) situated within the liberty of the town of Shrewsbury. Its first hereditary honor was, however, acquired through the marriage of

ARTHUR ONSLOW, esq., with Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Thomas Foot, bart., an opulent alderman of London, at whose decease, the title, in consequence of a special limitation in the patent, devolved upon his son-in-law. Sir Arthur d. in 1688, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR RICHARD, who, having filled the chair of the house of commons, and the high office of chancellor of the exchequer, was created, on the 25th of June, 1716, Baron Onslow, of Onslow, in the county of Salop, and of West Clandon, in the county of Surrey, with remainder to his uncle, Denzill Onslow, and his issue; and, subsequently, to the issue male of his father, Sir Arthur. His lordship d. in 1717, and was succeeded by his only son,

THOMAS, who was succeeded, in 1740, by his son,

RICHARD, at whose demise, without issue, in October, 1776, (Denzill Onslow's issue being extinct,) the honors reverted to his cousin,

GEORGE, who had been elevated to the peerage himself, on the 20th of the preceding May, by the title of Baron Cranley, of Imber-Court. This nobleman was great-grandson of the first Sir Arthur Onslow, through his second son, Foot Onslow, esq., one of the commissioners of excise. His lordship m. in 1753, Henrietta, daughter of Sir John Shelley, baronet, by whom he left an only surviving son, Thomas, the present peer. Lord Onslow was created, on the 19th of June, 1801, Viscount Cranley, of Cranley; and Earl of Onslow.

ORFORD, EARL OF, (Horatio Walpole,) in the county of Suffolk; Baron Walpole, of Walpole, and Baron Walpole, of Woolterton, in the county of Norfolk; b. in June, 1783; m. in 1812, Mary, eldest daughter of William-Augustus Fawkener, esq., by whom he has Horatio, Lord Walpole, b. 18th of April, 1813; and other children. His lordship succeeded to the honors of his family at the demise of his father, on the 15th of June, 1822. Lord Orford is high steward of the borough of Lynn.

Lineage.

This noble family is said to have been established in England antecedent to the Conquest, and to have possessed considerable lands in the county of Norfolk, at Walpole, whence it is supposed to have derived its surname. The immediate founder of its honors, however, was

SIR ROBERT WALPOLE, Knight of the Garter and Knight of the Bath, the celebrated minister of King George the Second, (eldest son of Robert Walpole, esq., M.P. for Castle-Rising, by Mary, only daughter and heiress of Sir Jeffery Burwell, knt., of Rougham, in the county of Suffolk,) who was elevated to the peerage, on the 6th of February, 1742, by the titles of Baron of Houghton, Viscount Walpole, and Earl of Orford His lordship d. in 1745, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

ROBERT, who had been created, on the 1st of June, 1723, Baron Walpole, of Walpole, in the county of Norfolk, with remainder, in default of the issue male of his father, to the male descendants of his grandfather. In consequence of which reversionary clause, that barony, when the superior honors became extinct, at the demise, in 1797, of

HORATIO, the fourth earl, Sir Robert Walpole's youngest son, without issue, devolved upon

HORATIO, Baron Walpole, of Woolterton, eldest son of the celebrated Horatio Walpole, (only brother of the minister, Walpole,) of Strawberry Hill, (who had been elevated to the peerage, on the 4th of June, 1756, as Baron Walpole, of Woolterton.) His lordship m. in 1748, Lady Rachel Cavendish, daughter of William, Duke of Devonshire, by whom he left issue two sons and three daughters. He was created Earl of Orford, on the 10th of April, 1806; and dying in 1809, was succeeded by his eldest son, HORATIO. This nobleman m. twice: first, in 1781, Sophia, daughter of Charles Churchill, esq., by whom he left issue Horatio, the present earl; another son, and five daughters; and, secondly, in 1806, Mrs. Chamberlain, widow of the Reverend Edward Chamberlain, by whom he had no child.

ORMONDE, MARQUESS OF, (James-Wandesford Butler,) Earl of Ormonde and Ossory; Viscount Thurles, of Thurles, in the county of Tipperary; and Baron Arklow, of Arklow, in the peerage of Ireland; Baron Ormonde, of Llanthony, in the county of Monmouth, in the peerage of the United Kingdom; b. in 1773; m. in 1807, Grace-Louisa, daughter of the Right Honorable John Staples, of the county of Tyrone, by whom he has issue John, Viscount Thurles, b. 24th of August, 1808; with four other sons, and five daughters. His lordship succeeded to the earldom of Ormonde and Ossory, and the inferior Irish titles, at the demise of his brother, on the 10th of August, 1820; was created a baron of the United Kingdom, on the 17th of July, 1821; and a marquess of Ireland, on the 5th of October, 1825. The Marquess of Ormonde is hereditary chief butler in Ireland, a knight of the most illustrious Order of St. Patrick, and colonel of the Kilkenny militia.

Lineage.

The antiquity of this family is indisputable, but whence it immediately derives its origin is not so clearly established. Its surname, however, admits of no doubt as springing from the chief butlerage of Ireland, conferred, by Henry the Second, upon

THEOBALD LE BOTELER, in 1177, who was, subsequently, granted, by the same monarch, the prisage and butlerage of wines in Ireland, a grant which produced Walter, late Marquess of Ormonde, the sum of two hundred and sixteen thousand pounds; in consideration of which, his lordship relinquished his right of prisage and butlerage to the government, in 1810, and the sale received the sanction of parliament, by an act passed on the 31st of May, 1811. From Theobald, the butlerage descended, regularly, to

EDMOND, the sixth butler, who was created Earl of Carrick, in 1315, having had, for thirteen years previously, a seat in parliament, (in Ireland) as a baron. His lordship d. in 1321, leaving two sons: from the youngest, John, sprung the present house of Carrick; and the elder,

JAMES, having succeeded his father, was created, on the 2nd of November, 1328, Earl of Ormond. From this nobleman, the peerage passed, uninterruptedly, to

THOMAS, the eighth earl; at whose demise, in 1515, without male issue, it ceased. His lordship left two daughters; one of whom, Margaret, became the wife of Sir William Bullen, and was grandmother of Queen Anne Bullen. At the demise of Earl Thomas, the earldom of Ormonde was assumed by his kinsman,

SIR PIERCE BUTLER, but this gentleman was obliged to relinquish it to Thomas Bullen, Viscount Rochfort, the queen's father, and grandson of the eighth Earl of Ormonde. In consideration of such abandonment, however, Sir Pierce was created, by Henry the Eighth, in 1527, Earl of Ossory. His lordship d. in 1539, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JAMES, who had been created, in 1535, Viscount Thurles; and was subsequently restored, by act of parliament, to the earldom of Ormonde. From this nobleman the titles passed to his son,

WALTER; and, from him, to his grandson,

JAMES, who was created a Knight of the Garter, and created, in 1642, Marquess of Ormonde. This nobleman, for his fidelity to the house of Stuart, and his eminent services in the royal cause, was elevated, at the restoration of the monarchy, to the dukedom of Ormonde, in Ireland; and enrolled amongst the peers of England, as Baron Butler, of Llanthony, and Earl of Brecknock. His grace d. in 1688, and was succeeded by his son,

JAMES, who was attainted soon after the accession of King George the First, and, having retired from the kingdom, all his honors became forfeited. His grace d. without male issue, in 1746, and the titles remained dormant until those of Earl of Ormonde and Viscount Thurles were restored to

JOHN BUTLER, esq., son of Walter Butler, esq., of Gallyricken, and great-great-great-grand-nephew of the first duke, being the lineal descendant of the Honorable Richard Butler, of Kilcash, his grace's brother. His lordship m. in 1769, Anne, daughter and sole heiress of John, Earl of Wandesford, by whom he had issue Walter, his successor, and late marquess; John-Wandesford, who d. in 1796; James-Wandesford, the present marquess; another son, and two daughters. The earl d. in 1795, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WALTER, b. in 1770; created Marquess of Ormonde, in Ireland; and Baron Butler, of Llanthony, in England; m. in 1805, Anne, daughter and sole heiress of Joseph-Pryce Clarke, esq., by whom he had no issue. The marquess d. on the 10th of August, 1820, when the marquesate and English barony became extinct, but the other titles devolved upon his brother, James, present Marquess of Ormonde.

OSBORN, SIR JOHN, baronet, of Cricksands Priory, in the county of Bedford; b. in 1772; m. in 1809, Frederica-Augusta, daughter of the late Sir Charles Danvers, bart., by whom he has issue a son, b. 18th of April, 1819; another son, and an elder daughter; succeeded to the title at the decease of his father, on the 29th of June, 1818. Sir John is colonel of the Bedfordshire militia.

Lineage.

JOHN OSBORN, esq., (grandson of Peter Osborne, esq., treasurer's remembrancer and keeper of the privy purse, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth,) was created a baronet on the 11th of February, 1660. He d. in 1698, at the age of eighty-three, and was succeeded by his only son,

SIR JOHN. This gentleman m. twice, and dying, in 1720, was succeeded by the only son of his eldest son, John, by the Honorable Sarah Byng, only daughter of George, Viscount Torrington, his grandson,

SIR DANVERS. This gentleman m. in 1740, Mary, daughter of George, Earl of Halifax, by whom he had two sons. He d. in 1753, and was succeeded by the eldest,

SIR GEORGE, who m. first, in 1771, Elizabeth, eldest daughter and co-heiress of John Bannister, esq., by whom he had an only son, John, the present baronet; and, secondly, in 1778, Heneage, daughter of Daniel, seventh Earl of Winchelsea, who d. in 1820, without issue. Sir George was groom of the bedchamber to the king. He d. in 1818.

OXFORD, EARL OF, (Edward Harley,) Earl of Mortimer, and Baron Harley, of Wigmore, in the county of Hereford; b. 20th of February, 1773; succeeded to the honors of his family at the decease of his uncle, on the 8th of October, 1790; m. in 1794, Jane, daughter of the Reverend James Scott, by whom he has issue Edward, Lord Harley, b. 20th January, 1800; another son, and four daughters. The Countess of Oxford d. on the 20th of November, 1824.

Lineage.

The family of Harley can be traced to a period antecedent to the Conquest, and its rank was then so exalted that the eminent house of Harlai, in France, deduces its origin from it. The immediate founder of its present honors, however, was

ROBERT HARLEY, speaker of the house of commons, an eminent statesman and minister in the reign of Queen Anne, who was elevated to the peerage, on the 24th of May, 1711, by the titles of Baron Harley, of Wigmore, in the county of Hereford; Earl of Oxford, and Earl of Mortimer, with remainder, in default of male issue, to the heirs male of his grandfather, Sir Robert Harley, knight of the Bath. His lordship m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Foley, esq., of Whitley Court, in the county of Worcester, by whom he had a son and two daughters; and, secondly, Sarah, daughter of Thomas Middleton, esq., by whom he had no child. The earl d. on the 21st of May, 1724, and was succeeded by his only son,

EDWARD. This nobleman devoted himself much to literature, and the country is indebted to him for the celebrated collection, so well known under the denomination of the Harleian Miscellany, purchased by parliament from the countess, in 1754, after the earl's decease, and deposited in the British Museum. His lordship m. in 1713, Lady Henrietta-Cavendish Holles, only daughter and heiress of his Grace, Jonh, Duke of Newcastle, by whom he had an only daughter, Margaret Cavendish, who became, in 1734, the wife of William, Duke of Portland. The earl d. in 1741, and the family honors devolved, according to the reversionary clause in the patent, upon his first cousin,

EDWARD HARLEY, esq., nephew of the first Earl of Oxford, being the eldest son of his brother, Edward Harley, esq., of Eywood, in the county of Hereford, one of the auditors of the imprest. His lordship m. in 1725, Martha, eldest daughter of John Morgan, esq., of Tredegar, in the county of Monmouth, by whom he left Edward, his successor; John, Bishop of Hereford and Deau of Windsor; Thomas, an alderman of London; and other children. His lordship d. in 1755, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

EDWARD, who d. without issue, in 1790, when the family honors devolved upon his nephew, Edward, the present earl, who is eldest son of the Bishop of Hereford, by Roach, daughter of Gwynne Vaughan, esq., of Trebarry, in the county of Radnor.

the 17th of March, 1569-70, and was buried in the cathedral of St. Paul's, on the 18th of April following, with such magnificence, that the mourning given at his funeral, according to Stowe, cost the very large sum, at that period, of 2,000*l*. His lordship was succeeded by his eldest son,

HENRY, who m. thrice: first, Catharine, daughter of Henry Grey, Duke of Suffolk, from whom he was divorced; secondly, Catharine, daughter of George, earl of Shrewsbury, by whom he had no child; and thirdly, Mary, daughter of Sir Henry Sidney, K. G., by whom he had two sons and a daughter. To the last countess, who was esteemed a lady of the most cultivated mind, Sir Philip Sidney dedicated his celebrated romance, the Arcadia. Her ladyship d. at a very advanced period of life, at her house, in Aldersgate-street, London, on the 25th of September, 1621, and the inscription to her memory, in the cathedral of Salisbury, has been so much admired, that we make no apology for inserting it—

Underneath this marble herse,
Lies the subject of all verse,
Sidney's sister, Pembroke's mother:
Death, ere thou hast slain another,
Wise, and fair, and good as she,
Time shall throw a dart at thee.

The earl d. on the 19th of January, 1600–1, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, who d. without issue, in 1630, when the family honors devolved upon his brother,

POMFRET, EARL OF, (George Fermor,) Baron Lempster, or Leominster, of Leominster, in the county of Hereford, and a baronet; b. 6th of January, 1768; succeeded to the family honors upon the demise of his father, on the 9th of June, 1785; m. in 1793, Miss Browne, eldest daughter of Trollope Browne, esq., by whom he has no issue.

Lineage.

RICHARD FERMOUR, having amassed considerable wealth as a merchant, at Calais, settled himself at Eston Neston, in the county of Northampton; but, exciting the hostility of Henry the Eighth, by his zealous adherence to the church of Rome, and inciting the cupidity of Cromwell, his majesty's vicar-general, by the extent of his possessions, the whole of his large fortune was confiscated. It was, however, partly restored by Edward the Sixth, and Mr. Fermour regained his mansion-house of Eston Neston, where he died, universally esteemed, on the 17th of November, 1552, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN FERMOR, who was made one of the Knights of the Carpet, at Westminster, on the 2nd of October, 1553, the day after the coronation of Queen Mary, in her majesty's presence, under the cloth of state, by the Earl of Arundel, her majesty's commissioner for the occasion. Sir John d. on the 12th of December, 1571, and was succeeded by his son,

GEORGE FERMOR, who had the honor of entertaining King James the First and his queen, at Easton, on the 11th of June, 1603, when his majesty was pleased to confer the honor of knighthood upon his son,

SIR HATTON FERMOR, who was succeeded at his decease, in 1640, by his son,

WILLIAM FERMOR, esq., created a baronet, in 1641. This gentleman distinguished himself during the civil wars, upon the side of royalty, and suffered considerably in consequence, but had the satisfaction of living to see the monarchy restored. Sir William d. of the small-pox, in 1671, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM, who was elevated to the peerage, on the 12th of April, 1692, by the title of Baron Lempster, of Lempster, or Leominster, in the county of Hereford. His lordship m. thrice, and was succeeded at his decease, in 1711, by his eldest son,

THOMAS, son of the third Lady Lempster, (Sophia, sixth daughter of Thomas, Duke of Leeds, and relict of Donatus, Lord O'Brien.) This nobleman was advanced to an earldom, on the 27th of December, 1721, by the title of Earl Pomfret, or Pontefract, in the county of York. His lordship m. in 1720, Henrietta-Louisa, daughter and heiress of John, Lord Jeffreys, by whom he left issue one son and five daughters. He d. on the 8th of July, 1753, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

GEORGE. This nobleman m. in 1764, Miss Anna-Maria Drayton, of Sudbury, in the county of Middlesex, to whom Lady Jane Coke, relict of Robert Coke, esq., bequeathed a considerable fortune; by whom he had issue George, the present earl; Thomas William, a major-general in the army, heir-presumptive to the family honors; Charlotte, who m. in 1787, the late Peter Denys, esq., by whom, with other children, she had the present Sir George-William Denys, baronet. The earl d. in 1785.

RENDLESHAM, BARON, (John Thelusson,) of Rendlesham Hall, in the county of Suffolk; b. 12th September, 1785; succeeded to the title at the decease of his father, on the 16th of September, 1808; m. first, in 1809, Mary, second daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel Trevor Dickins, of the royal engineers, who d. in 1814, without issue; and, secondly, in 1816, Anna-Sophia, daughter of William Tatnall, esq., of Liston Old Abbey, in the county of Suffolk, by whom he has an only daughter, b. 24th of August, 1818.

This being a peerage of Ireland only, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present baron is not one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

This distinguished family traces its descent to the ancient noblesse of France. The first member of it, however, that settled in England, was

PETER THELUSSON, esq., son of Isaac de Thelusson, ambassador from Geneva to the court of Louis the 15th. This gentleman took up his abode in London about the middle of the eighteenth century, and accumulated an immense fortune as a merchant there. He, subsequently, purchased the manor of Broadsworth, in the county of York. Mr. Thelusson m. in 1760, Anne, second daughter of Matthew Woodford, esq., by whom he had issue Peter-Isaac; George-Woodford, who m. in 1791, Maryanne, daughter of Philip Fonnereau, esq., and d. in 1811, leaving two daughters; Charles, who d. in 1815; and three daughters. This gentleman, after bequeathing large fortunes to each member of his family, devised the residue of his immense possessions, namely, landed estates of the annual value of 4,500*l.*, and personal property to the amount of 600,000*l.*, to trustees, for the purpose of accumulating, during the lives of his three sons, and of all their sons who should be living at the time of his death, or should be born in due course afterwards, and the lives of the survivors of them; the accumulated fund, then, to be expended in the purchase of estates, and to be conveyed to the eldest male descendant of his three sons, with the benefit of survivorship. This extraordinary will was mooted before the house of lords, but finally confirmed, by that branch of the legislature, on the 25th of June, 1805; an act of parliament, however, subsequently passed, to interdict in future any accumulation of property so devised, beyond the term of twenty-one years after the decease of the testator. It is supposed that this bequest of Mr. Thelusson's will exceed thirty millions, before it can be inherited. He was succeeded at Broadsworth by his eldest son,

PETER-ISAAC THELUSSON, esq., b. 9th of March, 1761; elevated to the peerage of Ireland on the 1st of February, 1806, as Baron Rendlesham. His lordship m. in 1783, Elizabeth-Eleanor, daughter of John Cornwall, esq., of Hendon, in the county of Middlesex, by whom he left issue John, the present peer; with four other sons, and two daughters. The baron d. on the 16th of September, 1808.

Middlesex; b. 28th June, 1754; succeeded to the family honors at the decease of his uncle, on the 28th of September, 1781.

Lineage.

This noble family is descended from

FREDERICK DE NASSAU, natural son of Henry-Frederick de Nassau, Prince of Orange, (grandfather of King William the Third,) who was endowed by his father with the lordship of Zuleistein, and thereupon assumed that surname. He, subsequently, commanded the infantry in the service of the States General, when his country was invaded by the French, in 1672. In that unhappy conjuncture, when the Prince of Orange was elected stadtholder, his highness's first action was an attack on Naerden, in furtherance of which he detached General Zuleistein, to take up a position between Utrecht and the object of the prince's operations; whereupon the Duke of Luxemburgh marched, the next day, to relieve the besieged, and, with between eight and nine thousand men, fell upon General Zuleistein, who bravely met the assault, and repulsed his assailant. The town was afterwards bombarded, and reduced to such extremity, as to be compelled to offer terms of capitulation; in which interval the Duke of Luxemburgh, having been reinforced, marched through swamps, guided by peasants, and re-attacked General Zuleistein, who, after a gallant resistance, fell, sword in hand, on the 12th of October, 1672. The son of this brave soldier,

WILLIAM-HENRY DE ZULEISTEIN, confidential friend of William the Third, accompanied that prince to England, and was elevated to the peerage on the 10th of May, 1695, as Baron of Enfield, Viscount Tunbridge, and Earl of Rochford. His lordship succeeded to the baronetcy, at the decease of his father, the late Sir William Parsons, on the 1st of May, 1801; and to the peerage, upon the demise of his uncle, on the 14th of July, 1809. Lord Rosse is a privy-counsellor and joint post-master-general in Ireland, and governor of the King's County.

This being a peerage of Ireland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, but the present earl sits as one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

This noble family, which settled in Ireland some time in the beginning of the seventeenth century, has, ever since, maintained a high political station in that part of the empire. Its members have, at different periods, filled the very highest official employments in the state, have taken distinguished parts in the senate, have become eminent upon the bench, and at the bar, and have twice been enrolled amongst the baronetage of the kingdom, and twice elevated to the peerage.

WILLIAM PARSONS, esq. was created a baronet on the 19th of November, 1620, and appointed lord justice of Ireland on the 31st of December, 1641, which office he continued to hold until the 23d of April, 1643. The great-grandson of this gentleman,

SIR RICHARD PARSONS, was created, on the 2nd July, 1681, Baron Oxmantown and Viscount Rosse, with remainder to the heirs male of the lord justice above-mentioned. This nobleman m. twice, but left issue by his second wife only, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Sir George Hamilton, and niece of Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough, namely, an only son, Richard; and two daughters; Frances, who became the wife of John, Viscount Netterville; and Catharine, who m. James Hussey, of Westown, in the county of Dublin. His lordship d. in 1702, and was succeeded by his son,

RICHARD, who was created Earl of Rosse, on the 10th of February, 1706, and was succeeded, in 1741, by his eldest son, RICHARD, with whom, at his lordship's demise without issue, on the 27th of August, 1764, all the honors ceased.

We now return to a junior branch of the lord justice's family,

LAURENCE PARSONS, esq., of Birr, now Parsonstown-Castle, (grandson of Sir Laurence Parsons, knt., a younger brother of the lord justice, and successively attorney-general, and baron of the exchequer in Ireland,) who was created a baronet, on the 15th of December, 1677. This gentleman m. Frances, youngest daughter and co-heiress of William Savage, esq., and dying, in 1698, was succeeded by his only son,

SIR WILLIAM, who m. twice: first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir George Preston, bart., of Craigmiller, in North Britain, by whom he had issue an only son, William, who m. Martha, daughter of Thomas Pigott, esq., of Chetwynd, in the county of Cork, and dying before his father, left issue Laurence, successor to the baronetcy; with four other sons, and two daughters. Sir William m. secondly, Elizabeth, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Sir George

St. George, knt., by whom he had no child. He d. in 1740, and was succeeded by his grandson,

SIR LAURENCE. This gentleman m. first, in 1730, Mary, eldest daughter and co-heiress of William Sprigge, esq., by whom he had an only son, William, his successor, b. in 1731. Sir Laurence m. secondly, in 1740, Anne, only daughter of Wentworth Harman, esq., of Moyle, and niece and heiress of the very Reverend Dean Harman, of Waterford, by whom he had issue Wentworth, who d. leaving an only daughter; and Laurence, b. 26th of July, 1742. Sir Laurence d. in 1749, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM, who m. in 1754, Mary, only daughter and heiress of John Clere, esq., of Kilbury, by whom he had issue Laurence, the present earl and fifth baronet; John-Clere, b. in 1760, a barrister of eminence, and chief commissioner of the insolvent court, in Ireland; William, b. in 1764, a clergyman; and Thomas-Clere, also a barrister, and chairman of the court of quarter sessions of the King's County, who d. in 1825. Sir William d. in 1791, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Laurence, who represented the King's County in parliament, where he distinguished himself by his eloquence and patriotism for several years, until he succeeded to the peerage, on the 20th of April, 1807, at the decease of his father's half-brother,

LAURENCE PARSONS, esq., who was created Baron Oxmantown, on the 25th of September, 1792, with remainder, in default of male issue, to his nephew, Sir Laurence Parsons, bart.; advanced to the viscounty of Oxmantown, on the 6th of October, 1795, without, however, the reversionary clause in favor of Sir Laurence; and created Earl of Rosse, in February, 1806, with remainder to his nephew aforesaid. His lordship m. in 1772, Jane, eldest daughter of Edward, Earl of Kingston, by whom he left an only daughter, Frances, who m. in 1799, Robert, present Viscount Lorton. The earl thus dying without male issue, the viscounty became extinct, and the earldom and barony devolved according to the reversionary proviso in the patent.

ROTHES, EARL OF, (George Leslie,) and Baron Leslie, b. in 1810; succeeded to the family honors at the demise of his mother, on the 30th of January, 1819.

This being a peerage of Scotland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament. The present earl is a minor.

Lineage.

The Leslies, a very distinguished race in North Britain, trace their origin to a Flemish chieftain, Bartholomew, who took up his abode with his followers in the county of Aberdeen, during the reign of William the First, and adopted the surname of "de Lesley," from the place of his residence. The immediate founder of the present family, however, was

GEORGE DE LESLEY, esq., son of Norman de Lesley, of Rothes, who was created, on the 20th of March, 1457, Earl of Rothes, and from whom we pass to

JOHN, the sixth earl. The estates of this nobleman were confiscated for his adhesion to the house of Stuart, during the civil wars, and his lordship became a prisoner at the battle of Worcester. After the restoration of the monarchy, however, he re-possessed his property, and was nominated president of the council, and appointed high treasurer and high chancellor of Scotland. His lordship obtained a charter, in 1663, conferring the earldom of Rothes and barony of Leslie, in default of male issue, upon his eldest daughter, and acquired an accession of honors on the 29th of May, 1680, being created Baron Auchmuty and Caskieberry; Viscount of Lugtoun; Earl of Lesley; Marquess of Ballenbreich; and Duke of Rothes. His grace m. the Lady Anne-Lindsay, eldest daughter of John, Earl of Crawfurd; but dying without male issue, in 1681, the dukedom and inferior titles of 1680 expired; while the earldom of Rothes, and barony of Leslie, according to the limitation of 1663, descended to his grace's eldest daughter,

MARGARET, who m. Charles, Earl of Haddington, (see that title,) and dying in 1700, was succeeded by her eldest son,

JAMES. This nobleman d. in 1722, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN, who m. Hannah, youngest daughter and co-heiress of Matthew Howard, esq., of Thorpe, in the county of Norfolk; and dying in 1767, was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN, to whom succeeded, his lordship dying without issue in 1773, his sister,

JANE-ELIZABETH. Her ladyship's right of succession was disputed by her uncle, the Honorable Andrew Lesley, equerry to the Princess Dowager of Wales; but the Court of Session decided in her favor. The countess m. first, in 1766, George-Reymond-Evelyn Granville, esq., youngest son of William-Evelyn Granville, esq., of St. Clere, in the county of Kent, by whom she had an only surviving son, George-William, her successor; and secondly, in 1732, Sir Lucas Pepys, baronet, by whom she had two sons and a daughter. Her ladyship d. in 1810, and was succeeded by her eldest son,

GEORGE-WILLIAM, who m. first, Lady Henrietta-Anne Pelham, eldest daughter of Thomas, late Earl of Chichester, and sister of the present earl, by whom he had three daughters; and secondly, in 1798, Charlotte-Julia, daughter of Colonel Campbell, by whom he had two daughters. His lordship d. in 1817, and was succeeded by his eldest daughter,

HENRIETTA-ANNE, b. in 1790, who had previously m. Mr. George Gwydir, by whom she had issue George, the present earl; Thomas, and three daughters. Upon her ladyship's succeeding to the honors of her family, Mr. Gwydir assumed, by

ROWLEY, SIR JOSIAS, baronet; an officer of rank in the royal navy, and a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath.

This gentleman, who is second son of the late Clotworthy Rowley, esq., of the Irish bar, by Letitia, daughter of Samuel Campbell, esq., of Bath, and grandson of the late Admiral Sir Joshua Rowley, baronet, was created a baronet on the 2nd of November, 1813.

ROXBURGH, DUKE OF, (James-Henry-Innes Ker;) Earl of Roxburgh; Marquess of Beaumont and Cessford; Earl of Kelso; Viscount Broxmouth; Baron Ker, of Cessford and Caverton; and a baronet; b. in July, 1816; succeeded to the family honors, at the decease of his father, on the 19th of July, 1823.

The honors of the house of Roxburgh being of Scotland only, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament. The present duke is a minor.

Lineage.

This noble family, and the Kers, Marquesses of Lothian, have descended from a common progenitor. The sons of whom,

Ralph and John, originally of Normandy, passed from England into Scotland, some time in the thirteenth century, and laid the foundation of those two illustrious houses. Ralph, that of the Kers of Fernihurst, Marquesses of Lothian; and John, that of the Kers of Cessford, of which house, the eleventh in descent from the founder, was

Sir Robert Ker, who was elevated to the peerage of Scotland, on the 18th of September, 1616, by the titles of Earl of Roxburgh, and Baron Ker of Cessford, and Cavertown. This nobleman m. first, Margaret, daughter of Sir William Maitland, by whom he had a son, William, who d. in infancy; and three daughters; his eldest daughter, Jean, m. John Drummond, second Earl of Perth, by whom she had two sons, besides the successor to the earldom of Perth, and two daughters. Lord Roxburgh m. secondly, Jean, daughter of Patrick, Lord Drummond, by whom he had an only son, Henry, Lord Ker, who d. in his father's life-time, leaving four daughters. Upon the decease of his son, the earl obtained, in 1646, a new charter, entailing his titles and estates upon his grandson, Sir William Drummond, the third son of his eldest daughter, Jean, Countess of Perth; and after him, upon the three sons of his grand-daughter Jane, (daughter also of the Countess of Perth,) by the Earl of Wigtoun, upon the express stipulation, that whoever should succeed under the new patent, should marry his deceased son's eldest daughter, Jean; accordingly, at his lordship's demise, on the 18th of January, 1650, the dignities and estates devolved upon his grandson,

Sir William Drummond, who fulfilled the stipulation, by marrying his cousin, the Lady Jean Ker. His lordship d. in 1675, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Robert, who was succeeded, in 1682, by his eldest son,

Robert, from whom, at his decease unmarried, in 1696, the honors and estates passed to his brother,

John, so celebrated as a book-collector. This nobleman was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter; and created, on the 25th of April, 1707, Viscount Broxmouth, Earl of Kelso, Marquess of Cessford and Beaumont, and Duke of Roxburgh, with remainder to the heirs who should inherit the earldom of Roxburgh. His grace d. in 1741, and was succeeded by his only son,

Robert, who had been created in the life-time of his father, 24th of May, 1722, a peer of England, by the titles of Baron Ker, and Earl Ker, of Wakefield. His grace d. in 1755, and was succeeded by his son,

John, who was installed a knight of the Garter, and a knight of the Thistle; but dying unmarried in 1804, the English honors expired, while the Scottish devolved upon his kinsman,

William, seventh Lord Bellenden, (great grandson of Sir William Drummond, who became second Earl of Roxburgh, through his second son, the Honorable James Ker, who succeeded, in 1671, to the title of Lord Bellenden, pursuant to a disposition of William, Lord Bellenden, who was nephew of the first Earl of Roxburgh.) This nobleman dying, however, without issue, in 1805, the honors and estates lay dormant for several years; during which period, the succession was contested by Major-General Walter Ker, as heir male of the first earl; the Right Honorable William Drummond, as heir male of the second earl; and,

Sir Robert Manners with Eleanor, Baroness Roos, daughter and heiress of Thomas, Lord Roos, of Hamlake, Trusbut, and Belvoir, whose son,

The Honorable Thomas Manners, became Baron Roos, at the decease of his mother. His lordship m. Anne, daughter and heiress of Sir Thomas St. Leger, knt., by Anne Plantagenet, sister of King Edward the Fourth, and had issue his successor,

Thomas, who was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, and created Earl of Rutland on the 18th of June, 1525. This nobleman d. in 1543, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Henry, K.G., who d. in 1563, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Edward, K.G. This nobleman dying, in 1587, without male issue, the barony of Roos and the earldom of Rutland were separated, the former descending to his lordship's daughter and heiress, Lady Elizabeth Manners, and the latter devolving upon his brother,

John, who d. in the year after he inherited, and was succeeded by his son,

Roger. This nobleman dying without issue, in 1612, the earldom devolved upon his brother,

Francis, a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, who succeeded, in 1618, his cousin, William Cecil, Baron de Roos, (son of Lady Elizabeth Manners, Baroness Roos, above-mentioned, by the Right Honorable William Cecil, Earl of Exeter,) in that barony, and thus re-united the earldom of Rutland with the barony of Roos; but for a short time: for, at his lordship's demise without male issue, in 1632, those honors were again separated, the barony devolving upon the earl's only daughter and heiress, Katharine, wife of George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham, who fell by the arm of the assassin, Felton; and the earldom descending to the deceased earl's brother,

George, who d. without issue, in 1641, when the earldom reverted to his cousin,

John Manners, esq., son of George Manners, esq., and great-grandson of Thomas, the first earl, through his second son, Sir John Manners. This nobleman d. on the 29th of September, 1679, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

John, who had been summoned to parliament on the 29th of April, 1679, (previous to the decease of his father,) as Baron Manners, of Haddon, in the county of Derby. His lordship was created, on the 29th of March, 1703, Marquess of Granby, in the county of Nottingham; and Duke of Rutland. His grace d. on the 10th of January, 1711, and was succeeded by the son of his third marriage, with Catharine, daughter of Baptist, (Noel) Viscount Camden, namely,

John, b. in 1677; installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter; m. first, Catharine, second daughter of the celebrated patriot and martyr, Lord Russel, by whom he had John, his successor; with several other children. His grace m. secondly, Lucy, daughter of Bennet, Baron Sherard, and sister of the first Earl of Harborough, by whom he had five sons and two daughters. His grace d. in 1721, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

John, K. G.; b. in 1699; m. in 1717, Bridget, daughter and sole heiress of Robert, (Sutton) Lord Lexinton, of Aram, by whom he had five sons and six daughters. The eldest son, John, Marquess of Granby, was a lieutenant-general in the army, and distinguished himself as commander-in-chief of the British forces, under Prince Ferdinand of Brunswick, in Germany. (He m. Lady Frances Seymour, daughter of Charles, sixth Duke of Somerset, by whom he had issue Charles, successor to the family honors; with another son, and a daughter.) The second son of his grace, Lord Robert Manners, assumed the surname of Sutton, upon inheriting the estates of his maternal uncle, Robert Sutton, last Lord Lexinton, of Aram, but d. unmarried, in 1772, when the duke's third son, Lord George Manners, succeeded to the Lexinton estates, and to the surname of Sutton. The fourth son of Lord George-Manners Sutton is Dr. Charles-Manners Sutton, present archbishop of Canterbury, whose eldest son, the Right Honorable Charles-Manners Sutton, has, for several years, filled the speaker's chair of the house of commons; and the fifth son of his lordship is Thomas, Lord Manners, present lord high chancellor of Ireland. The Duke of Rutland d. in 1779, and the Marquess of Granby deceasing previously, the family honors devolved upon his grandson,

Charles, b. 15th of March, 1754; m. in 1775, Mary-Isabella, youngest daughter of Charles, Duke of Somerset, and aunt of the present duke, by whom he left issue John-Henry, the present inheritor of the family honors; Charles-Henry, a lieutenant-general in the army, and colonel of the first West India regiment; Robert, lieutenant-colonel of dragoons; and two daughters. His grace was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter; and was nominated lord-lieutenant of Ireland, in which exalted station he died, at the early age of thirty-three, on the 24th of October, 1787.

ST. JOHN, BARON, (St. Andrew-Beauchamp St. John,) of Bletshoe; and a baronet; b. 8th of November, 1811; succeeded to the honors of his family, at the decease of his father, on the 15th of October, 1817.

Lineage.

This is the eldest branch of the ancient family of St. John, of Stanton St. John, in Oxfordshire, from which descended the Viscounts Bolingbroke. The immediate progenitor of the present baron was

SIR JOHN ST. JOHN, knight, eldest son of Sir Oliver St. John, of Penmark, in the county of Glamorgan, by Margaret, daughter of Sir John De Beauchamp, and sister and heiress of John, Lord Beauchamp, of Bletshoe, from whom lineally descended

OLIVER, BARON BEAUCHAMP, who was created on the 13th of January, 1558-9, Lord St. John, of Bletshoe. His lordship d. in 1582, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN. This nobleman was one of the peers who sat on the trial of the ill-fated Mary, Queen of Scots. His lordship d. on the 23rd of October, 1756, leaving an only daughter and heiress, Anne, who carried the barony of Beauchamp, of Bletshoe, into the family of her husband, William, Lord Howard, son and heir of Charles, Earl of Nottingham, but the barony of St. John devolved upon the deceased lord's brother,

OLIVER, who d. in 1618, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

OLIVER. This nobleman was created Earl of Bolingbroke, on the 28th of December, 1624. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of William Paulet, esq., by whom he had four sons. The earl d. in 1646, and was succeeded by his grandson,

OLIVER, son and heir of the Honorable Sir Paulet St. John, K.B. This nobleman dying without issue, in 1688, the barony devolved upon his brother,

PAULET, at whose demise, unmarried, on the 5th of October, 1711, the earldom of Bolingbroke expired, but the barony of St. John reverted to his kinsman,

SIR PAULET-ST.-ANDREW ST. JOHN, baronet, great-grandson of Sir Oliver St. John, (who was created a baronet on the 28th of June, 1660, and was grandson of Oliver, the third lord, being the eldest son of his lordship's second son, the Honorable Sir Rowland St. John, knt.) From this nobleman, who d. in infancy, in 1714, the barony passed to his uncle,

WILLIAM ST. JOHN, eighth baron; and from him descended, in course, without any thing of importance occurring, to

HENRY BEAUCHAMP, the 12th baron, who succeeded his father in 1767. This nobleman was b. in 1758; m. in 1780, Emma-Maria-Elizabeth, second daughter of the late Samuel Whitbread, the elder, esq., of Cardington, in the county of Bedford, by whom his lordship left five daughters. He d. in 1805; when the barony devolved upon his brother,

ST. ANDREW, b. 22nd August, 1759; m. in 1807, Louisa, eldest daughter of the late Sir Charles-William-Rouse Boughton, baronet, by whom he left issue St. Andrew Beauchamp, the present baron; and a posthumous daughter, Louisa-Barbara, b. 14th of June, 1818. His lordship d. in 1817.

VINCENT, VISCOUNT, (Edward-Jervis Jervis,) of Meaford, in the county of Stafford; m. first, in 1790, Mary-Cassandra, daughter of Thomas, Lord Say and Sele, by whom he has issue William Jervis, b. 11th of April, 1794, (m. in 1815, Sophia, daughter of George-Norborne Vincent, esq.;) with another son, and two daughters: and secondly, (his lordship's first marriage being dissolved by act of parliament, in 1798,) Mary-Anne, second daughter of the late Thomas Parker, esq., of Park Hall, in the county of Stafford, by whom he has two sons and a daughter. His lordship succeeded to the peerage, at the decease of his uncle, the late Earl St. Vincent, on the 13th of March, 1823, and assumed, by royal permission, on the 7th of May, in the same year, the surname and arms of Jervis only, in place of those of his own paternal family, Ricketts.

Lineage.

JOHN JERVIS, esq., second son of Swynfen Jervis, esq., a lawyer of eminence, by Elizabeth, daughter of George Parker, esq., of Park Hall, was b. at Meaford, on the 9th of January, 1734, and having entered the royal navy at a very early period of life, (in his tenth year,) advanced to the highest honors of the profession, and was elevated to the peerage on the 27th of May, 1797, in consequence of the gallant victory which he achieved, in that year, off Cape St. Vincent, over the Spanish fleet, by the titles of Baron Jervis, of Meaford, in the county of Stafford; and Earl St. Vincent. His lordship was nominated first lord of the admiralty in 1801; and created, upon the 21st of April, in the same year, Viscount St. Vincent; with remainder, in default of male issue, to his nephews, William-Henry Ricketts, and Edward-Jervis Ricketts, successively, and, after them, to the male descendants of his niece, Mary, Countess of Northesk. The earl m. in 1783, Martha, daughter of Lord Chief Baron Parker, who d. without issue, in 1816. His lordship d. on the 13th of March, 1823, when the earldom and barony expired, but the viscountcy devolved upon his younger nephew, (the elder, Captain William-Henry Ricketts, of the royal navy, having been unfortunately drowned in 1805, and leaving only daughters,) Edward-Jervis, the present viscount, who is second son of William-Henry Ricketts, esq., of Canaan, in the island of Jamaica, by the deceased earl's sister, Mary.

Lord Saltoun is a lieutenant-colonel in the army, and captain in the grenadier guards; a companion of the Bath, and a military knight of Russia and Austria.

This being a peerage of Scotland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, but the present baron sits as one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

The barony of Saltoun, conferred, on the 28th of June, 1445, upon

LAURENCE ABERNETHY, of Saltoun, passed into the ancient house of Fraser, at the demise of

ALEXANDER, the 9th baron, without issue, in 1669, who was succeeded by his first cousin,

SIR ALEXANDER FRASER, bart., of Philorth. His lordship d. in 1693, at the advanced age of ninety, and was succeeded by his grandson,

WILLIAM, who was succeeded by his son, in 1715,

ALEXANDER, to whom succeeded, in 1748, his son,

ALEXANDER, upon whose demise, without issue, in 1751, the barony devolved upon his brother,

GEORGE, b. in 1720; m. in 1756, Eleanora, daughter of John Gordon, esq., by whom he left two sons and three daughters. His lordship d. in 1781, and was succeeded by his eldest son, ALEXANDER, b. in 1758; m. in 1784, Margaret, daughter of Simon Fraser, esq., by whom he had issue Alexander-George, the present peer; Simon, who d. in 1811; William, b. 12th of Oct. 1791; and Margaret, who d. in 1809. His lordship d. in 1793.

SALUSBURY, SIR THOMAS-ROBERT, baronet, of Llanwern, in the county of Monmouth; b. 18th of May, 1783; succeeded to the title at the decease of his father, in Nov. 1817.

Lineage.

ROBERT SALUSBURY, esq., eldest son of Robert Salusbury, esq., of Cotton Hall, in the county of Denbigh, by Gwen, daughter and heiress of Ellis Davies, esq., of Nantyrerwhaid, in the county of Merioneth, was created a baronet, on the 4th of May, 1795; m. in 1756, Catherine, daughter and sole heiress of Charles Vane, esq., of Llanwern, by whom he left issue Thomas-Robert, the present baronet; with two other sons, and three daughters. Sir Robert d. in 1817.

Country Seat—Llanwern, Monmouthshire.

SANDWICH, EARL OF, (John-William Montagu,) in the county of Kent; Viscount Hinchinbroke, and Baron Montagu, of St. Neot's, both in the county of Huntingdon. His lordship (b. on the 8th of November, 1811,) inherited the honors of his family at the decease of his father, on the 21st of May, 1818.

Lineage.

This noble family is descended from a common ancestor with the present ducal house of Manchester, with the Earls of Halifax, and with the late Duke of Montague. Its immediate progenitor, however, was

SIR SIDNEY MONTAGU, knt., who represented the county of Huntingdon in parliament, in 1640, but was expelled, in 1642, for declining to subscribe an oath, framed by the house, "That they would live and die with their general, Lord Essex." The son of this senator, by Paulina, daughter of John Pepys, esq.,

SIR EDWARD MONTAGU, knt., commander-in-chief of the British navy, having had sufficient influence to induce the whole fleet to acknowledge the restored monarchy, was elevated to the peerage, by King Charles the Second, on the 12th of July, 1660, by the titles of Baron Montagu, Viscount Hinchinbroke, and Earl of Sandwich; his majesty conferring, also, upon his lordship the illustrious Order of the Garter. This nobleman m. Jemima, daughter of John, Lord Crewe, by whom he had issue Edward, his successor; and Sidney, who m. Anne, daughter and heiress of Sir Francis Wortley, and assumed, in consequence, the surname of Wortley. His lordship, who was high admiral of England, fell in the great naval engagement with the Dutch, fought off Southwold Bay, on the 28th of May, 1672, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

EDWARD, who d. in 1689, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

EDWARD, who was succeeded at his demise, in 1729, by his grandson,

JOHN. This nobleman was a diplomatist and statesman, and assisted at the celebrated congress of Aix-la-Chapelle, in 1748. He was, subsequently, secretary of state, and first lord of the admiralty. He m. in 1740, Judith, daughter of Charles, Viscount Fane, of the kingdom of Ireland, and was succeeded at his demise, in 1792, by his only surviving son,

JOHN. This nobleman m. first, in 1766, Elizabeth, only surviving daughter of George, second Earl of Halifax, by whom he had a son, who d. without issue, in 1790; and a daughter. His lordship m. secondly, in 1772, Lady Mary Paulet, daughter of the last Duke of Bolton, by whom he had two sons and two daughters. The earl d. in 1814, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GEORGE-JOHN, b. 2nd March, 1773; m. in 1804, Louisa, daughter of Armar, late Earl of Belmore, and sister of the present earl, by whom he left issue John-William, the present peer; and two daughters. The eldest of which, Lady Harriett-Mary Montague, m. in 1823, Bingham Baring, esq.

SANDYS, BARONESS, (Mary Hill,) of Ombersley, in the county of Worcester; m. in 1786, Arthur, late Marquess of Downshire, by whom she has issue Arthur, the present marquess; with four other sons, and two daughters.

See, Marquess of Downshire.

This lady, who is only daughter of the late Honorable Martin Sandys, (niece and heiress of Edwin, Lord Sandys, with whom, in 1797, that barony expired, and grand-daughter of the Right Honorable Samuel Sandys, upon whom it was conferred, in 1743,) was created Baroness Sandys, on the 15th of June, 1802, with remainder to her ladyship's four younger sons, by the late Marquess of Downshire, successively, and their male issue, and then to her eldest son, the present Marquess of Downshire.

Country Seat—Ombersley Court, in the county of Worcester.

SANDYS-BAYNTUN, SIR EDWIN, baronet, of Misserden Castle, in the county of Gloucester; b. 16th of July, 1774; m. Agnes, daughter of Michael Allen, esq., of Coleridge House, in the county of Devon, by whom he has issue Edwin-Windsor, b. 31st of October, 1801; and five daughters.

This gentleman, third son of Miles Sandys, esq., of West Lavington, in the county of Devon, by Mary, daughter of Peter Knowling, esq. of Ireland, (descended from Sir Edward Sandys, knt., of Fladbury, in the county of Worcester,) was created a baronet, on the 26th of September, 1809.

Country Seats—Misserden Castle, in the county of Gloucester; and Chadlington Hall, in the county of Oxford.

SAUMAREZ, SIR JAMES, baronet, of Guernsey; b. in 1757; m. in 1788, Martha, daughter and heiress of Thomas le Marchant, esq., of Guernsey, by whom he has issue James, b. 9th of October, 1789, a clergyman of the established church, (m. Mary, second daughter of Admiral Lechmere;) with two other sons, and two daughters.

This gentleman, (descended from a very ancient Norman family, which came to England in the train of the Conqueror, and settled in the island of Guernsey,) having distinguished himself as a naval officer, and attained the rank of admiral of the blue, with the Grand Cross of the Bath, was created a baronet, on the 13th of June, 1801.

SAXTON, SIR CHARLES, baronet, of Circourt, in the county of Berks; b. 2nd of October, 1773; inherited the title at the demise of his father, in November, 1808.

Lineage.

CHARLES SAXTON, esq., commissioner of the royal dockyard at Plymouth, was created a baronet on the 26th of July, 1794; m. in 1771, Mary, only daughter of Jonathan Bush, esq., of Burcot, by whom he left issue Charles, the present baronet; with two other sons, and a daughter, Philadelphia-Hannah, the wife of Captain Robert Dudley Oliver, of the royal navy. Sir Charles d. in 1808.

Country Seat—Circourt, in the county of Berks.

SAYE AND SELE, BARON, (George-William-Eardley Twisleton-Fiennes;) b. 14th April, 1769; inherited the barony at the demise of his father, on the 1st of July, 1788; m. in 1794, Maria-Marrow, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Sampson, late Lord Eardley, by whom he has issue William-Thomas, b. 24th of April, 1798; and Maria-Elizabeth, b. 23rd of June, 1795. His lordship, to commemorate his descent from the noble and ancient family of "Fiennes," assumed, by royal permission, on the 26th of February, 1825, that surname and the arms attached to it, in addition to and after those of Twisleton; and, on the 16th of March following, by royal license also, he assumed, on behalf of himself and his issue, in compliance with a proviso in an indenture of settlement made by his father-in-law, the late Lord Eardley, the surname and arms of "Eardley," in addition to and before those which his lordship then used.

Lineage.

This ancient family is descended from John, Baron of Fines, hereditary constable of Dover Castle, and warden of the Cinque Ports, from whom lineally sprang

SIR JAMES FIENES, knt., (grandson of Sir William Fienes, knt., and of Joan, his wife, third sister and co-heiress of William de Say, Lord Say,) who was summoned to parliament on the 3rd of March, 1447, as Lord Say and Sele, and created, on the 6th of the same month, in open parliament, the lords spiritual and temporal acquiescing, a baron of the realm, by the same title. The ultimate fate, however, of this nobleman was a melancholy one. Being a prisoner in the tower at the period Jack Cade's mob entered the city of London, he was dragged by the riotous multitude from thence to the standard at Cheapside, and there beheaded, on the 4th of July, 1451. His lordship was succeeded by his son,

WILLIAM. This nobleman obtained, in 1461, a grant of the office of constable of Porchester Castle, and of Pevensey Castle, for life; and being one of the lords who attended the king unto the north, was made vice-admiral to Richard Nevil, the great Earl of Warwick, then high admiral of England. In the 10th year of Edward the Fourth, he was one of those that fled with the king into Flanders, and, upon his majesty's return, landed with him at Ravenspur, in Holder-nesse, but was soon afterwards slain in the battle of Barnet, on the 14th of April, 1471. None of the descendants of this nobleman had summons to parliament, nor did they claim the title, until

Sir Richard Fienes, knt., the fifth in descent from the nobleman slain at Barnet, obtained a recognition of his claim to the barony of Say and Sele, letters patent from King James the First, dated 9th of August, 1603, wherein the said barony was confirmed to himself and to his heirs general; but as he took his place in parliament as a junior baron, those letters appear to have been considered a new creation. His lordship d. in 1613, and was succeeded by his son,

William, who was created Viscount Say and Sele, on the 7th of July, 1624, and dying, in 1662, was succeeded by his son,

James. This nobleman m. Frances, one of the daughters and co-heiresses of Edward, (Cecil,) Viscount Wimbledon, by whom he had issue three sons, all of whom d. in their father's life-time; and two daughters, Elizabeth, who m. Sir John Twisleton, knt., of Barley, in the county of York; and Frances, who m. Andrew Ellis, esq., of Aley, in the county of Flint. His lordship d. in 1674, and thus leaving no male issue, the barony of Say and Sele fell into abeyance between his two daughters, but the viscounty devolved upon his nephew,

William Fienes, esq., who d. in 1696, and was succeeded by his only son,

Nathaniel, who d. unmarried, in 1710, when the viscounty reverted to his cousin,

Laurence Fienes, esq., grandson of the first viscount through his third son, the Honorable John Fienes, who took his seat in the house of lords on the 24th of February, 1710, and dying without issue, in 1742, was succeeded by his cousin,

Richard, great-grandson of the first viscount, through his fourth son, the Honorable Richard Fienes, at whose demise, in 1781, without male issue, the viscounty expired; but the ancient barony, which had fallen into abeyance, as already mentioned, at the demise of the second viscount, in 1674, was claimed, in the same year, by

Thomas Twisleton, esq., as heir-general of James, ninth baron, and second viscount, (being son and heir of John Twisleton, eldest son of Fienes-Twisleton, son and heir of George Twisleton, by Cecil, his wife, daughter and heiress of Sir John Twisleton, of Barley, in the county of York, by the Honorable Elizabeth Fienes, daughter and co-heiress of the viscount,) which claim (the line of the other daughter, the Honorable Mrs. Ellis, having failed,) being allowed, he was summoned to parliament, on the 29th of June, 1781. His lordship m. in 1767, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Sir Edward Turner, bart., by whom he had issue George-William, the present baron; Thomas-James, a Doctor in Divinity and Archdeacon of Colombo, in Ceylon; and two daughters. His lordship, who was a major-general in the army, and colonel of the 9th regiment of foot, d. on the 1st of July, 1788.

SCARBOROUGH, EARL OF, (Richard-Lumley Saunderson,) Viscount Lumley, and Baron Lumley, of Lumley Castle, in the county of Durham, in the peerage of England; and Viscount Lumley, of Waterford, in the peerage of Ireland; b. 16th of April, 1757; m. in 1787, Henrietta, daughter of Henry, late Lord Middleton, of Middleton, and sister of the present lord, by whom he has no issue. His lordship inherited the honors of his family at the decease of his brother, on the 5th of September, 1807.

Lineage.

This distinguished family claims descent from a nobleman of high rank in the reign of Edward the Confessor, named Liulph, and its surname is derived from Lumley, on the Weare, in the county palatine of Durham, the residence of this personage when driven into retirement by the rapaciousness of the Normans. From him lineally sprang

Sir Ralph de Lumley, knt., who was summoned to parliament amongst the barons of the realm, in 1384, and who obtained a royal license to make a castle of his manor-house of Lumley. His lordship joining, subsequently, in the rebellion of Thomas de Holland, Earl of Kent, was attainted, and d. in the field of battle; but his grandson,

Thomas de Lumley, obtained from parliament, in 1461, a reversal of the attainder, and, being thus restored in blood, was summoned as a baron from 1461 to 1497, in which latter year he is supposed to have died. This barony continued until the decease of

John de Lumley, the sixth baron, in 1690, when it expired for want of a male heir; but the estates devolving upon

Richard Lumley, esq., cousin of the deceased lord, as well by his lordship's will, as by deed of settlement, that gentleman was knighted, on the 19th of July, 1616, and advanced, on the 12th of July, 1628, to the peerage of Ireland, as Viscount Lumley, of Waterford. His lordship was succeeded by his grandson,

Richard, who was enrolled amongst the peers of England, on the 31st of May, 1681, as Baron Lumley, of Lumley Castle, with remainder, in default of male issue, to his brother, Henry. His lordship was created, on the 10th of April, 1689, Viscount Lumley; and, on the 15th of April, 1690, Earl of Scarborough. This nobleman was a military officer, and had a chief command at the battle of Sedgemoor, in 1685, wherein the unfortunate Duke of Monmouth was defeated. His lordship d. in 1721, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Richard, who was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter; and, dying unmarried, in 1740, the family honors devolved upon his brother, the 15th of August, 1771; m. in 1797, Margaret-Charlotte, daughter of —— Carpenter, esq., by whom he has issue Walter, b. 28th of October, 1800, an officer of dragoons; and Charlotte-Sophia, the wife of John-Gibson Lockart, esq.

This gentleman, the third son of Walter Scott, esq., writer to the Signet, by Anne, daughter of John Rutherford, esq., an eminent physician, and one of the founders of the celebrated medical school of Edinburgh, having distinguished himself as a poet, and pre-eminently (if the general opinion be correct) as a novelist, was created a baronet, on the 22nd of April, 1820. The first baronetcy conferred in the present reign, and the only one during that year.

Sir Walter, having been bred to the Scottish bar, is one of the principal clerks of the session, and sheriff depute of the shire of Selkirk. He is descended from Sir William Scott, of Harden, through his third son, Walter Scott, of Raeburn, which Walter, or, as more frequently and familiarly designated, "Auld Watt," was forcibly deprived of the education of his children, had part of his estate wrested from him, and was himself thrown into the prison of Edinburgh, while his wife was incarcerated in that of Jedburgh, for daring to embrace the mild and benevolent tenets of Quakerism.

SEAFIELD, EARL OF, (Lewis-Alexander-Grant Ogilvie,) Viscount Reidhaven, and Baron Ogilvie, of Deskford and Cullen, and a baronet; succeeded to the honors of his family at the decease of his kinsman, James, Earl of Findlater, and of Seafield, on the 5th of October, 1811.

The honors of the house of Seafield being of Scotland only, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

This distinguished family was first ennobled in the person of

SIR WALTER OGILVIE, knt., of Deskford and Findlater, who was created Baron Ogilvie, of Deskford, on the 4th of October, 1616, and was succeeded by his son,

JAMES, who was created, on the 20th of February, 1638, Earl of Findlater; and dying without issue, was succeeded, according to a special limitation in a renewed patent, obtained on the 18th of October, 1641, by the husband of his daughter,

SIR PATRICK OGILVIE, knight, of Inchmartin. This nobleman d. in 1658, and was succeeded by his son,

JAMES, who d. in 1711, and was succeeded by his son,

JAMES, a lawyer of great eminence at the Scottish bar, who filled the offices of solicitor-general and secretary of state for Scotland, lord chief baron of the exchequer, and high commissioner to the general assembly of the church. He was elevated to the peerage before the decease of his father, on the 28th of June, 1698, by the title of Viscount Seafield, and created, on the 24th of June, 1701, Viscount Reidhaven and Earl of Seafield, with remainder, in default of direct heirs male, to his heirs male generally. His lordship d. in 1730, and was succeeded by his son and heir,

JAMES, who m. Lady Elizabeth Hay, daughter of Thomas, Earl of Kinnoul, by whom he had issue James, his successor; and two daughters,—Margaret, who m. Sir Lodowick Grant, of Grant, baronet, from whom descended the present earl; and Anne, the wife of John, second earl of Hopetown. The earl of Findlater and Seafield d. in 1764, and was succeeded by his only son,

JAMES. This nobleman d. in 1770, and was succeeded by his only child,

JAMES, at whose demise, without issue, on the 5th of October, 1811, the earldom of Findlater and the viscounty of Seafield expired, but the other dignities reverted to his cousin, Sir Lewis-Alexander Grant, bart., the present earl, who assumed the surname of Ogilvie, in addition to that of his paternal family. His lordship is eldest son of Sir James Grant, baronet, by Jean, only child of Alexander Duff, esq., of Hatton, by Lady Anne Duff, daughter of William, first Earl of Fife. Francis-William Grant, esq., the only brother of the earl, and heir-presumptive to the family honors, with his three sisters, were granted by his majesty, on the 31st of July, 1822, the precedency and rank of an earl's children.

SEFTON, EARL OF, (William Molyneaux,) Viscount Molyneaux, of Maryborough, in the peerage of Ireland, and a baronet of England; b. 18th of September, 1772; m. in 1792, Maria, daughter of the late Lord Craven, and sister of the present Earl of Craven, by whom he has issue Charles-William, Viscount Molyneaux, b. 10th July, 1796; with three other sons, and three daughters. His lordship succeeded to the peerage at the decease of his father, on the 31st of January, 1795.

The honors of the house of Sefton being of Ireland only, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament; but the present earl, having abandoned his elective right to the upper house, sits in the lower as representative for Droitwich.

Lineage.

This noble family is lineally descended from William de Molines, Lord of Sefton, who came to England in the train of the Conqueror. It obtained a baronetcy at the first institution of that order, in 1611, and was ennobled in the person of

SIR RICHARD MOLYNEAUX, baronet, on the 22nd of December, 1628, who was created a peer of Ireland, as Viscount Molyneaux, of Maryborough. His lordship m. Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Thomas Caryll, and dying in 1632, was succeeded by his only surviving son,

CARYLL, who d. in 1699, and was succeeded by his only son,

WILLIAM. This nobleman was the father of

RICHARD, CARYLL, and WILLIAM, } alternate viscounts, all of whom died without issue. The latter being succeeded, in 1759, by their nephew,

CHARLES-WILLIAM, who was created Earl of Sefton, on the 30th of November, 1771. His lordship m. in 1768, Lady Isabella Stanhope, daughter of William, late Earl of Harrington, and sister of the present earl, by whom he had issue an only son, William, the present peer. The earl d. in 1795.

Motto, in English,

To conquer is to live enough.

SELKIRK, EARL OF, (Dunbar-James Douglas,) Lord Daer and Shortcleugh; b. in 1810; inherited the honors of his family at the demise of his father, on the 8th of April, 1820.

This being a peerage of Scotland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament. The present earl is a minor.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ducal house of Hamilton, springing from

LORD CHARLES DOUGLAS, whose father, Lord William Douglas, being created Duke of Hamilton for life, relinquished in his favor, (his lordship was second son of his grace,) the earldom of Selkirk, and the barony of Daer and Shortcleugh, which had been conferred upon his grace, on the 4th of August, 1646; for which purpose he obtained a new patent, dated 6th of October, 1688, with a reversionary clause in favor of his five younger sons. The earl d. unmarried, in 1739, when the peerage devolved upon his next brother,

LORD JOHN DOUGLAS, who was created, on the 14th of April, 1697, Earl of Rugden. His lordship d. without male issue, in 1744, when that earldom descended to his only daughter, Anne, and his hereditary honors devolved upon the grandson of his brother, Lord Basil, his lordship's grand-nephew,

DUNBAR-HAMILTON DOUGLAS, esq. This nobleman m. in 1758, Helen, fifth daughter of the Honorable John Hamilton, and grand-daughter of Thomas, sixth Earl of Haddington, by whom he left Thomas, his successor; and four daughters. His lordship d. in 1799, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

THOMAS, b. in 1771; m. in 1807, Jane, only daughter of James-Wedderburn Colville, esq., by whom he had issue Dunbar-James, the present earl; and two daughters. The earl d. in 1820.

SEMPLE, LORD, (Hugh Semple), b. in 1758; succeeded to the title, at the decease of his father, in 1782; m. in 1787, Miss Mellish, daughter of Charles Mellish, esq., of Ragnal, in the county of Nottingham, by whom he has issue Selkirk, b. 12th of February, 1788; with another son, and two daughters.

This being a barony of Scotland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present baron is not one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

This family was ennobled about the close of the fifteenth century, in the person of

Sir John Semple, knight, created Lord Semple by King James the Fourth; from whom the title passed in regular succession, without anything of importance intervening, to

Francis, the eighth lord, who d. without issue in 1684, when the barony devolved upon his sister,

Anne. Her ladyship m. Francis Abercromby, esq., of Fetterneir, who was created, in consequence, Baron Glassford, for life. The issue of this marriage were five sons. On the 16th of May, 1688, a new charter was obtained by Lady Semple, settling the barony upon her ladyship's issue, by her then, or any future, husband; in default of which, to any person nominated by herself and Lord Glassford jointly. After the decease of her ladyship, her two sons,

Francis and John, successively inherited the barony; but both dying unmarried, (the latter in 1716,) it devolved upon their younger brother,

Hugh, who d. in 1746, and was succeeded by his son,

John. This nobleman m. in 1755, Janet, only daughter and heiress of Hugh Dunlop, esq., of Bishoptoun, in the county of Renfrew, by whom he left issue Hugh, the present peer; George, a military officer, who d. in the East Indies; and three daughters. His lordship d. in 1782.

Lineage.

JOHN COOPER, of Rockbourne, in the county of Southampton, only son of Sir John Cooper, knight, was created a baronet on the 4th of July, 1622. He m. first, Anne, daughter and sole heiress of Sir Anthony Ashley, knight, of Winborne St. Giles, in the county of Dorset, secretary at war, in the reign of Elizabeth, by whom he had two sons, and a daughter. Sir John m. secondly, Mary, relict of Sir Charles Morrison, but had no issue by that lady. He d. on the 23rd of March, 1631, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR ANTHONY-ASHLEY, one of the most distinguished statesmen of the era in which he lived. Actively engaged in public affairs, during the civil wars, he is to be found, in the commencement, espousing the cause of royalty; subsequently, a parliamentarian; and, finally, contributing to the restoration of the monarchy. After the accomplishment of which desirable event, he was elevated to the peerage by the title of Baron Ashley, of Winborne St. Giles, (on the 20th of April, 1661;) and, under that title, became a member of the celebrated cabinet of Charles the Second, so well known by the designation of the "Cabal." His lordship was constituted lord lieutenant of the county of Dorset; and created, on the 23rd of April, 1672, Baron Cooper, of Paulett, and Earl of Shaftesbury; and, in the November following, declared lord high chancellor of England. The earl m. thrice, but had issue only by his second wife, Lady Frances Cecil, daughter of David, Earl of Exeter; namely, two sons; Cecil, who d. young; and Anthony, his successor. His lordship becoming a strong opponent of the measures of the court, was obliged to retire to Holland, where he d. of the gout in his stomach, on the 22nd of January, 1683, and was succeeded by his only son,

ANTHONY-ASHLEY, who d. in 1699, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

ANTHONY-ASHLEY. This nobleman, a man of letters, d. in 1713, and was succeeded by his only son,

ANTHONY-ASHLEY. His lordship m. first, in 1725, Lady Susannah Noel, daughter of Baptist, third Earl of Gainsborough, who d. without issue in 1758; and secondly, the Honorable Mary Bouverie, daughter of Jacob, Viscount Folkstone, by whom he had Anthony, his successor; Cropley-Ashley, the present earl; and a daughter. His lordship d. on the 27th of May, 1771, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

ANTHONY-ASHLEY, b. in 1761. This nobleman m. in 1786, Barbara, daughter of Sir John Webb, of Oldstock House, in the county of Wilts, baronet, by Mary, eldest daughter of Thomas Salvin, esq., of Easingwould, in the county of York, (one of the co-heiresses of the ancient barony of Mauley, as a descendant, by George Salvaine, esq., of Elizabeth De Mauley, youngest sister of the last baron, who d. in 1415, since which period the barony has remained in abeyance,) and left issue an only daughter, Lady Barbara-Ashley Cooper, b. 19th of October, 1788; m. in 1814, the Honorable William Ponsonby, third son of the present Earl of Besborough. Her ladyship inherits the right of her mother to the barony of Mauley. The earl d. in 1811, and leaving no male issue, the honors of the family devolved upon his only brother, Cropley, the present peer.

SHEFFIELD, EARL OF, (George-Augustus-Frederick-Charles Holroyd,) Viscount Pevensey; Baron Sheffield, of Dunamore, in the county of Meath, and Baron Sheffield, of Roscommon, in the peerage of Ireland; Baron Sheffield, of Sheffield, in the county of York, in the peerage of the United Kingdom; b. 16th of March, 1802; inherited the honors of his family, at the decease of his father, on the 30th of May, 1821.

Lineage.

The emigration of this distinguished family to Ireland took place in the reign of King Charles the Second. It had previously enjoyed, for a long lapse of time, considerable wealth and influence in the county of York, for we find that one William de Howrode (as the name was originally spelt,) had extensive possessions in that county, whence he derived his surname, as early as the thirteenth century. From this personage, lineally descended

ISAAC HOLROYD, who acquired large estates in Ireland, which descended to his only surviving son,

JOHN-BAKER HOLROYDE, esq., who inherited, also, the estates of his mother's family, the Bakers, of Penn, in the county of Buckingham, and assumed, in consequence, that surname before his paternal one. This gentleman was advanced to the peerage of Ireland on the 9th of January, 1781, by the title of Baron Sheffield, of Dunamore, in the county of Meath, and created, on the 19th of October, 1783, Baron Sheffield, of the county of Roscommon, with remainder, in default of male, to his female issue by his first marriage. SHIFFNER, SIR GEORGE, baronet, of Combe Place, in the county of Sussex; m. 31st of October, 1787, Mary, only daughter and heiress of Sir John Bridger, knight, of Coln, St. Aldwyns, in the county of Gloucester, by whom he has issue Henry, a captain in the royal navy, b. 4th of November, 1781; George, a clergyman of the established church; and Thomas; with four daughters.

This gentleman, who is son of the late Henry Shiffner, esq., of the county of Hereford, by Mary, daughter of John Jackson, esq., governor of Bengal, in 1748, was created a baronet, on the 16th of December, 1818.

Country Seat—Combe Place, Sussex.

SHREWSBURY, EARL OF, (Charles Talbot,) in the peerage of England; and Earl of Waterford and Wexford, in the peerage of Ireland; b. 8th March, 1753; inherited the honors of his family at the decease of his uncle, on the 22nd July, 1792; m. Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. James Hoey, of the city of Dublin, by whom he has no issue.

The earl of Shrewsbury is deprived of his hereditary rights, as a legislator, in consequence of adhering to the tenets of the church of Rome.

Lineage.

This noble family traces its descent to a period antecedent to the Conquest, but the first person of note upon record is Richard de Talbot, who is mentioned in Doomsday Book, as holding nine hides of land from Walter Giffard, Earl of Buckingham. This Richard m. the daughter of Gerard de Gournay, by whom he had two sons; Geffrey, the progenitor of the Talbots, of Thornhill, in Yorkshire; and

HUGH DE TALBOT, the ancestor of the house of Shrewsbury. This personage was made governor of the castle of Plessy, in Essex, by his uncle, Hugh de Gournay, in 1118, who was then in rebellion against Henry the First, and who caused the king's governor to be put to death. Hugh, subsequently, assumed the habit of a monk, and retired into the monastery of Beaubeck, in Normandy, leaving three sons, Richard, William, and Hugh; from the eldest of which descended

Sir Gilbert Talbot, who was summoned to parliament, from 1331 to 1355; and his descendants enjoyed the same honor for nearly a century, when

John Talbot, the sixth baron, by writ, was appointed (in 1414) lord lieutenant of Ireland, in which important station he continued for seven years. He, subsequently, distinguished himself in the French wars of Henry the Fifth; but his great renown was acquired in the reign of Henry the Sixth, with the regent (John, Duke of) Bedford, upon the French soil, when his name became terrible to the French, in consequence of the various successful expeditions which he conducted against them. He was attacked, however, by the maid of Orleans, at Patay, in 1429, and his army being entirely routed, he became captive to the enterprising and enthusiastic heroine. Having obtained his liberty, by bribing Ambrose de Lore, a celebrated French captain, and continuing to distinguish himself in arms, he was created, on the 20th of May, 1442, Earl of Shrewsbury. His lordship was, subsequently, re-nominated lord-lieutenant of Ireland, and elevated to the peerage of that kingdom, on the 17th of July, 1446, as Earl of Waterford and Wexford. This celebrated general, being again engaged in foreign warfare, advanced to the relief of Chastillon, and giving the besieging French army battle, on the 20th of July, 1453, in the eightieth year of his age, received a wound in the thigh, which proved immediately mortal. His lordship was said to have been victorious in forty different battles and dangerous skirmishes. He was succeeded by his son,

John, from whom the family honors passed, with little deviation in the succession, to

Charles, the twelfth earl, b. in 1660, who was created, on the 30th April, 1694, Marquess of Alton, in the county of Stafford; and Duke of Shrewsbury; and installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. His grace was a prominent statesman, in the reigns of William and Mary, Queen Anne, and King George the First; and filled some of the highest official situations. He d. on the 1st of February, O. S., 1717-18, and leaving no issue, the dukedom and marquesate expired, but the earldom, &c., devolved upon his cousin,

The Reverend Gilbert Talbot, a clergyman of the church of Rome, grandson of the tenth earl, through his son, the Honorable Gilbert Talbot. This nobleman dying, of course, unmarried, in 1743, the honors descended to his nephew, George Talbot, esq., b. 11th of December 1719, eldest son of the deceased earl's brother, George, by Mary, daughter of Thomas, Viscount Fitzwilliam, of the kingdom of Ireland. His lordship m. 21st of November, 1753, Elizabeth, daughter of John, seventh Lord Dormer, by whom he had no issue. He d. in 1787, when the peerage reverted to his nephew, Charles Talbot, esq. the present earl, son of his next brother, the Honorable Charles Talbot, by Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Robert Alwyn, esq., of Trayford, in the county of Essex.

SHUCKBURGH, SIR FRANCIS, baronet, of Shuckburgh, in the county of Warwick; inherited the title at the decease of his father, on the 21st of July, 1809.

Lineage.

This very ancient Warwickshire family has been settled at Shuckburgh, and has borne that surname, since the beginning of the twelfth century.

John Shuckburgh, esq., (son of Sir John Shuckburgh, knight, who was knighted for his gallantry, under the royal banner, at the battle of Edgehill, and who, subsequently, made a most heroic stand upon Shuckburgh Hill, against the parliamentarians,) was created a baronet, soon after the restoration of the monarchy, on the 26th of June, 1660, and was succeeded by his only son,

Sir Charles, b. 1659; m. first, Catharine, daughter of Sir Hugh Stukeley, baronet, of Hinton, by whom he had a son and two daughters; and secondly, Diana, daughter of Richard, Lord Willoughby de Broke, by whom he had three sons and five daughters. Sir Charles d. in 1705, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir John, who was succeeded, in 1724, by his only son,

Sir Stukeley. This gentleman d. without issue, in 1759, when the title reverted to his cousin,

Sir Charles, grandson of the second baronet, through his second son, Charles, who d. also without issue, (in 1773,) and was succeeded by his nephew,

Sir George-Augustus-William. This gentleman, who was distinguished by his scientific researches, m. first, in 1782, Sarah-Johanna, daughter of John Draper, esq., of Gayton, in the county of Northampton, who d. without issue; and secondly, in 1785, Julia-Arabella, daughter and sole heiress of James Evelyn, esq., of Fellbridge, in the county of Surrey, by whom he had an only daughter, Julia, who m. in 1810, the Honorable Charles-Cope Jenkinson, brother to the present Earl of Liverpool, and d. in 1814. Sir George, on the demise of his father-in-law, in 1793, assumed the name of Evelyn. He d. in 1804, and leaving no male issue, the title devolved upon his brother,

Sir Stukeley, who m. Miss C. Tydd, by whom he had issue Francis, the present baronet; with two other sons, and three daughters. The eldest daughter, Charlotte-Anne, met a melancholy fate, being shot to death, in Shuckburgh Park, on the 26th of March, 1809, by a Mr. Sharp, a lieutenant of the Bedford militia, in a fit of derangement, who put himself to death immediately afterwards, in the

SMYTHE, SIR EDWARD-JOSEPH, baronet, of Eshe Hall, in the county of Durham; b. in 1787; m. in 1809, Frances, daughter of Sir Edward Bellew, of Barmeath, in the county of Louth, a baronet of Ireland, by whom he has a son, b. in September, 1812; and two daughters. Sir Edward inherited the title at the decease of his father, in April, 1811.

Lineage.

EDWARD SMYTHE, esq., of Eshe Hall, was created a baronet, on the 23rd of February, 1660, and was succeeded, alternately, by his two sons,

SIR RICHARD and SIR JOHN, who both died in the year 1730, within a few months of each other. Sir John having married Constantia, daughter of George Blunt, esq., was succeeded by the eldest of two sons,

SIR EDWARD. This gentleman m. twice: first, Mary, daughter of Peter Giffard, esq., by whom he had an only son, Edward, his successor; and, secondly, Mary, daughter of Hugh, third Lord Clifford, and aunt of the present lord, by whom he had three sons and a daughter. Sir Edward was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR EDWARD, who m. in 1781, Miss Holford, only daughter and heiress of Peter Holford, esq., of Wooton Hall, in the county of Warwick, by whom he had an only son, Edward-Joseph, the present baronet. Sir Edward d. in 1811.

SOAME-HERNE-BUCKWORTH, SIR JOHN, baronet, of Sheen, in the county of Surrey; b. in 1794; m. Susan, daughter of —— Simperingham, esq., of Cambridge, by whom he has issue three sons; Peter, John, a clergyman of the established church; and Charles: succeeded to the title at the demise of his father, on the 21st of January, 1822, and assumed the surname and arms of Soame, by royal licence, in addition to, and after, those of his own family, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of the late Sir Peter Soame, baronet, of Heydon House, in the county of Essex, a baronetcy now extinct.

Lineage.

The original surname of this family was Buckworth, and the baronetcy was conferred, on the 1st of April, 1697, upon

JOHN BUCKWORTH, esq., (son and heir of Alderman Sir John Buckworth, knight, of the city of London, wherein he was an eminent and opulent merchant.) This gentleman m. Elizabeth, daughter of —— Hall, esq., a merchant, also, of London, by whom, at his demise, in 1702, he left two sons,

SIR JOHN and SIR EVERARD, successive baronets. The former d. in 1758; the latter (who was assistant gentleman-usher to the king) in 1779, and was succeeded by his son,

SIR JOHN, who d. unmarried in 1801, when the title devolved upon his brother,

SIR EVERARD. This gentleman m. Miss Herne, daughter of the late Paston Herne, esq., of Hevesland Hall, in the county of Norfolk; and assumed, in consequence, the surname of Herne, in addition to that of Buckworth. He had issue John, the present baronet; and two daughters. Sir Everard Buckworth-Herne d. in 1822.

SOMERSET, DUKE OF, (Edward-Adolphus Seymour,) Baron Seymour, of Hache, in the county of Somerset; and a baronet; D.C.L. and F.R.S.; b. 7th of February, 1775; inherited the family honors, at the demise of his father, on the 15th of December, 1793; m. in July, 1800, Lady Charlotte Hamilton, second daughter of Archibald, ninth Duke of Hamilton and Brandon, and sister of the present duke, by whom he has issue Edward-Adolphus, Lord Seymour; Archibald-Algernon; and five daughters.

Lineage.

This illustrious family traces its descent to a distinguished house of Normandy, and derives its surname from the place of its abode in that principality, St. Maur, corrupted into Seymour. It deduces its honors, however, more immediately from the Protector,

Sir Edward Seymour, K.G., Earl of Hereford, brother of Lady Jane Seymour, the fifth wife of Henry the Eighth, and, consequently, uncle to the young King, Edward the Sixth; who was created Baron Seymour, of Hache, on the 16th of February, 1547, and Duke of Somerset upon the following day; with remainder, in the first instance, to his male descendants by his second wife, and, afterwards, to those of his first. The ultimate fate of this nobleman was similar to that which usually awaited the aspirants to power in the era in which he lived. After reaching the summit of his ambition, and grasping the sceptre of unlimited authority, which he swayed during the two first years of his nephew's minority, with all the attributes of royalty, and with all its exterior symbols, he was hurled from his invidious pre-eminence by the arm of one of his own most confidential counsellors, Dudley, Earl of Warwick, Duke of Northumberland, and brought to the block upon Tower-hill, on the 22d of January, 1552. His grace being attainted, his honors, of course, became forfeited; but they were restored to his great grandson,

William Seymour, who succeeded his grandfather, Edward, as Baron Beauchamp and Earl of Hertford, (so created in 1558,) and was created, himself, Marquess of Hertford, in 1640. During the reign of King James the First, this nobleman attempted, without having gained the consent of that monarch, to marry Arabella Stuart, first cousin to the king, and was, in consequence, obliged to fly the kingdom, while the unfortunate lady was committed prisoner to the Tower, where she closed her unhappy life on the 27th of September, 1615. His lordship, subsequently, returning, and taking a most distinguished and gallant part in favor of royalty, during the civil war, was restored to the barony of Seymour and dukedom of Somerset, by the reversal of the attainder of his illustrious ancestor, upon the re-establishment of the monarchy, on the 13th of September, 1660. He m. secondly, (if his connexion with Lady Arabella be deemed a marriage,) Lady Frances Devereux, eldest daughter of the accomplished and ill-fated Earl of Essex, by whom he had two sons and three daughters. His grace d. within little more than a month of his restoration to the dukedom, on the 24th of October, 1660, and was succeeded by the son of his eldest son, Henry, who d. in his father's lifetime, his grandson,

William, at whose demise unmarried, in 1671, the honors devolved upon his uncle,

Lord John Seymour, youngest son of the second duke, who d. without issue in 1675, when the marquesate of Hertford expired; but the other honors reverted to his cousin,

Francis Seymour, third Baron Seymour, of Troubridge, (great-grandson of Edward, first Earl of Hertford, through his second son, the Honorable Francis Seymour, created Baron Seymour, of Troubridge, in the county of Wilts, on the 19th of February, 1641.) This nobleman was assassinated at Genoa, in 1678; and dying unmarried, his honors devolved upon his brother,

Charles. His grace m. first, Lady Elizabeth Percy, only daughter of Jocelyn, Earl of Northumberland, and sole heiress of that illustrious family, (her ladyship had been married twice previously; first, to Lord Ogle; and secondly, to Thomas Thynne, esq., but had no issue,) by whom he had Algernon, his successor; with two other sons, and four daughters. He m. secondly, Lady Charlotte Finch, daughter of Daniel, Earl of Winchelsea, by whom he left three daughters. He d. in 1748, at the advanced age of 87, having filled high stations in the courts of Charles the Second, William the Third, and Queen Anne, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

Algernon, who had been summoned to parliament, at the demise of his mother, as Baron Percy. His grace was created Baron Warkworth, of Warkworth, in the county of Northumberland, and Duke of Northumberland, on the 2nd of October, 1749, with remainder, in default of male issue, to his son-in-law, Sir Hugh Smithson, (grandfather to the present Duke of Northumberland; see that title,) and his heirs male, by Lady Elizabeth Seymour; and, on the day following, (3rd October) Baron Cockermouth, and Earl of Egremont, both in the county of Cumberland, with remainder to his nephew, Sir Charles Wyndham, baronet, (uncle and predecessor of the present Earl of Egremont; see that title.) His grace m. Frances, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Henry Thynne, esq., by whom he had an only son, George, who d. in his nineteenth year, in 1744; and an only daughter, Lady Elizabeth, who became, as noticed above, the wife of Sir Hugh Smithson, baronet, of Stanwick, in the county of York. The duke d. in 1750, when the earldom of Hertford, the viscounty of Beauchamp, and the barony of Seymour, of Troubridge, expired. The honors obtained by his grace passed according to their respective limitations; and the dukedom of Somerset, with the barony of Seymour, of Hache, reverted to

Sir Edward Seymour, baronet, the lineal descendant of Sir Edward Seymour, knight, eldest son by his first wife, of the Protector, Somerset; the descendants of his grace's second wife, to whom the remaindership, in the first instance, was limited, having all expired. This nobleman claimed the dukedom upon the demise of his kinsman, and the attorney-general, Sir Dudley Ryder, reporting in his favor to the crown, he was summoned to parliament on the 23rd of November, 1750, and took his seat accordingly. His grace m. in 1716, Mary, daughter of Daniel Webb, esq., of Monckton Farley, in the county of Wilts, heiress of her uncle, Edward Somner, esq., of Seend, in the same county, by whom he had issue Edward, and Webb, successively dukes; William, a barrister at law; Francis, a clergyman of the established church; and Mary, the wife of Vincent Biscoe, esq., of Austin Friars. The duke d. in 1757, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Edward, who d. unmarried in 1792, when the honors devolved upon his brother,

Lord Webb Seymour. His grace m. in 1769, Mary-Anne, daughter and sole heiress of John Bonnell, esq., of Stanton Harcourt, in the county of Oxford, by whom he left issue Edward-Adolphus, the present duke; and another son, Webb-John, who d. unmarried in 1819. The duke d. on the 14th of December, 1793.

SOMERVILLE, LORD, (Mark Somerville,) in the peerage of Scotland; b. in 1794; inherited the title, at the demise of his half-brother, on the 5th of October, 1819.

The barony of Somerville being of Scotland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present baron is not one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

Thomas De Somerville, one of the ambassadors deputed, in 1423, to the court of London, to treat for the ransom of his sovereign, James the First, was created, in 1430, Lord Somerville. He d. in 1445, and was succeeded by his son,

William, from whom the title passed, with little interruption in the descent, to

James, the thirteenth lord, whose claim to the ancient barony was confirmed by parliament on the 27th of May, 1723. His lordship m. first, in 1724, Anne, only daughter of Henry Bayntun, esq., of Spye Park, in the county of Wilts, and relict of Edward Rolt, esq., of Sacombe Park, in the county of Herts, by whom he had two sons, and two daughters; and secondly, in 1738, Frances, daughter of John Rotherham, esq., by whom he left no child. This nobleman augmented his fortune considerably, by an arrangement with his kinsman, William Somerville, esq., of Eadstone, in the county of Warwick, and of Somerville-Ashton, in the county of Gloucester, the celebrated poet, and author of the "Chase;" representative of the English and elder branch of his lordship's family, by which, in consideration of certain sums applied to the relief of burdens, the poet, who was unmarried, settled the reversions of his estates upon Lord Somerville; and dying in 1742, the baron inherited accordingly. His lordship was succeeded by his eldest son,

James, who d. without issue in 1796, when the title reverted to his nephew,

John, son of the Honorable Hugh Somerville, by Elizabeth, daughter of G. Lethbridge, esq., of Westaway, in the county of Devon. This nobleman has transmitted his name to posterity, by the introduction of the breed of Merino sheep, from Lisbon into Great Britain. He d. unmarried in 1819, and was succeeded by his half-brother, Mark Somerville, esq., the present baron, who is eldest son of the Honorable Hugh Somerville, mentioned above, by his second wife, Mary, eldest daughter of the Honorable Wriothesley Digby, of Meridew, in the county of Warwick.

SOUTHWELL, VISCOUNT, (Thomas-Anthony Southwell,) Baron Southwell, of Castle Mattress, in the county of Limerick; and a baronet of Ireland; b. 25th of February, 1777; m. in 1799, Jane, second daughter of John Berkeley, esq., of Hindlip, in the county of Worcester, by whom he has issue Thomas-Arthur, b. 22nd of October, 1801; Sophia-Catharine, b. 9th of February, 1803; and Laura, b. 17th of November, 1805.

The honors of the house of Southwell being of Ireland only, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present viscount is excluded from the representative peerage, in consequence of being a Roman Catholic.

Lineage.

This noble family was of great antiquity in the county of Nottingham, where it flourished until the reign of Henry the Sixth, when it removed into Norfolk and Suffolk. From the latter county,

JOHN SOUTHWELL, esq. emigrated to Ireland, in the reign of James the First, and was grandfather of

THOMAS SOUTHWELL, esq., who was created a baronet of Ireland, in 1662. Sir Thomas was succeeded by his son,

SIR THOMAS. This gentleman was elevated to the peerage on the 4th of September, 1717, as Baron Southwell. His lordship d. in 1720, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

THOMAS, who m. in 1719, Mary, eldest daughter of Thomas Coke, esq., of Melbourne, in the county of Derby, and dying in 1760, was succeeded by his son,

THOMAS-GEORGE, b. 4th May, 1721; created Viscount Southwell on the 15th of July, 1776; m. in 1741, Margaret, daughter and co-heiress of Arthur-Cecil Hamilton, esq., of Castle Hamilton. His lordship d. in 1780, and was succeeded by his son,

STAFFORD, MARQUESS OF, (George-Granville-Levison Gower,) Earl Gower; Viscount Trentham, of Trentham, in the county of Stafford; Baron Gower, of Sittenham, in the county of York; and a baronet; b. 9th January, 1758; m. in 1785, Elizabeth, Countess of Sutherland, and Baroness of Strathnaver, in her own right, by whom he has issue George-Granville, Earl Gower, b. 6th of August, 1786; m. 28th May, 1823, Harriet, daughter of the present Earl of Carlisle; Francis, b. in 1799; Charlotte, b. 8th June, 1788, m. in 1814, Henry, Earl of Surrey; and Elizabeth, who m. in 1819, Richard, Viscount Belgrave. His lordship, who had been summoned to parliament, as Baron Gower, in the life-time of his father, the late marquess, inherited the family honors, at the demise of that nobleman, on the 26th of October, 1803. The Marquess of Stafford is a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, recorder of Stafford, and, in right of his marchioness, high-sheriff of the county of Sutherland.

Lineage.

All our antiquaries coincide in attaching a long and illustrious line of ancestors to this noble family, and in giving it an Anglo-Saxon origin; but they differ as to the identity of its founder: some tracing that honor to Sir Allan Gower, Lord of Sittenham, in Yorkshire, and high-sheriff of the county at the period of the Conquest; while others name William Fitz-Guhyer, of Sittenham, who was charged with a mark for his lands in the sheriff's accounts, Anno Domini, 1167. In more than a hundred years afterwards, (towards the close of the thirteenth century,) we find Sir John Gower was one of the persons of note summoned to be at Carlisle, with horse and arms, on the feast of the nativity of St. John the Baptist, to march against the Scots; and again, in the following year, the same personage is summoned, for a like purpose, to proceed to Berwick. From that period, there can be no doubt of the family's continuing to maintain its high rank amongst the gentry of the country, for it appears to have been amongst the first raised to the dignity of baronet after the institution of the order; that honor being conferred, on the 2nd of June, 1620, upon

SIR THOMAS GOWER, knight, of Sittenham, who was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR THOMAS. This gentleman m. twice: first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Howard, of Naworth Castle, who d. without issue; and secondly, Frances, daughter and co-heiress of Sir John Leveson, knt., of Haling, in Kent, and of Lilleshul, in the county of Salop, by whom he had two sons and a daughter. He was succeeded by the son of his eldest son, his grandson,

SIR THOMAS, who d. unmarried, on the 28th of October, 1689, when the title reverted to his uncle,

SIR WILLIAM LEVESON. This gentleman was adopted by his uncle, Sir Richard Leveson, of Trentham, in Staffordshire, knight of the Bath, who bequeathed him his entire estate. Sir William m. Lady Jane Granville, eldest daughter of John, Earl of Bath, (and, eventually, one of the co-heiresses of her nephew, William-Henry, with whom that peerage expired in 1711,) by whom he had three sons and two daughters, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN LEVESON, who was advanced to the peerage, as Baron Gower, of Sittenham, in the county of York, on the 16th of March, 1703. His lordship m. Lady Catherine Manners, daughter of John, first Duke of Rutland, by whom he had four sons and two daughters. He d. on the 10th of September, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN. This nobleman was nominated lord privy seal, and sworn of the privy council, in 1742; and having, subsequently, twice filled the high office of one of the lords justices, during the king's absence, he was created, on the 8th of July, 1746, Viscount Trentham, of Trentham, in the county of Stafford, and Earl Gower. His lordship m. first, in 1712, Lady Evelyn Pierrepoint, third daughter of Evelyn, Duke of Kingston, by whom he had four sons and seven daughters; secondly, in 1733, Penelope, daughter of Sir John Stonehouse, bart., and relict of Sir Henry Atkins, bart., by whom he had no surviving issue: and, thirdly, Mary, relict of Anthony, Earl Harold, and daughter of Thomas, Earl of Thanet, by whom he had three sons and a daughter. The earl d. on the 25th of December, 1754, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GRANVILLE, who m. first, in 1744, Elizabeth, daughter of Nicholas Fazakerly, esq., of Prescot, in the county of Lancaster, by whom he had no surviving issue: secondly, in 1748, Lady Louisa Egerton, daughter of Scroope, first Duke of Bridgewater, by whom he had issue George-Granville, the present marquess; and three daughters: and, thirdly, in 1768, Lady Susanna Stewart, daughter of John, Earl of Galloway, by whom he had Granville-Leveson, created, on the 15th of July, 1815, Viscount Granville; and three daughters. The earl, when Lord Trentham, was unanimously returned to parliament for the city of Westminster, in 1747; but, vacating his seat, in two years afterwards, in consequence of being appointed one of the lords of the admiralty, he was strongly opposed, in his next election, by Sir George Vandeput, but succeeded, by a majority of 150: at the next election, however, in 1754, his lordship relinquished Westminster, and came in for the city of Litchfield. Having, subsequently, after his accession to the peerage, filled the high stations of lord privy seal, lord chamberlain, and lord president of the council, he was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, and created Marquess of the county of Stafford, on the 28th of February, 1786. His lordship d. on the 26th of October, 1803.

C STAFFORD, BARON, (George-William Jerningham,) and a baronet; b. in 1769; m. in 1799, Frances, youngest daughter and co-heiress of Edward Sulyard, esq., of Haughley Park, in the county of Suffolk, by whom he has issue Henry-Valentine, b. 2nd January, 1802; Edward, b. 2nd August, 1804; with two other sons, and four daughters, the eldest of which, the Honorable Charlotte-Georgiana, m. in 1823, T. Alexander Fraser, esq., of Lovat and Strichen. His lordship succeeded to the baronetcy at the demise of his father, on the 14th of August, 1809, and to the ancient barony of Stafford upon the reversal of the iniquitous attainder of Sir William Howard, Viscount Stafford, by the crown, in 1824. Under existing circumstances, we may, we trust, be excused for reverting briefly to the fate of this unhappy nobleman, one of the martyrs of "No Popery," a hundred and fifty years ago, and the last victim of Titus Oates, and his infamous associates. "The clamour and outrage of the populace," says Hume, "during his lordship's trial, were extreme; great abilities and eloquence were displayed by the managers, yet did the prisoner, under all these disadvantages, make a better defence than was expected, either by his friends or his enemies. He represented that, during a course of forty years, from the very commencement of the civil wars, he had, through many dangers, difficulties, and losses, still maintained his loyalty; and was it credible, that now, in his old age, easy in circumstances, but dispirited by infirmities, he would belie the whole course of his life, and engage against his royal master, from whom he had ever received kind treatment, in the most desperate and most bloody of all conspiracies. His lordship received the verdict of his judges, with the mild and pious exclamation of God's holy name be praised, and supported the heroic firmness of conscious innocence to the last. When proceeding to execution, he called for a cloak, to defend him from the rigour of the season, and observed, that though he might shake with cold, he trusted to God that he would not through fear. On the scaffold, he continued, with reiterated and earnest asseverations, to make protestations of his innocence, and solemnly disavowed all those immoral principles which over-zealous protestants had ascribed to the church of Rome. The populace, who had exulted in Stafford's trial and condemnation, now, that the sanguinary feelings excited by the war-whoop of intolerance were about to be appeased by the immolation of the victim, melted into tears at the sight of that tender fortitude which shone forth in each feature, and motion, and accent, of this aged noble. Their profound silence was only interrupted by sighs and groans; with difficulty they found speech to assent to those protestations of innocence, which he so frequently repeated: "We believe you, my lord! God bless you, my lord!". These expressions, with a faltering accent, flowed from them. The executioner himself was touched with sympathy: twice he lifted up the axe, with an intent to strike the fatal blow; and as often felt his resolution to fail him. A deep sigh was heard to accompany the last effort, which laid Stafford for ever at rest. All the spectators seemed to feel the blow; pity, remorse, and astonishment, had taken possession of every heart, and displayed itself in every countenance."—Hume.

The present baron, being a Roman catholic, is deprived, in consequence, of his seat in parliament.

Lineage.

The paternal family of the Lord Stafford is said to have been of Danish descent, and the surname originally "Jernegan." The baronetcy was conferred, on the 16th of October, 1621, upon

Henry Jerningham, esq., of Cossese, or Cossey, Hall, in the county of Norfolk, who was succeeded, in 1646, by his grandson,

Sir Henry, who was succeeded, in 1680, by his son,

Sir Francis. This gentleman m. Anne, daughter of Sir George Blount, bart., by whom he had seven sons and two daughters; and dying, in 1730, was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir John, at whose demise, in 1737, without issue, the title devolved upon his brother,

Sir George. This gentleman m. in 1733, Mary, eldest daughter, and eventually heiress, of Francis Plowden, esq., by Mary, daughter of the Honorable John-Stafford Howard, younger son of the unfortunate Viscount Stafford, by whom he had issue four sons and a daughter. He d. in 1774, and was succeeded by his second and eldest surviving son,

Sir William, who m. in 1767, the Honorable Frances Dillon, eldest daughter of Henry, Viscount Dillon, by whom he left issue, with William-Charles, an officer of distinction in the Austrian service; Edward, a barrister at law; both of whom are now deceased; and Charlotte-Georgiana, the lady of Sir Richard Bedingfield, bart.; an elder son, Sir George-William Jerningham, present Baron Stafford, a title which his lordship inherits through his great-grandmother, the above-mentioned Mary Howard, mother of Lady Jerningham, wife of Sir George, the fifth baronet. The barony was created, by patent, on the 13th of September, 1640, and conferred upon Sir William Howard, K.B., the martyred Lord Stafford, who was thus maternally great-great-great-grandfather of the present baron.

STAIR, EARL, (John-William-Henry Dalrymple,) Viscount Stair-Dalrymple, Baron Dalrymple, of Newliston, Glenluce, and Stranrawer; Baron Stair, and a baronet of Nova Scotia; b. 16th Nov., 1784; inherited the family honors at the decease of his cousin, on the 1st of June, 1821.

The honors of the house of Stair being solely of Scotland, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

The surname of this noble family is derived from the barony of Dalrymple, in the county of Ayr, and it is to be found in the records of Scotland nearly five centuries ago.

John Dalrymple, esq., of Stair, b. in 1619, becoming a lord of session, and president of the court, was created a baronet in 1664, and elevated to the peerage on the 21st of April, 1690, as Baron Glenluce and Stranrawer, and Viscount Stair. His lordship d. in 1695, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

John, who was created, on the 8th of April, 1703, Baron Newliston, Viscount Dalrymple, and Earl of Stair. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Sir John Dundas, of Newliston, in the county of Linlithgow, by whom he had three sons. His lordship d. in 1707, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

John. This nobleman surrendered, in 1707, his honors to the crown, and obtained a new charter in remainder to his own heirs male, and, in default of which, to that descendant of the first viscount whom he should nominate. His lordship, who was a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Thistle, and a field marshal in the army, m. Eleanor, Viscountess Dowager Primrose, daughter of James, Earl of Loudoun, but had no issue. He d. in 1747, and having previously executed a deed, appointing his nephew, John, the son of his second brother, George, his successor, according to the right obtained by the renewed patent, a contest arose between that gentleman and the deceased peer's nephew, James, second son of his elder brother, William, and the lords finally decided (2nd of May, 1748,) in favor of the latter,

James, who d. without issue, in 1760, when the title reverted to his elder brother,

William, who had inherited the earldom of Dumfries, at the decease of his mother, Penelope, Countess of Dumfries, in her own right, wife of the Honorable William Stair, second son of the first earl. This nobleman dying in 1768, without leaving issue, the earldom of Dumfries passed into the right line, and the honors of the house of Stair reverted to his cousin,

John, the personage who had already been defeated under his uncle's nomination. His lordship m. Miss Middleton, daughter of George Middleton, esq., a banker, in London, and dying in 1789, was succeeded by his only son,

John. This nobleman d. without issue, on the 1st of June, 1821, when the family honors reverted to his cousin, John-William-Henry Dalrymple, esq., the present earl, son of General Dalrymple, (grandson of the first earl, through his youngest son, George,) by Marianne-Dorothy, second daughter of Sir Robert Harland, baronet, of Sproughton-Hall, in the county of Suffolk.

October, 1765; m. in 1797, Lady Henrietta-Charlotte-Elizabeth Charteris, eldest daughter of Francis, Lord Elcho, by whom he has issue George-Harry, Lord Grey, b. 5th of April, 1802; (m. in 1824, his cousin, Lady Catharine Charteris, daughter of the present Earl of Wemyss;) Harry, b. 29th of January, 1807; and Henrietta-Charlotte, who m. in 1820, the Reverend James-Thomas Law, eldest son of the Right Reverend G. H. Law, Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells. His lordship inherited the honors of his family at the demise of his father, on 23rd May, 1819. The Earl of Stamford is lord-lieutenant and custos rotulorum of the county of Chester.

Lineage.

This is one of the most ancient and illustrious families in the British peerage. It traces an uninterrupted line of distinguished ancestors to the era of the Conquest, and it claims an alliance with the royal houses of Plantagenet and Tudor.

HENRY GREY, eldest son and successor of Sir Thomas Grey, Marquess of Dorset, knight of the Garter, espoused, for his second wife, Frances, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, by Mary, Queen Dowager of France, and sister of King Henry the Eighth, and was, in consequence, advanced, on the 11th of October, 1551, to the dukedom of Suffolk, and installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. The issue of this marriage were three daughters: the eldest, the amiable and unfortunate Lady Jane Grey, having, for a few days, enjoyed the empty trappings of royalty, was brought, with her husband, Lord Guildford Dudley, to the block, on the 12th of February, 1555. Lady Catherine, the second daughter, marrying Edward Seymour, Earl of Hertford, without the permission of Queen Elizabeth, was committed to the Tower, by her majesty, where she d. on the 26th of January, 1567; while the third, Lady Mary, m. Martin Keys, esq., of the county of Kent, sergeant-porter to Queen Elizabeth, and d. without issue, in 1578. The unhappy father suffered soon after his eldest daughter, on the 23rd of February, 1555; and his brother, Thomas, on the 27th of April following. From that period the honors of the family were eclipsed, until revived by King James the First, who created

SIR HENRY GREY, knight, (son of Lord John Grey, of Pirgo, and only nephew of the attainted duke,) on the 21st of July, 1603, Lord Grey, of Groby, in the county of Leicester. His lordship d. in 1614, and was succeeded by his grandson,

HENRY, who was created Earl of Stamford, in the county of Lincoln, on the 26th of March, 1628. He m. Lady Anne Cecil, youngest daughter and co-heiress of William, Earl of Exeter; and dying in 1673, was succeeded by his grandson,

THOMAS. This nobleman was imprisoned for the part he had taken in Monmouth's rebellion, but was admitted to bail, and he finally secured his safety, under the amnesty granted on the 10th of March, 1686. His lordship m. twice, but dying without issue, on the 30th of January, 1720, the honors reverted to his cousin,

HARRY GREY, esq., grandson of the first earl, through his third son, the Honorable John Grey. His lordship m. Dorothy, daughter of Sir Nathan Wright, knight, of Caldecote-Hall, in the county of Warwick, lord keeper of the great seal, in the reigns of King William and Queen Anne; and dying in 1739, was succeeded by his eldest son,

HARRY. This nobleman m. in 1736, Lady Mary Booth, only daughter and heiress of George, last Earl of Warrington, and Baron De la Mere, of that family. His lordship d. in 1768, and was succeeded by his son,

GEORGE-HARRY, who was created, on the 22nd of May, 1796, Baron De la Mere, and Earl of Warrington, the honors enjoyed by his maternal grandfather. His lordship m. in 1763, Lady Henrietta-Cavendish Bentinck, daughter of William, second Duke of Portland, and aunt of the present duke, by whom he left issue George-Harry, the present earl; William-Booth, b. 10th of September, 1773; Anketil, a clergyman of the established church, and prebendary of Durham; and six daughters. The earl d. on the 23rd of May, 1819.

STANHOPE, EARL OF, (Philip-Henry Stanhope,) Viscount Stanhope, of Mahon, in the island of Minorca; and Baron Stanhope, of Elvaston, in the county of Derby; F.R.S. and F.A.S.; b. 7th of December, 1781; m. in 1803, Catharine-Lucy, daughter of Robert, Lord Carrington, by whom he has issue Philip-Henry, Viscount Mahon, b. 30th of January, 1805; George-Joseph, b. 17th of March, 1806; and Catharine-Lucy. His lordship succeeded to the honors of his family, at the demise of his father, on the 16th of December, 1816.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the noble house of Stanhope, Earls of Chesterfield, springing from

THE HONORABLE ALEXANDER STANHOPE, eldest son, by his second marriage, of the first earl. This gentleman was a distinguished diplomatist, in the reigns of King William and Queen Anne. He d. in September, 1707, and was succeeded, in his estates, by his eldest son,

JAMES STANHOPE, esq. This gentleman, having distinguished himself as an enterprising military officer, was nominated commander-in-chief of the British forces in Spain, in 1708, and obtained considerable renown by the reduction of the celebrated Port Mahon, in the island of Minorca. He was, subsequently, in the reign of King George the First, secretary of state, first lord of the treasury, and chancellor of the exchequer; and was advanced to the peerage, on the 12th of July, 1717, by the titles of Baron Stanhope, of Elvaston, and Viscount Stanhope, of Mahon; with remainder, in default of male issue, to his kinsman, Thomas Stanhope, esq., of Elvaston. On the 14th of April, 1718, his lordship obtained an earldom, as Earl Stanhope. He m. in 1713, Lucy, youngest daughter of Thomas Pitt, esq., of Stratfield Say, in the county of Wilts, by whom he left two sons and a daughter. The Earl d. in 1721, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

PHILIP, who d. in 1786, and was succeeded by his son,

CHARLES, b. 3rd of August, 1753. This nobleman was distinguished by his mechanical genius and scientific researches. His lordship m. first, in 1774, Lady Hester Pitt, eldest daughter of William, first Lord Chatham, and sister of the Right Honorable William Pitt, by whom he had issue three daughters; and secondly, in 1781, Louisa, daughter and sole heiress of Henry Grenville, esq., governor of Barbadoes, by whom he left Philip-Henry, the present earl; and James-Hamilton, b. 7th of September, 1788; who m. in 1820, Lady Frederica-Louisa, daughter of William, present Earl of Mansfield. The Earl d. on the 16th of December, 1816.

Lineage.

ADMIRAL HENRY-EDWYN STANHOPE, son of Edwyn-Francis Stanhope, esq., (great-great-grandson of Philip, first Earl of Chesterfield,) by Catherine, eldest daughter and co-heiress of John Brydges, Marquess of Caernarvon, was created a baronet, on the 13th of November, 1807. Sir Henry m. Miss Malbone, daughter of Francis Malbone, esq., of Rhode Island, in North America, by whom he left issue Edwyn-Francis, the present baronet; and two daughters.

Country Seat—Stanwell-House, in the county of Middlesex.

STANLEY-MASSEY-STANLEY, SIR THOMAS, baronet, of Hooton, in the county of Chester; inherited the title at the demise of his brother, in 1803; m. in 1805, Mary, only daughter of Sir Carnaby Haggerston, baronet, of Haggerston Castle, in the county of Durham, by whom he has issue William-Thomas; Rowland, who assumed, by royal license, the surname and arms of Errington only, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of Henry Errington, esq., of Red Rice, in the county of Southampton; John; and Maria-Frances.

Lineage.

WILLIAM STANLEY, esq., was created a baronet on the 17th of June, 1661. He m. Charlotte, eldest daughter of Richard, Viscount Molyneaux, of Ireland, by whom he left five sons and three daughters. After Sir William's demise, the title passed uninterruptedly, from father to son, to

SIR JOHN, the sixth baronet, who succeeded his nephew in 1792. This gentleman assumed the additional surname of Massey, under the will of William Massey, esq., and the additional surname of Stanley, under the will of his nephew and predecessor. Sir John Stanley-Massey-Stanley d. in 1794, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR THOMAS, who m. Catharine, daughter of William Salvin, esq., of Croxdale, in the county of Durham, by whom he left issue William, his successor; Thomas, the present baronet; with four other sons; and Catherine, the wife of William Blundell, esq., of Crosby Hall, in the county of Lancaster. Lord Stourton adheres to the faith of his forefathers, and is, in consequence, excluded from his hereditary seat in parliament.

Lineage.

This distinguished family, which derives its surname from the town of Stourton, in the county of Wilts, was of considerable rank antecedent to the Conquest; for we find, at that period, one of its members, Botolph Stourton, the most active in gallantly disputing every inch of ground with the foreigner, and, finally, obtaining from the duke his own terms. Having broken down the sea walls of the Severn, and guarded the passes by land, Botolph entered Glastonbury, when the victorious Norman had made his appearance in the West; and, thus protected, compelled William to grant whatsoever he demanded. From this personage, lineally descended

Sir John Stourton, knight, a gallant soldier, and a distinguished statesman, in the reign of Henry the Sixth, who, in consideration of his eminent services in both capacities, elevated him to the peerage, on the 13th of May, 1448, as Baron Stourton, of Stourton, in the county of Wilts. His lordship d. in 1462, and the barony passed through five barons, with little deviation in the line of inheritance, to

Charles, the seventh baron, who inherited in 1548. This nobleman, assisted by his sons, having committed a foul murder upon a person of the name of Hargil, and his son, was tried, convicted, and executed in a halter of silk, at Salisbury, in March, 1557; but, notwithstanding, his eldest son,

John, was restored in blood by act of parliament in 1575, and inherited the barony. His lordship dying without issue in 1588, the title devolved upon his brother,

Charles, the fourteenth lord, who succeeded his uncle, in 1744. This nobleman m. Catharine, Lady Dowager Petre, daughter of Bartholomew, and sister and sole heiress of Francis Walmesley, esq., of Dunkenhall, in the county of Lancaster; but dying without issue, in 1753, the title devolved upon his brother,

William. This nobleman m. in 1749, Winifrede, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Philip Howard, esq., of Buckenham, in the county of Norfolk, and co-heiress of her uncles, Thomas and Edward, eighth and ninth Dukes of Norfolk, through whom her ladyship, with her sister, Lady Petre, became heiress to the baronies of Howard, Mowbray, &c. &c. His lordship d. in 1781, and was succeeded by his only son,

Charles-Philip, b. 22nd of August, 1752; m. in 1775, the Honorable Mary Langdale, second daughter and co-heiress of Marmaduke, Baron Lang-

STRATHALLAN, VISCOUNT, (James-Andrew-John-Laurence-Charles Drummond,) Baron Drummond, of Cromlix, and Baron Maderty; b. 24th of March, 1767; m. in 1809, Lady Amelia-Sophia Murray, daughter of John, present Duke of Atholl, by whom he has issue William-Henry, b. 5th March, 1810; with four other sons, and two daughters. His lordship was restored to the ancient honors of his family, by act of parliament, on the 17th of June, 1824.

The honors of the house of Strathallan being of Scotland only, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, but the present viscount sits as one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

The Honorable James Drummond, second son of James, second Lord Drummond, by Lilias, daughter of William, Lord Ruthven, was elevated to the peerage of Scotland, on the 31st of January, 1609, as Baron Maderty. His lordship d. in 1623, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

John, to whom succeeded his son,

David, who d. without male issue, in 1684, when the title devolved upon his brother,

William. This nobleman was created, on the 6th of September, 1686, Baron Drummond, of Cromlix, and Viscount Strathallan, with remainder to his heirs general. His lordship d. in 1688, and was succeeded by his only son,

William, at whose demise unmarried, in 1711, the honors reverted to his kinsman,

William Drummond, esq., (great-grandson of the first Lord Maderty, through his second son, the Honorable Sir James Drummond, of Machany.) This nobleman having personally engaged in the rebellion of 1745, was slain at the battle of Culloden, and his name included in the bill of attainder passed in 1746, with that of his eldest son, (by his wife, the Honorable Margaret Murray, daughter of William, Lord Nairne,) described as James Drummond, eldest son of William, Viscount Strathallan, although he was at the time himself Viscount Strathallan: from which period the honors of the family have lain dormant, until their restoration in 1824, in favor of James-Andrew-John-Laurence-Charles Drummond, esq., the present viscount, first-cousin of the late General Andrew Drummond, who claimed the titles, in 1787, upon the ground of irregularity in the attainder of his father, James Drummond, esq., above-mentioned; but the house of lords unanimously decided against him. At the demise of the general unmarried, in 1817, the present peer, who is only surviving son of the Honorable William Drummond, second son of the viscount first attainted, by Anne, daughter of Major Nairne, became representative of the family.

Country Seat—Strathallan Castle, Perthshire.

STRATHMORE AND KINGHORN, EARL OF, (Thomas-Lyon Bowes,) Viscount Lyon, and Baron Glamis, Tannadyce, Seidlaw, and Stradichtie; b. in 1779; m. first, Mary-Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of George Carpenter, esq., of Redbourne, in the county of Herts, by whom he has Viscount Lyon, and a daughter; secondly, Miss Heathcote, who left him another daughter; and, thirdly, Lady Campbell. His lordship inherited the honors of his family at the demise of his brother, on the 3rd of July, 1820.

This being a peerage of Scotland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

Sir John Lyon, son of John De Lyon, Baron of Forteviot, &c., being son-in-law and secretary to King Robert the Second, obtained a grant from that monarch, in 1379, of the lordship or thanedom of Glamis, in Forfarshire. From this personage, lineally descended

Patrick Lyon, captain of the guard, and privy counsellor to King James the Sixth, who was created, in 1606, Earl of Kinghorn. His lordship d. in 1615, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

John, who was succeeded, in 1649, by his only son,

Patrick. This nobleman obtained a new charter, dated 30th of May, 1672, extending the reversionary limitation of the earldom, in default of direct male issue, to any person or persons nominated by himself, and, in failure of those, to his heirs and assigns whatsoever; and his lordship procured another charter, dated 1st July, 1677, providing "That (himself) Patrick, third Earl of Kinghorn, and his heirs male, or heirs whatsoever, should, in all future ages, be styled Earls of Strathmore and Kinghorn, Viscounts Lyon, Barons Glamis, Tannadyce, Seidlaw, and Stradichtie." His lordship, who was a privy counsellor, and an extraordinary lord of session, d. in 1695, and was succeeded by his son,

John, who m. Lady Elizabeth Stanhope, daughter of Philip, second Earl of Chesterfield, by whom he had four sons and two daughters. His lordship d. in 1712, and was succeeded by his four sons, successively; namely,

John, Charles, James, and Thomas. The first was slain in rebellion, in 1715, at the battle of Sheriffmuir; the second was killed, in an affray, in 1728; the third d. without issue, in 1735; and the fourth Earl, Thomas, dying, in 1753, was succeeded by his eldest son,

John. This nobleman m. in 1767, Mary-Eleanor, only daughter and heiress of George Bowes, esq., of Gibside, in the county of Durham, and assumed, in consequence, by an act of parliament, the surname of Bowes. The issue of this marriage were John, his lordship's successor; George-Bowes, of Paul's Walden, in the county of Hertford, who d. without issue, in 1806; Thomas, the present peer; and two daughters. His lordship d. in 1776, and her ladyship m., subsequently, Andrew-Robinson Stoney, esq., of the King's County, Ireland, who assumed also the name of Bowes. The Earl of Strathmore was succeeded by his eldest son,

John, who was enrolled amongst the peers of England, by the title of Baron Bowes, on the 18th of July, 1815. His lordship m. in 1820, Miss Mary Milner, of Staindrop, in the county of Durham; but dying the day after his nuptials, 3rd July, 1820, the English barony expired, and the Scottish peerage devolved upon his brother, the Honorable Thomas-Lyon Bowes, present Earl of Strathmore.

Motto, in English,

In thee, O Lord, have I put my trust.

SUFFOLK AND BERKSHIRE, EARL OF, (Thomas Howard,) Viscount Andover, of Andover, in the county of Hants, and Baron Howard, of Charleton, in the county of Wilts; b. 18th of August, 1776; m. in 1803, the Honorable Elizabeth-Jane Dutton, daughter of James, late Lord Sherborne, and sister of the present lord, by whom he has issue Charles-John, Viscount Andover, b. 7th of November, 1804; Henry-William, b. 16th January, 1808; Richard-Edward, b. 1st July, 1812; and four daughters. His lordship inherited the honors of his family at the decease of his father, in 1820.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the illustrious ducal house of Norfolk, springing from Thomas, the fourth duke, by his second wife, Margaret, only daughter and heiress of Thomas, Lord Audley, of Walden, through their only son,

LORD THOMAS HOWARD, the heir of his mother's estates, and a distinguished naval officer in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. His lordship was restored in blood, (his father, the duke, having been attainted and beheaded in 1572,) by act of parliament, in the twenty-seventh year of her majesty, and, in twelve years afterwards, on the 24th of October, 1579, summoned to parliament, as Lord Howard, of Walden; created Earl of Suffolk on the 21st of July, 1603, and installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter. The plate of his lordship's installation, which remains yet in the chapel of St. George, at Windsor, in the ninth stall, denominates him "Thomas, Earl of Suffolk, Baron of Walden, and grand treasurer of England;" but he was not appointed to the latter high and important office, until the 11th of July, 1614. The plate must, therefore, have been set up subsequently to that period. The earl m. first, Mary, sister and co-heiress of Thomas, Lord Dacres, of Gillesland, who d. without issue; and, secondly, Catherine, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Sir Henry Kevit, knt., of Charleton, in the county of Wilts, widow of the Honorable Richard Rich, eldest son of Lord Rich, by whom he had seven sons and four daughters. His lordship d. on the 28th of May, 1626, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

THEOPHILUS, who had been summoned to parliament in the life-time of his father, as Lord Howard, of Walden. His lordship was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, nominated lord warden of the Cinque Ports, constable of Dover Castle, captain of the band of gentlemen pensioners, and sworn of the privy council. He m. Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of George, Earl of Dunbar, by whom he had four sons and five daughters. His lordship d. on the 3rd of June, 1640, and was succeeded by his eldest son, TAAFFE, VISCOUNT, (Rodolphus Taaffe,) of Corren; and Baron of Ballymote, in the county of Sligo; inherited the family honors at the decease of his grandfather, 30th of December, 1769. His lordship is married, and has issue. Lord Taaffe is a Count of the Holy Roman Empire.

This being a peerage of Ireland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present viscount is excluded from the representative peerage, in consequence of professing the Roman Catholic religion.

Lineage.

The members of this noble family have resided, for several years, in the Austrian dominions, and have filled the highest and most confidential employments, civil and military, under the imperial government, doubtless from being debarred the prouder gratification of serving their own.

The peerage was conferred, 1st August, 1628, upon SIR JOHN TAAFFE, knight, the representative of a very ancient family in the counties of Louth and Sligo, who was created Baron of Ballymote, and viscount Taaffe. His lordship d. in 1642, leaving seventeen children, by the eldest of which,

THEOBALD, he was succeeded. This nobleman was advanced to an earldom, in 1662, by the title of Earl of Carlingford, but that honor expired with his lordship's direct line, at the decease of

THEOBALD, the fourth earl, without issue, in 1757, while the other honors passed to the heir of the first viscount, namely,

LIEUTENANT-GENERAL NICHOLAS TAAFFE, of the Austrian service, colonel of fusileers, Count of the Holy Roman Empire, and chancellor to the Emperor Leopold. (This nobleman was great-grandson of the first viscount, through his lordship's eighth son, the Honorable William Taaffe.) He m. Mary-Anne, Countess de Spendler, only daughter and heiress of Count Spendler, of Lintz, in Upper Austria, and one of the ladies of the bedchamber to her imperial majesty, by whom he had issue John, b. 1st of January, 1740, (a member of the Aulick council, and one of the imperial chamberlains, who m. Maria, Countess of Choteck, and left, at his demise, in 1768, Rodolphus, the present viscount;) the second son of Lord Taaffe was Francis, a general in the same service as his father, and a count, also, of the empire. TEMPLE, SIR GRENVILLE, baronet, of Stowe, in the county of Buckingham; b. 16th of October, 1768; m. first, in March, 1797, Elizabeth, daughter of George Watson, esq., of the United States of America, by whom he has issue Grenville, b. 20th July, 1799; John, b. 14th June, 1801; and Elizabeth-Augusta; and secondly, in June, 1812, Maria-Augusta, second daughter of the late Sir Thomas Rumbold, baronet, and widow of Frederick Manners, esq., lieutenant-colonel of the 96th regiment of foot, by whom he has no child. Sir Grenville succeeded to the baronetcy at the demise of his father, in November, 1798.

Lineage.

This ancient family derives its surname from the manor of Temple, in the county of Leicester, and it deduces its descent from Leofric, Earl of Leicester, who lived about the middle of the ninth century. It was amongst the earliest raised to the dignity of baronet, that honor being conferred upon

SIR THOMAS TEMPLE, knt., on the 25th of November, 1612, (the year after the institution of the order.) This gentleman m. Esther, daughter of Miles Sandys, esq., by whom he had thirteen children; and Fuller, in his "Worthies of England," relates that Lady Sandys lived to see seven hundred of her own descendants. Sir Thomas was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR PETER, who d. in 1653, and was succeeded by his only son,

SIR RICHARD. This gentleman, who was a leading member of the house of commons in the reign of Charles the Second, m. Miss Knap, an heiress, by whom he had four sons and six daughters; three of the former and two of the latter d. without issue. Hester, the second daughter, m. in 1710, Richard Grenville, esq., of Wootton, in the county of Bucks, and of this marriage the present Duke of Buckingham is the great-grandson. Sir Richard d. in 1697, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR RICHARD. This gentleman acquired considerable renown as a military commander in Flanders, and having risen to the rank of lieutenant-general, was elevated to the peerage as Baron Cobham, of Cobham, in Kent, on the 19th of October, 1714; and created Viscount and Baron Cobham, on the 23rd of May, 1718, with remainder, in default of male issue, to his sister, Hester, wife of Richard Grenville, esq., and her male descendants. His lordship m. Anne, daughter of Edmund Halsey, esq., who d. without issue; and dying himself, in 1749, the first barony of Cobham expired, but the second barony and the viscounty devolved, according to the limitation, upon the deceased lord's sister, Mrs. Grenville, who then became Viscountess Cobham, and was created, on the 18th of October, in the same year, Countess Temple, (see Duke of Buckingham,) while the baronetcy reverted to his lordship's next male heir, TEMPLETOWN, VISCOUNT, (John-Henry Upton,) and Baron Templetown, of Templetown, in the county of Armagh, in the peerage of Ireland; b. 8th November, 1771; inherited the barony at the decease of his father, 16th of April, 1785, and obtained the viscounty, by creation, in March, 1806; m. in 1796, Lady Mary Montagu, daughter of John, fifth Earl of Sandwich, and aunt of the present earl, by whom he has issue Henry-Montagu, b. 11th November, 1799; with three other sons, and a daughter.

This being a peerage of Ireland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present viscount is not one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

The first member of this noble family that settled in Ireland was Captain Henry Upton, an officer in the army of the Earl of Essex, at the close of the sixteenth century. The great-grandson of this gentleman, CLOTWORTHY UPTON, esq., youngest but only surviving son and heir of Colonel John Upton, by Mary, daughter of Francis Upton, esq., b. 14th March, 1721, was elevated to the peerage of Ireland on the 3rd of August, 1776, as Baron Templetown. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter of Shuckburgh Boughton, esq., of Poston Court, in the county of Hereford, by whom he left issue John-Henry, present viscount; Fulke-Greville, who m. in 1807, Mary, only daughter of Richard Howard, esq., of Castle Rising, and assumed, in consequence, the surname of Howard; Arthur-Percy, a major-general in the army; Elizabeth-Albana, b. 16th August, 1775, the wife of Frederick-William, present Earl of Bristol; and two other daughters.

His lordship, who assumed, by royal licence, in 1788, the additional surname and arms of Curzon, inherited the honors of his family at the demise of his cousin, on the 7th of September, 1824.

This ancient family was ennobled in the person of

SIR JOHN ROPER, knight, who was created, on the 8th of July, 1616, Baron Teynham, of Teynham, in the county of Kent. His lordship d. on the 30th of August, 1618, and was succeeded by his only son,

CHRISTOPHER, from whom the title passed uninterruptedly, through father and son, to

CHRISTOPHER, the seventh baron, who succeeded his brother in 1689; at whose demise, in 1697, without issue, the title devolved upon his brother,

HENRY. This nobleman conformed to the established church, and took his seat in parliament, on the 29th of February, 1715-16. His lordship m. first, Catharine, daughter of Philip, (Smythe,) fourth Viscount Strangford, of the kingdom of Ireland, by whom he had two sons and a daughter; secondly, Mary, daughter of Sir John Gage, baronet, of Firle, in the county of Sussex, by whom he had no child; and thirdly, Lady Anne-Barret Lennard, relict of Richard-Barret Lennard, esq., and daughter of Thomas, (Lennard,) Earl of Sussex, and Baron Dacre, (at whose demise, in 1715, the earldom expired, but the barony descended to her ladyship.) by whom he had three sons. His lordship d. in 1723, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

PHILIP, who d. unmarried, in 1727, when the title devolved upon his brother,

HENRY. THANET, EARL OF, (Charles Tufton,) in the county of Kent; Baron Tufton, of Tufton, in the county of Sussex; and a baronet; b. 10th September, 1770; inherited the family honors at the demise of his brother, in January, 1825. His lordship is hereditary sheriff of the county of Westmoreland.

Lineage.

The surname of this noble family was originally written Toketon, and derived from a place of that name in Kent, of which its remote ancestors were lords.

Sir John Tufton, knt., high sheriff of the county of Kent, in the eighteenth year of Queen Elizabeth, was created a baronet on the 19th of June, 1611. He d. in 1624, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir Nicholas. This gentleman being amongst those who met King James the First, at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, received the honor of knighthood from that monarch, on the 13th of April, 1603. He was elevated to the peerage on the 1st of November, 1626, by the title of Baron Tufton, of Tufton, in the county of Sussex, and created Earl of Thanet, on the 5th of August, 1628. His lordship m. Lady Francis Cecil, daughter of Thomas, first Earl of Exeter, by whom he had four sons and nine daughters. He d. on the 1st of July, 1632, and was succeeded by his eldest surviving son,

John. This nobleman m. in 1629, Margaret, eldest daughter and co-heiress with her sister of Richard, Earl of Dorset, by Lady Anne Clifford, only daughter and heiress of George, Earl of Cumberland, and Baroness Clifford, &c., by whom he had six sons and six daughters. His lordship d. on the 6th of May, 1664, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Nicholas, who d. without issue, in 1679, when the honors of the family devolved upon his brother,

John. This nobleman dying without issue, the following year, (1680,) was succeeded by his brother,

Richard, who d. unmarried, in 1684, when the honors devolved upon his brother,

Thomas. This nobleman m. Lady Catherine Cavendish, daughter and co-heiress of Henry, Duke of Newcastle, by whom he had three sons, who d. in infancy; and five daughters. His lordship claimed the baronies of Clifford, Westmoreland, and Vesey, in right of inheritance from his grandmother, and the justice of his claim was acknowledged by the house of lords, on the 12th of December, 1691, in consequence of which he assumed the additional title of Baron Clifford; but, dying without male issue, in 1729, the barony so recovered fell into abeyance between his daughters and co-heiresses, and continued in that state until the crown interfered in favor of Margaret, his lordship's third daughter, who had m. Thomas, Earl of Leicester; but, at her ladyship's decease, without issue, in 1775, it re-fell into abeyance between her sisters, which abeyance the crown again terminated, in 1776, in favor of Edward Southwell, (father of the present Lord Clifford,) grandson of the eldest daughter, Lady Catharine Tufton, and her husband, Edward, Viscount Sondes. The Earl of Thanet's other honors reverted to his nephew,

Sackville Tufton, esq., eldest surviving son of the Honorable Colonel Sackville Tufton, of the guards, brother of the deceased lord. This nobleman was b. on the 11th of May, 1638; and m. in 1722, to Lady Mary Savile, youngest daughter and co-heiress of William, Marquess of Halifax, by whom he had two sons, (the eldest, Lord Tufton, d. in boyhood;) and two daughters, of which Lady Mary became the wife of Sir William Duncan, bart., one of the royal physicians. His lordship d. on the 4th of December, 1753, and was succeeded by his only surviving son,

Sackville, b. in 1733; m. in 1767, Mary, daughter of Lord John Sackville, grand-daughter of Lionel, first Duke of Dorset, and sister of John-Frederick, the third duke, by whom he had issue five sons and two daughters; the youngest and only surviving of the latter m. in 1792, Joseph-Foster Barham, esq. His lordship d. in 1786, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Sackville, b. 30th June, 1769; m. 28th February, 1811, Anne-Charlotte de Bojanovitz, a noble lady of Hungary, who d. without issue, in 1819. His lordship d. in January, 1825, when the honors of the family devolved upon his next brother, the Honorable Charles Tufton, present Earl of Thanet.

THOMOND, MARQUESS OF, (William O'Bryen,) Earl and Baron of Inchiquin, and Baron of Burren, in the county of Clare, in the peerage of Ireland; m. 16th September, 1799, Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of Thomas Trotter, esq., of Duleck, by whom he has four daughters, the ladies Susan, Sarah, Mary, and Elizabeth. His lordship succeeded to the honors of his family at the decease of his uncle, 10th of February, 1808.

The honors of the house of Thomond being of Ireland only, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, but the present marquess sits as one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

This illustrious house, (one of the* few Irish families at present to be found in the peerage of that country,) deduces its descent from the royal line of Thomond. The last of which,

MURROUGH O'BRYAN, was created, in 1536, Earl of Thomond, by King Henry the Eighth, in consideration of having acknowledged that monarch, with remainder to his nephew, Donough O'Bryen; and Baron of Inchiquin to his own heirs male. His lordship d. in 1551, when the earldom devolved according to the patent, and expired with Henry O'Bryen, the eighth earl, and first Viscount Tadcaster, in the peerage of England, in 1741, and the barony was inherited by his son and heir,

DERMOD, from whom it passed, uninterruptedly, from father to son, to his great-great-grandson,

WILLIAM, who was advanced to the earldom of Inchiquin, on the 21st of October, 1654. His lordship m. Elizabeth St. Leger, daughter of the president of the province of Munster, in Ireland, Sir William St. Leger, knt.; and was succeeded, in 1674, by his son,

WILLIAM, who was appointed captain-general and governor of Jamaica, by King William the Third. His lordship m. thrice, but had issue only by his first wife, Margaret, daughter of Roger, Earl of Orrery, namely, his successor, in 1692, THURLOW, BARON, (Edward-Hovell Thurlow,) of Thurlow, in the county of Suffolk; b. 10th June, 1781; succeeded to the title at the decease of his uncle, 12th of September, 1806; m. in 1813, Miss Mary-Catharine Bolton, an actress of celebrity, by whom he has issue Edward-Thomas-Hovell, b. 12th November, 1814; Thomas-Hugh-Hovell, b. 13th May, 1816; and John-Edmund-Hovell, b. 15th July, 1817. His lordship assumed the surname of Hovell, in 1814, as a descendant, maternally, from Richard Hovell, esquire of the body to King Henry the Fifth. Lord Thurlow is register of the diocese of Lincoln, patentee of the bankrupts' office, clerk of the custody of lunatics and idiots, and clerk of the hanaper in the court of chancery.

Lineage.

Edward Thurlow, esq., eldest son of the Reverend Thomas Thurlow, by Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Robert Smith, esq., having been bred to the bar, attained the highest honors of his learned profession. In 1770, he was nominated solicitor-general; in 1771, attorney-general; and in 1778, lord high chancellor of England, when he was elevated to the peerage, (3rd of June, 1778,) by the title of Baron Thurlow, of Ashfield, in the county of Suffolk. His lordship was created, on the 12th of June, 1792, Baron Thurlow, of Thurlow, with remainder, in default of male issue, to his brothers, and their male descendants; and dying unmarried, on the 12th of September, 1806, the original barony expired, but the latter passed to his nephew, Edward-Hovell-Thurlow, esq., present baron, eldest son of his lordship's deceased brother, the Right Reverend Doctor Thomas Thurlow, lord bishop of Durham, by Anne, daughter of William Beere, esq.

TORRINGTON, VISCOUNT, (George Byng,) of the county of Devon; Baron Byng, of Southhill, in the county of Bedford; and a baronet; b. in 1768; m. first, in 1793, Elizabeth, daughter of Philip Langmead, esq., by whom he has one daughter, Lucy-Elizabeth, b. 11th of June, 1794; and secondly, in 1811, Frances-Harriet, daughter of Sir Robert Barlow, knight, by whom he has George, b. 9th of September, 1812; Robert-Barlow-Palmer, b. 30th of November, 1816; Frances-Elizabeth, and Helare-Caroline. His lordship inherited the honors of his family at the decease of his father, on the 8th of January, 1813. Lord Torrington belongs to the royal navy, in which service he has risen to the rank of rear-admiral of the blue.

Lineage.

This noble family is one of great antiquity in the county of Kent. Its honors were, however, founded since the Revolution, by the celebrated

ADMIRAL GEORGE BYNG, one of the most distinguished officers in the naval annals of Great Britain, who received the honor of knighthood, from Queen Anne, on the 22nd of October, 1704; was created a baronet, on the 14th of November, 1715; and elevated to the peerage, on the 9th of September, 1721, by the titles of Baron Byng, and Viscount Torrington, having been previously constituted rear-admiral of Great Britain, and treasurer of the navy. In 1725, his lordship was installed one of the knights companions of the Bath, on the revival of that very ancient order; and in 1727, he was appointed first lord commissioner of the admiralty. He m. in 1691, Margaret, daughter of James Master, esq., of East Langden, in the county of Kent, by whom he had eleven sons and four daughters. The fourth son, the Honorable John Byng, was the unfortunate Admiral Byng, so unjustly executed, on the 14th of March, 1757, under the sentence of a court-martial; upon whose coffin, in the family vault at Southhill, in Bedfordshire, the following inscription appears, engraven upon brass:

To the perpetual disgrace of Public Justice,
The Honorable John Byng,
Vice-Admiral of the Blue,
Fell a martyr to Political persecution,
On March 14th, in the year 1757,
When bravery and loyalty

TOWNSHEND, MARQUESS OF, (George-Ferrars Townshend,) Earl of Leicester; Viscount Townshend, of Raynham, in the county of Norfolk; Baron Townshend, of Lynn Regis, in the same county; Baron Ferrars, of Chartley; Baron Compton; one of the co-heirs to the barony of Bourchier; and a baronet; b. 13th of December, 1778; m. in 1807, Miss Gardner, daughter of William-Dunn Gardner, esq., by whom he has no issue. His lordship inherited the honors of his family at the decease of his father, on the 27th of July, 1811.

Lineage.

This ancient and illustrious house deduces its descent from Lodovic, a noble Norman, who settled in England, during the reign of Henry the First, assumed the surname of Townshend, and by marriage with Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Sir Thomas de Haville, obtained the manor of Raynham, in the county of Norfolk, which has ever since remained in possession of the family, and is now its principal country residence. Directly descended from this personage, was

ROGER TOWNSHEND, esq., created a baronet, on the 16th of April, 1617. This gentleman was son of John Townshend, esq., a distinguished member of parliament, in the reigns of Queen Elizabeth and King James the First, who fell in a duel, fought on horseback, on Hounslow Heath, with Sir Matthew Brown, of Beechworth Castle, in the county of Surrey, after mortally wounding his antagonist. Sir Roger m. Mary, second daughter and co-heiress of Horatio, Lord Vere, of Tilbury, by whom he had two sons and five daughters. He d. on the 1st of January, 1636, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR HORATIO. This gentleman having rendered essential services to the royal cause, during the usurpation, and being one of the most forward in restoring the monarchy, was elevated to the peerage, after the accomplishment of that most desirable event, (20th of April, 1661,) by the title of Baron Townshend, of Lynn Regis; and advanced, on the 11th of December, 1682, to the dignity of Viscount Townshend, of Raynham. His lordship m. twice, but had issue only by his second wife, Mary, daughter of Sir Joseph Ashe, knt., of Twickenham, in the county of Middlesex, namely, three sons; Charles, Roger, and Horatio. The viscount d. in December, 1687, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

CHARLES. This nobleman was employed as a diplomatist, and resided, as ambassador extraordinary, at the Hague, in the reign of Queen Anne. After the accession of King George the First, his lordship filled the office of Secretary of State, and was appointed lord lieutenant of Ireland, but declining to proceed to that kingdom, he was constituted, on the 11th of June, 1720, president of the council. His lordship, subsequently, re-filled the office of secretary of state; was frequently nominated one of the lords justices, during the occasional sojourn of his majesty in his German dominions; and was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, on the 28th of July, 1724. He m. first, Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of Thomas, Lord Pelham, by whom he had four sons and a daughter; and secondly, in July, 1713, Dorothy, daughter of Robert Walpole, esq., of Houghton, in the county of Norfolk, and sister of the minister, Sir Robert Walpole, by whom he had four sons and two daughters. His lordship d. in June, 1738, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

CHARLES, b. 11th of July, 1700, who had been previously summoned to parliament, on the 24th of May, 1723, as Baron Lynne, of Lynne Regis, and appointed one of the lords of the bedchamber. His lordship m. in 1723, Audrey, only daughter and heiress of Edward Harrison, esq., of Balls, in the county of Hertford, by whom he had five sons, and one daughter. The viscount d. in May, 1764, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GEORGE, b. 28th of February, 1724. His lordship m. first, in 1751, Lady Charlotte Compton, only surviving child of James, Earl of Northampton, by whom he had four sons and four daughters. This lady inherited, from her mother, Elizabeth Shirley, Baroness Ferrars, of Chartley, that barony; and from her father, the barony of Compton. She d. at Dublin, on the 14th of September, 1770, during the government of the viscount, as lord-lieutenant of that kingdom, to which important station he was appointed, in 1767. His lordship m. secondly, in 1773, Anne, daughter of Sir William Montgomery, baronet, of Ireland, by whom he left two sons and four daughters. The viscount was advanced to the dignity of Marquess of Townshend, in the county of Norfolk, on the 27th of October, 1786. He d. on the 14th of September, 1807, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GEORGE, b. 18th of April, 1755, who had been summoned to parliament, at the demise of his mother, as Baron Ferrars de Chartley, a barony which he inherited from her ladyship; and created, on the 18th of May, 1784, Earl of Leicester. His lordship

TRELAWNEY, THE REVEREND SIR HENRY, baronet, of Trelawney, in the county of Cornwall; inherited the title at the decease of his father, on the 11th of December, 1772; m. in 1778, Anne, daughter of the Reverend James Brown, by whom he has issue William-Lewis, who has assumed the surname of Salisbury, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his cousin, Owen-Salisbury Brereton, esq., and is married to Patience, daughter of John-Philip Carpenter, esq., of Mount Tavy, in the county of Devon; Hamlin, a captain in the royal artillery, who m. Martha, daughter of Joseph Rogers, esq., of the county of Cork; Jonathan; and two daughters.

Lineage.

This ancient and distinguished family derives its surname from the lordship of Trelawny, or Treleon, in the parish of Alterman, in the county of Cornwall.

John Trelawney, esq., was created a baronet, on the 1st of July, 1628. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Reginald Mohun, baronet, by whom he had five sons and eight daughters, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir Jonathan, who was succeeded by his third, but eldest surviving, son,

The Right Reverend Sir Jonathan, lord bishop of Bristol, in 1685; one of the seven prelates who was committed to the Tower, by King James the Second. His lordship was translated, after the Revolution, to the see of Exeter first, and thence, in 1707, to that of Winchester, when he was appointed prelate of the illustrious Order of the Garter. He m. Rebecca, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Hele, esq., by whom he had issue John, his successor; Henry; Charles, b. in 1694, a clergyman and prebendary of Winchester; Edward, b. in 1699, who became governor of Jamaica; Hele, a clergyman and D.D.; besides five daughters. His lordship d. on the 19th of July, 1721, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

Sir John, who d. childless, in 1756, and his brothers having all previously died, without issue, the title reverted to the son of his uncle, Brigadier-General Trelawney, by Rebecca, daughter and co-heiress of Matthew Hales, esq.:—his first cousin, and brother-in-law,

Sir Harry, who had m. Letitia, second daughter of Sir Jonathan Trelawney, bishop of Winchester, by whom he had a son, Charles, who d. in his lifetime; and three daughters. Sir Harry d. at an advanced period of life, in 1762, when the title devolved upon the eldest surviving son of his brother, Captain Trelawney, of the army:—his nephew and son-in-law, TRIMLESTOWN, BARON, (John-Thomas Barnewall,) of Trimlestown, in the county of Meath; b. 30th of January, 1773; m. in 1794, Maria-Theresa, daughter of Richard Kiwan, esq., of Cregg, in the county of Galway, by whom he has issue Thomas, b. in 1796; and a daughter. His lordship succeeded to the title at the decease of his father, on the 16th of April, 1813.

This being a barony of Ireland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present baron is deprived of his elective rights in consequence of adhering to the Roman Catholic religion.

Lineage.

This illustrious family claims a common progenitor, with that of Barnewall, Viscounts Kingaland; namely,

SIR CHRISTOPHER BARNEWALL, knight, of Crickstown, in the county of Meath, who lived in the fourteenth century, from whose youngest son, John Barnewall, esq., sprang the viscounts; while the elder,

SIR CHRISTOPHER BARNEWALL, knight, also of Crickstown, became father of

ROBERT BARNEWALL, esq., (his second son,) who was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, in 1461, by the title of Baron Trimlestown. From this nobleman the barony descended, uninterruptedly, to

MATTHIAS, the eighth baron, by whom it was forfeited, during the Rebellion in Ireland, in 1641. His lordship being then outlawed, from that period it remained dormant, until 1795, when it was restored to his great-great-grandson,

THOMAS, the thirteenth lord in descent, but in reality, in consequence of the forfeiture, only the ninth in the peerage. His lordship was a knight of Malta; and dying unmarried, the barony reverted to his uncle, Richard Barnewall's son, (the said Richard was youngest son of John, who was called the eleventh lord,) his cousin,

NICHOLAS. This nobleman m. first, in 1798, Martha-Henrietta, daughter of M. D'Aguin, president of the parliament of Thoulouse, by whom he had issue John-Thomas, present lord; and Rosala, who m. in 1796, Robert, Count Dalton, and d. in 1815. Scotland only, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, but the present marquess sits as one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

This illustrious family, and that of Hay, Earls of Errol, are descended from a common ancestor, namely, WILLIAM DE HAYA, who settled in Lothian more than six centuries ago, and filled the office of royal butler during the reigns of Malcolm the Fourth and William the Lion; from the youngest son of this personage, Robert, lineally descended

JOHN HAY, esq., who was elevated to the peerage of Scotland, on the 29th of January, 1488, as Baron Hay, of Yester, in the county of Haddington, which barony descended, uninterruptedly, to

JOHN, the eighth baron, who inherited at the decease of his father, in 1609, and was created, on the 1st of December, 1646, Earl of Tweedale. His lordship d. in 1654, and was succeeded by his son,

JOHN. This nobleman was advanced, on the 17th of December, 1694, to the dignities of Viscount Walden, Earl of Gifford, and Marquess of Tweedale. He m. Lady Jane Scott, daughter of Walter, first Earl of Buccleuch, by whom he had five sons and two daughters. His lordship d. in 1697, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN, b. in 1645. His lordship m. in 1666, Lady Anne Maitland, only daughter and heiress of John, Duke of Lauderdale, by whom he had three sons. He d. in 1713, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

CHARLES, who d. in 1715, and was succeeded by his son,

JOHN. This nobleman d. in 1762, and was succeeded by his son,

GEORGE, who d. a minor, in 1770, when the family honors reverted to his uncle,

Country Seat—Yester House, Haddingtonshire.

TWISDEN, SIR JOHN, baronet, of Bradbourn, in the county of Kent; b. in 1785; inherited the title at the demise of his father, on the 9th of February, 1810; m. in 1811, Catharine-Judith, daughter of the Reverend William Coppard, who d. 13th of April, 1819, without issue.

Lineage.

This is a younger branch of the house of Twysden, of Roydon Hall, East Peckham, baronets, which changed the "y" to an "i" in the spelling of the name, for distinction sake merely.

THOMAS TWISDEN, esq., second son of Sir William Twysden, bart., of Peckham, by Anne, daughter of Sir Moyle Finch, bart., being appointed a judge of the court of king's bench, was created a baronet on the 13th of June, 1666. Sir Thomas d. in 1683, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR ROGER, from whom the title descended, uninterruptedly, to

SIR ROGER, the sixth baronet, who inherited at the demise of his father, in 1772; and dying without issue, in 1779, the title devolved upon his brother,

SIR JOHN-PAPILLON. This gentleman m. in 1782, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Francis Geary, bart., sister of the late Sir William, and aunt of the present Sir William-Richard-Powlett Geary, by whom he had an only son, John, the present baronet. Sir John-Papillon d. in 1810.

TWYSDEN, SIR WILLIAM-JERVIS, baronet, of Roydon Hall, East Peckham, in the county of Kent; succeeded to the title at the decease of his father, in 1767; m. in 1786, Frances, daughter of Alexander Wynch, esq., by whom he has issue William, Francis-James, and five daughters; the eldest of which, Mary, is the wife of Henry-Duncan Twysden, esq., of the royal navy.

Lineage.

The patriarch of this distinguished house, Adam de Twysden, possessed the estate of Twysdenemd, in the county of Kent, so far back as the reign of Edward the First, and the high station maintained by the family since that remote period, amongst the gentry of the country, is sufficiently established, by the fact of its being one of the first elevated to the dignity of baronet; for within little more than a month after the institution of the order, (29th June, 1611,) we find

SIR WILLIAM TWYSDEN, knight, honored with it. This gentleman m. Anne, daughter of Sir Moyle Finch, bart., by whom he had five sons and two daughters. The second son, Thomas, became one of the judges of the court of king's bench, changed the spelling of his name to Twisden, was created a baronet, and founded another family, (see, Twisden, baronet;) while the eldest,

SIR ROGER, succeeded his father, in 1628. This gentleman m. Isabella, youngest daughter and coheiress of Sir Nicholas Saunders, knt., and dying in 1672, was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM, who d. in 1697, and was succeeded by his eldest surviving son, thers, one of the judges of the court of king's bench, but leaving two daughters only at his demise, in 1712, the title devolved upon his brother,

Sir William, who m. Jane, grand-daughter of Sir Thomas Twisden, bart., of Bradbourn, one of the judges of the court of king's bench, and was succeeded at his demise, in 1751, by his eldest son,

Sir William. This gentleman m. Mary, daughter of George Jervis, esq., by whom he left William-Jervis, the present baronet; with two other sons; and an only daughter, who m. first, Archibald, eleventh Earl of Eglinton, by whom she had two daughters; and, secondly, Francis Moore, esq., son of the late Doctor Moore, and brother of the lamented General Sir John Moore. Sir William d. in 1767.

Country Seat — Roydon Hall, East Peckham, Kent.

TYRCONNEL, EARL OF, (John-Delavel Carpenter,) Viscount Carlingford, of Carlingford, and Baron Carpenter, of Killaghy, in the county of Kilkenny; b. 16th of December, 1790; inherited the family honors at the decease of his brother, on the 20th December, 1812; m. in 1817, Sarah, only child of Robert Crowe, esq., of Kiplin, in the county of York, by whom he has no issue.

The honors of the house of Tyrconnel being solely of Ireland, it enjoys no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present earl is not one of the representative peers.

Lineage.

Lieut.-Gen. George Carpenter, governor of the island of Minorca, was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, on the 29th of May, 1719, as Baron Carpenter. His lordship d. in 1731, and was succeeded by his only son,

George, who was succeeded also (in 1749,) by an only son,

George, b. in 1723. His lordship m. in 1748, Frances, only daughter and heiress of Sir Robert Clifton, bart., of Clifton, in the county of Nottingham, by whom he had issue George, his successor; and Charles, a naval officer of rank, (who d. in 1803, leaving issue by Elizabeth, only daughter of Thomas Mackenzie, esq., George Carpenter, and John-Delavel Carpenter, both successors to the family honors;) besides four daughters. Lord Carpenter was advanced to the dignities of Viscount Carlingford and Earl of Tyrconnel, on the 1st of May, 1761; and dying the year after, was succeeded by his eldest son,

George. This nobleman m. first, in 1772, Frances Manners, eldest daughter of the celebrated military commander, Lieut.-General John, Marquess of Granby, and grand-daughter of John, third Duke of Rutland, which marriage was dissolved, by act of parliament, in 1777. His lordship m. secondly, in 1780, the Honorable Sarah-Hussey Delaval, youngest daughter of John, Lord Delaval, by whom he had George, who d. in 1789; and Susan-Hussey, b. 15th June, 1784, who m. in 1805, Henry de la Poer, present Marquess of Waterford. Lord Tyrconnel dying without male issue on the 15th of April, 1805, the family honors devolved upon the eldest son of his brother, the Honorable Captain Charles Carpenter of the Royal Navy, above mentioned, his lordship's nephew,

George. This nobleman, who was b. in 1788, impelled by the love of military enterprize, entered into the Russian army as a volunteer; in which service he d. from excessive fatigue, at Wilna, on the 20th December, 1812. His lordship was unmarried, and the family honors devolved, in consequence, upon his brother, John-Delaval Carpenter, esq., present Earl of Tyrconnel.

VAVASOUR, SIR THOMAS, baronet, of Haslewood, in the county of York; b. in 1746, inherited the title at the decease of his brother, 3rd November, 1802.

Lineage

This very ancient family derives its surname from the high office which its senior members formerly held, namely, King's Valvasor, a dignity little inferior to that of Baron.

THOMAS VAVASOUR, esq. was created a baronet, on the 24th of October, 1628. Sir Thomas m. Ursula, daughter of Walter Giffard, esq., of Chillington, in the county of Stafford, by whom he had issue Walter, his successor; William and Thomas, both in the military service of King Charles the First, (the latter fell at Marston Moor;) and Peter, a physician, who settled at York. Sir Thomas was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR WALTER. This gentleman raised a regiment of horse in the royal cause, and remained unshaken in his allegiance during the civil war. He m. Ursula, daughter of Thomas, Viscount Fauconberg, by whom he had four sons and a daughter, and was succeeded by his second but eldest surviving son,

SIR WALTER, who d. without issue, in 1713, when the title reverted to the son of his uncle, Doctor Vavasour, of York, his first cousin,

SIR WALTER. This gentleman m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Peter Vavasour, esq., of the county of York, by whom he had no surviving issue; and, secondly, in 1741, Dorothy, eldest daughter of Marmaduke, Lord Langdale, of Holme, (a peerage which expired in 1777,) by whom he left three sons; Walter, his successor; Thomas, present baronet; and Peter. Sir Walter d. in 1766, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR WALTER, who m. in 1797, Jane, only daughter and heiress of William Langdale, esq. of Langthorpe, and dying without issue in 1802, was succeeded by his brother, Thomas Vavasour, esq., the present baronet.

Country Seat—Haslewood, Yorkshire.

VAVASOUR, SIR HENRY-MAGHULL-MERVIN, baronet, of Spaldington, in the county of York; m. in 1807, Anne, eldest daughter of William Vavasour, esq., of Dublin, by whom he has a son, b. 17th June, 1814, and a daughter b. 21st of July, 1816. Sir Henry, who is a major-general in the army, inherited the title at the decease of his father, 15th March, 1813.

Lineage.

This family is descended, maternally only, from the very ancient and honourable house of Vavasour.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL HENRY NORTH, having married Anne-Asheton, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Maile Yates, esq., of Maghull, (by Elizabeth, only surviving daughter of Humphrey Trafford, esq., of Trafford, in the county of Stafford,) and great-great-grand-daughter and representative of Thomas Vavasour, esq., of Spadlington, in the county of York, assumed the surname and arms of Vavasour, by royal permission, in 1791, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of the said Thomas, who settled his estates upon his only daughter Mary Vavasour, and her descendants, conditionally that they should bear that surname. The only surviving issue of this marriage was Henry-Maghull-Mervin, the present baronet. Sir Henry d. in 1813.

WALDEGRAVE, EARL, (John-James Waldegrave,) of the county of Northampton; Viscount Chewton, and Baron Waldegrave, of Chewton, in the county of Somerset; and a baronet; b. 30th July, 1785; inherited the family honors at the demise of his brother, 29th of June, 1794; m. Miss Anne King, of Hastings, by whom he has issue Viscount Chewton, b. in April, 1817; and a daughter, b. in March, 1818.

Lineage.

The surname of this noble family, derived from a place in the county of Northampton, was anciently written Walgrave, and we find, so far back as the year 1305, John de Walgrave serving the office of sheriff of London. The great-great-grandson of this eminent citizen,

SIR RICHARD WALGRAVE, knt., of Smallbridge, in the county of Suffolk, having represented that county in parliament, in the reigns of Edward the Third and of Richard the Second, was chosen speaker of the commons in the latter reign, which office he was obliged to serve by the command of the king, although entreating to be excused. From this gentleman, lineally descended

SIR EDWARD WALDEGRAVE, knt., who, at the advanced age of seventy, took up arms in the royal cause at the breaking out of the civil wars, and was, in consequence, created a baronet on the 1st of August, 1643. This gallant veteran, having distinguished himself by his valour in the field and his wisdom in the council, was succeeded, at his demise, by his eldest son,

SIR HENRY, who d. on the 10th of October, 1658, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR CHARLES, to whom succeeded his son,

SIR HENRY. This gentleman was elevated to the peerage, as Baron Waldegrave, of Chewton, on the 20th of January, 1686; m. Henrietta, natural daughter of King James the Second, by Mrs. Arabella Churchill, sister of John, Duke of Marlborough, by whom he had two sons, and a daughter, Arabella, who took the veil. His lordship retired to France at the Revolution, and dying, at Paris, in 1689, was succeeded by his eldest son,

JAMES, who conformed to the established church, and took the oaths and his seat in the house of lords, on the 12th of February, 1721-2. This nobleman was employed as a diplomatist of the first class from the year 1725 until 1740, and was elevated to the viscounty of Chewton and earldom of Waldegrave on the 13th of September, 1729. His lordship was sworn of the privy council in 1735, and installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, on the 20th of February, 1738. He m. Mary, second daughter of Sir John Webbe, of Hatherop, in the county of Gloucester, bart., by whom he had three sons and a daughter; and dying, on the 11th of April, 1741, was succeeded by his eldest son,

JAMES, b. 4th March, 1714-15. This nobleman was nominated, on the 18th of December, 1752, governor and privy purse to his late majesty, King George the Third, then Prince of Wales, and to Prince Edward, Duke of York; and, in two days afterwards, being sworn of the privy council, took his seat at the board accordingly. His lordship m. in 1759, Maria, second daughter of Sir Robert Walpole, K.B., by whom he had issue three daughters only. Her ladyship, after the earl's decease, became the wife of his Royal Highness, William-Henry, late Duke of Gloucester, and mother of the present duke, and of Princess Sophia, of Gloucester. The earl d. of the small-pox, on the 28th of April, 1763, and left behind him "Historical Memoirs from 1754 to 1757." Having no male issue, the family honors devolved upon his brother,

JOHN, who m. in 1781, Elizabeth, fifth daughter of John, Earl Gower, by whom he had three sons and four daughters. His lordship's second son, Admiral the Honorable Sir William Waldegrave, was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, as Baron Radstock. The earl was a lieutenant-general in the army, governor of Plymouth, and master of the horse to her majesty, Queen Anne. He d. in 1784, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

GEORGE, b. in 1751; m. in 1782, his cousin, Lady Elizabeth-Laura Waldegrave, daughter of James,

WALLSCOURT, BARON, (Joseph Blake,) of Ardfry, in the county of Galway; b. 2nd of June, 1797; inherited the title at the demise of his cousin, on the 11th of October, 1816; m. in 1822, Miss Lock, only daughter of William Lock, esq., of Norbury, in the county of Surrey, by whom he has no issue.

This being a barony of Ireland, it confers no hereditary seat in parliament, and the present baron is not one of the representative lords.

Lineage.

The founder of this noble family was Richard Blake, a soldier of fortune, who accompanied Prince John to Ireland, in 1185, and having obtained considerable grants of land in the county of Galway, settled there. From this gallant warrior, lineally descended

JOSEPH-HENRY BLAKE, esq., eldest son of Joseph Blake, esq., of Ardfry, by Honoria, only daughter of D. Daly, esq., b. 5th of October, 1765; m. in 1784, Lady Louisa-Catharine-Mary Birmingham, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas, Earl of Louth, by whom he had an only daughter, Anastasia, who m. in 1803, Luke, second Lord Clonbrock, and d. in 1816. Mr. Blake having represented the county of Galway, in the Irish parliament, for several years, was elevated to the peerage, on the 30th of July, 1800, by the title of Baron Wallscourt, of Ardfry, with remainder to the heirs male of his deceased father; and dying on the 28th of March, 1803, was succeeded, accordingly, by the son of his brother, Captain Ignatius Blake, his lordship's nephew,

JOSEPH, who d. in 1816, when the barony reverted to the son of his lordship's uncle, Henry-James Blake, esq., by Anne, second daughter of John French, esq., of Galway, namely, Joseph Blake, esq., the present peer.

Colley-Wellesley,) of Norragh, Earl of Mornington, of Mornington, Viscount Wellesley, of Dangan Castle, and Baron Mornington, all in the county of Meath, in the peerage of Ireland; Baron Wellesley, of Wellesley, in the county of Somerset, in the peerage of England; lord-lieutenant-general and general governor of Ireland; a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, and official grand master of the Order of St. Patrick; b. 21st June, 1760; inherited the earldom of Mornington and the inferior Irish honors at the decease of his father, Garrett, first Earl of Mornington; obtained the English barony, by creation, on the 20th of October, 1797; and was elevated to an Irish marquesate on the 2nd of December, 1799, in consideration of his distinguished services as Governor-General of India, where he triumphed over the Sultaun Tippoo, and destroyed the empire of Mysore. His lordship m. first, in 1794, Hyacinthe-Gabrielle, only daughter of M. Roland, by whom he has no issue; and, secondly, in 1825, Mrs. Patterson, a highly-accomplished and opulent American lady. Since his first appearance in public life, Lord Wellesley has taken a distinguished part in the political drama, which his profound views as a statesman, his powerful eloquence as an orator, and his liberal and enlightened mind, pre-eminently fit him to sustain.

Lineage.

The surname of this illustrious family was originally Cowley, or Colley, and it deduces its descent from Walter Cowley, esq., a distinguished lawyer, who served the office of solicitor-general in Ireland, in the beginning of the sixteenth century. From this learned personage, lineally descended

Dudley Colley, esq., of Castle Carberry, in the county of Kildare, who left a son and daughter by his second wife, Anne, daughter of Henry Warren, esq., of Grangebeg, in the same county, namely,

Henry Colley, esq., the heir to his estates, and

Elizabeth Colley, who m. Garrett Wellesley, esq., of Dangan Castle, in the county of Meath, and had issue by him

Garrett Wellesley, esq., who succeeded at Dangan Castle, and represented the county of Meath in several parliaments; but dying without issue, in 1728, he devised his estates to the son of his uncle, the above-mentioned Henry Colley, esq., of Castle Carberry, his cousin,

Richard Colley, esq., upon condition of assuming the surname and arms of Wellesley, which Mr. Colley immediately complied with. This gentleman m. Elizabeth, daughter of Doctor John Sale, a civilian, and registrar of the diocese of Dublin, by whom he had issue Garrett, and two daughters, viz. Elizabeth, b. in 1720, the wife of Chichester Fortescue, esq., of the county of Louth; and Frances, b. in 1727, the wife of William-Francis Crosby, esq., of the county of Kerry. Mr. Colley-Wellesley was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, on the 9th of July, 1746, by the title of Baron Mornington, of Mornington, in the county of Meath; and dying in 1758, was succeeded by his only son, Garrett Colley-Wellesley, b. 19th of July, 1735; m. in 1759, Anne, daughter of Arthur Hill-Trevor, first Viscount Dungannon, and aunt of Arthur-Hill, present viscount, by whom he had issue Richard, present Marquess of Wellesley; William, created Baron Maryborough; Arthur, created Duke of Wellington; the Reverend Gerald-Valerian, D.D., rector of the parish of Chelsea, and canon-residentiary of St. Paul's, b. in 1771, (m. in 1802, Lady Emily Cadogan, daughter of the late Earl of Cadogan, and sister of the present earl;) Henry, a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath, b. in 1773, (m. first, Lady Charlotte Cadogan, from whom he was divorced in 1810, and her ladyship m. subsequently, the present Marquess of Anglesea. Sir Henry Wellesley m. secondly, Lady Georgiana-Charlotte-Augusta Cecil, eldest daughter of James, late Marquess of Salisbury, and sister of the present marquess.) Lord Mornington had, besides, two daughters, viz. Anne, who m. the Honorable Henry Fitzroy, son of Charles, first Lord Southampton, and, after his decease, Culling-Charles Smith, esq.; and Mary-Elizabeth, who d. unmarried in 1794. His lordship was advanced, on the 20th of October, 1760, to the dignities of Viscount Wellesley, of Dangan Castle, and Earl of Mornington. He d. on the 22nd of May, 1784.

WELLINGTON, DUKE OF, (Arthur Wellesley,) Marquess of Douro, Marquess of Wellington, Earl of Wellington, of Wellington, in the county of Somerset; Viscount Wellington, of Wellington and of Talavera, and Baron Douro, of Wellesley, in the county of Somerset; b. at Dangan Castle, in the county of Meath, in Ireland, on the 1st of May, 1769; m. in 1806, Catharine, third daughter of Edward, late Lord Longford, and sister of Thomas, present Earl of Longford, by whom he has two sons, Arthur, Marquess of Douro, b. 3rd February, 1807; and Charles, b. 16th January, 1808.

To attempt even the most abridged epitome of the glorious achievements of this distinguished nobleman and soldier, would far, very far, indeed, exceed our limits, and would, in the present day at least, be a work of supererogation. We shall, therefore, merely confine ourselves to stating, that his grace, who is the third son of Garrett, late Earl of Mornington, and brother of the present Marquess of Wellesley, commenced his military career in 1794, when he commanded a brigade, under His Royal Highness the Duke of York, in the unsuccessful expedition to Holland; that he was, subsequently, engaged in India, where he exhibited traits of that transcendent military genius, which, at no distant period, was destined to elevate him to the enviable rank of one of the first and greatest captains of his age; that, in 1808, he entered upon the field, where the full harvest of his renown was to be reaped; and that his good sword has, since that period, opened to him the very highest honors of the state—honors conferred with the most enthusiastic approbation of the people, and accompanied by the most popular and liberal grants from the national purse. His grace was created Baron Douro, of Wellesley, in the county of Somerset, and Viscount Wellington, of Talavera, and of Wellington, in the same county, on the 4th of September, 1809; Earl of Wellington, on the 28th of February, 1812; Marquess of Wellington, on the 18th of August, 1812; and Marquess of Douro and Duke of Wellington, on the 3rd of May, 1814. His grace is also Duke of Ciudad Rodrigo, and a grandee of the first class in Spain; Duke of Vittoria, Marquess of Torres Vedras, and Count Vimiera, in Portugal; and, proudest of all, PRINCE OF WATERLOO, a principality conferred by the King of the Netherlands upon his grace, in consideration of his last, greatest, and most decisive victory achieved over the French army, commanded by the Emperor Napoleon in person, on the 18th July, 1815.

The Duke of Wellington is a field-marshal in the army, colonel of the royal regiment of horse guards, colonel-in-chief of the rifle brigade, master-general of the ordnance, and governor of Plymouth; a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, and a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath, and of all the most distinguished foreign orders of Europe.

WEMYSS, EARL OF, (Francis-Wemyss-Charteris Douglas,) and Baron Elcho, to which honors he succeeded at the demise of his grandfather, on the 24th of August, 1808; Earl of March, Viscount Peebles, and Baron Douglas, of Needpath, honors inherited at the decease of William, third Earl of March, and fourth Duke of Queensberry, all in the peerage of Scotland. His lordship was b. in 1772; and m. in 1794, to Margaret, daughter of Walter Campbell, esq., of Shawfield, by whom he has issue Lord Elcho, a widower, (having m. in 1817, Lady Louisa Bingham, youngest daughter of Richard, present Earl of Lucan, who d. in the following year;) besides eight daughters; the eldest of which, Lady Elizabeth, is the wife of W. F. Campbell, esq. The Earl of Wemyss was enrolled amongst the peers of the United Kingdom, by the title of Baron Wemyss, of Wemyss, in the county of Fife, on the 17th of July, 1821.

Lineage.

This ancient and noble family traces its origin to John, baronial Lord of Wemyss, whence the surname is derived, who was younger son of the celebrated Thane of Fife, Macduff, the vanquisher of the tyrant Macbeth. From this personage, lineally descended

SIR JOHN WEMYSS, Lord of Wemyss, who was created a baronet in 1625, and elevated to the peerage of Scotland, by the title of Baron Wemyss, of Elcho, on the 1st of April, 1628. His lordship was advanced to the dignity of Earl of Wemyss, in the county of Fife, on the 25th June, 1633. This nobleman, although indebted for his honors to King Charles the First, took part against his royal master, and sided with the parliamentarians. He m. Jane, daughter of Patrick, Lord Gray, by whom he had six children, and was succeeded, in 1649, by his only son,

DAVID. This nobleman m. thrice: first, Jane, daughter of Robert, Lord Burleigh, by whom he had an only daughter, Jane, who became, first, the wife of Archibald, Earl of Angus; and, after his lordship's decease, of George, Earl of Sutherland. The Earl of Wemyss m. secondly, Lady Leonora Fleming, daughter of the Earl of Wigtown, who d. without issue; and, thirdly, Margaret, daughter of John, Earl of Rothes, by whom he had an only daughter, Margaret, in whose favor his lordship, having resigned his peerage to the crown, obtained, on the 3rd of August, 1672, a new patent, conferring the honors of the family, with the original precedency, upon her ladyship. He d. in 1686, when the baronetcy expired, but the other dignities descended, accordingly, to his daughter,

SIR JAMES WEMYSS, of Caskierry, who was created, for life, Lord Burntisland. The issue of this marriage were, David, successor to the countess's honors; and two daughters, viz. Anne, who m. David, Earl of Leven; and Margaret, David, Earl of Northesk. The Countess of Wemyss d. in 1705, and was succeeded by her only son,

DAVID. This nobleman, who was appointed by Queen Anne lord high admiral of Scotland, sworn of the privy council, and nominated one of the commissioners for concluding the treaty of union, m. first, Lady Anne Douglas, daughter of William, first Duke of Queensberry, and sister of James, Duke of Queensberry and Dover, and of William, first Earl of March, by whom he had one surviving son, James, his successor; secondly, Mary, daughter of Sir John Robinson, bart., of Farmingwood, in the county of Northampton, who d. without issue; and, thirdly, Elizabeth, daughter of Henry, eighth Lord Sinclair, by whom he had two daughters, namely, Elizabeth, wife of William, sixteenth Earl of Sutherland; and Margaret, wife of James, seventh Earl of Moray. Lord Wemyss d. in 1720, and was succeeded by his only son,

JAMES, b. in 1699; m. in 1756, Janet, only daughter of Francis Charteris, esq., by whom he had David, Lord Elcho; Francis, who inherited the estates of his maternal grandfather, and assumed, in consequence, the surname of Charteris, before that of Wemyss; and James; besides four daughters. The earl's eldest son,

DAVID, Lord Elcho, having been involved in the rebellion of 1745, fled to France after the battle of Culloden, and was attainted. The family honors, therefore, remained, during his life, under the influence of that penal statute: but at his demise without issue, in 1787, they were inherited by his brother,

THE HONORABLE FRANCIS-CHARTERIS-WEMYSS, and revived. His lordship was b. in 1723; m. in 1745, to Lady Catherine Gordon, daughter of Alexander, second Duke of Gordon, and aunt of Alexander, present duke, by whom he had issue Francis, Lord Elcho, who m. in 1771, Susan, daughter of Anthony-Tracy Keck, esq., and d. in 1808, leaving issue Francis, the present earl; and four daughters; to whom the Prince Regent granted the same precedence as if their father had lived to inherit the earldom. Lord Wemyss had, besides Lord Elcho, five daughters, viz. Henrietta; Catharine; Janet; Frances, wife of the Reverend Doctor Trail; and Anne. The earl d. on the 5th of August, 1808, and was succeeded by his grandson, Francis, the present peer, who inherited the earldom of March, as well as the lands and lordship of Neidpath, at the demise of William, fourth Duke of Queensberry, on the 23rd of December, 1810, as heir male of his great-great-grandmother, Lady Anne Douglas, first wife of David, third Earl of Wemyss, daughter of William, first Duke of Queensberry, and sister of the Honorable William Douglas, who was created Earl of March on the 20th of April, 1697.

WESTCOTE, BARON, (George-Fulke Lyttleton,) of the county of Longford, in the peerage of Ireland. Creation of 21st July, 1776.

See, Lord Lyttleton.

WESTMEATH, MARQUESS OF, (George-Thomas-John Nugent,) Earl of Westmeath, and Baron Delvin, of Delvin, in the county of Westmeath, in the peerage of Ireland; b. 17th July, 1785; m. in 1812, Lady Emily Cecil, second daughter of James, late Marquess of Salisbury, and sister of James-Brownlow, present marquess, by whom he has issue an only surviving daughter, Lady Rose Nugent. His lordship inherited the earldom and barony at the decease of his father, on the 30th of December, 1814, and obtained the marquesate, by creation, on the 12th of January, 1822.

Lineage.

This noble family has been settled in Ireland since the subjugation of that country by Henry the Second. Its founder,

GILBERT DE NUGENT, one of the knights who accompanied Hugh de Lacy in the expedition to Ireland, having m. Rosa, the daughter of the said Hugh, obtained thereby the lordship of Delvin, but having no issue, was succeeded by his brother,

CHRISTOPHER NUGENT, from whom lineally descended

RICHARD, the tenth Lord Delvin, who was created, on the 4th of September, 1621, Earl of Westmeath. This nobleman d. in 1641, and was succeeded by his grandson,

RICHARD, to whom succeeded, in 1684, his grandson,

RICHARD, who d. without issue in 1714, when the honors devolved upon his brother,

THOMAS. This nobleman d. also without issue, (30th June, 1752) and was succeeded by his next brother,

JOHN, who m. Margaret, daughter of Count Molza, of Modena, by whom he had three sons, Thomas; Edward-Charles; and Francis. His lordship d. in 1754, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

THOMAS, K. P. This nobleman m. first, in 1742, Mary, only daughter and heiress of Walter Durand Stapleton, esq., by whom he had an only son, Richard, Lord Delvin, who fell in a duel in 1761; and, secondly, in 1756, Catharine, daughter and coheiress of Henry White, esq., of Pickfordstown, in the county of Kildare, by whom he had surviving issue, George-Frederick, his successor; and Catharine, who m. in 1784, the Honorable John Rodney. His lordship d. in 1791, and was succeeded by his only son,

GEORGE-FREDERICK, b. 18th November, 1760; m. first, in 1784, Marianne, eldest daughter of John Jeffereys, esq., of Blarney-castle, in the county of Cork, and niece of John, late Earl of Clare, lord high chancellor of Ireland, by whom he left George-Thomas-John, the present Marquess of Westmeath. His lordship's marriage being dissolved by act of parliament in 1796, he m. secondly, in 1797, Lady Elizabeth-Emily Moore, daughter of Charles, late Marquess of Drogheda, and sister of the present marquess, by whom he had issue Robert-Seymour, b. 2nd of June, 1808; Elizabeth-Emily, b. 21st December, 1798, m. in 1820, to the Honorable

WESTMORELAND, EARL OF, (John Fane) and Baron Burghersh, b. 1st January, 1759, inherited the family honors at the decease of his father, 26th of April, 1774, m. first in May, 1782, Sarah-Anne, only daughter and heiress of Robert Child, esq., of Osterley Park, in the county of Middlesex, an eminent banker of London, by whom he has issue one son and four daughters, viz.

John, Lord Burghersh, b. 2nd February, 1784, m. in 1811, the Honorable Mary-Wellesley Pole, daughter of William, Lord Maryborough, by whom he has two sons and a daughter. His lordship is a colonel in the army, aid-de-camp to the king, and minister plenipotentiary to the Court of Tuscany.

Sarah-Sophia, b. 4th March, 1785, heiress by will to the immense possessions of her maternal grandfather. Her ladyship m. in 1804, George, present Earl of Jersey, and assumed, with her husband, the additional surname of Child.

Augusta, b. 17th March, 1786, m. in 1804, John, Lord Boringdon, since created Earl of Morley, from whom she was divorced in 1809, when her ladyship married the Honorable Sir Arthur Paget, son of Henry, late Earl of Uxbridge, and brother of the present Marquess of Anglesea.

And Maria, b. 11th May, 1787, m. in 1805, John, Viscount Duncannon, eldest son of Frederick, present Earl of Besborough.

The Earl of Westmoreland m. secondly, in 1800, Miss Saunders, daughter of Huck Saunders, esq., M. D., by whom he has one son and a daughter. His lordship is a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, lord keeper of the privy seal, and recorder of Lyme Regis.

Lineage.

It appears, from an ancient pedigree, that the ancestors of the Earl of Westmoreland, and of the Earl of Darlington, originally wrote their surname Vane, and that they were descended from Howell ap Vane, of Monmouthshire, who lived long antecedent to the Conquest. The immediate progenitor, however, of those illustrious houses, was

JOHN VANE, esq., of Tudeley, who lived in the reign of Henry the Eighth, and obtained from that monarch a grant of the manor of Hadloe, in Kent. This gentleman m. Isabel, daughter of John Darell, of the same county, and had issue four sons and three daughters. From the youngest son, John, sprang the Earls of Darlington, and from the second,

THOMAS FANE, esq., who, being involved in the rebellion of Sir Thomas Wyat, in the first year of Queen Mary, was committed to the Tower, and attainted for High Treason, but pardoned by her Majesty, and set at liberty, after he had been ordered for execution. Mr. Fane, in the ensuing reign, was knighted at the Castle of Dover, on the 26th of August, 1573, by Robert, Earl of Leicester, in the presence of the queen. Sir Thomas m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Colepepper, of Bedgbury, who d. without issue; and, secondly, in 1574, Lady Mary Neville, only daughter and heiress of Henry, Lord Abergavenny, the lineal descendant of Edward Neville, younger son of Ralph Neville, first Earl of Westmoreland of the family of Neville, by whom he had issue four sons and two daughters. Sir Thomas d. on the 13th of March, 1589, and in fifteen years afterwards, on the 25th of May, 1604, his widow, Lady Fane, was restored to the dignity of Baroness le Despencer, the letters patent of restoration beginning thus: "Whereas Hugh le Despencer, formerly justice of England in the reign of King Henry the Third, was one of the barons of England, by the name of Baron le Despencer, to him and his heirs, and was summoned to parliament among the barons, in the 49th of Henry the Third; and whereas Mary Fane, daughter and heiress of Henry, Lord Abergavenny, son and heir of Lord George Abergavenny, son and heir of Lord George Abergavenny, son and heir of Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Isabel, sister and heiress of Richard le Despencer, Earl of Gloucester and Lord le Despencer, by Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Bartholomew, Lord Burghersh, son of Edward le Despencer, son of Hugh, Lord Despencer, Earl of Winchester, and Baron le Despencer, who was son of Hugh, the aforesaid justice of England," &c. &c. Her ladyship d. on the 28th of June, 1626, and was succeeded, in the ancient barony thus restored, by her eldest son,

FRANCIS, who had been previously advanced to the peerage on the 29th of December, 1624, by the ancient titles of his maternal family, namely, Baron Burghersh, and Earl of Westmoreland. His lordship m. Mary, only daughter and heiress of Sir Anthony Mildmay, knight, of Apethorp, in the county of Northampton, by whom he had seven sons and six daughters, and acquired a very considerable augmentation of fortune. The earl d. on the 23rd of March, 1628, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

MILDMAY. This nobleman was made one of the knights of the Bath at the coronation of King Charles the First; and, at the breaking out of the civil war, arrayed himself under the royal banner; but, in 1643, according to Whitlock, in his memorials, "The Earl of Westmoreland, and divers other delinquents, came unto the parliament, desiring the benefit of the declaration of both kingdoms for composition;" and on the 22nd of April, 1645, the Earls of Westmoreland, Holland, Thanet, Monmouth, and the Lord

Saville, took the oath appointed by parliament for such as came unto them before the commissioners of the Great Seal." His lordship concurring, however, in the restoration of the monarchy, was constituted, jointly with John, Earl of Bridgewater, on the 30th July, 1660, lord lieutenant of the county of Northampton. He m. first, Grace, daughter of Sir William Thornehurst, knight, of Herne, in the county of Kent, by whom he had one son (his successor,) and five daughters; and, secondly, Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Horace, Lord Vere, of Tilbury, and relict of Sir Roger Townshend, of Raynham, in the county of Norfolk, knight, by whom he had Vere, who succeeded his brother in the earldom, &c., and four daughters. His lordship d. on the 12th of February, 1665, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

CHARLES. This nobleman m. twice, but dying without issue in September, 1691, the family honors devolved upon his half brother,

VERE, who m. Rachael, only daughter and heiress of Mr. Alderman Bence, of the City of London, by whom he had four sons and six daughters. His lordship d. on the 29th of December, 1693, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

VERE. This nobleman dying unmarried, on the 19th of May, 1699, within a few days of being of age, the honors devolved upon his brother,

THOMAS, who d. without issue on the 4th of June, 1736, and was succeeded by his next brother,

JOHN. This nobleman having distinguished himself as a military officer under the Duke of Marlborough, had been previously elevated to the peerage of Ireland, on the 4th of October, 1733, by the title of Baron Catherlough. His lordship, subsequently, obtained the rank of lieutenant-general in the army. He m. Mary, only daughter and heiress of Lord Henry Cavendish, second son of William, Duke of Devonshire, but dying without issue on the 26th of August, 1762, the Irish peerage expired, while the Barony of Despencer, being a barony in fee to heirs general, was confirmed to Sir Francis Dashwood, baronet, of West Wycomb, in the county of Buckingham, (on the 19th of April, 1763,) as only son and heir of Sir Francis Dashwood, bart., by Lady Mary Fane, eldest daughter of Vere, Earl of Westmoreland, by his wife, Rachael, daughter of Mr. Alderman Bence; and the earldom of Westmoreland, with the barony of Burghersh, reverted to the next male descendant of Sir Francis Fane, (third son of Francis, first Earl of Westmoreland) namely, his great-grandson,

THOMAS FANE, esq., of Bympton, in the county of Somerset, a merchant at Bristol. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter of William Swymmer, esq., also a merchant of Bristol, by whom he had two sons and two daughters. He d. on the 12th of November, 1771, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN. This nobleman m. first, on the 26th of March, 1758, Augusta, daughter of Lord Montague Bertie, son of Robert, Duke of Ancaster, by whom he had issue John, the present Earl; Thomas, an officer of rank in the army, who d. in 1807; and Augusta, wife of William, Earl of Lonsdale. His lordship m. secondly, on the 28th of March, 1767, Lady Susan Gordon, daughter of Cosmo-George, late Duke of Gordon, and sister of Alexander, present duke, by whom he had a son, who died in infancy, and three daughters, namely, Susan b. 3rd October, 1768, m. John Drummond, esq., and d. in 1793; Elizabeth, b. 7th January, 1773, m. in 1790, Sir John Lowther, baronet; and Mary, b. 19th September, 1772, m. 16th January, 1792, George Fludyer, esq. The earl d. on the 26th of September, 1774.

WILLOUGHBY DE BROKE, BARON, (Henry-Peto Verney,) b. 5th April, 1778; inherited the title at the decease of his brother, in September, 1820.

Lineage.

This noble house is a branch of that of Willoughby de Eresby, being founded by

ROBERT WILLOUGHBY, esq., (great-grandson of Robert, fourth Baron Willoughby de Eresby, through his second son, the Honorable Sir Thomas Willoughby, knt.,) who was summoned to parliament the 12th of August, 1492, as Baron Willoughby de Broke, and was succeeded, at his demise, in 1503, by his eldest son,

ROBERT, summoned to parliament by writ, dated 28th November, 1511. This nobleman had a son, Edward, who d. in the life-time of his father, leaving two daughters, Elizabeth, who m. Sir Fulke Greville; and Blanch, the wife of Sir Edward Dawtrey. Lord Willoughby d. in 1522, when the barony fell into abeyance between his grand-daughters above-mentioned, and their heirs, and so remained until claimed, in 1696, and allowed to

SIR RICHARD VERNEY, knt., of Belton, in the county of Rutland, son of Sir Greville Verney, knt., by Catharine, daughter of Sir Robert Southwell, knt., of Woodrising, in the county of Norfolk, and great-grandson of Elizabeth, (Willoughby,) Lady Greville, eldest daughter of Robert, Lord Willoughby de Broke, the line of his lordship's younger daughter, Lady Dawtrey, having failed. (The family of Verney is descended from William de Vernai, whose son, William, is mentioned as living in the beginning of the twelfth century, and the said William's grandson, Roger de Vernai, or Verney, as seated, in the latter end of the same era, at Bromshulfe, in the county of Stafford.) Richard, (Verney,) Lord Willoughby de Broke, was b. on the 28th of January, 1621, and represented the county of Warwick in parliament before and after the Revolution. He received the honor of knighthood on the 1st of April, 1685, upon presenting an address from Warwickshire to King James the Second. His lordship m. twice: first, Mary, daughter of Sir John Prettyman, knight and baronet, of Lodington, in the county of Leices-

ter, by whom he had three sons and a daughter; and, secondly, Frances, daughter of Thomas Dove, esq., of Upton, in the county of Northampton, by whom he had a son, who d. about the period of majority; and a daughter, Diana, who m. Sir Charles Shuckburgh, bart., of Shuckburgh, in the county of Warwick. Lord Willoughby, who was esteemed a very learned antiquary, is mentioned by Sir William Douglas as a person "happily qualified with a most ingenious inclination, from whom he received much assistance for rectifying the map of the hundred of Kineton, in the county of Warwick, as also in the delineation of divers monuments for adorning the work:" and Mr. Wright, in his Antiquities of the county of Rutland, treating of Belton, says, "It was the seat of Richard Verney, esq., a true lover of antiquities, and a worthy Mæcenas." His lordship lived to the advanced age of ninety, and dying, on the 18th of July, 1711, was succeeded by his youngest and only surviving son,

The Honorable and Reverend George Verney, canon of Windsor, in the deanery of which place his lordship was installed, in 1713, and nominated register of the most noble Order of the Garter. He m. Margaret, daughter and heiress of Sir John Heath, of Braystede, in the county of Kent, knt., heiress, through her mother, of Sir John Mennes, knt., and, through her grandmother, of the Scot's Earl of Carrick, by whom he had four sons; and a daughter, who m. Anthony Duncomb, esq., of Barford, in the county of Wilts. His lordship's eldest son, George, d. in boyhood; Thomas, the next, d. of the small-pox, in 1710, without issue; Richard succeeded to the title; and John, the youngest, being bred to the bar, arose, in 1738, to the high official station of master of the rolls, and was sworn of the privy council; he m. Abigail, only daughter of Edward Harley, esq., of Eyewood, in the county of Hereford, by whom he had a son, John-Peyto, who succeeded his uncle in the title; and a daughter. Lord Willoughby d. on the 26th of December, 1728, and was succeeded by his third but eldest surviving son,

Richard, who d. in 1752, without issue, when the barony reverted to his nephew,

John-Peyto, b. in 1738. His lordship m. in 1761, Lady Louisa North, daughter of Francis, first Earl of Guilford, and sister of the celebrated minister, Lord North, by whom he left issue John-Peyto, his successor; Henry, the present baron; and Louisa, who m. in 1793, the Reverend Robert Bernard, prebendary of Winchester. His lordship d. in 1816, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

John-Peyto, who d. without issue, in 1820, when the barony devolved upon his brother, the Honorable Henry Verney, present baron.

Motto, in English,
Virtue prevails.

WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY, BARONESS, (Priscilla-Barbara-Elizabeth Burrell,)

b. 16th February, 1761; m. in 1779, Peter, late Lord Gwydir, by whom she has issue Peter-Robert, present Baron Gwydir; with two other sons, and a daughter. Her ladyship succeeded to the ancient barony upon the termination of the abeyance, into which it had fallen, by the crown, on the 18th of March, 1780. Lady Willoughby is joint hereditary great chamberlain of England, with her sister, Georgiana, Marchioness of Cholmondeley.

Lineage.

This is one of the very ancient baronies created by writ of summons, which pass, being inheritable by heirs male or female, at different periods, into different families, and sometimes remain for centuries dormant; for, in the instance of there being no male heir, but several female, the barony does not devolve upon the eldest daughter, but upon all conjointly, and cannot, consequently, be inherited until there be a single heir to the whole, without the especial interference of the crown.

Robert Willoughby, of Eresby, in the county of Lincoln, son of Sir William Willoughby, knt., by Alice, daughter and heiress of John Beke, Lord of Eresby, was summoned to parliament, as Baron Willoughby de Eresby, on the 26th of July, 1313. From him the barony passed, in the direct male line, to

Robert, the sixth baron, who d. in 1452, leaving an only daughter,

Joane, who m.

Richard de Welles, summoned to parliament, in consequence, in 1455, as Baron Willoughby. His lordship was son of Leo, sixth Baron Welles, who fell in one of the conflicts between the houses of York and Lancaster, and was attainted, in 1461. Lord Willoughby obtained a full restoration, however, in blood and honors, in 1468, but fell a victim afterwards to the vibrations of fortune between the red and white roses, and was beheaded with his only son, Robert, in 1469, leaving an only daughter,

Joane, who m. Richard Hastings, } which Richard was summoned to parliament, as Baron Welles; but dying without issue, in 1503, and his lady in two years afterwards, the ancient barony of Willoughby reverted to her ladyship's kinsman,

William Willoughby, great-great-grand-nephew of Robert, sixth baron, through his brother, the Honorable Thomas Willoughby. This nobleman d. in 1525, and was succeeded by his only daughter,

Katherine. Her ladyship m. twice: first, Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, by whom she had no issue to live to majority; and, secondly, Richard Bertie, esq., by whom she had a son and heir, Peregrine. Her Grace, the Duchess of Suffolk, d. in 1580, when her son, Peregrine Bertie, claimed the ancient barony, and was summoned to parliament, as Lord Willoughby de Eresby, on the 16th of January, 1581.

His lordship m. Mary, daughter of John, (Vere,) Earl of Oxford, and sister and heiress of Edward, (Vere,) seventeenth Earl of Oxford, lord high chamberlain of England, by whom he had five sons, and a daughter, Catharine, who m. Sir Lewis Watson, of Rockingham Castle, in the county of Northampton, who was created, subsequently, Lord Rockingham. Lord Willoughby d. in 1601, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

ROBERT, who claimed the earldom of Oxford, and the great chamberlainship of England, in right of his mother, but succeeded in establishing his claim to the chamberlainship only; he was, however, created Earl of Lindsay, on the 22nd of November, 1626. In 1630, his lordship was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter; and, at the breaking out of the civil war, was nominated commander-in-chief of the king's forces. Of this nobleman, Lord Clarendon says, "He was a man of great honor, and spent the youth and vigour of his age in military actions, and commands abroad; and albeit he indulged to himself great liberties of life, yet he still preserved a very good reputation with all men, and a very great interest in his country, as appears by the supplies he and his son brought to the king's army; the companies of his own regiment of foot being commanded by the principal knights and gentlemen of Lincolnshire, who engaged themselves in the service, principally out of their personal affection for him." The barony of Willoughby de Eresby merged in this earldom of Lincoln, and the dukedom of Ancaster, to which honor the fourth Earl of Lincoln was elevated, until the demise of Robert, fourth duke, without issue, in 1779, when the dukedom of Ancaster, and the marquesate and earldom of Lindsay, reverted to his uncle, the Honorable Brownlow Bertie, with whom those honors expired, in 1809; and the ancient barony of Willoughby de Eresby fell into abeyance, between his grace's sisters and heiresses,

LADY PRISCILLA-BARBARA-ELIZABETH, the wife of Sir Peter Burrell, baronet, created afterwards Baron Gwydir, and Lady Georgiana-Charlotte Bertie, who m. in 1791, George-James, present Marquess of Cholmondeley; and it so remained until the 19th of March, 1780, when the crown interfered, and caused its termination, in favour of Lady Priscilla Burrell, present Baroness Willoughby de Eresby, and Baroness Dowager Gwydir.

Town Residence—Whitehall.

Country Seat—Grimsthorpe Castle, near Bourn, in the county of Lincoln.

Parry, esq., M.D, of the city of Bath, and sister (we believe) of the adventurous navigator, Capt. Parry, by whom he has issue John-Eardley; with five other sons, and two daughters; and secondly, in 1819, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Sir Robert Chester, of Bush Hall, in the county of Hertford, by whom he has another daughter.

This gentleman, the eldest son of the late John Wilmot, esq., one of the masters in chancery, who assumed, in 1812, by royal license, the surname of Eardley, before that of his paternal family, and grandson of lord chief justice Wilmot, (see Wilmot, of Osmaston, baronet,) was created a baronet, on the 19th of July, 1821.

Country Seat—Berkswell Hall, Warwickshire.

WILSON, SIR THOMAS-MARYON, bart., of East-Bourne, county of Sussex; b. 10th April, 1800; inherited the title at the decease of his father, on the 22nd of July, 1821.

Lineage.

WILLIAM WILSON, esq., descended from an ancient Yorkshire family, having distinguished himself in the royal cause, during the civil wars, was created a baronet on the 4th of March, 1661. He m. Mary, daughter of Francis Hadden, esq., by whom he had five sons and two daughters. Sir William d. in 1685, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM, who was succeeded, in 1718, by his grandson,

SIR WILLIAM. This gentleman dying unmarried, on the 23rd of January, 1723, the title, and chief part of the fortune, reverted to his cousin,

SIR THOMAS, (grandson of Sir William, the first baronet, through his fourth son, Thomas Wilson, esq.) This gentleman m. Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. William Hutchinson, of Uckfield, in the county of Sussex, by whom he had three sons and two daughters. He d. in 1759, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR EDWARD, who, dying unmarried, on the 24th of June, 1760, was succeeded by his only surviving brother,

SIR THOMAS-SPENCER. This gentleman m. Jane, daughter of John Badger, esq., by whom he had issue Thomas-Maryon, his successor; with three daughters, namely, Maria, wife of John Trevelyan, esq.; Margaretta-Elizabeth, of Charles-George, present Lord Arden; and Jane, who m. first, in August, 1790, the Right Honorable Spencer Perceval, (assassinated in 1812, by Bellingham,) by whom she has several children; and secondly, in 1815, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Henry W. Carr, K.C.B. Sir Thomas-Spencer Wilson was a lieutenant-general in the army, and colonel of the 50th regiment of foot. He d. in 1798, and was succeeded by his only son,

SIR THOMAS-MARYON, who m. in 1799, Elizabeth, daughter of James Smith, esq., a captain in the royal navy, and left issue Thomas-Maryon, the present baronet; and another son. Sir Thomas d. in 1821.

ton, was created a baronet on the 15th of April, 1617. He m. Bridget, daughter and co-heiress of Arthur Grey, fifteenth Baron Grey de Wilton, and heiress of her brother Thomas, Baron Grey de Wilton, who was attainted in 1604, and dying a prisoner in the Tower, was thus deprived of his honors. The issue of this marriage were three sons; Thomas, who d. childless; John; and Philip. Sir Rowland d. in 1646, and was succeeded by his second, but eldest surviving, son,

SIR JOHN, who was succeeded, in 1674, by his son,

SIR JOHN, to whom succeeded his son, by his second wife, Elizabeth, heiress of Edward Holland, esq., of Heaton, in the county of Lancaster,

SIR HOLLAND. This gentleman d. in 1730, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR EDWARD, who d. without issue, in 1743, when the title devolved upon his brother,

SIR THOMAS-GREY. This gentleman was succeeded, in 1756, by his only child,

SIR THOMAS, who was elevated to the peerage on the 15th of May, 1784, by the title of Baron Grey de Wilton, of Wilton Castle, in the county of Hereford. His lordship m. in 1769, Eleanor, youngest daughter and co-heiress of Sir Ralph Assheton, bart., by whom he had several children, but one only to survive, namely, Eleanor, b. 21st July, 1770; m. in 1794, to Robert, Viscount Belgrave, now Earl Grosvenor. In consequence of the decease of Lord Grey de Wilton's elder children, his lordship obtained a new patent, on the 26th of June, 1801, re-creating the original barony, and creating the earldom of Wilton, with special remainder to the second and to all the younger sons, successively, of his daughter, by her then husband, Lord Belgrave, or her male issue by any future husband. His lordship d. on the 23rd of September, 1814, when the baronetcy devolved upon John-Grey Egerton, esq., late baronet, the lineal descendant of Sir Rowland Egerton, the first baronet, through his second son, Sir Philip Egerton, knt. The barony of Grey de Wilton, created in 1784, expired; but the earldom and barony, created in 1801, devolved, according to the limitation of the patent, upon his lordship's grandson, the Honorable Thomas Grosvenor, now Egerton, (present Earl of Wilton,) second son of Robert, present Earl Grosvenor.

WINCHELSEA, EARL OF, (George Finch,) Earl of Nottingham, Viscount Maidstone, of Maidstone, Baron Finch, of Daventry, in the county of Northampton, and a baronet; b. in 1754; inherited the family honors at the demise of his uncle, on the 2nd of August, 1769. His lordship is a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, and lord-lieutenant of the county of Rutland.

Lineage.

It is the opinion of Dugdale, that this noble family is descended from a common ancestor with the Herberts, Earls of Pembroke, namely, Henry Fitz-Herbert, chamberlain to King Henry the First; and Leland says, "The Finches that be now, say, that their proper name is Herbert, and that, with marriage of the Finche's heir, they took Finche's name. One Vincent Finch, in Henry the Fourth's days, recovered of the king, by a suit, the manor of ——, by Winchelsea." And in an old inscription in Braborne Church, the name is written Herbert, alias Finch.

SIR MOYLE FINCH, knight, eldest son of Sir Thomas Finch, knt., by Catharine, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Thomas Moyle, of Eastwell, in the county of Kent, was created a baronet on the 29th of July, 1611. He married Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of Sir Thomas Heneage, knt., descended from the ancient family of Heneage, of Hainton, in the county of Lincoln, by whom he had seven sons and two daughters, namely, Theophilus, who succeeded to the baronetcy, but died before his mother; Thomas, the successor of his brother; John, who d. unmarried; Heneage, serjeant-at-law, recorder of the city of London, and speaker of the house of commons; Francis, William, and Robert. The daughters were, Anne, who m. Sir William Twysden, bart.; and Catharine, Sir John Wentworth, bart. After the demise of Sir Moyle, his widow, Catharine, Lady Finch, was elevated to the peerage, on the 8th of July, 1623, by the title of Viscountess Maidstone, and advanced to the dignity of Countess of Winchelsea, in the county of Sussex, on the 12th of July, 1628. Sir Moyle d. in 1614, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR THEOPHILUS. This gentleman m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Christopher Heydon; but dying without issue, the title devolved upon his brother,

SIR THOMAS, who succeeded to the peerage, as Viscount Maidstone and Earl of Winchelsea, upon the demise of his mother, on the 13th of March, 1633. His lordship m. Cecilia, daughter of John Wentworth, esq., by whom he left three sons and five daughters. He d. at his house, in Charter-House-yard, in the (then) suburbs of London, on the 5th of November, 1634, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

HENEAGE. This nobleman having adhered firmly to the royal family during its misfortunes, and contributed, by his exertions, to the restoration of the monarchy, was created, by King Charles the Second, on the 26th June, 1660, as a special mark of royal favor, and in consideration of his lordship's descent from the ancient house of Herbert, formerly possessors of the manor of Eastwell, Baron Fitz-Herbert, of Eastwell, in the county of Kent. His lordship m. four wives, by whom he had twenty-seven children, sixteen of whom lived to maturity. His first lady was Diana, daughter of Francis, Lord Willoughby, of Parham, by whom he had no surviving child. The second was Lady Mary, second daughter of William Seymour, Duke of Somerset, by whom he had seven sons and four daughters. The third, Catherine, daughter of Sir Thomas Northcliffe, and relict of Christopher Lister, esq., by whom he had two daughters; and the fourth, Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of John Ayres, esq., of the city of London, by whom he had a son and two daughters. He d. in 1689, and was succeeded by his grandson,

CHARLES, son of his deceased eldest son, Lord Maidstone. This nobleman d. without issue, on the 14th of August, 1712, when the family honors reverted to his uncle,

HENEAGE, who dying also without issue, on the 30th of September, 1726, was succeeded by his brother,

JOHN, at whose demise without issue, on the 9th of September, 1729, the barony of Fitzherbert expired; but the earldom of Winchelsea, and the viscounty of Maidstone, reverted to his kinsman,

DANIEL, second Earl of Nottingham, and Baron Finch, of Daventry, son and successor of Heneage Finch, a distinguished lawyer, (who was grandson of Sir Moyle Finch, through his fourth son, the Honorable Sir Heneage Finch, knt.) This Heneage, when solicitor-general, in 1660, obtained great fame as summer reader of the society of the Inner Temple. His readings being attended by all the learned professions, by the nobility, and, finally, by the king (Charles the Second,) and his court; and terminating in a grand entertainment given by the learned reader to his majesty, in the great hall of the Middle Temple. On the 10th of May, 1670, Sir Heneage was constituted attorney-general; and made lord keeper of the great seal, on the 9th November, 1673, when he was elevated to the peerage, (10th January, 1674,) as Lord Finch, of Daventry, in the county of Northampton. On the 19th December, 1765, he was declared lord high chancellor of England; and, on the 12th of May, 1681, he was advanced to the dignity of Earl of Nottingham. His lordship d. on the 18th of December, 1682, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Daniel, who, as stated above, succeeded to the earldom of Winchelsea and viscounty of Maidstone. This nobleman took an active part in political affairs before and after the Revolution. His lordship m. twice: first, Lady Essex, second daughter and co-heiress of Robert Rich, Earl of Warwick, by whom he had one daughter, Mary, who first married William Saville, Marquess of Hallifax, and, after his decease, John, Duke of Roxburgh. Lord Winchelsea m. secondly, Anne, only daughter of Christopher, Viscount Hatton, by whom he had five sons and eight daughters. The earl d. on the 1st of January, 1730, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

DANIEL. His lordship m. first, in 1729, Lady Frances Fielding, daughter of the Right Honorable Basil, Earl of Denbigh, by whom he had one daughter, Lady Charlotte; and, secondly, in 1738, Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Thomas Palmer, baronet, of Wingham, in the county of Kent, by whom he had four daughters. He d. in 1769, and was succeeded by his nephew, George, the present earl, only son of the Honorable William Finch, by his second wife, Lady Charlotte Fermor, second daughter of Thomas, first Earl of Pomfret, and aunt of George, present Earl of Pomfret.

WINCHESTER, MARQUESS OF, (Charles-Ingoldsby Paulet,) Earl of Wiltshire, and Baron St. John, of Basing; b. in 1765; inherited the family honors at the decease of his father, on the 22nd of April, 1800; m. on the 31st of July following, Anne, second daughter of John Andrews, esq., of Shotney Hall, in the county of Northumberland, by whom he has issue John, Earl of Wiltshire, b. 3rd of June, 1801; Henry, b. 12th August, 1803; George, b. 7th July, 1804; with three other sons, and two daughters. His lordship is premier marquess of England, and groom of the stole to the king.

Lineage.

This illustrious family derives its surname from the lordship of Paulet, in Hampshire, whereof its progenitor, Hercules, Lord of Tournon, in Picardy, became proprietor, upon settling in England, in the reign of Henry the First. From this personage, lineally descended

SIR JOHN PAULET, knight, to whose eldest son, Thomas, the Pouletts, Earls Poulett, trace their origin, and from whose youngest son,

WILLIAM PAULET, serjeant-at-law, sprang the extinct ducal house of Bolton, and

SIR WILLIAM PAULET, great-grandson and heir of John Paulet, esq., by Constance de Poynings, one of the co-heiresses of her brother, Thomas de Poynings, Lord of St. John, (at the decease of which nobleman, the baronies of St. John of Basing, and Poynings, fell into abeyance.) This gentleman, enjoying the confidence of King Henry the Eighth, was elevated, by that monarch, to the peerage, on the 9th of March, 1539, as Baron St. John, of Basing, and, at his majesty's decease, was nominated one of the executors to his will. Lord St. John continuing a leading political character, was created, in the ensuing reign, on the 19th of January, 1550, Earl of Wiltshire, and, on the 12th of October, 1551, Marquess of Winchester. He was installed a knight of the most illustrious Order of the Garter, and held the important and exalted station of lord treasurer of England, during the reigns of Edward the Sixth, and Queens Mary and Elizabeth. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter of Alderman Sir William Capel, knt., of the city of London; and dying at a very advanced period of life, on the 10th of March, 1572, was succeeded by his eldest son, daughter of Thomas, first Earl of Exeter, by whom he left two sons, John and Henry. He d. in 1628, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN, who was succeeded, in 1674, by his son,

CHARLES. This nobleman was elevated to a dukedom on the 9th of April, 1689, as Duke of Bolton; and the marquesate of Winchester, with the minor honors, continued merged in that title for more than a century, until the demise of Henry, sixth Duke of Bolton, without issue, in 1794, when the dukedom expired, but the marquesate, &c., reverted to his grace's kinsman,

GEORGE PAULET, esq., only surviving son of Norton Paulet, esq., by Jane, daughter of Sir Charles Worsley, of Droxford, (the said Norton being grandson of Lord Henry Paulet, second surviving son of William, fourth Marquess of Winchester, and uncle of John, first Duke of Bolton.) His lordship m. Martha, daughter of Thomas Ingoldsby, esq., by whom he had issue

CHARLES INGOLDSBY, present marquess; Henry, vice-admiral in the royal navy, and Knight Grand Cross of the Bath; and Urania-Anne, who m. first, in 1785, Henry, Marquess of Clanricarde, uncle of Ulrick-John, present marquess; secondly, Peter Kingston, esq.; and thirdly, vice-admiral Sir Joseph Sidney York, K.C.B. THE MOST HONOURABLE MILITARY ORDER OF THE BATH.

In the year 1725, King George I. revived this Order, (a very ancient one, deriving the name "of the Bath," from the ceremonial of bathing, which the knights underwent on the vigil of their creation,) and enacted statutes for its regulation, by which it was ordained to consist of the Sovereign, and thirty-seven Knights Companions.

By statute, 2nd of January, 1815, it was ordained, that "for the purpose of commemorating the auspicious termination of the long and arduous contests in which this empire has been engaged," the Order should be composed of three classes, viz.

1st Class—to consist of Knights Grand Crosses, number not to exceed seventy-two, exclusive of the Sovereign and Princes of the Blood Royal; one sixth of which may be appointed for civil and diplomatic purposes. The remainder must have attained the rank of major-general in the army, or rear-admiral in the navy, and must have been previously appointed to the second class.

2nd Class—Knights Commanders, number not to exceed, upon the first institution, one hundred and eighty, exclusive of Foreign officers, holding British commissions, of whom not exceeding ten may be admitted as honorary Knights Commanders; in the event of actions of signal distinction, or of future wars, the number of this class may be increased. To be entitled to the distinctive appellation of knighthood; to have the same rights and privileges as Knights Bachelors, but to take precedence of them; to wear the badge, &c., pendant by a red riband round the neck, the star embroidered on the left side. No person is now eligible to this class under the rank of major-general in the army, or rear-admiral in the navy.

3rd Class—Companions of the Order; not limited in number; they are to take precedence of Esquires, but not entitled to the appellation, style, &c., of Knights Bachelors. To wear the badge assigned to the third class, pendant by a narrow red riband to the button-hole. No officer can be nominated, unless he shall have received a medal, or other badge of honor, or shall have been especially mentioned in despatches in the London Gazette, as having distinguished himself in action.

Motto—Tria juncta in uno.

SCOTLAND.

"All Peers of Scotland shall be Peers of Great Britain, and have rank next after the Peers of the like degree in England, at the time of the Union, which commenced the 1st of May, 1707, and before all Peers of Great Britain of the same degree created after the Union."—23rd Art. of Union with Scotland, 5 Anne, ch. 8.

IRELAND.

"The Lords of Parliament, on the part of Ireland, shall have the same privileges as the Lords, on the part of Great Britain; and all the Lords spiritual of Ireland shall have rank next after the Lords spiritual of the same rank of Great Britain, and shall enjoy the same privileges (except those depending upon sitting in the House of Lords); and the temporal Peers of Ireland shall have rank next after the Peers of the like rank in Great Britain, at the time of the Union; and all Peerages of Ireland, and of the United Kingdom, created after the Union, shall have rank according to creation; and all Peerages of Great Britain and Ireland shall, in all other respects, be considered as Peerages of the United Kingdom; and the Peers of Ireland shall enjoy the same privileges, (except those depending upon sitting in the House of Lords.)"—Art. of Union with Ireland, 39 and 40 Geo. III. cap. 67.

HERALDIC DISTINCTIONS.

ARMS OF A BACHELOR.

A Bachelor may quarter his paternal coat of arms with other coats, if they appertain to him; but he cannot impale it while he remains unmarried.

ARMS OF A MARRIED MAN.

A man, when married, is to conjoin the coat armours of himself and his wife in one escutcheon paleways:—the male upon the dexter side, the female on the sinister.

ARMS OF AN HEIRESS.

The arms of an heiress, when she marries, are not to be impaled with her husband's, but are to be borne upon an escutcheon of pretence, in the centre of the shield. If there be issue of the marriage, the heir shall bear the hereditary coat armours of both his parents quarterly.

ARMS OF A WIDOW.

ARMS OF A COMMONER MARRYING A LADY OF RANK.

PRIVILEGES OF THE PEERAGE.

Peers are free from all arrest for debts, and cannot be outlawed in any civil action; nor can any attachment lie against their persons.

They are exempt from attending courts-leet or sheriffs' turns; or, in case of riot, the posse comitatus.

When arraigned for any criminal offence, it must be before their peers, who return a verdict, not upon oath, but upon honor.

Peers are tried in courts erected specifically for the purpose, in the centre of Westminster Hall, at the expense of the crown, which courts are pulled down so soon as the investigation terminates.

By the law denominated scandalum magnatum, any man convicted of spreading a scandalous report regarding a peer of the realm, no matter whether true or false, is subject to an arbitrary fine, and to remain in prison until the same be discharged.

Peers have the privilege of sitting covered in courts of justice, during their proceedings.

Peers of parliament have the privilege of franking letters; but it is as members of parliament, not as peers.
