

FAQ

How do I adjust the site image to fit my computer or device screen?

Go to “View” in the toolbar of your PDF reader, then select the “Zoom” option. In The drop down menu, select the “IN” or “OUT” option. Alternatively you can select “Actual Size”, a percentage size or one of the “Fit to...”options. Please note that some PDF reader menus may not have certain page size selections available. In that case, select the option that yields a view closest to the desired size.

How do I navigate between the site pages or articles?

If you are viewing the page in your web browser using an “in browser” PDF reader, use the navigation buttons in the PDF viewer toolbar. If you are viewing a site page in a stand-alone PDF reader, depending on the capabilities of that reader, you can apply the page navigation tabs. Some PDF readers will require you to close the current document in order to view another one. When there is a green hyperlink word available on the site page, clicking on that link will take you to the desired page.

Can I contact the site administrator if I have a question or comment?

Unfortunately it is not possible to contact a site administrator. While this was once a viable option, in recent years maintaining a contact venue has become difficult or next to impossible due to widespread abuse.

Why does this website use the PDF format instead of HTML?

The PDF format was chosen for the site based on a number of considerations. The rationale for this choice involves far too many factors to explain here. For a detailed explanation, you can find more information here. One advantage of the PDF format is an ability to print a full copy of the page in its entirety. Many HTML pages can’t be printed correctly and have to be screen captured to print.

How do I identify hyperlinks that may be on the website?

Hyperlinks on the site pages are of two types. There are word links and image links. Word links are always in green font. This color is ONLY used for link words. Image links may be identified by placing the mouse pointer over the image. If it is a link, a hand & index finger will appear. If you click on an image link, the page or document the link points to will appear. Some PDF readers may use different link cursors instead of a hand & index finger symbol for link identification.

How do I change video display format to view the picture in the best size for me?

Most video players allow for either full screen viewing or zooming up or down. This feature is usually found in the slider bar at the bottom of the display. Video players vary greatly in control features.
