

Called to Avon Park

The auto chemical was called to Avon Park yesterday morning shortly after ten o'clock on account of a grass and brush fire which caught the fence around Aerodrome park. The fence on one side of the park was pretty well gutted and several cottages on the south side of the park were in danger and one roof caught fire from the sparks, but was soon put out by the firemen. Aside from those from the local department, several men worked hard for two hours and half before they got the fire under control.

Banquet for the Aviators.

The aviators, who are to participate in the big meet at Aerodrome park will be given a dinner by the University club on Friday evening and it is expected that about 100 guests will be entertained.
