COMPUTER Diplomacy

The computer version of the classic boardgame of persuasion, compromise and betrayal. Against a backdrop of Imperial Europe, COMPUTER DIPLOMACY uses a minimum of game mechanics and a maximum of intimidation (and back stabbing) to create an exciting game of international intrigue. Each player tries to arrange the deals and alliances that will lead him or her to ultimate victory. The result is a game of pure diplomacy, a balance between the trust needed to deal and the profitable stab in the back that leaves the betrayer friendless.

For years, the board game version of DIPLOMACY has been regarded as a true classic in the world of gaming. Even professional diplomats, including no less a celebrity than Henry Kissinger, have enjoyed its accuracy and intensity. However, for years it has also been noticed that the game had one flaw: the game needs more than one player, and it's frequently hard to get more than a few players together at one time.

UNTIL now! Avalon Hill offers COMPUTER DIPLOMACY where the empty chairs can be filled by electronic diplomats. It is now possible to have a full game anytime, anyplace. Play any of the classic scenarios with any combination of human and computer opponents.

Of course, COMPUTER DIPLOMACY has all the amenities you expect from a state-of-the-art computer game: a smooth user interface, a detailed map that displays the location and type of all units, various status reports to let you know who did what (or tried) to whom, and even a clock that times each "diplomacy period". The computer also takes care of game mechanics, insuring that all orders are legal and all moves resolved quickly.

So if DIPLOMACY is a classic, what is COMPUTER DIPLOMACY?!

We'll be humble and say it's still a classic—just that it's a lot easier to get a group together and easier to play!

COMPUTER DIPLOMACY comes complete with a detailed instruction manual and game diskette.
