DragonHawk

by Mark A. Van Alstine and Steve Penners

You are the DRAGON-HAWK, soaring to attack—and escape from—a host of flying monsters. Your mission is to destroy the giant fire-breathing serpent who has put a host of mountain range creatures under his spell. These hordes of spell-bound monsters are protecting the serpent's airspace and must be eliminated before you can attain your ultimate goal. Aggressive buzzards, iguanas, phoenix birds, dragon puppies, bats and giant mosquitos must be pounced upon one by one and reduced to mere floating feathers, to be collected by you to chalk up points toward a bonus life.

Screen shown is from the Commodore 64™. Other computer versions may vary.

Don't move too slowly, or you will activate a lightning storm which will keep you from gaining the upperwing.

Then you will face the fire-breathing serpent himself. He will pursue you relentlessly until you discover his Achilles' Heel—the one weak spot which will allow you to survive to face more challenging quests and become Master of the Mountain Range.

DRAGONHAWK is an adventure game that combines fantasy with fast action in a disk format. Multiple difficulty levels insure challenging play for even the most adept fast action fans.
