FIGHT NIGHT™

Commodore 64/128

Joystick and
Keyboard Controlled

FROM ACCOLADE™

It's gut check time! Are you a man or a wimp? This is your chance to prove your manhood and the ability to defend yourself. No other sports simulation game can match the pure human emotion of Fight Night. From the opening bell to the final knock-down, Fight Night will continually provoke your basic instincts to survive as you experience an unconfined frenzy to fight back.

Two Games On One Disk

Fight Night offers two different boxing forums. Each will challenge and at the same time develop your true fighting capabilities to the MAX!

First, The Championship Finals. This is no place for all brawn and no brain. If you can't think on your feet, don't even bother picking up the joystick, because you, the challenger, are about to face five of the most fearless, brutal fighters ever to step inside the ring. Five battles that turn into total war. The action will be relentless, incredible, but in the end, it's all very simple, you'll either have the necessary talent, strength and stamina — or you'll be flat on your back.

Finally, the ultimate challenge, The Boxing Construction Set. The competition will be grueling as you and your opponent each have created the perfect boxer: speed, stamina, intellect, footwork, body puncher, quick jab artist... etc. Next, it's time to train, spar and finally fight him. Against the computer or against the world. Either way, you'll discover Fight Night is a bona-fide KNOCKOUT!

You Coulda Bin A Contenda

The championship finals, where you find out what you're truly made of, are devastating. Here, everything you have, all your God-given talent, is pitted against five guys who would just as soon bite your nose off as look at you.

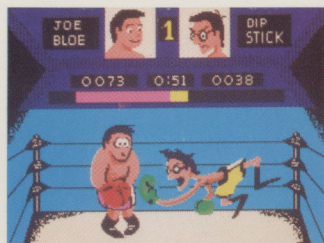

They all have different personalities, different strengths, different tactics. It's one-on-one for three punishing rounds, no holds barred, and no matter how fast and talented you are, they just keep coming right at you, lightning fast, each tougher than the one before.

Carefully choose all the right parts of your boxer, you're about to create a fighter with skills to match those of the world's greatest boxers.

The competition: six boxers who would just as soon bite your nose off as look at you.

DipStick, just another one of the street-smart fighters who will do anything and everything necessary to win.
