SOLID GOLD INTERACTIVE FICTION

BY STEVE MERETZKY AND DOUGLAS ADAMS

WITH ON-SCREEN HINTS

A large, flowing orange towel is the central visual element, set against a deep blue space background filled with stars and planets. The towel is draped and billows across the upper half of the frame. In the top left, a small blue planet is visible. To the right of the towel's end, a red planet with a blue ring system is shown. The text is positioned in the lower right, partially overlapping the towel and the space background.

It is not such a mind-bogglingly
improbable coincidence
that Douglas Adams, the irrepresible author of the best-selling novel
THE HITCHHIKER'S GUIDE TO THE GALAXY, would design an interactive story set in the same outrageous universe as his books. He fell in love (well, strong "like") with Infocom's other interactive stories some time ago. He immediately saw the interactive possibilities of HITCHHIKER'S and maniacally developed outrageously crazy ideas. So Douglas teamed up with Infocom's specialist in outrageously crazy ideas, Steve Meretzky. Together, they did extensive research throughout the Galaxy (in English pubs, anyway); Douglas wrote and designed puzzles revolving around Vogon poetry, the Bugblatter Beast of Traal, microscopic space fleets and, of course, tea (or lack thereof); and Steve transformed Douglas's ideas into the high-quality, sophisticated software that is synonymous with Infocom's interactive fiction.

And now you're going to take a trip you never thought possible.

You are on the verge of becoming Arthur Dent, a simple if unworldly chap whose house is, unluckily, being bulldozed to make way for a bypass. Not that it matters, really, since the Earth is about to be destroyed for somewhat similar purposes. If you survive these twin disasters, you'll travel with Ford Prefect, your peculiar friend and neighbour, to the most unusual corners of the Galaxy. (Some of the corners are so unusual, in fact, that it's best not to assume the obvious—who you are, for instance.) So prepare to have your mind boggled, your wits tested and your concept of reality thrown for a loop by THE HITCHHIKER'S GUIDE TO THE GALAXY. And don't forget your towel!

Interactive fiction software from Infocom is unlike anything you've ever experienced. It's a whole new dimension in storytelling.
