The Aim of the Game

The Shagun Indians have, for many years, been at war with the white man. The N.A.S.T. Railway Co now has plans to run a railway line through the Indians most sacred burial ground. Marshall McCraw, the first white man to enter the Indian's camp and live, is now in the position of being able to negotiate a long awaited peace treaty.

To prove he is worthy of such a high honour, McCraw must first shoot down the Indian's traditional food - the migrating duck - with a bow and arrow. For every few birds he earns a valuable peace token and it is his mission to see they get to the President of the United States. To stop him, the N.A.S.T. Railway Co have hired a ruthless gang of renegades, who are waiting for him in the town of Kane.

Marshall McCraw needs to go through Kane to get to the depot which belongs to the N.A.S.T. Railway Co, where he can catch the train to Washington. The gang have been ordered to make sure that he either misses the train or that no peace tokens get to Washington.

You now take on the role of Marshall McCraw. Here of the West. If you shoot enough ducks and make it to town in time, you will find the gang hiding in various sniper positions. Use your speed and accuracy to deal with them to relief, run off the screen to the right and above all, avoid standing still as their shots will become more accurate.

When you reach the depot, if the train has left, you MUST get to the front of the train in order to stop it so that you can get your tokens to the President. MARSHALL McCRAW! YOUR PRESIDENT AWAITS YOU!
