

The Huxley Courier

MYSTERY MASTER™

FELONY!

Crime Wave Stalks City

Dozen Dastardly
Deeds Dumbfound
DetectivesMayor Enlists Aid
of 'Mystery Masters'By G. GUMPHY FLITNER
Courier Correspondent

HUXLEY, N.Y.—Panic struck the sleepy town of Huxley for the twentieth time this month as the latest in a series of fiendish crimes spun its tangled web of mystery and perplexity around the Huxley Police force.

"Our hands are tied," Huxley Police Chief Harrison P. Sabulien told reporters. "Our best detectives are on leave to Micropolis, and our current 'unlabeled' patrols couldn't solve a crossword puzzle. Our only hope are the Mystery Masters."

Chief Sabulien's remark was a reference to Mayor McHugh's team of four specially-trained Police Academy Cadets, the Mystery Masters. "With the aid of our Crime Computer, any one of these men and women could locate a polar bear in a snow storm," the Mayor said at a press conference last night.

Unlabeled terror is being hauled off to police after threatening to blow up Mayor's brother of Ranger Scout Cookies. "Blowing's too good for him," said Pack Master John Canning at last night's charity ball.

Continued on Page 8, Column 1

Factory Waste to Blame for Rotting Dams

HUXLEY, N.Y., April 12—These days, it is no as if the beams of Huxley are a little rot. Environmentalists say that these dams are slowly but surely being eroded by waste products dumped into rivers and streams by local factories.

"Fixing a dam with your tail is not an easy job and the people of Huxley are beginning to realize this. Concerned citizens of Huxley are banding together to form a league to stop plants from polluting the river."

"These brave men are working so hard to repair the dams that a lot of them are barely working themselves to death," said Town Supervisor Richard

No Lights,
Camera, Action

MAIN STREET, April 13—Beginning tonight, the Huxley Cinema will be closed indefinitely due to a blown bulb in the projection.

This is the first time, since it opened in 1922, that the theater has ever closed down. "We showed movies during blizzards, hurricanes, droughts—you name it. I never had a problem. I never expected anything like this," quipped K.C. Chilton, the theater's owner.

Hank the projectionist is now looking for a replacement bulb. He says he will be back in business by Monday.

Savage Rampage
Subway

UNDER, April 13—A subway car was damaged last night by a rampaging

Driver Leans Over Spar
on Main Street
Takes Counselor's Car Acres Breaks Into
World Blows Up, Many Injured

Plus, Win a Million
at Million Dollar
Tingo!

CBS
SOFTWARE

M Y S T E R Y M A S T E R™

FELONY!™

COURIER COMMENTARY

Something is rotten in the town of Huxley. And we're not referring to the strange odors that have been emanating from the Gooden Fresh Supermarket. Priceless artifacts are being stolen. City landmarks are being vandalized. People are being robbed, assaulted, kidnapped and murdered. Terrorists are running loose. And our circulation is dropping.

What is the Huxley Police Force doing about all this? What they do best: Nothing! Let's hope the Mayor's team of Mystery Masters has better luck. Heaven knows they have their work cut out for them.

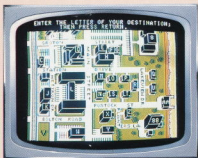

Each one of these unsolved crimes is a stain on the civic heritage of Huxley and will present unheard of challenges to these sleuths. With the aid of their Crime Computer, they'll travel a twisted trail of shady characters, false leads, clever deceptions and red herrings in search of the clues they'll need to discover whodunit! And let's not forget that they'll need to gather enough evidence to convict each guilty party.

Whether they work together or independently, the management of this newspaper couldn't care less. Just as long as they catch that terrorist before he decides to blow up the Courier!

ADVERTISEMENT

MURDER BY THE DOZEN™

MICROPOLIS, April 11—The solutions to twelve of the most heinous murders in crime history continue to elude top Homicide detectives of the Micropolis Police Department. The murders, ranging from a man found tied to gymnastics rings by his wrists in the local high school to a wealthy socialite beaten to death with her hospital bedpan, have generated a plethora of physical evidence and a slew of suspects, but Micropolis investigators remain baffled as to whodunit! A call to action has been extended to all Mystery Masters, near and far, to use their powers of deduction and weave their ways through these tangled webs of crime and puzzlement, known to police as Murder By The Dozen.™ Potential sleuths are requested to register at their nearest CBS Software dealer, alone or in teams, before another body turns up floating in a swimming pool.

Who knows where terror will strike next?

MYSTERY MASTER CRIME COMPUTER AIDS SLEUTHS

The Crime Computer that the Mystery Masters will use as they seek to clean up Huxley contains these top secret features that we're printing for all to see:

- 12 Complete Crime Cases—each with a victim or missing object, case profile, physical evidence, a variety of locations and a slew of suspects!
- Case Clock—keeps track of how much time each Mystery Master takes to interview suspects, search for clues or get across town.
- Map of Huxley—with all locations marked.
- Sleuth Ratings—rank Mystery Masters from First Class Detective to Total Turkey.
- 1 to 4 Officer Capacity—Mystery Masters can attempt to solve cases on their own or in teams.
- Limited 90-Day Warranty.

Officers also have at their disposal the following materials:

- 2 Reference Notebooks—Clues and Solutions.
- Mystery Master Worksheets.
- Police Manual—containing complete procedures and tips for successful investigations.

SOFTWARE CO. GIVES CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

B A BrainBank Inc. Production, written by Charles Sanford Goldstein.

Program © 1984 BrainBank Inc. Package & Manual Design © 1984 CBS Software, A Unit of CBS Publishing Group, CBS Inc., Greenwich, CT 06834. All Rights Reserved. Apple® and IBM® are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. and International Business Machines Corp., respectively. Commodore 64™ and Macintosh™ are trademarks of Commodore Electronics Ltd. and Apple Computer, Inc., respectively. Made in U.S.A. 3C-0219

CBS SOFTWARE

ISBN 0-03-650430-8