

How to Use an NBA Season Disk

These instructions apply to all season disks used for the Commodore® 64/128 or Apple® II version of NBA. IBM®-PC owners load their season disks by following the on screen prompts.

The season disk can only be used once the NBA game disk is loaded. It cannot be loaded by itself.

To use the disk, load the NBA game. When the team roster screen appears, take the game disk out of the drive and put the season disk in.

With the season disk in the proper drive, press the key listed to the right of your computer:

Commodore 64 or 128: F3

Apple II series: Ctrl + B

The team roster screen for that season disk should appear.

You can continue to match teams from different disks by putting a season disk in the drive and pressing the proper key. You can even take the first team off a season disk, then choose one of the 20 teams off the game disk in this manner!

Be sure that you have the NBA game disk in the proper drive by the time the game ends if you want to save the statistics.
