THE GAME

Who said working in a video shop was going to be easy? Especially when it belongs to some crazy millionaire who lives in a castle full of Meanies. It is your task, as maintenance robot, to charge around turning on the 15 video's ready for the days work. This entails going through just about every room in the place, all of which are crawling with Meanies and their machinery. One touch on a Meanie or a barrier and it's bye-bye robot. Send in the next one.

A few surprises and obstacles await you, which you'll have to blast away with your gun. To open doors you will need particular keys. Only one will work and all those lying around look identical. When you come to a video screen marked XX, touch it and you will be given the chance to gamble for extra lives. If you win you will be awarded a quantity of points, an extra life or lives and a bonus for your remaining energy. Lose, and you lose a life and have to switch on the screen again. Declining to gamble will switch on the screen and give you a bonus for your remaining energy.

When a screen is switched on a face will appear, your energy will be restored and a piece appears in the jigsaw at the top left of the screen. The game is completed when all 15 pieces are in place.
