

COMMODORE 64/128

Screen Shots From The C64 Version

It is time to don the famous black hat, mask and cape and pick up your sword, as you become ZORRO, the legendary crusader for justice originally created by Johnston McCulley.

Swashbuckle your way across the screens as you battle to free your lady love from the evil Sergeant Garcia's gaol. Along the way you will free innocent prisoners, return the lost Mission bells, explore the catacombs among many other challenges.

Are you ready to make the mark of the Z?

COMMODORE 64/128

Evil sergeant Garcia has kidnapped a beautiful señorita and imprisoned her in his fort. You must find and rescue her from his clutches. Garcia's guards will do everything they can to slow down your progress, be prepared to battle your way past them, justice must prevail.

You are set a number of tasks, you will need to collect objects from the hotel to help you in your quest, do not be surprised if some objects have magical properties.

When you complete each task you will be awarded the current number of bonus points, this counts down the longer you take.

You will need to think hard if you are to succeed in rescuing your loved one. Make a map as you will need to visit each screen several times before you succeed and there may be six different ways of leaving a screen.

Controls

Press L, rotate the joystick clockwise a quarter turn, and L appears in the top left corner of the screen. To return to right hand mode, press R and rotate the joystick anticlockwise a quarter turn.

In a sword fight push toward a guard to force him off the screen or ledge.

To defeat a guard press fire when both swords are down forming a v.

Press Space to toggle pause.

Press S to toggle sound.

Press fire to pick up objects. Zorro can only carry one object at once, except for the handkerchief which goes into a pocket, when you carry an object you sheath your sword, you do not drop it.
