- * Everyone knows this game. Model with a few students how it's done. Do not crowd your classmates. Turn up the music and have fun.
- * Like any other game, a child will lose interest if eliminated. Don't eliminate anyone. This will keep children from complaining. Tell them the winner will be based on showing respect to other people's space, taking turns and bending the lowest
- * If the winner is not obvious, write everyone's name on a separate piece of paper and then put in a hat. The child that you want to win, place their name in the liner. Mix the papers up like it's a legitimate contest. Seconds later, the kid with good behavior wins!
