

anytime vs any time

Anytime (adverb) means regardless of time.

"You can arrive anytime."

Anytime can be replaced with whenever.

Any time (a noun phrase) refers to an amount of time.

"We don't have any time for complainers!"

Notice how any time can not be replaced with whenever.

The party will be going on all night, stop by _____.
anytime/any time

*He never has _____
for her.*
anytime/any time

*_____ I hear modern
anytime/any time
music, I get mad!*

*You won't have _____
anytime/any time
to wash your clothes.*

*The party will be going on
all night, stop by anytime.
whenever*

*He never has any time
for her.*

Whenever Anytime I hear modern music, I get mad!

*You won't have any time
to wash your clothes.*