

“Money Can Buy Junk”

I knew a guy who would buy anything. He bought a parking lot to store all these items.

Yesterday morning, he bought a torn cot. In the afternoon, he bought a broken flower pot. In the evening, he bought a teapot with a hole in the bottom. Maybe he should have bought a robot to organize all this junk.

For food, he only buys french fries and apple pies. Instead, he should start buying a fine cuisine topped with a green bean.

I think this guy wants to buy everything under the blue sky!